

Y3 Dec. 1943.

North Ireland

Dear Friends,

Happened to run across an article the other day that I thought might be of interest. You may already have heard the news, but I submit it with best intentions anyhow.

Lt. Michael Lada - whom I knew very well when he attended Bryant College (evening classes) (I was an assistant to the faculty then) - has been awarded the Air Medal for meritorious achievement in Libya as co-pilot of a bomber in that theater.

Mike and his brother Steve who also attended Bryant at the same time, were swell fellows & good students. Steve is also in the service.

There is no news from this corner of the world. Everything is going along just fine. I might just mention, though, that in my opinion the Irish are as friendly a people as can be found anywhere.

Best wishes for the New Year and every continued success in your fine work. I may 1944 find it no longer necessary - & hostilities at an end.
As they say here in the U.K.,

Cheers,

Gene Casey
