LETTER ONE HUNDRED ELEVEN-EDITH TO VIC

Tuesday, 11/28/44, 8:45 p.m. In bed in my blue p.j. that you bought me
Xmas '42-Champaigne, Ill.

Dearest darling,

I wish I wasn't so very realistic-I would so very much like to believe that the war will be over by Xmas'. But I can't see that point, can you?

11:30 p.m.

Sanf just left. He stopped over after work so that I could tell him a little bit more about what I hear from you. Sanf is the only one that I really bother to read parts of your letters, too. In the meanwhile I washed Sanf's hair with Vita Fluff-it amazed him to note how much less dandruff he had'. Then, we wrote a letter to Burr, Patterson & Auld about his ring. Then, of course, the folks came in & we "bulled". By the way, Sanf got a big "kick" out of the way Ukie & I & Mom are buying & wrapping gifts for each other for Smax & he's joining in the merriment, I believe'.

Honey, I still have to take a bath, & be up by 7:30 tomorrow-I'm working 9-5 tomorrow-so, good-night, my love-I'll dream of you tonight as I do every night.

I love you,

Edith
