COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

William W. Warner, Principal.

The design of this Department is to prepare young ladies and gentlemen for the duties of active business life, in the most thorough manner, and shortest time.

The Course of instruction combines Theory with Practice in such a manner as to make clear to the student's mind the most complex and intricate business transactions.

Each student is admitted upon his own recognition as a gentleman; he is treated as such, and is expected to consider himself, in all respects, responsible for his own acts. Having purchased a scholarship, which secures to him the necessary instruction to make him a thorough accountant, he is permitted to elect his time and place of attendance within the prescribed jurisdiction of the Colleges; but it is expected of all students that they will observe all possible diligence and regularity in their attendance. The general discipline, while it does not descend to those minute and specific requirements which seem necessary in the conduct of schools more primary in their character, is, nevertheless, sufficiently strict and exacting to place the responsibility of the student's progress upon himself. A record of attendance is kept in connection with the recitations, and promptness, as far as may be, is required. The progress of each student in his course is regulated by such frequent and thorough examinations as shall be competent to satisfy the teachers in charge, and no student is permitted to pass from one division of his course to another without giving evidence of suitable proficiency.

Diplomas will bear the signatures of the heads of departments, and no student will be entitled to such diploma who fails in any of the required studies.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

Miss C. J. Arnold, Principal.

The customs of the present day are such, that many young ladies are employed by our merchants and business men in the various branches of banking and accounts, and to answer the demand for regularly educated lady accountants, a Ladies' Department has been for some time established under the instruction of a practical female accountant and teacher. The pupils of this Department have all the advantages of thorough training for actual business, and Life Scholarships are issued, and to ladies entering the Department, and Diplomas are awarded to those who pass the regular examinations.
