The
Bryant Ledger

Published by
the
Seniors of Bryant College
Providence, R. I.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-nine
SOUTH HALL

on the campus of Bryant College
The modern yearbook of today should serve as a mirror, reflecting the life of the college, including the faculty, graduates, underclassmen, sororities, fraternities, and all the varied activities, as woven around a definite theme. This first edition is in keeping with the pioneer spirit which has been Bryant's for the past seventy-six years. The editors have chosen as a theme, "Life at Bryant," being a compilation of one chapter of her memories, scenes, and traditions. Many have worked on this book and many more are represented in it; therefore, let the BRYANT LEDGER be a monument to the College, to its Publishers, and to the Class of 1939.
HENRY LOEB JACOBS
President of Bryant College Since 1907
To the Seniors:

Memories are one of the most precious things in life! Nowhere are memories more dear to all of us made, than those made in our college—memories that become richer in value with the years. The memory of work well done, of words of wisdom or advice from instructors, of a kindness here or a suggestion there, of a laugh about this or a chuckle about that—these and countless others will linger with you long after you have left Bryant.

Class of 1939, when your College days are far behind, may you have the satisfied feeling of having lived your days at Bryant fully, of having made your life richer by college friends, ideals and associations. May these precious memories be etched upon your hearts and become part of you. Today these memories are vivid ones. In the years to come they will become dimmed, but mellowed like a beautifully carved ivory, yellowed and old, but more valuable with every year.

For me, there is always a mixture of sadness, pride and hopefulness as I see each graduating class leave Bryant; sadness because of the tug at my affections which I always feel at leave taking, pride in you for what you have accomplished during your student days, and hopefulness for the brilliant place in the sun I hope all of you will find.

For you, too, may there be a mixture of thoughts; a blending of affection and loyalty for your College, a pride in its ideals and standards, and glowing memories of happy days beneath the portals of your Alma Mater.

Harry B. Jacobs
JERICIAH CLARKE BARBER
Member of the Faculty of Bryant College since 1892
Dean of School of Business Administration
Dedication

With the highest esteem, respect, and affection, the Class of 1939 dedicates this, the first Bryant Yearbook, to a man whose influence has been a most potent factor for good among students, faculty, and neighbors of the college for many years—to Dean Jeremiah C. Barber. This, the 1939 edition of the Bryant Ledger, respectfully dedicated.
Faculty and Officers of Administration

First Row, left to right: Mr. Shors, Dean Barber, Mr. Jacobs, President Jacobs, Mr. Allan, Mr. Richards, Mr. Ripley, Mr. Gulski
Second Row: Miss Blaney, Miss King, Miss Krupa, Miss Appel, Mrs. Messer, Dean Stickney, Miss Krueger
Third Row: Mr. Tillinghast, Mr. Lambert, Mr. Vinal, Mr. Naylor, Mr. Russell, Mr. Mercier, Mr. Handy
Fourth Row: Mr. Austin, Mr. Hammond

HENRY L. JACOBS .................................................. President
E. GARDNER JACOBS ........................................... Vice-President
JOHN L. ALLAN .................................................. Executive Secretary
HAROLD D. RIPLEY ............................................ Placement Director
CLARA BLANEY .................................................. Publicity Director
GEORGE A. RICHARDS ........................................... Student Welfare Director
WARREN E. TILLINGHAST ...................................... Bursar
JEREMIAH C. BARBER ........................................ Dean of School of Business Administration
BLANCIHE G. STICKNEY ...................................... Dean of School of Secretarial Science, Secretarial Procedure
NELSON J. GULSKI ............................................ Accounting and Investments
WILLIAM F. SHORS ............................................ Accounting and Taxes
EUGENE R. VINAL ............................................. Economics and Banking
HERBERT C. RUSSELL .......................................... Mathematics and Penmanship
RALPH S. HANDY ................................................ English
LOUISE B. MESSER ........................................... Typewriting
J. EDMUND NAYLOR ........................................... Economics and English
SARA J. APPEL .................................................. Shorthand
MARY C. KING .................................................. Typewriting
JOSEPHINE M. KRUPA ......................................... Office Machines
LIONEL H. MERCIER ........................................... Shorthand
KATHLEEN M. KRUEGER ...................................... Ethics and Bookkeeping
F. DOUGLAS HAMMOND ....................................... Salesmanship and Advertising
GEORGE A. RICHARDS ......................................... Accounting and Law
WILLIAM A. LAMBERT .......................................... Accounting
Yearbook Board

Editor-in-Chief ........................................... Edwin B. Briggs, Jr.
Managing Editor .......................................... Roland P. Talbot
Advertising Manager ......................... Walter Lee
Staff ........................................................... John Van Bodegon, Jr.
.............................................................. Morris Weisman
.............................................................. Henry Jasiewicki
.............................................................. Russell Brown
.............................................................. Harlan MacKendrick
Circulation Manager ................................. Phyllis Mayo
Staff ........................................................... Elizabeth Budlong
.............................................................. Nelson Buckwheat
.............................................................. Marjorie Cody
.............................................................. Charles Nofal
.............................................................. William Livesey
.............................................................. Elbenta Wilbur
Photograph Editor ...................................... Ralph Dion

Personal Staff ........................................... Irene Bancuk
.............................................................. Josephine Toole
.............................................................. Antoinette Rucci
.............................................................. Marjorie Ward
.............................................................. Anthony Giordano
.............................................................. June Playdon
.............................................................. Adele Rytelewski

Literary Staff ........................................... Louis C. Martelle
.............................................................. Merrill Whitney
.............................................................. Frances Barrus
.............................................................. Mildred Katz
.............................................................. June Crizer
.............................................................. Frances Chiaverini

Sports Staff ............................................... David Etzel
.............................................................. Roul Packel
.............................................................. Joseph Pisano