Future alumni:

It was certainly with a feeling of guilt that I opened your thoughtful and generous gift. For, as you know, I have been very lax in keeping you informed as to my occupation and whereabouts for the last few years, although I have received, and read with avid interest, every single item in our Bryant News. It seems that I had a feeling, which was dispelled today, that we of the old Bryant werenot as integral a part of your organization, as the present students and graduates of the new Bryant.

Words fail to express my appreciation of the good-fellowship evidenced by the present classes, and evidently they are just as good a "gang" as the one that graduated in '35.

I surely hope that they all fully appreciate the excellent facilities and opportunities afforded them at the new Bryant, which I was priveleged to visit, as much as we of '35 appreciated the old Bryant.

Thanks again and best wishes to the faculty and students of "our" Bryant College.

Faternally,

Sgt. R. A. Bigda
