Hello Everybody,

I certainly was nice to receive a Xmas package of candy from you today. I have been wondering just what was going on back there for the past several months, though, inasmuch as I haven't received one solitary bit of news for ages I certainly would like to know what my old classmates are doing and where they're stationed, so if you possibly can let me know, I'd appreciate it immensely.

I'm still stationed here in England and it's just about a year now since I left the good old states. You will notice that my address is different, though, than the one carried in your files - I would expedite my mail if you would kindly make the change.

Not too much of anything new or exciting that you people back home don't read about. V's & V's but one gets used to that stuff, believe it or not.

With sincere thanks I'll close, but hope to hear from you all again and soon. Fraternally, 'Reddy' Byns
