Hello again everyone,

Once again your very welcomed package found me still at Pawling, doing the same job in the same office. I received the package last Friday, and today I received your letter.

It sure is good to receive some news of the fellows that I knew a few years ago. I wrote to Nick Coracoi a month or so ago, but as yet I have not received any reply from him.

I see by your letter that one of the boys is now in one of our Convalescent Hospitals now. It is too bad that he did not come here, but that may happen yet if he lives in this part of the country. I am still looking for Bryant Alumni among our new patients, but as yet I have not met any.

Thank you again for the gift, and give my regards to anyone that I might have known when I was in Providence.

Sincerely yours,

Charles J. Memmott, Jr.
