Dear Bryant Service Club:

I received your very newly letter just after returning from a most enjoyable light day jaunt which I spent in the beautiful city of Edinburgh.
Just a year ago this coming week I arrived here in England and I have enjoyed my stay very much, however, naturally I prefer being back in the states.

According to this morning's news our troops have landed on Sicily and am hoping when I hear the news this evening that it will all be ours. This will probably be the start of the long awaited continental invasion.
We all hope that it will be as well planned and thought out as the African campaign.

In your letter you mentioned several boys who were giving their best for their country - one of whom was my buddy through Bryant - Joe Dunsell - I have contacted his mother as well as a number of his intimate friends.
For sometimes I had hopes that he may have been picked up but now, I guess, he must be presumed lost.

My work is quite interesting and have been extremely fortunate in being placed here when I look over some of the still fields where I could have been landed.

Paper seems to be running short so must close - hoping to hear from you again re soon,

Bill
