THE COLLEGE

Education for Business Leadership

For well over a century, Bryant College has been in the forefront of business education, preparing men and women for leadership responsibilities in a wide variety of business-related fields. Through constant innovation, Bryant has provided business and industry locally, regionally, nationally, and now internationally, with creative, knowledgeable individuals well qualified to meet the changing needs of changing times. Bryant graduates over the years have made outstanding academic, political and cultural contributions as well.

Its founding in 1863 marks Bryant College as a veritable pioneer in business education.

The traditional Bryant College motto — "Education for Business Leadership" — is the force behind the College's modern identity. The definition of "business leadership" has been in constant transformation since that motto was conceived, and Bryant's education mission has broadened accordingly.

Today, business decisions have an increasing impact on the daily life of every individual in society. This close relationship between business and its environment places a heavy responsibility on the people who must make the decisions: they must have a comprehensive view of how their actions may affect both present and future lives.

Bryant College's goal is to prepare men and women to take an active part in their society and culture, and to respond intelligently, creatively, and humanely to the demands of the modern business world. In preparing students for leadership positions in business and public service, Bryant encourages them to develop a sense of their own worth, an understanding of the behavior of others, an awareness of social and ethical issues, and a commitment to their own responsibilities as administrators and decision-makers.

Three thousand undergraduate students are enrolled in nationally recognized four-year undergraduate programs leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

THE COLLEGE

Bryant's curriculum combines intensive instruction in the selected business concentration, and a "core" program of courses which gives the student a broad-based perspective on contemporary business problems, processes and theories. It also provides a grounding in the liberal arts and humanities which prepares students to function completely and valuably not only in the business community, but in the community at large.

Complementing the academic side of Bryant is a lively social environment involving clubs, athletics, distinctive and innovative living styles and endless opportunities for making Bryant a full and rich living and learning experience.

Bryant is the right size for learning; large enough to offer a wide variety of educational resources, yet small enough to provide personal attention and support.

Two-way communication plays an important role in the educational process; indeed, opportunities abound for students to discuss personal, academic or vocational concerns. They have access to the Center for Student Development, to deans, academic advisors, religious counselors, faculty members, administrators and, of course, fellow students.

Bryant's 320-acre campus in Smithfield, R.I. is one of the most picturesque college campuses in the Northeast. Its location, only 12 miles from Providence and 40 miles from Boston, gives Bryant students the best of two worlds — the serenity of a suburban campus and the convenience of an urban location.

The physical hub of the campus is the imaginatively designed, three-level Unistructure. Within this 200,077-square foot building is the College's 200,000 volume library; a 1,200-seat dining center; 50 classrooms; administrative and faculty offices; the Center for Management Development, a swimming pool, the Small Business Development Office and the Center for International Trade.

Bryant offers resident students on-campus housing options ranging from the suite-style living of the Dormitory Village, to townhouse apartments, to the traditional residence halls in the Freshman Complex. Approximately 2,600 of the full-time students live on campus.

A new student center opened in 1986. The Student Center is a 60,000-square foot, three story building containing a new dining hall, several other fast-food eateries, a new bookstore, game rooms, a post office, specialty shops, a country store, music practice rooms, a chapel and offices for student organizations and Bryant's activities staff.

More than 50 acres of the campus are occupied by athletic facilities. The center of the athletic complex is the main gymnasium with its 2,700-seat arena; men's and women's exercise and weight rooms; locker facilities and athletic department offices.

In addition, the multi-purpose activities center, adjacent to the main gymnasium, houses a 30,000-square foot, all-purpose gymnasium for both varsity and intramural sports such as basketball, volleyball, tennis, indoor soccer and floor hockey. There also are five racquetball courts and a new health-fitness center with a full line of nautilus equipment.

Outdoor facilities include more than 40 acres of playing fields, a running track, six tennis courts and an international-style cross country course.

Each summer, the campus serves as the summer training camp of the New England Patriots of the National Football League.

Bryant also hosts several outstanding high school sports events, including the New England Interscholastic cross country championships, the Rhode Island Interscholastic cross country championships and the Rhode Island schoolboy basketball tournament.

THE PRESIDENT

DR. WILLIAM E. TRUEHEART

Dr. William E. Trueheart became the first black president of a four-year New England college when he was named the sixth president of Bryant College in August.

A native of Stamford, Conn., Dr. Trueheart had served as Bryant's executive vice president from 1986 until his appointment as president last summer. He also was a former vice-chairman of Bryant's Board of Trustees and served as a trustee from 1981-1986.

Before coming to Bryant in 1986, Dr. Trueheart served as associate secretary to the Office of Governing Boards at Harvard University for three years. He also had served as assistant dean and director of the master in public administration (M.P.A.) program at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard for three years.

He also had served as dean for undergraduate affairs, director of the academic advisory center for the college of liberal arts and sciences and assistant to the president at the University of Connecticut.

He holds an Ed.D in education and social policy from Harvard, a master in public administration degree from Harvard and a B.A. in political science from the University of Connecticut.

His research and consulting activities have included work for the Ford Foundation; the Lilly Endowment, the U.S. Office of Education; Daniel Yankelovich Inc.; the National Park Service; Arthur Little Inc. and Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. He currently serves on the boards of the New England Education Loan Marketing Corporation; Nellie Mae, Inc.; the Public Education Fund and Butler Hospital in Providence.

Dr. Trueheart isn't spending all of his time in the office during his first year as Bryant president. In the fall semester he team-taught an undergraduate course on public policy and business with U.S. Congressman Ron Machtley of Rhode Island and Bryant economics professor Joseph Ilacqua.

THE COACHING STAFF

ED REILLY HEAD COACH

Ed Reilly has a degree in political science from Holy Cross College. But for the next few years he will be heavily involved in construction work.

In June, Reilly took on the assignment of rebuilding the Bryant College basketball tradition. After serving 10 years as an assistant coach at Division One colleges, Reilly became the first full time basketball coach in the history of Bryant's Division Two program.

Eight years ago Bryant was the No. 1 ranked Division Two team in New England and nationally ranked throughout the season. From 1973 to 1981 the Indians posted a combined 166-89 win-loss mark. The .650 winning percentage was one of the top marks in the country. In the past three years, however, the Indians won a combined total of only 17 games. In 1987-88 they set a school record for most losses in one season with a 7-23 record.

Within a few days after he was named coach, Reilly began rebuilding the grand tradition of Bryant basketball.

"I want to make the Bryant basketball program as well respected as Bryant's academic reputation," Reilly said.

"I want to bring some energy into the program. To bring a work ethic that carries over the players."

It's the same work ethic Reilly had lived for 10 years as a Division One assistant.

He spent the past decade with some of the best basketball minds in the country — Joe Mullaney, Pete Carril and George Blaney.

He joined Mullaney at Brown University in 1978. Two years later he went to Princeton to work for Carril. He spent two years with Carril, one of the nation's college coaching deans, before returning to his alma mater at Holy Cross as Blaney's top assistant. Each move was a step toward the day he finally would have his own team.

He spent two years as a teacher-coach at Kingswood Prep in Connecticut following his graduation in 1976. By 1978 he was ready to begin his apprenticeship in the college ranks.

The apprenticeship ended in June. Now Ed Reilly is building his own team.

THE ASSISTANT COACHES

ED GAGNON

Ed gave up his position as head basketball coach at Bishop Feehan (Mass.) High to become an assistant at Bryant this year.

During his 16-year tenure at Feehan, Ed was one of the most successful coaches in Southeastern Massachusetts, compiling a 220-160 record. He directed the Shamrocks to eight Southeastern Mass. Conference divisional championships.

At Bryant he will assist head coach Ed Reilly with the daily practice sessions in addition to scouting and recruiting duties throughout the northeast.

DENNIS DeJESUS

Dennis joined the Bryant staff on a part-time basis this fall after serving as an assistant coach at both Southeastern Mass. University and Hendricken High in Warwick, R.I.

A former player at Rhode Island College, he will be mainly responsible for scouting and recruiting in the northeast area.

In addition to being a member of the Bryant coaching staff, Dennis also is the administrative assistant to mayor Michael Traficante of Cranston, R.I.

THE 1989-90 OUTLOOK

The Rebuilding Begins

Ed Reilly begins rebuilding the Bryant basketball program with virtually the same cast that suffered through a 5-22 campaign in 1988-89.

When he was appointed coach in June the 1989-90 recruiting season had virtually ended so Reilly began remodeling last year's team.

"I think our fans will see new energy this season," said Reilly. "The records of past few years are history and the players who were on those teams are anxious to prove they are good college players. They have been very responsive to a pre-season conditioning program we designed for them."

Actually Reilly doesn't even have all the top players back from last year. Missing from this year's roster will be three of last year's regulars, including last year's top scorer Derek Higgs. Higgs, who finished his career with 1173 points, averaged 15.7 ppg last year. He was one of only two Bryant players who averaged in double figures last season.

In addition to Higgs, Jamie Ryan, one of the Northeast 10 Conference's top three-point shooter the past two years and Dave Kierstead, the Indians starting point guard for the past two years, also are missing.

Reilly will have six of the top eight scorers back from last season.

Leading the attack will be sophomores C.J. Simmons and Richie Rose and junior Julius Sacko.

Simmons, a 6-2 guard from Wall, N.J., was the other player with Higgs who averaged in double figures last season. In 26 game he scored 270 points for a 10.4 ppg average. A good outside shooter he hit 101 of his 217 shots from the floor (.465) and also led the Indians regulars in free throw shooting with a .803 mark (65-81) from the line. He finished seventh in the Northeast 10 Conference in free throw shooting.

Rose, a 6-6 forward from Roslindale, Mass., was one of the top newcomers in the Northeast 10 Conference last season. He started all of the Indians 27 games last year as a freshman and finished third on the team in scoring (9.3) and second in rebounding (6.3). His .548 field goal percentage was second to Higgs among the Indians regulars.

Sacko is the only player on the team with more than one year of regular college competition.

At 6-4 and 225-pounds the former Rhode Island schoolboy star is one of the strongest players in the NE 10. During the second half of his freshman season in 1987-88 he averaged 10 points and 6 rebounds per game. Although he averaged 8.4 points and 3.0 rebounds last season a leg injury, which kept him out of four games, and some added weight curtailed his production. He played only 336 minutes last season, an average of only 14 minutes per game.

When Reilly came to Bryant last summer he immediately put Sacko on an intensive conditioning program. By the start of pre-season practice in October he had dropped 25 pounds from last year's playing weight. This fall he was elected co-captain of the team, marking one of the few times an underclassman has served as a Bryant basketball captain.

Scott Meyer, a sophomore who saw considerable playing time last year as a freshman could play an ever bigger role in this year's offense. Meyer, a 6-4 guard from Troy, N.Y., should be the top shooter from the backcourt this year. Last year he hit 15 of 32 shots from the three-point land for a .469 percentage.

Inexperience could be a problem in the backcourt. Reilly doesn't have a ballhandler with more than 300 minutes of collegiate experience.

Inexperience could be a problem in the backcourt. Reilly doesn't have a ballhandler with more than 300 minutes of collegiate experience. Willie Favro, a sophomore who played 285 minutes in 24 games last year, is the most experienced playmaker. Sharing the ballhandling chores with Favro will be Dave Cingiser another sophomore who played 198 minutes last year and Rob Fritz a junior who has played less than 100 minutes in the past two years.

With Rose, Sacko and Simmons, the majority of the Indians scoring probably will come from the baseline area. Brian Spano, a 6-9, 230-pound senior center, will be one of the big men in the middle. Spano averaged 4 points and 3 rebounds per game in a backup role last year after transferring from the University of New Hampshire.

Jack Newbauer, a 6-4 sophomore forward who averaged 4 points per game last season provides more depth in the frontcourt.

Reilly also is hoping for some offensive contributions from four newcomers.

Ed Daniels, a 6-9 freshman center, gives Reilly another big man in the middle along with Spano.

Mark Balkovich and Chris Ferriter are two other freshmen who provide good size at the forward spots. Balkovich is a 6-7, 200-pounder from Acton-Boxborough and Ferriter is a 6-6, 215-pound Worcester Academy grad.

NORTHEAST-10 CONFERENCE

THE ULTIMATE EDGE™

Basketball today is a competitive sport. Competitive players demand consistency and quality in their equipment. Spalding provides both.

Competitive players won't settle for anything less than Spalding, would you?
