Dearest Sudan,

Got your letter, honey and it was so sweet. You write the best letters. Had a sorta fight with Ginny today and was feeling rather gloomy but when I read your letter, I felt all happy again. Ginny & I are going to come to Boston pretty soon. I'm looking for another job now. If I can find something half way decent, I'll leave (but quickly). Rosemary & I are both looking for another job. I hated to have an argument with anyone.

Today is Wednesday and there are only three more days till you'll be home again. God I miss you so much. It does seem months since last Sunday.

Yes, I got to bed early Sunday. That's more than you can say—so there! Do you get much sleep? This weekend we'd better just for a change be wide awake & stop yawning. (Johnny Mercer is playing "You & Your Love"—you should hear it sometime.)

We had a few snow flakes Monday but nothing exciting. It made me laugh.
because you had said I had to snow or do something different. What was it like to fly in the snow?

I'm very proud of you for being able to save $4.38 by March. You're really thrifty now.

Now he's playing "alՀwagy" for time. Well, the way things look now I probably will have about two dollars saved by next Christmas.

If I get that fur coat especially...

What are these "pretty good ideas" or "new ideas" of yours?

Well, I was talking to some people about the cost of diamonds & the jeweler practically an arm & a leg now. Tomorrow I'm going to Fred & for myself. Going down to Many's to look. They're supposed to have very good jewels because they're all marked & checked by officials or something so that people won't get gyped. Daddy can get most of the jewelry wholesale & if he could do that it would be wonderful because there probably wouldn't be a tax on it if he got it.
So, honey there's no doubt in my mind at all. And I've decided not to try to talk myself out of anything or just be happy and not worry about anything. When it happens anything then maybe I'll worry about it but not til then.

I hope that you can remember all the things we're going to have a long talk about because there are millions of things that I've already forgotten.

Yes, we've told Daddy. He doesn't want me to get married till the wars over but if I want to he won't stand in the way. Besides, even if he didn't approve I'd do it anyway. Once my mind's made up it's pretty hard to change it.

Anyway nothing anyone could say about waiting would bother me. If you want to get married in March, we'll get married in March.

Honey, I love you and miss you so much. Just finished dinner & Daddy said that he could get wine wholesale. That wouldn't be neat. He says they're about $200 or $200 plus tax.
Sinatra's on now--he's singing "There Goes That Song That reminds me of last Saturday when Harry James played it. Golly, so many things happened last Saturday.
Golly, there are so many things we have to get settled. Money. I have a fairly good idea of what I'll have to do between now and March.
There are only 33 more shopping days to Christmas.
This is going to be some Christmas.

Um, what should I do about telling that fellow? Again that reminds me--Have you been able to get Woody a date for this Saturday? She is so nice. I don't know what I'd do without her now. She's been helping me plan stuff. We have more plans.

get back to the subject--I hate to write him but that's the only way. I guess because I've never been overseas before I told him it would be awful--Guess writing is the only way.

Dancing this Saturday seems so far off. They keep adding extra days in spare place during the week. It will be wonderful to see with you again--Maybe we could slow down the clock or something. Time really flies on those weekends.

Guess that Gilly & I won't go to the Pelham - Pleasantville game because we can't, find anyone who's going.

Well, honey, please write soon again. I love you.

All my love,

Dottie

P.S. Please don't forget about getting Woody a date. Honey. Oh, Swatka is at the Waldorf Astoria or somewhere. Maybe we could go there sometime, huh?

Where do you want to have the reception? Where did your sisters have theirs? Sally, there are so many questions that I want to ask you - we're going to have to talk awfully fast to get everything said this weekend.

Have you told any of the cadets yet? So far I've only told two girls - of course, I'm practically going crazy but until it's official or announced anyway - they're the only ones who'll know.
There are going to be a heck of a lot of people who will be surprised. I'd love to hear what people will say. That would be fun, but I don't especially care what anyone thinks. Wonder what Don or Bill would say? I'll bet they would believe it. I'd love to see the expression on their faces when they hear about it.

Well, honey, good-bye again. I love you and wish that weekends lasted months at a time. Where do you think that you'll be sent after you get your commission?
