Sunday

Dearest Susan

Honestly, I don't even know what day it is darling - I love you so -

You just left a few hours ago & already I'm so lonesome - Every weekend gets worse & worse - I fall more in love with you each time I see you, honey

So many things happened this weekend - I'm still in such a daze, darling - Are we really engaged with the ring and everything? It's wonderful - I love you so - You're the most wonderful man in the whole world - You're so sweet & thoughtful all the time -

This will have to be a real short letter because I'm going to sleep real quick now I just wanted to write & let you know how much I love you & how much I miss you, too -

Honey, everytime you come home I fall in love all over again & twice as hard - It doesn't seem possible that I could love you any more than I did but somehow I always do -

Dad's know where this paper ever came from or how it got there but in my condition there's nothing I can do.

Please tell me about what Steve said - I'm curious for my own sake but Woody is in as bad a daze as March up. It seems years & years away.

Something should be done, honey. There are loads of things I was definitely going to ask you + talk over with you this weekend but look what happened - we got engaged + when I'm with you anything I wanted to say or ask just has completely gone out of my mind -

I love you so, honey, I wish I could tell you how much but there just aren't enough words - I love you -

All my love,
Dottie
