Outsiders Barred So Students Will Have Seats

When local banking officials, who subscribe to Sylvia Porter's newsletter "Reporting on Governments," learned that Miss Porter was going to lecture here on Monday, they asked permission to attend.

Administration officials, however, have refused all requests to attend this Good Citizenship lecture so that there will be enough seats available for Bryant students.

MISS BRYANT COLLEGE: Norman Toabe received the coveted title of Miss Bryant College at Beta Sigma Chi's surprise dance two weeks ago. She is being escorted by John Wilmot.

Sylvia Porter: Financial Expert, Writer—and Woman

Sylvia F. Porter, who will speak to the student body Monday at 9:00 a.m. in the auditorium, may be an internationally known financial expert, but she's a woman, too!

"Men would stop any place and look at Sylvia Porter," Magazine Digest reported not long ago. "But on Wall Street, they stop, look, and LISTEN."

And when she was lecturing at the Columbia School of Journalism last year, one of those Columbia boys got his economics and international affairs mixed up with brown eyes and an exquisite figure.

"When you're out on a story, Miss Porter," he asked "do men ever make passes at you?"

"Well-I-I," she replied, "when you're discussing international finance, it's quite a jump to 'Watcha doin' tonight, babe?'"

It's a wonder that one of them didn't ask her if she was the gal who inspired the song "Who's Sylvia?"

But it was at Bryant's 89th

Commencement exercises last August that Sylvia nearly scored the biggest "scoop" in her career. As the honorary degree candidates filed onto the platform to receive their scrolls, it looked for a moment that there would not be enough seats for all.

Father Robert J. Slavin, President of Providence College, and also an honorary degree recipient, whispered to Miss Porter:

"If you can't find a seat, use my lap; we'll surely make the cover of Time that way."

BA, A&F Societies Combine; Membership Open to All Students

By Larry Davis

The coming semester will see a new organization appear on the Bryant campus. This organization, a result of the consolidation of the Business Administration and Accounting & Finance societies, will be known as the Business Administration & Accounting Society of Bryant College. The need for the consolidation has been apparent for some time because of the duplication of effort by B. A. and A. & F. as two distinct organizations.

The purpose of the society, as stated in the by-laws is "to conduct and promote the study of organized business principles and to further interest in more general business topics."

Throughout the coming semester, the Business Administration & Accounting Society will arrange for its members to hear men well-known in the business world speak on such topics as accounting, personnel, sales, taxes, market research, and other allied subjects.

These programs will not be cut-and-dried lectures, but rather will be informal talks by successful businessmen who are eager to pass the benefits of their own practical experiences on to college students. Information of this type is extremely

Noted Columnist Will Talk On Government Securities

Sylvia Field Porter, financial editor of the New York Post and world-famed authority on government bonds, will be the featured speaker at an all-College assembly Monday morning at 9:00 a.m. in the auditorium. She will discuss "The Financial Structure of Government," drawing upon a wealth of financial knowledge and years of study of world economics to recount the background of today's international monetary problems.

Miss Porter's talk on Monday is one of a series of informative lectures staged here in conjunction with the Good Citizenship course inaugurated last year. In August, 1952, Miss Porter received her first honorary degree of Doctor of Science in Business Administration at the 89th Commencement of Bryant College.

One of the most widely sought-after speakers in the country, Miss Porter is making this special trip to Bryant out of affection for her "adopted alma mater." She will come here from Toledo, Ohio, where she has been addressing professional organizations during the past few days.

Miss Porter is probably the only woman in the world holding down the job of financial editor of a large metropolitan daily newspaper. Her column in the New York Post is syndicated in newspapers from coast to coast, and her annual year-end financial review is read by millions. She is consulted by top men in government, and by the deans of the Wall Street financial houses.

Probably no woman in the newspaper business has crammed more successes into fewer years than has Miss Porter. She is only 38 years old, and looks ten years younger even in a bright light.

She began young—with the stock market crash of 1929. In that debacle, her mother, a successful businesswoman, lost her money.

"Why?" demanded Sylvia, a student at Hunter College at the time. And with characteristic intolerance of muddly thinking, she would not be satisfied with the answers she got.

She promptly switched her college major from English to Economics, and graduated at 18 with a magna cum laude degree, every honor offered in economics, and a Phi Beta Kappa key. Since then, she has won several graduate prizes in economics and history.

In 1942, she earned the National Headliners Club medal for "the best financial and business reporting." In 1945 and 1947, Miss Porter continued her winning ways, copying the New York Newspaper Women's Club awards for the "best column written by a woman in any field."

Miss Porter has authored three books and co-authored two. In 1941, she published "If War Comes to the American Home," and "How to Make Money in Government Bonds." Last year, she published a "how-to" book on money, entitled "Managing Your Money."

There's a lot more, too! She edits a weekly newsletter "Reporting on Government," recognized as tops in its field in interpreting the developments in government finance and the government bond market. Banks and financial institutions throughout the nation subscribe to this publication.

Miss Porter is a frequent contributor to the country's leading magazines, her articles having appeared in "Readers' Digest", "Collier's", "Good Housekeeping", "Look", "Saturday Evening Post", "Cosmopolitan", "Coronet", "Pageant", etc.

Despite Miss Porter's mastery of financial doings, she is the opposite of the fictional idea of a successful

College Makes TV Debut February 1

Bryant will make its debut on television on consecutive Sundays, February 1 and February 8, from 3:30 to 4:00 in the afternoon with two half-hour programs, "TAX INFORMATION PLEASE," broadcast over station WJAR-TV.

These programs will answer some of the problems in filling out current income tax forms. Dean Nelson J. Gulski and Professor R. Lucien Appleby will dramatize the questions and answers. One program will help the wage-earner with his particular questions, and the second program will present information on "joint returns."

Both TV programs will be presented as a public service in cooperation with WJAR-TV.

Beta Sigma Chi Introduces Miss Bryant College

Social activities for the new year started on January 10 with the Mystery Dance sponsored by Beta Sigma Chi. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of "Miss Bryant College of 1953."

The master of ceremonies announced "Miss Bryant College" will reign over all campus social events for 1953. On this cue the rear door of the gym opened, and out strolled Miss Bryant escorted by the president of her sponsoring organization.

Most of the people in attendance at the dance were expecting to see one of the campus beauties, but all were surprised to see Norman Toabe dressed up in a woman's nightie, with a mop for hair and aviator's boots for slippers. The escort was John Wilmot dressed in short pants, flashy jacket, socks with garters attached, and a five-foot key chain.

Norman is a first semester student who hails from Kingston, Massachusetts, and is pledging to Beta Sigma Chi. John, a native of Providence, is in his third semester here at Bryant.

After a brief ceremony on the stage, Miss Bryant danced the Victory Drag with her escort, and then reigned over the activities for the evening.

Miss Sylvia F. Porter's lecture on "The Financial Structure of Government" will be re-broadcast over radio station WPRO Monday night at 10:30 p.m., it was announced yesterday.

Student's Prayer

We pray to thee most reverently, Oh, Guardian Angel of students and scholars; Grant us the means to gain the goals For which we've spent our dollars.

Not long ago, filled with great expectation, We all ventured forth into this new nation In search of some knowledge to store up in each brain, And fond memories of college for our hearts to retain.

In our search for this knowledge We have almost succeeded; But to finish our mission, Fond memories are needed.

Hear us, Oh, Angel; we pray one and all. Grant us these requests so that we may recall Fond memories of days when we forsook knowledge, And devoted our time to just being in college.

Here is a list of the things We most need. If you can provide them, We'll be grateful indeed.

A large, well-equipped gym For the basketball team Would keep them in trim, And right on the beam. And an athletic field Would be welcomed by all To replace that old lot Where the teams play softball.

When we're still taking tests In the hot month of June, Air-conditioning systems Would be a great boon.

And those missing scoops Nobody has found Would be a great help When exam time rolls 'round!

A vast parking lot With plenty of space For each Caddy and Chevie To have its own place.

These are the favors We are asking of thee, To make Bryant brighter In 1-9-5-3.

BA Banquet February 4

The Business Administration and Accounting and Finance societies will hold their annual joint banquet on Wednesday, February 4, at Johnson's Hummocks on Allens Avenue, Providence. A steak dinner will be served.

Over a period of time, this affair has come to be regarded as the final big get-together of the two societies for the semester. It is of particular significance to the seniors because it will be their last affair before graduation. All the men who have spoken to the two societies this semester will attend the banquet.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Jack Moriarty, Nat Gordon, Pat Higgins, Bev Bishop, and Frank Kelley. Music for dancing will be provided by Vin Bottoni.

New Tau Ep Men Enjoy Steak Dinner

Tau Epsilon held its Pledge Banquet at Deering's Restaurant on Tuesday, January 14. After eating a steak dinner, the new brothers were welcomed into the fraternity, and heard short speeches by Mr. John Allan, Dean Mercier, and former president Al Nelson. The singing of fraternal songs wound up the evening's festivities.

Murray Notkin New Hillel Prexy

Murray Notkin of Montreal, Canada, was elected president at a meeting of Hillel last week. He succeeds Joseph Wasserman who graduates this February. Other officers elected were Daniel Weiss of Brooklyn, N. Y., vice-president; Arlene Granoff, Albany, N. Y., secretary; Edith Adler, Cobalt, Connecticut, treasurer; Rhoda E. Galkin, Woonsocket, R. I., social chairman; Elaine Choen, Utica, N. Y., cultural chairman.

Other out-going officers were Charles Leavitt, Daniel Weiss, and Jerry Kaplan.

New plans were discussed by the executive board for the coming year. An expansion is contemplated in both membership and activities.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Tom Dunklee

Sometimes I feel that this article is a complete flop, and that I have failed as a reporter. My only aim in creating "One Man's Opinion" was to convey information to the students of this college. Information that would inform, and also create interest in school affairs. But, sometimes I wonder if anyone is interested in these events I write about, or in any of the events that happen at this college.

This week's article was supposed to be about the dorm hours, but how many people care about this? How many students care what happens in the Student Senate, the Greek Letter Council, or any other college organization?

I know I am not alone in desiring to continually improve conditions here, but how many of you will help those in the Senate or the Council to attain what most of you talk about but fail to do anything about? Thank heaven, this message does not refer to everyone, but does it refer to you? Are you giving the "workers" your support? Do you support the basketball team, join and attend the different organization meetings, or do you just go to classes.

I have heard your many gripes, and I have many more to add to these. I also know that it doesn't always seem that the Administration is behind us. But, is it really their fault or ours—the Student's? Think about it! Think what you yourself can do about your own gripes. The Senate and the council are not fighting a losing battle but a difficult one. Won't you help to speed this fight up? The real opponent is you.

I would like to go just a bit farther and address those of you who will graduate, come February. To you we owe much, though oftentimes what you have done has been forgotten, and you have not received full credit for your efforts.

One thing that no one will be able to take from you is your personal pride and satisfaction in knowing that you did do something for the college, for us, and for the students to come. But, don't let your efforts stop here. Won't you help to form a strong Alumni? I know you will, and I want to wish you every success all the things you do in years to come.

FBI Man Briefs A&F Students On Bureau Finances

One of the most successful and interesting A & F meetings of the year took place last Thursday night. The speaker, Agent Gallagher of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, gave a most interesting and amusing talk on the main departments and bureaus of the FBI.

Agent Gallagher, stationed in the Providence area and operating out of the Boston office, was directly assigned to the famous Quonset Point case of only ten months ago. He told the students present the actual inside story of what took place at the Point starting at 8:30 that fateful Friday morning.

Behind the seriousness of the situation there was also a humorous side of the case that the public would never know or hear about. This side of the case was also discussed by Gallagher.

Following the address was a question and answer period that continued for a half hour. Most of the questions were directly concerned with the accountant's place in the Bureau.

The Newman Club party, on Sunday night at the Pembroke Field House, turned out to be a huge success. More than 40 Bryant and Pembroke Newman Club members and their friends attended.

Record dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening. Games such as table tennis, the broom dance, and the hokey pokey were introduced to the party. Adding to the enjoyment were the refreshments: pizza, coke, and potato chips.

valuable to the student of business as it gives him an insight into the conditions he will someday encounter, and also proves to be an inspiring supplement to classroom lectures.

The new society will be governed by a board of directors elected from the various classes in the School of Business Administration (includes B.A. I, B.A. II, and A. & F.). The board will be composed of two representatives from each senior and junior division and one representative from each sophomore and freshman division. Officers to be elected by the Board of Directors will include president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and historian.

Any student regularly enrolled at Bryant may next semester become a member of the Business Administration & Accounting Society by paying the initiation fee, and indicating his or her interest in the purposes of the organization.

Gals Show Guys New Slant on Basketball

By Carol Putka

A few of the male population of Bryant got a first-hand glimpse of what girls' basketball is really like last Wednesday afternoon.

When the scheduled game between KDK and SIB was called a forfeit because there were not enough KDK players, a few of the boys stepped into the vacant positions and really found out a few things about girls' basketball rules.

Dick Stine, Henry Corriea, and Herb Elliot were among the starting players in the KDK lineup. They had quite a time adjusting to the new rules, but after the first few minutes they played with real skill.

Dick "Grace" Stine tallied 11 points while Herb "Eleanor" Elliot was close with 10 points. When Henry "Henrietta" Corriea was called out on fouls in the fourth quarter, George "Cuddles" Avak replaced him for the remainder of the game.

In spite of the male opposition, Sigma Iota Beta won the game with a final score of 33 to 23. Ann Moore was again the high scorer with 18 points to her credit.

Amsterdam AC Seeks Game

Five Bryant fellows from Amsterdam, New York, have presented a challenge to play basketball with any team that consists of Bryant students who all come from the same city.

A team from Cranston, R. I., has already accepted this challenge, but the date of the game has not been set yet.

If there are any other teams from one city, they should contact "Hunky" Wert, organizer of the Amsterdam team.

You've all seen it—those few pages of a newspaper printed the last days of December featuring the happenings of the world during the past 365 days. Evolution, they call it. We read them over, noting carefully the mistakes that could have been avoided, and vowed that next year will be different. It's something like saying, "If I only had my life to live over."

But the next 12 months slip by without realization and suddenly we find ourselves, like a broken record, giving ourselves the same good advice over again; but at the same time knowing all the determination in the world won't help. Somewhere along the line we'll get sidetracked and the good intentions will be left to chance. Like New Year's resolutions, we make them to break them.

The only sport actually is to see just how long we can follow the perfect pattern set for our lives. Very few last much longer than a week or two. How then, if we can't control our own fate, can we expect to do our best for the world in general. Wouldn't our best bet be to accept the changes as they come without regret or belligerence, and use our energies to mold these changes to good advantage?

Indeed, Bryant itself has witnessed its own period of evolution through the last year. We find this especially true in athletics, where much has been done. Last year saw the return of the "varsity" basketball team, the cheerleaders, and the birth of the Varsity Club.

People and classes come and go; friends change; the world continues to revolve in its constant turmoil. But with it all, we can profit greatly by our day to day experiences, and do our little bit to add to the evolution of 1953.

Indians' Accomplishments Recapped for Posterity

By Norman Metcalf, Jr.

The Bryant basketball quintet snapped their seven-game losing streak and climbed from fifth to third place in the Southern New England Coastal Conference, by defeating Gordon College of Boston, 77 to 69. As Frank Howard showed how with 28 points, the winners led all the way, although the Bostonians staged a brief rally, cutting the Bryant margin to four at one time in the final period.

The previous Friday, the Indians were behind 26 to 11 at the end of the first quarter in Bridgewater, but Herb Elliott, who scored 21 points for the evening, sparked a man-sized rally before the homesters spurred to a 70 to 63 victory.

Although the injury-riddled squad was without the services of Captain George Sonntag the following afternoon, Bryant stayed ahead of the Brown Freshmen during the first

June in January As "Shorts" Hit Gals' Dormitories

By Betsy Byrnes

Bermuda shorts and knee socks have made their appearance on the Bryant campus. And who are the daring young ladies who have started this style?—why none other than Phyllis La Rocque, Toot Lombardi, and Joan Duman, all from Eldridge Hall.

These young ladies were seen at the Sunday night movies in the gymnasium, and at the Brown Bear wearing their Bermuda shorts and knee socks.

The shorts, made of grey flannel or scotch plaid, are common attire on the campuses of many women's colleges like Smith, Wellesley, and Pembroke. Could be that they're trying to outdo the Pembroke girls!

Remember girls—it's January not June.

Phi Up, Chi Gam Honor New Member

Phi Upsilon and Chi Gamma Iota honored their new members last Saturday night at a joint formal dinner and dance, held in the Colonial Room at Oates Tavern in Providence.

Program for the evening was cocktail hour, dinner, welcome by Presidents Pattie Higgins and Lloyd Bowker, presentation of membership certificates, and dancing.

The new light-weight, single-breasted tuxedo has definitely been accepted on campus according to the number of escorts present who were wearing this latest in formal wear.

FASHIONS: These co-eds display the latest fad here—Bermuda shorts and knee-length stockings.

Senate Approves Varsity Club; Bob George Named New Prexy

It's official now. The Student Senate has overwhelmingly approved the Varsity Club. The Varsity Club, brain-child of George Tashjian, the first president, was organized to advance, foster, and promote sport and social activities on campus.

Among the club's first actions was the sponsoring of the cheerleaders; the formation of a varsity band that will attend all rallies, games, and dances; and the adoption of a constitution for the club. Election of officers for the coming semester was held last week, and the following were elected:

Bob George, president; Ray McElroy, vice president; Pat Welsh and Virginia Bateholts, secretaries; Chuck McCarthy and Norman Metcalf, treasurers; Ray Gladu, publicity director.

The Varsity Club has already held its first successful event—a pep rally for the basketball squad last December. Preparations are now being made for a giant award night rally on Tuesday, January 27 at 6:30 p.m. Five Varsity Club awards will be presented. The club members are carefully looking over the faculty and student body for five people who are active on the campus and show an excessive amount of school spirit.

ARE YOU TOUGH ENOUGH FOR THIS JOB?

If you can make the grade, the U.S. Air Force will award you a commission, your wings and pay you over $5,000 a year!

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

1953 Genie Fund Drive Gets Under Way Next Monday

Special Assembly Will Touch Off 1953 Campaign

The opening guns of the 1953 Genie Fund Campaign will fire away next Monday, according to Ben Nulman, chairman of the year's Genie Fund arrangements.

"We are planning a special assembly some time next week," he said yesterday, "so the purposes of the Genie Fund can be explained to our new students."

According to tentative plans, several alumni who went on to graduate work will speak to the student body in an attempt to outline the many advantages of continuing one's education.

The Genie Fund was established by the August, 1952, graduating class as a special fund to provide financial support for worthy students who desire to attend graduate school.

The fund is self-perpetuating. In other words, the present graduating class will familiarize students now in their third semester with the workings of the fund, so that they, in turn, will be able to continue the principle of the Genie Fund next August.

The 1953 campaign for funds will resemble last year's in many respects. Posters explaining the Genie Fund will be posted in the gym next week, and a large thermometer will record the progress of the fund-raising committee.

Actual collections will take place in February, following the one-week indoctrination campaign.

Every segment of the college will participate in the Fund—business administration, accountancy and finance, secretarial, teacher-trainee, administration, faculty, and maintenance.

Miss Porter is a trustee of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York. She is also a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Associates, and of the Council of Phi Beta Kappa.

In 1951 she received the award of Theta Sigma Pi (the national honorary organization for women in journalism) for "achievement in Journalism," and she was also honored with an award by the First Assembly of American Women of Achievement, presented by the Boston Chamber of Commerce as "one of the 25 outstanding women in America." . . . This same year she was also named "Key Woman of the Year."

In private life she has been married since 1943 to G. Sumner Collins, promotion manager of the New York Journal-American, and is the mother of a two-and-one-half-year-old daughter, and step-mother to a tall fair-headed college boy.

CO-ED OF THE WEEK

"Meg" Wallace

"Terrific!" That seems to be the unanimous decision of Division 3 BA2 when Meg Wallace walks into class and they smell that exotic perfume for which she is famous. "Terrific" could also be used to describe Meg herself; she not only carries a full BA schedule but also takes an active interest in extra-curricular activities.

Meg comes from Milford, Connecticut, where she took part in high school activities. Her experience as editor of her high school paper and yearbook makes her a valuable asset to the "Archway" staff. This experience also makes her a natural for the post of Ledger co-editor which she now holds.

Besides these two time-consuming activities Meg still finds an extra minute to be an active member of Sigma Iota Chi sorority, the B. A. Society, and the Key Society.

Meg is very popular with her 3 BA2 classmates. The male element of the class predicts that she is bound to succeed in her chosen field as a buyer as long as she continues to wear that perfume which they describe as "divine and heavenly."

Gerry Feeney and New Slate Installed At Beta Banquet

New officers for next semester were installed, and pledges were inducted into the fraternity at the semi-annual Installation Banquet of Beta Sigma Chi last night at Oates' Tavern.

Installed as president was Gerry Feeney, a native of Cranston, R. I. Gerry, a World War II vet, enrolled here in 1947, but was recalled to active duty during his third semester. At that time, he was fraternity vice president. Returning to the campus in September, 1952, Gerry started his third semester again, and was elected fraternity secretary.

Other officers installed were Bernie Topper, vice president; Ray Naughton, secretary; Ray Le Brecque, treasurer; Tom Labarre, assistant treasurer; Dick Alsfield, sergeant-at-arms; Dick Gammell, alumni secretary; Dan White, chaplain; and Bob Paul, athletic director.

Pledges who were inducted into the fraternity as active members were Don Andrus, Tom Labarre, Sarifino Natoriani, Bob Paul, Don Pfister, Reese Pritchard, Jim Rennie, Ed Ryan, Norm Toabe, and Dan White.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Mr. Henry Lee, accounting teacher at Bryant and fraternity adviser. Art Berriman, a recent alumnus of Beta Sigma Chi, was the master of ceremonies.

Phi Sig Keglers Win First Round

By Bernie Goldstein

Phi Sigma Nu won the first round of the intramural bowling league Wednesday. However, Beta Sigma Chi put up a brilliant fight right down to the wire, losing the first string to Phi Sig by four pins and the third string by only three pins. The pressure was on Phi Sig because it needed all four points to edge out Tau Ep who knocked off Kappa Tau four to zero. In the other match of the day Sigma Lambda Pi defeated Beta Iota Beta three to one.

The standings:

Phi Sigma Nu	20	4
Tau Epsilon	18	6
Chi Gamma Iota	16	6
Beta Sigma Chi	10	14

Faith is not trying to believe something regardless of the evidence. Faith is daring to do something regardless of the consequences.

Students Asked To Supply Own Examination Paper

"Bring your own" is a popular expression these days used in connection with various social activities on campus. But this expression is going to be used in connection with another activity in the not-too-distant future—the activity of taking tests.

Rumor has it that the school's stockpile of pastel paper has dwindled down to an insufficient amount, and that a new supply is not forthcoming. This situation has resulted in the new ruling that students will have to supply their own paper for tests. Of course the Profs will have to keep on their toes to prevent the use of the "observational method," and the students might have a little difficulty in meeting prof's individual standards as to size, color, and texture of the paper to be used.

So remember the new ruling when you're setting out to smash another exam and "Bring your own"—paper!
