

Bryant University

Bryant Digital Repository

Trickey, Katherine W.

Letters by Women During World War II

10-23-1945

Letter Written by Katherine Trickey to Her Folks Dated October 23, 1945

Katherine W. Trickey

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.bryant.edu/trickey>

Recommended Citation

Trickey, Katherine W., "Letter Written by Katherine Trickey to Her Folks Dated October 23, 1945" (1945). Trickey, Katherine W.. Paper 142.

<https://digitalcommons.bryant.edu/trickey/142>

This Personal Letter is brought to you for free and open access by the Letters by Women During World War II at Bryant Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Trickey, Katherine W. by an authorized administrator of Bryant Digital Repository. For more information, please contact dcommons@bryant.edu.

23 Oct 45

Dear Folks

The fall season has really started in Macon. Saturday night we went to see Noel Coward's "Blythe Spirit" put on by the Wesleyan Drama Club. Very, very enjoyable and well done. It was long but I was so glad that I had spent up and gone. It seemed like quite a chore at supper time but it was well worth it. Last night (Mon) we went to the first Community Concert which was a symphony orchestra concert and delightful. It poured all the evening and Mary decided not to go but some of us went in spite of the rain and we're very glad we did so. I haven't heard a symphony orchestra for years and believe me it was a treat.

Mother, I'm sorry about the flat iron - I could have sent it home long ago as the Army finally bought some for the laundry rooms. I just didn't think - I'll try to get it packed and sent tomorrow if I can find a box and packing material.

By the way, I haven't a punctured ear - There is no trace of that mastoid at all. - I don't believe that it makes any difference about ordinary flying anyway - just ~~any~~ military pilots.

Our new Major arrived today but I haven't even caught a glimpse of him yet. Still wondering what he'll be like.

Hastily

(tomorrow night) Ray

P.S. I'm going to see the film of Agatha Christie's "and then there were none." - Hope it's as good as the book.