Dear Mom,

Another week. One move and I'll be an upperclassman. There was a dance last night. Quite an affair. There were about 4000 cadets here and about 200 girls you know one of these all-male affairs! Before the so-called dance last night I saw "Up in Mabel's Room" with Doc. It's terrific. Funny as hell.

Speaking of laughing, here's a good joke for you:

The other day I was Driving down the street with my girl when the car broke down. Naturally I got out and got under and started talkin' around. Well after about a half hour of this Dixie Lee, my girl, says "How’s it all goin’ down here?" Which means "What are you doing down here?

"Trying to fix this leaky car." was my answer plus supplemented with "If you think you can do better, come on down!"

So down she came.

Well, it was warm that day and there she was lying next to me, close... and warm, I guess I got a little anxious.

Presently a cop came up to us and said, "What are you all doin' under here?" "Fixing the car," I answered. "Well sir, there are three reasons why I'll say you ain't fixin' no car. First, you have ain't pointin' down! Second, there are 500 people watchin' ya, and third, somebody's run off with your car!" You know these people in Montgomery are very Strange. I was in town the other day
I saw a sign that said, "O'Chamarey's Tool Works." I don't know what the hell the bastard's braggin' about, mine does too, but I don't go puttin' up signs about it!

Well that's enough of that.
Everything is fine here honey. There's not much news except that it's hellishly hot. I thought about you today on Mother's Day's and tried to call you, but couldn't get near a phone.

I love you honey. Happy Mother's Day, Your Son Tedd.

Dear Mom,

Just a short note honey to let you know I'm still plugging in. I've no time to write a letter. I'm taking finals in Math, A. I., all the others. Thank Tottie for the pens. We love it. It was swell, everyone loved it. I'll write soon. I love you honey.
