Senate Election Results Announced

Michael J. Boyd
Archway Staff Writer

Results of the Student Senate executive council elections were announced at yesterday's Senate meeting.

Jamie Bergeron prevailed in the presidential contest over Caroline Pierce and Matt Tuller. Heather Calderone won the Vice Presidential race in an uncontested election.

"I'm encouraged as well as enthusiastic to be elected to represent the student concerns for the ensuing year," stated Senate President-Elect Jamie Bergeron.

In the race for treasurer, Bob McManus defeated Jennifer Kelly. Jessica Young won the race for secretary over Adam Goodman.

"Thank you everone for voting," commented Treasurer-Elect Bob

McManus. "I look forward to a great year in 1991-1992."

A total of 670 votes were cast in the election. However, representatives of the Student Senate in charge of the election refused to release official vote totals for each individual election race.

Tammy Burgess, junior Senator in charge of the election, said, "as far as I'm concerned, voting numbers... will remain confidential. I feel uncomfortable about [releasing them]."

According to Senate President Mark St. Pierre, the newly elected executive board officers will begin a two-week training period with the current officers and officially take office on approximately April 10.

Former Marathoner Nominated as Hatch Road Race Chairman

Michael J. Boyd
Archway Staff Writer

A three-time winner of the Boston Marathon from Pawtucket, RI has been nominated as the Honorary Race Chairman of the 1991 Kristen Hatch Memorial Road Race.

Les Pawson, 87, winner of the Boston Marathon in 1933, 1938, and 1941, has been selected as the Honorary Race Chairman of the 1991 Kristen Hatch Memorial Road Race. Pawson was selected as a result of his personal contribution to running and in commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of his last Boston Marathon victory.

Pawson is noted for his belief the Boston marathon was a speed race, a belief which helped him establish a record time for the race in 1933. His record stood until 1939.

Pawson's nomination as Honorary Chairman for the 1991 race will be announced at a pre-marathon luncheon scheduled for April 7, 1991 at 1 p.m. at Carrie's Restaurant in Providence. The luncheon is in preparation for the 95th running of the Boston Marathon and is sponsored by Carrie's Warriors and the "L" Street Running Club of South Boston.

The announcement will include the showing of "That Golden Distance," an Emmy Award-winning documentary by Dimension Cable's Fred Lewis. The documentary about the early days of the Boston Marathon includes footage of Pawson's three Boston Marathon victories.

World-class runner John Gregorek of Seekonk, MA and Dr. John Miele, a noted marathoner and speaker on the prevention of running injuries, will be guest speakers at the pre-marathon luncheon.

Kristen Hatch, a junior marketing major and a member of the Delta Zeta sorority from Mansfield, Massachusetts, was jogging south along Route 116 on April 16, 1990 when she was struck and killed by an allegedly drunk driver. The driver, Smithfield native Edward O'Brien, 52, has been charged in the incident and is still awaiting trial.

The 1990 Kristen Hatch Memorial Road Race was organized by the Joe Sweet Jr. and Brian Farley of the Smithfield Lions Club. After hearing of the tragedy, the two started to organize the race for two purposes - to raise money for the Kristen Hatch Memorial Scholarship Fund and to raise the public's awareness about drunk driving. The 1990 race raised over $20,000 for the Kristen Hatch Memorial Fund, a scholarship established by her parents in May 1990.

The 1991 Kristen Hatch Memorial Road Race is currently scheduled for Sunday, September 29, 1991. The day will include a one mile fun-run, a three mile walk, and the 5 mile road race.

"Running to Remember," an advertising booklet to commemorate the 1990 Kristen Hatch Memorial Road Race, is still being sold by members of the Delta Zeta sorority to help raise money for the Kristen Hatch Scholarship Fund. The booklet, produced by the Smithfield Lions Club, includes photos of the event and a complete listing of the finishing times of all racers.

"Running to Remember" is being sold for a minimum donation of $3.00, by the Delta Zeta sorority. Order forms are being distributed to all faculty and administration offices. Students can obtain copies by calling the Delta Zeta floor at 232-4425 or 232-4258. All proceeds from the advertising booklet will be going to the Kristen Hatch Scholarship Fund.

AIDS and HIV Explained

Mark Plihcik
Archway Staff Writer

In the summer of 1981, five men in Los Angeles were diagnosed as having a rare form of pneumonia called PCP. At the same time 26 young men in New York developed Kaposi's sarcoma, a usually mild form of cancer found mostly in elderly males. However, the cancer was more aggressive and harder to treat.

Doctors at opposite ends of the country had witnessed the birth of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, or AIDS. Following extensive tests to determine the cause of the disease, a virus was isolated and named Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV).

It is important to realize that all people carrying the HIV virus do not have AIDS. AIDS is the name used by doctors during the final stages of the infection - when patients have life-threatening complications. For a patient with full-blown AIDS, nearly any illness could become life threatening, as the HIV virus attacks and weakens the body's immune system by entering the white blood cells in the blood stream, multiplying, and re-entering the blood stream.

At the beginning of the infection, the body's immune system can fight the virus because there are plenty of white blood cells available. However, as the infection progresses and the HIV virus kills the white blood cells, the body is less and less able to protect against HIV.

The disease occurs in two stages. In Stage I, there are no visible symptoms. Because, there are no symptoms, unless one has had a blood test for HIV, there is no way to tell that they are infected. Stage II occurs when the virus has killed enough white blood cells to prevent the body from protecting against diseases - this can occur from as little as a few months to as long as several years after the person is infected.

The first symptoms are relatively mild. They include swollen glands, fever, and weight loss. As the disease progresses and these symptoms persist, the infected person begins to take on the bedraggled and thin look that most people associate with full-blown AIDS patients. In addition, the body is open to an attack from a disease of the nervous system, which may affect thinking, perception, memory or emotional behavior; opportunistic diseases such as PCP or Kaposi's sarcoma can also develop. These diseases only occur when the body's immune system is weakened. Although at this time it is uncertain if all persons with HIV will get AIDS, there is growing evidence that AIDS is usually fatal.

There are two ways of testing for a virus in the bloodstream. The first is called an antigen test, which actually looks for the virus itself. This test is still in the development stages and is not commercially available. The second method is to look for the antibodies that the body produces to fight the HIV infection. These antibodies, in most people, will begin to be produced six to twelve weeks following infection. In some people it may take six months or more.

For years, now, the media has been flooded with the ways in which HIV is infected. At first, it was believed that only homosexual males and intravenous drug users were at risk. We now know that anybody who engages in sexual activity without protection could be at risk.

The disease is transmitted through three bodily fluids: blood, semen and vaginal secretions. Contact of this nature occurs in several ways. 1) During sexual intercourse. 2) Sharing needles. IV drug users often can not afford to purchase new needles to inject themselves with, so they share needles. Since the needle enters

A Little Out of Perspective

This week's Student Senate Executive Council elections are a perfect example of politics aimed in the wrong direction. Instead of running an election campaign based on the issues that will affect the student body during the term, it has crumbled into a popularity contest where the best gimmick wins. And to top it off, the final election tallies are being withheld by members of the Senate, citing the possibility of hurting the feelings of losing candidates. This is news the public has a right to.

Let's try to remember that this election was to determine the direction the student government will take for the next year and how they will bring student body concerns to the attention of the administration. Shouldn't the students care about the candidate's stance on these important issues?

This election was just that - an election; a vote to select the next governmental body on campus. In an election, votes are cast, counted, and a winner declared. In an election, there must always be a losing candidate. In the real world, in real life, no pains are taken to shield people from the facts or reality. Aren't we all attending Bryant College to prepare for the real world?

Anyone entering an election as a candidate inherently accepts the possibility of being challenged, criticized, and attacked. Winning any number of votes is the reward for exposing oneself to such unpleasanties.

Our Senate election is not a vote for control of a nation or even a city. It is simply an election for leadership control over a group of representatives responsible for voicing student concerns and problems to college officials. Because the Student Senate is the most powerful channel for students to question, debate, and even change policies that affect students, issues should be of the utmost importance.

Politics, especially college politics, should not and cannot be a glorified popularity contest run for the sheer ploy of allowing one party to thrill in victory while shielding the others from reality. Politics in the real world deals with real issues and real life, not transparent issues and pacifying feelings. As Bryant College students, who are preparing for the real world—the world that does not always give us our own way, we should start learning the lessons of life now.

We need to put this all into a realistic perspective.

Student Input Needed on ARA Contract

Did you know that ARA's contract with Bryant is up real soon? This means that we have to choose a food service for the campus. Three companies have applied for the contract and they include ARA, Seilers, and Daka. Well, we all know what ARA food tastes like, but how about the other two. Well let me tell you what the Food Operations Committee is going to do.

On Mondays and Thursdays during the month of April, we are going to go out to eat at other colleges that have the food service of either Seilers or Daka. While we are at the colleges, not only are we going to taste the food, but we are also going to hand out surveys and talk to students about their feelings toward the food service which they receive.

So what do you say, does this sound like fun? If so, please contact Jesse Adelman at 6217 or 4038. But numbers are limited to 10 people so contact him soon! Thanks!

We Are Greeks

It's that time of year again...Pledging is over and we have many proud new Greeks on campus. But what does that mean? It means a great deal if you take a closer look at the Greeks on this campus.

Greeks represent approximately 25% of the student population at Bryant College. Greeks proudly wear their letters on shirts, suits, hats, and jackets. You can't miss us. Greeks work together, live together, and play together.

There is rush. Fall and spring months filled with hours of planning for new members. There are meetings, meetings, and more meetings. We are constantly working with administration to better Greek life and the overall campus atmosphere. We work constructively to make Bryant a better place for all of us.

Yes, there are parties. Parties for rush, for birthdays, for alumni, for sisters, for brothers, and for weekends. There are teas, ceremonies, banquets, and formals. But it's much more than that...Greeks do the majority of the volunteering at Bryant College. We are the first to be asked for support and the last to be recognized for a job well done. Greeks support Special Olympics, blood drives, food drives, and phon-a-thons. Sororities and fraternities help to support diagnostic schools, children's homes, and scholarship funds. Greeks always answer.

We may be called "Greek" but that doesn't mean we are foreign. We are as American as apple pie and baseball, and have a heritage as old as America's.

We are involved with each other. We strive for unity within the Greek system. Unity is a small word with great impact. We respect each other as sisters, as brothers, and as people. We are unique individuals that make up the largest student organization on this campus. We stand united—strong and proud of what we stand for. Our achievements are many, our pride is deep, our ambitions are high.

Take a look around campus. Greeks are actively involved in Senate, sports, and clubs. You can find us in the rotunda at our benches, in classes, in the dorms, and at the Comfort. We are everywhere, so take the time to notice. Just don't overlook us.

Congratulations to all new sisters and new brothers. You made the right decision. Good luck to all graduating seniors...it sure has been interesting! So long Bryant College.

Friends are for now
Families are forever
Greeks have the best of both
WE ARE GREEKS...NOW AND FOREVER!!!!!!

The Twinkle in His Eyes

by Jeanne Rivera
and Brenda Gonzalez
Journalism Students

Most of us know Professor Robert O'Connell. He teaches English and Public Speaking and has been a member of the Bryant Community for 35 years. But what we may not have known is that he is the father of two soldiers still stationed in the Middle East: Robert Jr. and Brian.

Captain Robert O'Connell Jr., 35, is an Army Ordnance Commander of an Ammunition Company. In August Capt. O'Connell was called up from duty in Korea to serve in the Persian Gulf and stationed at Dhahran on Saudi Arabia's North Coast.

Sergeant Brian O'Connell, 25, was a Reservist in the 1st Battalion, 25th Marine Regiment, stationed on Cape Cod, when he was called up the day after Christmas. He now serves in the first Marine Division, also in Saudi Arabia.

Professor O'Connell says he was apprehensive when first one, and then both of his sons were assigned to the Persian Gulf. However he says, "I knew they had to go".

Although communication was difficult, Professor O'Connell and his wife, regularly sent packages and wrote letters to both their sons. From Robert and Brian's letters, Professor O'Connell says he was able to keep informed about the day to day development of the War. He also became a CNN fan.

What often helped him get through those difficult times, Professor O'Connell says, was the encouragement and an overwhelming support the Bryant Community gave him. The yellow ribbons in the Rotunda made him feel "very proud", he says.

Now that there has been a cease-fire, Professor O'Connell feels relieved and grateful. He says he appreciates the efforts of all the military, but especially of that of pilots. He cites particularly Captain Samuel Ramsay III, son of Bryant law Professor Samuel Ramsay. Capt. Ramsay is a B-52 pilot who flew frequent missions over Iraq. He recently returned to the U.S.

Because of the pilots, Professor O'Connell says, ground casualties were kept to a minimum.

Brian O'Connell is expected back in the U.S. later this month and he will be stationed in Camp Pendleton, California. Meanwhile, he and his unit are cleaning & packing equipment to be shipped back to the States.

Captain Robert O'Connell will not leave Saudi Arabia for some time. He works with logistical problems and is needed to take care of both equipment and personnel, Professor O'Connell says.

The small flag and the bright yellow ribbon on Professor O'Connell's door are a testimony to what he and his family have gone through during the tumultuous seven months of the Persian Gulf War. But the return of his bright smile, relaxed manner, even what Irish colleagues would call the "twinkle" in his eyes, are very happy signs of the celebration the O'Connell's are looking forward to later this year.

Camp, A Personal Challenge

by Jill Frostholt
ROTC Cadet

If you are having trouble paying for your tuition, Camp Challenge could just be the answer to your problems. If you are a second semester sophomore, you have the opportunity to attend Camp Challenge and compete to win one of the many two-year ROTC scholarships that are awarded each summer. If you have never taken a military science course here, you may be asking, "What is Camp Challenge?"

Camp Challenge is a six-week training period at Fort Knox, Kentucky designed to offer college students the chance to look at the Army ROTC program without making any commitment to join. That is the key; if you don't like what you see, you are free to go home at any time. During these six weeks, cadets are trained in many areas such as land navigation, weapons, first aid, physical training, water survival, rappelling, stream crossing, and individual military skills. The training is completed with a five day field training exercise completely out in the thick woods of Kentucky. This guarantees, if nothing else, a lifetime of unforgettable memories.

Much of the training is designed to develop the leadership and management skills that are needed for the cadet to continue in the advanced portion of the ROTC program. Cadets are placed in leadership roles and evaluated on their ability to perform. The camp is then completed with a graduation ceremony for parents and friends that is actually led by the cadets who have performed in their leadership positions at the top level.

As mentioned before, cadets are able to compete for one of the scholarships that are awarded each summer. Selection for these is based on camp performance, academic achievement and potential and demonstrated leadership ability. These scholarships cover $3500 per semester for tuition, an allowance for books and supplies, plus $100 per month for personal use. By accepting the scholarship, the cadet makes an 8 year obligation to the Army which can be served in a sundry of ways, on active duty or in the Army Reserves or Army National Guard.

If you are interested in Camp Challenge and you are currently a sophomore, it is not too late to sign up. This could be the break you need to beat the cost of tuition. For further information concerning Camp Challenge or ROTC in general, contact CPT Parker or CPT Lynch in room 370 of the unistrustructure or call 232-6275/6276.

KUWAITI ELECTIONS HELD SOON: National elections will be held in Kuwait "in the near future," Crown Prince Saad Sabah said Monday. "The elections will start when the question of security and stability of the country is met," said Prince Saad, who also is prime minister. Saad would not be more specific about a timetable for the election, saying only that it would be soon.

'CIVIL WAR,' SOVIET BUZZWORD: "Civil war" is the Soviet hard-liners' latest buzzword - a thinly veiled warning to reformists that they are pushing too hard. This often-repeated phrase is interpreted by the reformists as a threat to call out the army against them, analyst Viktor Kremenyuk says. Conservatives' latest target: striking coal miners who since March 1 have paralyzed a fourth of the country's 600 mines.

INDIA'S POPULATION BOOMS: The population of India grew by 160 million in the past decade, reaching nearly 844 million, the country's top census official said Monday. Census commissioner Amulya Ratna Nanda said new census data shows India's population grew by 23.5 percent since 1980. With 844 million people, it is the world's second most populous nation after China, whose population is 1.2 billion.

USA WANTS TROOPS OUT OF IRAQ: The White House hopes to get troops out of the war zone before the occupation of southern Iraq becomes permanent. "They don't want to turn southern Iraq into America's West Bank," said Marvin Feuerwerker of the Washington Institute for Near East Policy. One month after the Persian Gulf war ended in victory for the U.S.-led forces, Saddam Hussein's Iraq is in turmoil.

USA COULD MAKE A WAR PROFIT: The USA could make a small profit if allied pledges are paid in full and the gulf war's costs are determined by a strict standard, congressional budget analysts said Monday. Pledges now total $54.5 billion, of which about $26.6 billion has been paid in cash or services. But budget officials said the cost of fighting will be closer to $40 billion. If so, taxpayer dollars will not be needed.

GERMAN CONTRIBUTION CONTROVERSY: The opposition Social Democrats want the German government to contribute less than it had pledged to the war because fighting ended sooner than expected. But Germany has vowed to pay the full $5.5 billion. Also, Japan said it will not boost its yen-based contribution to make up for $400 million lost in changing exchange rates.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY FACES DECISION: The Supreme Court set the stage Monday for a landmark look at the tobacco industry in a case that could expose cigarette makers to billions of dollars in lawsuits and boost prices $2 a pack. At issue: whether the 1966 law that put health warnings on cigarette packs shields tobacco companies from suits by people who say smoking ruined their health.

DAVENPORT GAMBLES ON ATTRACTION: Davenport, Iowa, is placing a bet on the future by gambling on its past - riverboat gambling on the Mississippi. On Monday, it will step back into the 1800s, when Mark Twain-era river traffic included floating casinos. Three boats will be launched Monday and four more are expected to be in the gambling business by summer's end. Legalized gambling is a hot issue in several states.

SMART'S STORY KEPT ALIVE: Guilty will not be the last word on Pamela Smart, the New Hampshire woman convicted of recruiting a teen-age lover to kill her husband. Smart's lawyers plan an appeal, but even if it fails, the small-town tale of sex and betrayal is sure to be kept alive through books and movies. Smart, 23, has begun a life term without parole after being convicted.

POLICE OFFICERS QUESTIONED: FBI agents Monday began questioning more than 200 Los Angeles police officers who work in the same division as four officers who were videotaped severely beating a suspect. The four are to be arraigned Tuesday. The FBI is trying to determine if there is a pattern of civil rights abuses at the station. Chief Daryl Gates objects to the FBI interviews in the officers' homes.

Banking in the 90's

Rob Radcliff
Archway Staff Writer

Banks of the 90's are going to have to be everything to everyone in order to be a top bank. Some of the key factors in determining who are going to be the top banks of the 90's are how well the bank deals with deregulated, intensified competition and tougher risk-management. So tough is the looming competition that only six to ten of the 40 to 45 banks now aspiring to be world banking powers will become them by the end of the 90's. Of the top 12 picks to become these banks, half are European. One of the reasons for this is that the European banks did not try to dominate the world scene as did the Americans and Japanese. The Europeans have solid capital bases, strong balance sheets, and dominant shares of home markets, that are expected to grow quickly, these are all things going for them.

A comparison of the banks shows what each has as strengths and weaknesses. The U.S. banks have weak capital bases and bad loans to less developed countries, on real estate and for highly leveraged takeovers. Their strengths are very strong creative skills. Lowell Bryan, chief banking consultant at McKinsey & Co. says, "European and Japanese banks are sitting on top of cartels that are going to have to change. The global winners are going to be the ones with the biggest skills; you don't get skills sitting in an oligopoly."

The Japanese are rich in assets, but poor in capital and innovative flair. They are learning that size doesn't guarantee performance. In the past year Japanese banks have been ravaged by soaring interest rates, a plunging stock market, and intensifying competition. Also, deregulation threatens many of them by narrowing spreads between borrowing costs and lending income.

European banks have mostly solved their Third World debt problems. They are also taking smaller hits from bad real-estate and takeover credits than U.S. and Japanese banks. Their major problem is cutthroat competition. Their markets protected by law or tradition are to be ripped apart by the opening of the EC in 1992.

Many banks are retreating to the relative safety of their home markets. One of the reasons is that global expansion has caused a lot of disappointment. Many have never ventured past their initial move. This has caused a lot of losses. The banks aren't willing to pay for more than their toehold in the new market, this in turn makes them lose money. This more than anything else may stunt the growth of the future global banks.

New Deacon To Work At Bryant

Michael Cain
Archway Staff Writer

Deacon Robert Troia is the latest addition to the Bryant Community. Troia of St. Rocco's in Johnston will be assisting at liturgies on campus, moderating for the Newman Club (a Catholic organization on campus), and available for student's needs at any time.

Troia's relationship with Bryant began when his younger daughter was a student here. Now Troia hopes to become an active part of the college community. He works full time as a system's programmer at R.I. Blue Cross during the day and will be available usually two nights during the week along with weekend services.

Troia is impressed with the large numbers of young people participating in campus religious services. Young people are very important to the Deacon. "It was great to see the turnout for the Palm Sunday Mass.

My job is to make young people on campus feel important and feel that can always talk to someone."

Bryant Tuition: A Good Buy

Bill Becker
Archway Staff Writer

As announced in a previous issue of The Archway, the tuition and fees schedule for the 1991/92 school year have been set.

The day school tuition and fees will be $10,992. The housing range will range from $2951 to $4128 and a 19 meal plan will be $2432. These new fees were approved by the Board of Trustees and formally announced in a letter by President Trueheart.

In a letter to the parents, Trueheart stressed several objectives that he felt Bryant had met. These included the transformation of Bryant into an internationally recognized residential college, increased student exposure to the liberal arts and sciences, and the quality of Bryant's graduate school as well as its excellent placement programs.

In addition, Trueheart also mentioned Bryant's understanding of the increased need to prepare students for competition in an international environment.

To support his claims, Trueheart mentioned Bryant's new AACSB accreditation as well as recent reports in US News and World Reports that called Bryant "one of the best business colleges and one of the best buys in private colleges."

In the past year, Bryant has added 22 new professors to its staff. This brings the total of full time faculty to 141.

The increase in tuition from last year was 11%. This is significantly higher than the current inflation rate of approximately 6% and also higher than the average 8% increase in private school tuition as reported in the Chronicle of Higher Education. Although the tuition was raised a higher percentage than most other schools, a Bryant education is still less expensive in real dollar terms than most other competitive schools. For example, Bentley tuition is expected to reach $11,500 this year and Babson is expected to raise its tuition as high as $13,900 for the 1991/92 year.

The average cost of attending a private college, as reported by the College Board, will be $15,318. Bryant, with an average cost of $15,044, is highly competitive with this national average.

The highest tuition rates in the country are Landmark college, with a tuition of $19,650 and Bennington, with a tuition of $17,790.

In the face of the skyrocketing cost of higher education, financial aid at Bryant has increased to a record total of $6.5 million. This reflects Bryant's commitment to making higher education a real possibility to all students, including financially disadvantaged students.

The rates for the part time division have not been announced yet. Any changes will be announced over the summer break.

Although tuition at Bryant has increased significantly over last year, the fact still remains that the current rates reasonable in comparison to colleges across the country, especially considering Bryant's quality of education and its commitment to the future.

Business Briefs:

Legoland coming soon

The Dutch toy company Lego, wants to open an amusement park in 1994. Lego is prepared to spend $100 to $200 million on a park to snap up part of the huge $5 billion a year U.S. theme park business. It has no site yet and won't go to Orlando or L.A. for fear of direct competition with the Disney extravaganzas.

Car News

The Big Three auto makers want President Bush to restrict imports of Japanese cars and veto any proposed new corporate average fuel economies, or CAFE's. Bush has said that he will not let overly strong CAFE's be passed but would not restrict imports because the U.S. has been pleading with the EC to not restrict imports.

S&L cleanup

215 more failed S&L's in the next six months will be unloaded. Some rules will also be relaxed to sell $65 billion in assets. Last week $78 billion was approved to finance the RTC agency through the end of the year that ends on Sept. 30. $30 billion of that will go to covering losses on assets held by S&L's. The agency hopes to recoup $48 billion from the sale of assets.

Off the Cuff:

These Dry Bones Will Rise Again!

by Father Doug Spina
Catholic Chaplain

O my people! I will put my spirit in you that you may live, and I will settle you upon your land; thus you shall know that I am the Lord!

The feast of feasts is soon approaching: The festival of resurrection, the celebration of the empty tomb. The prophetic utterances of Ezekiel the prophet, who spoke of the Divine promise to restore flesh to the dry bones of his people, have been realized in the rising of that Morning Star that never sets.

That paltry, broken shadow affixed upon crossed sticks is made wholly visible. In the presence of that vision of the resurrection blessedness, all creation dances with joy and hope. Through the death and rising of Jesus, you and I are made holy whole as the curse of human suffering and death is vanquished forever. Indeed we are born again as we hear the message of the angel: He is not here. He is risen!

Recently, we have had our share of human misery and pain: The Gulf War, the growing national jobless rate precipitated, in large measure, by a sluggish and non-responsive economy, the banking crisis here in Rhode Island, the tragedy of human sickness and disease, poverty and hunger, homelessness and illiteracy, and so forth. Even with all this in view, the resurrection of Christ causes us to believe and hope, like St. Paul, that all things work out for good when we risk faith in the God of life and love. The theology of the cross and resurrection of Jesus gives us a new expression, a vibrant vision of humanity, saved and sanctified.

We cannot help but share the message of that new vision with our college community, our families, colleagues, and friends. God walks with us because we are an Easter people, a family born of the love of Christ. We no longer live in the shadow of death. Rather, we now live with our face turned towards the sun-smiling, grinning ear because the one who was crucified now lives. The Shepherd, who was once rejected, now guides, carries, and calls by name a once broken people, a people that radiates life and heart.

We take no pleasure in being a dismembered body of dry bones, lifeless and without meaning. Without Easter, however, that is what we are reduced to—a people that is stale, scattered, and divided. It is the remembering, the faith, the reaching out with love, Christ's love, that unites body, alive, well, bursting with the new life of Jesus. Easter is not about the clanking of dry bones. Easter is about the harmony of being all that we can become, because we live with Christ. ALLELUIA.

I invite you to join with us during this Holy Week 1991 as we recall and celebrate the savings works of the Lord.

HOLY THURSDAY: Mass of the Lord's Supper 28 March 1991 at 5:00 pm in the Bryant Center Chapel

GOOD FRIDAY: Commemoration of the Death of Christ 29 March 1991 at 12:05 pm in Rooms 2A and 2B, Bryant Center

HOLY SATURDAY: Vigil of the Resurrection of Christ celebrated 30 March 1991 at 7:00 pm in the Bryant Center Chapel. (Attendance at this Mass will satisfy your Easter Mass obligation)

EASTER SUNDAY: Festival of the Lord's Resurrection celebrated 31 March 1991 at noon in rooms 2A and 2B in the Bryant Center.

THERE WILL BE NO 9:00 pm MASS TODAY.

I wish each of you a HAPPY and BLESSED EASTER. May the risen Savior grant you endless joy and peace.

Appointments and Other Hazards of Doctor's Offices

Mark Plihcik
Archway Staff Writer

I can't figure out why doctors keep an appointment schedule, because their receptionists schedule every appointment for 3:30 p.m.

If you walk into any doctor's office at 3:30 on any given week day, you won't be able to walk in. This is because there is a line stretching out of the waiting room, into the street and halfway around the block of patients who have been waiting to see the doctor since about 1983.

I had to pay a visit to my doctor the other day. Not because I wanted to, you understand. I went to see my doctor, lets call him Dr. French, because there is a federal law that says if you go to see your doctor once for a real medical problem, say a knife sticking out of your heart, the doctor is required to schedule you to come back for a recheck "in about a month."

So I walked into Dr. French's office at 3:30, my scheduled appointment time. There were about 10 people waiting in front of me. One distraught woman told me that she had been waiting since noon to see the doctor. She had yelled and screamed at the receptionist several times to no avail, she related to me. But she had given in now; she was sitting in one of those waiting room chairs which are stuffed with old, wet towels and are so slippery that you have to actually tie your self to the back of the chair to keep from sliding onto the floor. She had picked up a 6-month-old copy of Time magazine; did you ever notice that all of the magazines in a doctor's office are at least 3 months old? Doctor's have a deal with magazine publishers where the doctors get old copies of their magazines for free, in return for which the doctors promise not to charge them any more than one year's salary for services rendered.

So I'm sitting in the office, listening to the horror stories of the various patients, who by now were trying to convince me to leave now before I lost my will like they had hours ago. Now they had no choice but to stick around and wait because they had been there so long that the bank had foreclosed on their homes and they had no where else to go.

Finally, just as the last fibers of my mental strength were letting go, the door opened and the nurse called my name. I went into the office, where the nurse asked me several questions, most of which concerned areas of my body which I prefer not to talk about with large, older women with a box of rubber gloves in their back pocket.

But I dutifully answered them, mostly because I was afraid she would make me open up and say "ahhh" and stuff a pill down my throat.

She left and told me the doctor would be "Right In," which in doctor lingo means, "Right After He Finishes The 18th Hole on Nintendo Golf." So after a delay that saw me get so bored that I actually began to read the helpful diagrams of various parts of the human body scattered across the room, Dr. French walked in.

"Hi, Mark, how are you," he said. "Well, to tell the truth doc," I started to say.

"Well we'll just have to take care of that with this wonderful new drug that only costs $19.95 a pill."

Then he scribbled something in what I can only assume is Latin on a prescription sheet. The only people that can read this script are other doctors and pharmacists. What was written on the script was probably not an actual prescription for an actual drug. Instead, it was probably a message to the pharmacist that said, "Hey, this kid needs Drug X. But only give it to him if it costs over $100. Otherwise, tell him it's out of stock and you'll be getting it in next week."

That was it. He was in the room for less than two minutes. For this he charges my insurance company fifty bucks.

But I feel good, because this $50 not only goes to paying this great humanitarian for his service to all of mankind, but also to pay for a brand new appointment book with every time but 3:30 crossed out.

Plus, I'm not waiting in that line anymore.

Changing Your Relationship With Food: Simple Changes to Help Control Weight

Food ranks right up there with the great sensual pleasures of life. But, for those of us who are trying to control our weight, our relationship with food all too often is a love-hate one. Sometimes we feel like "we can't live with it, but we can't live without it." The good news is that you can live happily with your favorite foods and still control your weight by making simple changes in the way you think about eating in general.

Why You Eat: If we only ate when we were truly hungry, chances are few of us would have weight problems. But we often eat when we're bored, frustrated, lonely, sad, and so on.

We may also eat to be polite—we don't want to "offend" our hostess, our mother—whomever. When we regularly use food as a substitute "solution" for the real problem at hand, weight gain almost always follows. Begin changing your relationship with food by asking yourself "Why do I want to eat? Am I really hungry?" Be honest with yourself, and if you're not really hungry, don't eat.

How You Eat: Are you a snacker? Do you munch while watching TV? Sample while you cook? If so, you may be taking in far more calories than you realize. A cookie here and a bag of chips there can add up to excess weight. One way to avoid "automatic" eating is to agree to eat only while seated at a dining table in your kitchen or dining room, or the lunchroom or cafeteria. You'll eliminate unnecessary snacking and will probably only make the effort to eat when you're really hungry.

What You Eat: You may still have weight problems if you don't consider what you eat. When choosing food, remember that the main reason we need to eat is to supply our bodies with fuel for energy. Sugary snacks and refined, processed foods, are generally low in nutrients, high in calories and fail to satisfy hunger for a significant length of time. For weight control and health, select complex carbohydrates (fresh fruit, vegetable, and whole grains) and low-fat foods such as lean meat, poultry without skin, fish, dried beans and peas (legumes) and low- or non-fat dairy products.

How You Burn Calories:

Are you active? Do you exercise vigorously for at least 20 minutes three times a week? If so, you know the second half of the weight control story—burning calories through activity.

In addition to exercising regularly, you can burn excess calories by sneaking in extra activity throughout your day—walking when possible, using the stairs instead of the elevator, and so on. Increasing your activity level increases the amount of calories you burn, and is a critical part of healthy weight control.

Weighing the Benefits: Once you've made some simple changes in your eating and exercise habits, you'll be on your way to becoming a trimmer, fitter, healthier you. By changing the way you think about eating, and by becoming more active throughout your day, you can help yourself lose weight and keep it off for good.

the vein directly, sharing needles with a person who is HIV positive exposes you to a large risk of becoming infected.

The HIV infection is transmitted in several ways. Obviously, it can be transmitted through sexual contact, as bodily fluids are transferred.

ringe that was used on an HIV positive patient.

There is however, absolutely no risk of infection from everyday social contact with an infected person - i.e., you cannot get the virus from hugging, shaking hands or kissing; it cannot be transmitted by living, working or tween 1 million and 1.5 million Americans have been infected with HIV. As of 1988, approximately 85,000 cases of AIDS had been reported in the U.S., with over 48,000 of those cases being terminal; the U.S. Public Health Service estimates that by next year there will be 365,000 reported cases of AIDS and 263,000 deaths by AIDS.

Locally, the state of Rhode Island has an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 HIV infected residents. Between 1983 and 1988, 222 cases of AIDS had been reported. Fifty-two percent of those cases have died.

Rhode Island has taken steps to protect and educate it's citizens about AIDS, as well as protecting AIDS patients from discrimination. In 1988 AIDS education was made mandatory in all public junior and senior high schools

Needle sharing amongst IV drug users is the second most common route for the virus to be transmitted. The needle pierces the skin and goes directly into the vein - if the needle was tainted with HIV, the bloodstream would become infected.

If you received a blood transfusion between 1977 and 1985, you are at risk of having HIV. Most of the blood used during this time was safe, but there is a chance that some of it may have been contaminated with HIV.

Children born to infected mothers are at risk because they share the mother's blood supply while in the womb.

Health workers may have accidental exposure to blood from an infected patient, whether it be from blood splashed on broken skin or accidental sticking from a sy-going to school with an infected person; you cannot get it by sharing towels, telephones, bed linens, bathtubs, swimming pools or eating utensils; and you cannot get the virus by donating blood.

Government health offices strongly advise that if you feel that you might be at risk of having HIV, that you immediately get tested for the virus, since the earlier the virus is identified, the sooner treatment can begin.

Although there are no known cures or vaccines for HIV available, a drug called azidothymidine (AZT) can slow the spreading of the virus in the bloodstream, extending the life of patients and improving their sense of well being. Since HIV was discovered in 1981, the disease has spread rapidly, to the point where it is estimated that be-expenditure to fight AIDS.

In addition, the new law tries to encourage AIDS education for people applying for marriage licenses, people admitted to a hospital, people receiving family planning or prenatal care, or being treated for a sexually transmitted disease or IV drug abuse.

The law calls for mandatory testing of convicted to help educate them about AIDS and to help them deal with the information if they test HIV positive.

Under the law, insurance, health and life insurance companies may ask applicants to take an HIV test before issuing them a policy.

The law also prohibits any person or organization from discriminating against people

How High Are The Relative Risks?

• Unprotected sex with a person who is infected	Very High
• Needle sharing with an IV drug user	Very High
• Anal sex, especially without a condom	Very High
• Being born to an HIV infected mother	Very High
• Unprotected sex with multiple partners	High
• Accidental blood exposure of a health worker	Low
• Receiving blood transfusions or blood products today	Extremely Low
• Abstention from sexual activity & IV drug use since 1977	Virtually None

In June 1988, the state enacted a comprehensive new AIDS law, which included an appropriation of $2.9 million to the Department of Health, making the state of the top five in the country in per capita prostitutes and their customers, those convicted of possession IV drug paraphernalia, and all convicted prison inmates. In addition, the law mandates that anyone tested for HIV infection must be counseled before and after test with HIV infection or those who think they may have HIV infection. Finally, the law contains confidentiality provisions regarding test results. However, the law does not guarantee absolute confidentiality of test results.

Healing Service For AIDS and HIV Victims Held

Students Perform Touching Play for Attendees

Lisa Lucchesi
Archway Staff Writer

An interfaith healing service was held on March 27 in the Papitto Dining Room, in conjunction with AIDS Awareness Week. The service commenced with a reception immediately following the evenings healing celebration.

The theme of the service was healing through water. HIV positive and other members of the AIDS community, as well as those in need of healing, were invited to join Father Douglas Spina, Reverends Gail M. Helgeson, Brian McHugh, Al Barnaby, Deacon Robert P.

Troia, Lay Episcopal AIDS Chaplain for the Diocese of Rhode Island, Barbara Mays-Stock, and Matt Elberg, representing the Hillel Organization.

"Water is a sign of life and growth. It's a very powerful symbol because it suggests the quality of giving life and growth to anything or anyone..."

-Father Doug Spina

Anyone present was invited to bathe their hands in a basin of water as a sign of cleansing and healing. "Water is a sign of life and growth. It's a very powerful symbol because it suggests the quality of giving life and growth to anything or anyone that comes into contact with it," says Father Doug.

An excerpt from the award-winning play Could've Been: An AIDS Educational Tool, written for stage and television by Father Douglas J. Spina, was performed by two Bryant students, Tim Bovat and Lori Nowak.

The excerpt from the play was the imagined dialogue between a mother and her son. Susan's son, Mike, contracted and died from the AIDS virus after receiving a blood transfusion.

The scene ended with an inspirational and emotional scene of Mike saying, "Mom, don't worry, there is some hope in life."

The play Could've Been, written in journal form, will be coming out in print next month. It is published by the Campus Ministry Journal in Chicago.

AIDS-- Facts To Live By

Kelly A. Cartwright
Archway Staff Writer

AIDS—acquired immune deficiency syndrome—is a breakdown of the body's defense system. Currently there is no test for the AIDS virus. The available test is for HIV antibodies, which the body develops in response to exposure to the virus. Since AIDS was brought to the forefront in the early 1980's, the disease has been surrounded in myths. The following are AIDS facts to live by:

HOW HIV IS TRANSMITTED

- Having Sexual Intercourse with an infected person
- Sharing a needle or drug paraphernalia with an HIV-infected person
- Passed from an HIV-infected mother to her baby—before or after birth (through breast-feeding).
- Theoretically through blood transfusions, but the American Red Cross has been testing all donated blood and now considers transfusions safe. There is a 1 in 100,000 chance of contracting AIDS by transfusions.

HOW HIV IS NOT SPREAD

- Donating blood
- Handshake, touch, hug, social kiss
- Sitting in a classroom
- Sneezing/coughing
- Using restrooms, water fountains, telephones
- Eating in a restaurant
- Being bitten by mosquitos or insects
- Sharing a room
- Swimming/using whirlpools

HOW AIDS IS PREVENTED

- Sexual Contact
 - abstinence
 - long-term monogamous relationships (w/known partner)
 - always use latex condoms treated with water soluble spermicide Nonoxynol-9 properly for any form of sexual intercourse
- IV Drug Use
 - do not shoot drugs
 - those unable to stop should clean their needles and never share them!

Suzi Landolphi: Hot, Sexy and Safer

Ben Purkiss
Archway Staff Writer

Bouncy, Vivacious, Raunchy yet sensible Suzi Landolphi comedienne. Tuesday night Suzi kept a packed Papitto dining room in stitches. She jumped all over the stage making sexual innuendos.

As a comic, Suzi Landolphi is hilarious. Her jokes are can be sexy or disgusting. She covered topics from drugs and alcohol to sex and relationships. She plays off the audience very well and is a superb improviser. Probably the highlight of the night was senate president Mark St. Pierre having a condom placed on his head and inflated. Perhaps Mark will try for a new job as a prophylactic tester after his presidential term is over.

Somehow, during her comic antics Suzi sends a very good message. She covered the ways in which one can get AIDS. The number 1 way is anal sex. "Anal sex is not limited to gays, 57% of married couples have tried it and 1 out of 4 college women have admitted to it in a survey, which means a lot of college men have also tried it." Number 2 way is vaginal sex and the number 3 way is oral sex.

Suzi also gave us new information. If you have a strong immune system, even if you contract AIDS you will be able to live for a long time in a healthy manner. The way to maintain a strong immune system is no drugs, no smoking, as little alcohol as possible and no stress.

Suzi also gave us good info on how to have better sex through communication and no alcohol. She said that we should know how to reach orgasm and we must be able to communicate it verbally. She suggested that the first time you get physical leave a light on and just touch and rub with your hands until orgasm. This is so that when you do have sex you know exactly how to stimulate your partner.

Suzi also paid our generation a compliment by saying that our generation was not apathetic, as she had been led to believe. She said that we could be the first generation to abolish homophobia (fear and disrespect of homosexuals). We can be the first generation to take care of AIDS victims compassionately. "You can be the first generation to be sexually proud and confident," said Suzi.

The crux of Suzi's message was to be caring of victims, to be non judgemental of peoples lifestyles and to have considerate sex.

The Real Oscars Are Still All Wrong

by Valerie Helmbreck

They've been televising the Academy Awards for 39 years now and you would think they'd at least have a clue about how to do it right.

Not a chance. Every year it's the same old story, the same old mistakes, a sequel so bad it could have "Rocky" in the title.

The chronic problem is getting down to the business at hand awards. Denzel Washington said it best when he stepped up to the Shrine Auditorium podium Monday night to hand out the Best Supporting Actress Award: "It would be sadistic of me to prolong this agony."

Producers of the 3-hour TV show should have been so kind. This year, they made viewers wait 26 minutes before the first statuette was doled out.

Of those 26 minutes, 15 were spent in the traditional and always-awful production number. Jasmine Guy, whose connection to films is tenuous at best, headlined the 1991 hoofin'-and-lip-synching salute to 100 years of film.

Viewers hadn't recovered from Guy's opening act when she returned for a medley of music from the best original score nominees. That number, at least, had half a dozen young men in loin cloths to redeem it.

Billy Crystal, the savior of last year's show, tried a reprise of his musical spoof of the best films, but it didn't live up to last year's version.

By midnight, with "Dances With Wolves" sweeping its way to the best picture award, the drill for viewers was staying awake. I managed not to nod off by making up my own list of Oscar Night Awards because, as we all know, nobody tunes in to see who won. They watch to see what actors and actress look like when they dress themselves.

My first big award "Best Goof-up by an Announcer or On-Stage Personality" went to announcer who identified "Dances With Wolves" actor Rodney Grant as best supporting actor nominee Graham Greene. Runner-up was academy president Karl Malden, who said Thomas Edison invented the film process in 1981.

The award for "Best Decolletage by a Well Endowed Actress," judged while actresses were making their limousine exits, went to model and Richard Gere tag-along Cindy Crawford, for a neckline that could have been a waistline.

The "Strange Hair Award," won last year by Kim Basinger, was taken home by pretty woman Julia Roberts who showed up Monday night with her recently cropped locks bleached a near platinum blond. The fat guys from Price Waterhouse and Jon Bon Jovi had more flattering dos.

The "Worst Outfit" award, always a tight race: Crystal for his brown dinner jacket and Reba McIntire's green velvet drapes-as-a-dress look. Basinger, whose strapless gold number must have forced her to wiggle in that manner, will be getting the lifetime achievement award in 1992.

Alpha Phi

by Tara McLean

Hey everyone. Well, what can I say-this weekend was the best. I hope all the sisters and their dates had a good time. Did you want to leave? Neither did I! The winner of the elevator races...well we really don't remember, does anyone? If anyone knows, please tell one of the sisters. A sorry to all the sisters and their dates about the bus incident coming back from the formal (hope you still had fun!!!!)

In other news, a special congratulations to the new sisters for initiation on Saturday. A congratulations to Delta Zeta for being installed on Friday. In awards last week, sis' goes to Heidi, space goes to Heidi, and S.O.T.W. goes to Eileen.

Beta Sigma Chi

by David Goyette

We would like to offer congratulations to all the new sisters and brothers to the greek community. Thanks to Theta for finally ending the misery of seeing their pledges at the couch. We would like to say congratulations to Delta for their colonization and thanks for being good sports on the court; bragging rights go back to Beta (We can't wait for soccer season).

New positions have taken place: President - Otter; Exec VP - Radar; Social VP - Ponch; Secretary - Goose; Treasurer - Lester; Pledgemaster - Bull.

Finally, I would like to add that

Buck's presence will no longer be gracing the pages of The Archway, his literary genius will sorely be missed.

BEAC

by Marlo Rosenbloom

"There is a major forest fire raging in each of our large cities, but unlike the disasters in our Western mountains, the forest is brought to the fire-the incinerator. Also unlike the mountain fires, this urban holocaust never goes out."-Dirck Van Sickle

We had our first meeting after spring break on Tuesday. Ben Bateman and Karen Eckard told us about the save Americans Forest Convention they went to over Spring break. They were involved in informational meetings and workshops.

Bob Weiss reported to the group briefly about a R.I. Recycling meeting he attended. Next month we hope to arrange for one of the experts from the meeting come speak to BEAC.

BEAC members who signed up for Hunger Clean up remember to pick up your collection sheets if you did not get one at the meeting. Contact Bob Wallace. Hunger Clean up day is April 13th.

Thanks to Taryn Zemina and Bob Weiss for representing BEAC in Senates first annual fashion show on Thursday.

We need a few dedicated members who would like to get involved with R.I. Student Environment Action Coalition (SEAC). Generally, several R.I. school environmental clubs get together, exchange ideas and work together on specific issues. SEAC is currently focusing on the James Bay issue. It is a great opportunity! If you are seriously interested please contact Marlo ASAP.

Earth Week is less than a month away. Please donate your time to help this committee make Earth Day a success again this year. We need people to make flyers, posters, etc. All Earth Week committee members please try and get more info. from your organizations. Also, be sure to be at all the meetings, let me know before hand if you can't make it.

Recycling committee, your group leader will be needing your help in contacting the faculty. We will be trying to increase the use of the recycling in the faculty offices. Encourage the 90% of Bryants faculty who do not recycle to put recyclables in their place!!!

Next meeting Tues April 2 in Lobby of Dorm 16. Please be there to help out with Earth Week.

Bryant Hunger Coalition

by Nicole Cloutier

Well we are in the home stretch of Hunger Clean-Up Day (April 13th). It is only two and a half weeks away. It looks like we will be working at sites in Smithfield, Lincoln, Providence, and Coventry. We are just waiting for the towns to give us final sites and the number of people they needed so we can vote on which worksites we will attend. Worksites will most likely include painting, picking up garbage, planting shrubs, raking, etc. We are still looking for more volunteers if you are interested. The day will be fun and it is for a great cause. After the worksites are clean we will be holding a party for all the participants. Drop a line to Box 1643 or 1730 if you are interested in being a volunteer for the day. Also volunteers will be going around and collecting donations over the next two weeks. If you aren't contacted and you want to donate some money for a good cause please send donations to Box 1643 or 1730.

Friday night at the Comfort was a success. Thanks to the Greg Buckley Band and everyone involved for the great night. We made a profit of about $125. Thanks to everyone and we hope you had a great time.

The next meeting will be held on Monday April 1st @ 7:30 in Dorm 15 due to the Easter Holiday.

Delta Chi

by Todd Balcom

I look forward to replacing Timster as the new Archway guru, or Aaachway if you are from South Yarmouth or Plymouth. New officers were elected at a brief meeting Sunday night. Congratulations to our new E-board: A-Jay Norris, B-John Biscotti, C-Rob Calderwood, D-Mark Sabantino, E-Mike Mazzotta, F-John Abbott, Rush-Dave Lubelczyk, and AMC-Adam Rubin.

Coach Frey reports that all hoop teams are in action, and SuperSub award goes to Glick. Soccer and softball will be starting up soon - see O.B. for details. Look for another D-Chi Golf Tourney around the corner, and watch those five irons. Unplug your phones at night, Brothers, because Folf season is upon us! Pick of the week: put the mother lode on UNLV!

Congratulations to Delta Zeta on your recent initiation, and to Theta pledges for completing their pledge period. Prepare now for the upcoming Sink the Island at Martha's Vineyard, and get a date for the White Carnation. The Beta Class car wash was a wash-out due to evil weather patterns, but the Brothers did some hip and satisfying philanthropy work at Amos House in Providence. Townhouse H1 is currently seeking the perpetrator responsible for their broken window. A PI has been secured. Report all leads to Meciak. Quote of the Week: "I decline!" Best of luck to the new E-board and chairmen!

Delta Kappa Epsilon

by Rob Opie

Welcome back from Spring Break, hope you all had fun wherever you went. word to a few don't be too upset if your tan disappeared due to a week of Rhode Island weather.

The brothers would like to congratulate the new sisters of Theta Phi Alpha. Now that pledging is over, it is time to have some fun (sooner than you might think).

Congratualtions to brother Starkey for landing a job, now maybe he won't have to collect unemployment compensation!

In DKE sports, our A-team is up to its knees in losses, but as promised we did beat BETA. On the other hand the B-team has shown steady progress and rumor has it that they are only a year away from the B-league championship. There success is due to the play of freshmen guard Marc "Professor Tres" Varricchione. Coach Howard claims that he has never seen a purer shooter in such a young kid.

"How many days are left to find a formal date?" Answer: "damn few".

In closing, I ask my brothers, "Are we weak? Are we strong? Then let the lion ROAR ROAR ROAR!!!"

Delta Zeta

by Lorri Petrone

Congratulations to all the new sisters, Aspen, Breaker, Ivory, Jasmine, Madison, Marquis, Spencer and Stoli! You guys are the best- we luv ya! After a year and a half of being DZ pledges, we are now officially sisters and a chapter here! Initiation and Installation went great! Thank you Pam and Cindy- we could have never done it without you guys! Also, special thanks to the sisters who put so much time into last weekend!

Sig-Ep, thanks for last Saturday nite- All the sisters had a great time! Congrats to Theta on getting their colors!

TKE, all of the sisters enjoyed our little scavenger hunt you put on for us! SIB- happy birthday! WE NEVER WILL FORGET YOU!! Happy Birthday to Elan, Splash and Breaker!

Madison, congrats on your new panhellenic position- we all know you'll be great! TKE-Our fundraiser for bench renovations will be coming soon-items to be discussed at a later date!

Sisters, get psyched for upcoming events-Formal, B&W p-ty, and Province wknd!! DZ's are on the prowl for Formal dates! Sisters P-ty was definately a blast last nite! Hope new sisters made it home ok. Have a Great weekend everyone!!!!

Phi Kappa Sigma

by Jay Fogarty

Thanks Crazy Shirls and Phi Sig Sig for the great happy hour Friday. Congratulations to the new Theta sisters, we hope to party with you soon. Happy birthdays to Zim, Red Eye, Curley and Hammer. The brothers that went to the Tri-Sig formal had an awesome weekend as well. Basketball A-team is still going strong at 6-1 after a tough loss monday...thanks refs for a consistant game. The B-team is still plummeting along at an unbelievable 7-0. The brothers have a new fixture up at the floor that their trying to misplace.

Most importantly congratulations to brothers holding new offices; President-R.T., Vice President-JJ, 2nd Vice president-Evil, Pledgemaster-Burger, Rush Chairman- Kenny, Secretary-Goon, Treasurer-Hammer, Alumni Secretary-Wier, Social Chairman-Cali, Sergeant-at-arms-Peru, Athletic Director-Mr.Ed, Historian-me, and Chaplain-Bo. Great appreciation goes out to thoses leaving office, especially Harrington and Marshall for their hard work.

Phi Kappa Tau

by Mike Alonzo

We would like to send out congratulations to Delta Zeta for their Installation, and to all of the new Theta Phi Alpha sisters who finally finished. Our soccer team started the season out with a win, with a Doug, Dave², and Rock playing a great game. Coach Rock is looking forward to the upcoming football season, but says he's not working with as much talent compared to previous years. Lothar is now officially off our Ultimate Frisbee team, but he will have the memories and the scars to remind him of the Great game. Good luck to the remaining brothers looking for formal dates, and to those that have finally found their discounts. Happy Easter! KT TOP DOG!

Phi Sigma Sigma

by Dawn Generous

The Sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma would like to announce our new E-Board officers: Kara Tongring, Archon; Casey, Executive Vice Archonster; Jen Johnson, Social Vice Archon; Duckie, Member-at-Large; Kathy, Bursar; Dawn, Tribune; Mary, Scribe; Melissa, Pledge Educator; Kelly, Rush Director; and Wendy, Panhellenic Rep. Congratulations to our new E-Board and congratulations to all other new officers.

Another congratulations to the new sisters of Theta Phi Alpha and to Delta Sigma Chi on going national to Pi Kappa Phi - Good luck guys! You'll always be Delta and you'll never be what Frankie doesn't like.

A thank you to Bob Shirley for the use of his house for our Friday festivities. Duckie, in behalf of her new office, would like to thank Phi Kaps for the organization of this event. Tonight we're looking forward to our Crush P-Y. Hopefully all of our sisters who don't have formal dates yet will get them tonight - All others it's a chance to work on getting the biannual ice cream award that I will be handing down when the big sisters get their pillows. will that be?!

Back to last weekend-It began Wednesday night thanks to Sig Ep's 5th Floor where the sisters realized jello is better than pudding. Friday we all enjoyed TEP's gathering. And Saturday we found ourselves at KT, Sig Ep, and KDR.

A big congratulations to JUDD who is our first senior to get a job! She will be working at Data General. To my suitemates - I missed you very much last weekend!

Judy Bellante - We hoped you enjoyed your dinner with us Tuesday night!

We'll end this week in the words of Casey (you like to be called that right) who is now taking acting lessons for archonster until KT gets back - "There will be no more..."

PHI SIG SIG TOP CAT!!!!

Sigma Phi Epsilon

by Jay Conte
and James Sannella

The Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon kicked the weekend off early with a big fifth floor on Wednesday. The night was a big success, although many Brothers are still diligently searching for formal dates. Friday night Montaves showed up to keep the Brothers entertained all night. Congratulations to him on his engagement to Tina. That makes number three for the Sig Ep-Theta marriages with Frank and Fusco on deck. Saturday nights p-y was great, this author isn't able to recount much of the night, but I trust everyone had a good time. In sports the Sig Ep Sss team continued their perfect record of 0-9. The big scorers for the week being Ryan and Bosk with over 30 points each per game. Breen continues to score on a different court. The A-team won both its games against TKE and Delta, and they're getting primed for the playoffs as they go in third spot. The B-team defeated delta chi to bring their record to 5-1. The soccer season kicks off this week with our A-team looking to threepate their championship. The team looks good for this year with rookie Tim Keene looking promising. Good luck boys. There's nothing more depressing than a man in the depths of an ether binge.-HST

Sigma Sigma Sigma

by Alexa Komisar

First of all, congratulations to Theta!!! Be psyched you won't be pledging after you graduate. Also, congratulations to Delta on their colonization and Delta Zeta on receiving their charter. Happy Birthday to Rif who celebrated her 20th birthday this week, unfortunately she wasn't here to celebrate it with us because she is still on Spring Break. We flew and pranced up to New Hampshire this weekend to finally phase in our eleven new sisters and a interesting time was had by most. I better stop here because everything else will probably get cut out. For those of you that are going home this weekend, enjoy, and for those of you that are staying here, be warned that any Easter Bunny caught trespassing will be shot on sight.

Quote of the week: Oh what a tangled web we weave...Later...Lex.

Student Programming Board

by Lina Strimavicius

Well this is a big week for SPB! First we had 104 of your smiling faces join us for fun and laughs at Three Men and A Little Lady this past Sunday. I hope you all enjoyed it, we're sorry about the first show, technical difficulties, yaknow. Now we have Pump Up the Volume to look forward to on April 7. Next Deb, we hope you enjoyed your Birthday, it brightened our meeting. Also I'd like to say Awesome job on the Showcase Jen and Heather!!! And to you get psyched for the Oxford Debate on Wednesday April 3 (That's this Wednesday) at 7:30 in Papitto. Thank you in advance to Professors Levin and Rosensweig for your help. I hope to see you there the Oxford Debaters seem to be quite humorous. Good Luck to Bryant's Debaters!!!

Next I'd like to announce that Sue has put together an Awesome trip to see a Red Sox Game on Wednesday April 24. The game starts at 6:05 and transportation will be provided. Tickets are $10 and go on sale at the INFO Desk on Monday April 8, hurry because they are first come first served.

Finally, I'd like to tell Brian, Julie, and J.J. you guys are doing an Awesome job and we all really appreciate it. And anyone who would like to work Stage Crew on Spring Weekend please contact Tim at 232-6118.

As always, we look forward to seeing new and old smiling faces at our weekly meetings on Mondays at 4:30 in Meeting room 2A&B. Come join SPB and GET WITH THE PROGRAM!!!!

Student Senate

by Jill Kostzewski

First we'd like to congratulate our new Executive Board, and also wish luck to the candidates running as senators for individual classes! Elections are April 8th and 9th, so please don't forget to vote...it counts!

Hope all the senators are psyched for the banquet tomorrow!! We all know Scott Martin is! Be sure to go to the Senate Fashion Show tonight at 7:30 in the Janikies Auditorium...you can see all your friends model! It'll be a blast.

Nicole Korzun was presented a plaque last week for being Student Leader of the Month by SPAC, and SENIORS...less than 2 months 'til graduation, so go to all those great Senior events that Lynn Rist and her committee set up at the Comfort!

The Hunger Coalition Clean-up day is April 13th, so if anyone is interested, contact Caroline Pierce or Mark St. Pierre. Also that weekend is the Special Olympics Softball Tournament open to all organizations.

Lastly, on a not-so-pleasant note, Ad-Hoc has advised no one to go swimming in the pond because there's a creature living in there...gross! That's all for now. Everyone have a Happy Holiday!

Tau Epsilon Phi

by Steve Justo

Before we get into the week, I'd like to congratulate the new E-Board: Scott-Chancellor; Justin-

Vice Chancellor; Biff-Treasurer; Richie-Rush Director; Scrappy-Pledge Educator; B.K-Council-at-large. Unfortunately my time will expire in a few weeks so try to get over the pain.

Now for the week. This was a particularly crazy weekend. Nothing like blowing the whole weekend away. Fri. night we had a wild gathering with many casualties.

Well spring is here, and that means formal time on the floor and a mad, desperate scramble for those without dates. Then there are those who are juggling. Stay tuned for more.

Lastly, my words for the week: Spring is a time of happiness and fun, so lets not ruin it for the rest of us who want to get those festivities rolling.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

by Jim Hopkinson

Well, it's been a rather slow week here in the land of red and gray. The Tekes from URI stopped up last week and were well behaved. Quote of the night was probably, "Hi, nice to meet you. You've probably seen me on TV." The new guys got a taste of next year and met some of their new members from Maine. The sisters of Delta Zeta had a fun time exploring the outermost parts of the campus last Wednesday, putting their Meet the Greeks experience to work. We also heard a rumor that APK (much easier to say) was doing some remodeling to their bathroom, adding some extra seating. Touristzio is fresh back from Boston, guiding Zero, Slomba, Bruce, and unfortunately Gabe back from the Alpha Phi formal. Nellie decided to take the scenic bus ride. Pisc and AJ returned to the scene of the crime in NH, with Pete installing a new ventilation system.

In sports, the A hoop team finally had some wind left for the second half, and defeated Delta Chi, while the Gutmen ended their season as well. The soccer team began the long road to the playoffs, while Hanus is still stuck in hockey season, and making sure the basketball team knows it. Well, let's hope for a more exciting week ahead, and like I couldn't resist last year, have a Happy Easter.

Theta Phi Alpha

by Kris Donaldson

CONGRATULATIONS, New See-stores!! You finally did it! We're so proud of you; Fyfel, Trixx, Viva, Blaze, Paddington, Rascal, Althea, and Domino it's good to see that you guys can p---y like true THETA sisters, Saturday morning definitely proved that! We'd like to thank those who started our campus wide mud fight. Despite a few scratches and bruises we definitely had a blast! Watch out the next time it rains!!

The fun continued that night on our floor with a little game of Fubar. We were glad to see so many alumni last weekend.

Congratulations to Tina Beaudoin on her engagement!

Also, nominations are this week so start thinking about your future positions.

Congratulations to Delta Zeta on their installation!

Get Psyched for tonight!! Theta Phi Alpha will be sponsoring a Scruples night (or whatever its now called). Come show your support, See ya there!

It keeps more than memories alive.

The Bryant College tennis team began their season last with a match against Merrimack College. The Indians were defeated 6-3 but the match was much closer than the score indicated. Bryant lost three of their games in third set tiebreakers.

This year's team is led by sophomore Lars Pluss, from Switzerland, who is Bryant's top singles and doubles player. First year coach, Robert Coker, will also look upon seniors Scott Jensen and Bob Meunier to help a young Bryant team contend for a NE-10 title.

Today, the Indians are on the road against Babson College and then travel to Springfield, Massachusetts to play Springfield College on Tuesday. The next home match will be Wednesday afternoon against NE-10 rival, Bentley College.

Pats May Come Back

Cindy Gale
Archway Staff Writer

"We have strong indications that the Patriots will be re-signing with Bryant, but nothing concrete as of yet," said Joseph Meichelbeck, the Vice President for Business Affairs. The Associate Vice President of Corporate and College Relations, Howard Kay stated, and then spoke to Mr. Meichelbeck to confirm, that Bryant and the Patriots were close to a contract, but were still in the negotiating process.

Kay stated, "At this point, we expect the contract to be signed, and we have every indication that they will be returning, but it's never over until it's over." Neither Kay nor Meichelbeck knew of the rumor that Patriots owner Victor Kiam would be on campus to sign the contract, but stated that if an agreement were to be reached, it would be in the near future. No definite date has yet been set.

Athlete OF THE WEEK

Cindy Stone

This week's athlete of the week is Cindy Stone of the women's softball team. In seven games, Cindy went 9-25 for a .360 average and had seven RBI's.

Tribe Wins First

Bryant was sparked on offense by captain Scott Axel going 3-4, and Matt Gruttadauria's rally starting double in the gap. The Tribe scored in four runs in the fourth to take the lead for good, and held on to win, 6-4.

On Tuesday, Bryant fell in a close game to S.M.U. Ross Yanco, who had two hits on the day, put the Indians up 5-4 in the ninth with a clutch double to leftfield. Brian Casuscelli pitched middle relief ball, but had to leave in the bottom of the ninth as S.M.U. rallied to score two, and won 6-5. Keith Walonis had three hits and Jon Werner had two hits.

Diamond Dust: Behind the plate, freshmen Scott Stapleton has done an outstanding job. Against S.M.U., Stapleton gunned down four out of five runners attempting to steal. Bryant's defense has also been exceptional. The Tribe is much better than their record of 1-3 indicates. Their next home game is Wednesday, April 3rd at 3:00 against Worcester State, so come out and watch them play.

Apple introduces the Macintosh LC.

If you thought that finding a color Macintosh® system you could afford was just a dream, then the new, affordable Macintosh LC is a dream come true.

The Macintosh LC is rich in color. Unlike many computers that can display only 16 colors at once, the Macintosh LC expands your palette to 256 colors. It also comes with a microphone and new sound-input technology that lets you personalize your work by adding voice or other sounds.

Like every Macintosh computer, the LC is easy to set up and easy to master. And it runs thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. The Macintosh LC even lets you share information with someone who uses a different type of computer—thanks to the versatile Apple® SuperDrive™, which can read from and write to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks.

Take a look at the Macintosh LC and see what it gives you. Then pinch yourself. It's better than a dream—it's a Macintosh.

Jim Hallet Swings His Way To Success at USF&G

by Andy Bean and Josh Rosen
Journalism Students

After graduating from Bryant, most student-athletes hang up their uniforms for good. But not Bryant golfer Jim Hallet, '83, - this weekend's runner-up in the PGA's USF&G Classic in New Orleans.

Hallet lost in a two hole sudden death playoff after a string of 5 birdies on the back nine which tied him for the lead.

In his best performance to date, Hallet earned $108,000 bringing his total earnings for the 1991 season to an impressive $209,300.

In terms of individual statistics this season Hallet is second in birdies and ranks in the top ten in hitting greens in regulation.

Hallet began this season after playing in a PGA high 34 tournaments in 1990. He makes cuts regularly now and his earnings place him at 16th on the current money winners list.

Ironically, Hallet did not come to Bryant just to play golf, he also came to play hockey, and was goalie for two years on Bryant's varsity team. However, when the college dropped hockey, golf coach Archie Boulet stepped in and pulled Jim away from the ice and put his total effort on the golf course.

During his junior and senior years

Hallet was dedicated to his golf game, hitting 1000 golf balls a day. Said Coach Boulet "Wherever there was an empty field, you could bet Jim was out working on his swing."

Hallet's hard work paid off and turned him into a four time All-American. He also won the New England Amateur Golf Championship five years in a row and qualified for an amateur bid to the Masters in 1983.

In fact this weekend's performance in New Orleans reminds Hallet fans of those exciting days of April in Augusta 8 years ago.

In one of his best performances of his amateur career, Hallet shot a 68 (4-under-par) in the first round of the Master's. As a result, on the second day he played with the likes of the legendary Arnold Palmer and well-known great Sevie Ballesteros. His name was on the leader board throughout the weekend and earned him the top amateur prize, with a score of 297 (68-73-78-78) nine over par.

Coach Boulet still keeps tabs on his former player and stays in touch on a regular basis. When asked recently if he ever thought Hallet would be so successful, Boulet confidently said "yes".

Boulet has coached many talented golfers in his career, but with Jim Hallet, Boulet knew he had a gem.

Softball Splits Two With Quinnipiac

Cindy Gale
Archway Staff Writer

This past Sunday, the Bryant women's softball team split two games with Quinnipiac, losing the first 1-2, and winning the second 7-5. The team's game with Southern Maine on Saturday was cancelled due to rain.

In the first game, Suzanne Crowley went 1-3 and had the only RBI in the game when she drove home Cindy Stone on a double to left. Pitcher Michelle Kuczma had one strikeout while giving up two hits and four walks. Quinnipiac scored their two runs in the seventh inning on two sacrifices.

In the second game, Cindy Stone went 2-4 with 3 RBI's, while Stephanie Cooper went 1-3 with a two run homer. Denise Christen, the winning pitcher, had two strikeouts, and gave up seven hits while also giving two free passes.

Quinnipiac jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning due to errors, a sacrifice and a walk. Bryant then retaliated in the top of the second with their own two runs thanks to a sacrifice by Robin Ramey and a passed ball. Quinnipiac then got their remaining three runs in the bottom of the second, while Bryant scattered theirs over the remainder of the game.

The softball team's next home game is Tuesday, April 2nd at 3:30 against Salve Regina. Come out and support the team.

Tribe Wins First

Scott Gura
Archway Staff Writer

This past week, the men's baseball team won its first game of the year, splitting a doubleheader with Quinnipiac. After losing their home opener to Boston University, 8-2, the Indians came alive on Sunday when they travelled to Hamden, CT to face the Braves.

In game one of the doublebill, Bryant's Jay Worthington duelled Quinnipiac's Wayne Pelletier. The fine performance by Worthington was not enough, as Bryant fell 2-0. In game two, the tables were turned. Led by pitcher Andy Bean, who threw six innings, and saver Glenn Burger, the Indians won their first game for head coach, Jon Sjogren.

Sailing Starts Its Season

Rocco DePace and crew Donna DeRoy at the starting line last Sunday at URI at Narragansett

by Rocco DePace

On Sunday March 24, the Bryant College Sailing Team started their season, and their Intercollegiate existence by sailing an overall fifth place finish at the University of Rhode Island in Narragansett.

Winds that were forecasted for 15-20 knots out of the Northeast, turned out to be 4-8 knots out of the Southwest, with the possibility of rain and snow. In all, 20 races were held in the A and B divisions.

Sailing in the A division, skipper Rocco DePace with alternating crews of Donna DeRoy, and Keith Dorschel, lost what might have been their best race of the day. In third place behind Mass. Maritime and URI, they capsized three boatlengths to the windward mark, leaving them for the sharks with a sixth place finish.

While racing in a tough B division, skipper, Craig Zeltsar, with alternating crews of Jed LaPrise, and Jason Fromer showed off Bryant's light air strength, posting an overall fourth place for the division, and helping to bring Bryant to within just 2 points of finishing in fourth place for the day.

In what was both a cold and wet day, the Bryant College Sailing Team gave a strong showing, and good competition to the five well represented colleges on Sunday.

With increased collegiate experience, and on-the-water time the team will be a strong contender among other New England teams through the Spring and Fall.

Wildcats Make Schick Super Hoops Regionals...Again

Bryant 3 on 3 Champs Lose In Second Round During Third Straight Appearance

by Michele Rendeiro

For the first time since 1986, Bryant College had a women's team join a men's team in representing Bryant College at the 8th Annual Schick Super Hoop 3 on 3 regional basketball tournament at Northeastern University.

The teams competed at Bryant in February for the right to represent the school.

The Schick tournament is open to all colleges and military installations. Participants must only play intramurals; varsity members are not allowed to compete.

Thirty-seven men's teams and 14 women's teams from the New England area competed in Boston last Saturday. This year's regional consisted of two rounds. Round 1 placed all the teams in a pool of four, playing three games each. The winner of each pool automatically advanced to round 2. A team with a good record point-wise also moved on to the second round.

Round 2 was a single-elimination tournament. The two teams remaining advance to the finals on April 4 at the Boston Garden before the Celtics-New Jersey Nets game.

Bryant's men's team consisted of senior Cliff Guest, juniors Dennis McCollum and Mike Komorowski, and freshman Dan Murphy. For McCollum it was his third trip to the regionals. The first two trips ended with games in the the 'Garden' where the team lost twice. Last year Guest joined McCollum's team. The 'rookies' are Komorowski and Murphy.

In round 1, the men beat the University of Massachusetts Boston (48-28), Stonehill (44-24), and Fort Devens Army Base (30-29). They advanced to round 2 and played the University of Vermont.

The men were not as lucky as in past years. They fell behind early, and could not recover, and were eliminated by a score of 43-32.

Despite dropping three of four games, Bryant's women made a strong showing at Northeastern. The three losses were by a total of 6 points. The team consisted of seniors Meredith Molnar, Kate Thielbar, and Susan Wyllie, and junior Jenn Donahue.

In round 1, they opened by defeating Curry College in overtime 22-20. They lost the next two: 20-17 to the University of New Hampshire, and 24-22 to the University of Maine at Orono. Despite the losses the women advanced to round 2. In another close battle Bryant lost to Ithaca, 17-16, and was eliminated.

Other Rhode Island teams also proved they could play basketball. Four other men's teams advanced to round 2: The Community College of Rhode Island, Providence College, Rhode Island College, and the University of Rhode Island.

Bryant's representation extended beyond its two teams. Dan Quarella '90 and senior Eric Braciski both refereed games all day.

Batting it out at the Boston Garden will be Keene State and St. Anselm for the women's championship.

Fort Devens Army Base and Ithaca College will meet for the men's championship. Fort Devens' only loss at the regional level was to Bryant.
