

BRYANT HOCKEY OPENS 1ST SEASON

by Fred Colson
and Peter Lockatell

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Smithfield Rink, Bryant will ice its first hockey team ever. The team will play an 18-game schedule in the ECAC (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) Division II, which is the small college division. Captain Phil Cerrone (the only senior on the team) feels that the team has a pretty tough schedule, with some of the top teams of the division slated to appear against the Indians. Coach Bob Reall agrees that it will be tough, but he also feels that the Indians will be able to show the opposition some pretty good hockey.

The spirit and attitude of the team has remained excellent despite a dismal preseason record. Coach Reall feels that it is just a matter of confidence and a little more time needed for the team to jell.

Goal looks strong with Cerrone, who is a graduate of Mount Saint Charles, one of the local schoolboy hockey powers. Backing up Cerrone will be Tom Yandow who hails from Burlington, Vermont. Together they should backbone the Indians' defensive corps.

At the blueline, inexperience prevails. Coach Reall would like to have a couple of more seasoned players. Heading the list of defensemen is Mark Jolly, a freshman, who was a standout at Burrillville High for the last three years. While with Burrillville, he helped the Broncos compile a string of state and New England championships. Also expected to see plenty of action on defense is Billy Gurka, who toiled for North Smithfield during his schoolboy career.

Coach Reall feels that the defense has to work on getting the puck out of their own end. The fact that the defense has had some trouble with this explains some of the pre-season problems. Reall is looking for his defensemen to be able to handle the puck well and to be able to get it up to the forwards.

At forward, the Indians possess much speed. At this time the forward lines have not been finalized. As is the case with any new team, Reall has had to juggle his lines until he can come up with the right combinations. As it is now, there is a lot of potential up front. It is just a matter of time before the team develops the scoring punch it is capable of. Forwards who have shown a lot of promise in practice are Dan Webster of Cumberland, Billy Bush of Warwick, Mike Perolli from Johnston, and Tim Daley of Longmeadow, Massachusetts.

When the forward lines are set and the players gain a sense of where each other will be, the points should begin to roll in.

The rest of the team includes: Larry Brown, Bob Wareham, Wayne Miller, Vito Torrisi, Rick Moniz, Dave Sutherland, Pierre Myette, Rick Stetson, John Pisaruk, Mark Steinberg, and Dave Stone.

"Regardless of how the preseason has gone," says Reall, "I told the guys not to get upset because right now we're just putting it together." He went on to say, "when I coached at Roger Williams, we used to lose to high school teams; but once the season started it all came together (one year with a 12-8 record followed by an impressive 15-4 season).

Because this is Bryant's first year, the Indians really don't know what to expect from the opposition. A cautious style of play can be expected. Coach Reall says he plans to have the team wait for the breaks and then utilize the speed up front when they do come.

Captain Cerrone feels that what he has seen in the preseason has been favorable. "The team has come a long way since we first stepped on the ice a few weeks ago," comments Phil.

Can ice hockey gain the popularity that basketball enjoys here at Bryant? The coach says that from what he has seen, the interest is there. He feels that people will turn out and support the team, and he sees no reason to feel otherwise.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. the Indians will face Nichols at the Smithfield Rink on Route 116 near the Smithfield High School. This will be as good a time as any to come out and show your support for the new Bryant hockey team. Why not make an effort to cheer the team on to its first victory?

7TH RANKED HOOPSTERS TIP-OFF TOMORROW

by Steve Sadetsky

The Indians are on the warpath again as the season debut is slated to begin Saturday. The introductory game features the Bryant Alumni versus the current sub-varsity team. Bringing back memories of the old campus, the veterans of Bryant will again try to stage a comeback in their "youthful" careers. Thousand point scorers George Yates, Don Gray, and Bruce Stewart will be on hand along with Rich Tellier and last year's high scorer, John McVeigh. Seeing former Indian players recapturing their old form, even if the uniforms they play in are now skin tight, is a thrill for any hoop fan to appreciate. Game time is at 6:15.

After the celebrated Alumni game has concluded, the Varsity basketball team will open its campaign by facing St. Francis in the first Naismith Conference clash. The Red Knights have half the team returning led by 6'2" marksman, Steve Donohue. Although the Indians hold a 17-2 mark against their foes from Biddeford, Maine, St. Francis has added strength on the bench which will keep Bryant on its toes. The season opener for Bryant will again be a test of unity while St. Francis (last year 8-15) plays its fourth contest.

The Sub-Varsity takes on Johnson and Wales on Monday evening as the Indians travel into Providence. J&W has 6'7" All-American center Larry Kelly, a high scorer and big rebounder. Coach George Zalucki also has two good guards in Mike Ramos (6'3") and Jeff Burton. Zalucki also is counting heavily on All-Staters Mike Piehuta and Bill Jarrets.

The Indians split the series last year, but a vastly-improved Johnson and Wales team may dominate. Game time is at 7:30 p.m. in the Moses Brown (H.S.) gymnasium.

Barrington will be the next team on the schedule facing the cagers. The Warriors too, have many returning lettermen including Daryl Lane and Wayne Slappy. Tuesday night's contest is also a Naismith Conference game. Coach Jack Augustine of Barrington brought his club to a 13-13 record last year. However, Bryant's decisive victories upped the Indians' mark to 16 and 6 over the Warriors. As in all contests at the Smithfield campus, Sub-Varsity begins at 6:15 and Varsity at 8 p.m.

Travelling again to Hamden, Connecticut, Bryant takes on one of their toughest competitors, Quinnipiac. The Braves were responsible for half of Bryant's defeats and severed the Indians' possibility of reaching the Nationals held in Kansas City. Despite the loss of Bob Vacca, Quinnipiac still has much depth. Ed Roulhac is the big man for the Braves this season. Roulhac scored 52 points and had 30 rebounds against Bryant last season. The Indian's have fallen victim to Quinnipiac the last nine times. Posting a disastrous 2-10 record against its nemesis, Bryant must defeat the Blue and Gold and save face. Coach Burt Kahn may have another 22-7 season this year, but at least two of those losses will be against Bryant. Fan support is a must for this game. Last year bus loads of Bryant supporters cheered on the Indians in vain. More fan support is needed to conquer the jinx.

Editorially Speaking

This year, the pre-registration for next semester is going surprisingly well. Students have not had to stand in line for hours on end, and the pre-registration help has not had to listen to the usual curses and insults. The system that is being used is also a lot fairer than the old system was.

Students have pre-registration "lottery" numbers which are based on their birth dates. The numbers for each day of the year were selected at random for the most equitable order of pre-registration.

Students have been requested to be in Room 386 a few minutes before their scheduled pre-registration time so that they can revise their schedules in case any of their chosen courses have been closed out. If a course is closed, there is a list of other courses available in that particular time slot which has led to the least possible confusion.

The lines have not been very long so far; and the people who are working are very efficient, polite, and helpful.

The new system is very efficient because each student has an IBM card with their name, address, and other vital information punched on it. Each course also has punched cards for seats in each section. When all the cards for a course are gone, the course is closed. The workers put the cards for course selections and the students' own card together. These will be run through the computer for the schedule printouts.

The only thing that was wrong with the pre-registration was that the courses that were closed were not listed in order, but were scattered all over a blackboard. It was easy to overlook a course that was closed because of this. However, this situation has been corrected and students who must register next week will not have any problems in seeing what courses are closed.

All in all, we think that Bryant has finally discovered a good, fair pre-registration system. The new method worked well through the first week of pre-registration, and we think it will run just as smoothly for those who must register next week.

On Monday, November 26, students representing the Student Senate, The Archway, the Radio Station, and the Greek Letter Council attended a meeting with what was supposed to be the Executive Council of the Board of Trustees of the College. The purpose of the meeting was to open communications between the Board of Trustees and the student leaders, which is one of the responsibilities of the trustees.

Upon being granted admission to the meeting, we were met with a barrage of antagonistic questions from Mr. Brown. We were only given 15 minutes of the trustees' time, and Mr. Brown wasted our time by questioning our right to presence at the meeting. He did not even try to communicate with us as to what our problems have been. His attitude, as interpreted by the editors of The Archway, was one of condescension. This may be the attitude of the Vice President of Polaroid Corporation, and it may be a very successful attitude for the Vice President of Polaroid Corporation; but it is not the proper attitude for a trustee of a small college.

In times such as these, when student attrition is so high and there is a need for open communications between all segments of the College, an attitude such as Mr. Brown's is not acceptable.

It's Your Move!

The Archway recognizes the efforts of the Energy Crisis Committee and supports 13 of the 14 recommendations that have been accepted by President Evarts. However, we feel that the President should reconsider recommendation number nine, which states that "Wintersession resident students should be housed in just two dormitories." The Committee's recommendation number 9.1 states that the Committee further recommends that the Office of Student Affairs seek ways of lessening the inconvenience to students who are forced to move from the two buildings which will be selected as winter housing."

In order to house Wintersession resident students in two dorms, here is what must be done:

1. Two dorms must be selected, probably dorms five and six.

2. The residents of these dorms must either take all their belongings home or store them in the center room of the suite.

3. Their keys must be returned to the Office of Student Affairs.

4. Damage checks must be made so that all damage made by the Wintersession residents can be charged to whoever is responsible.

5. Wintersession dorm students must return on New Year's Day and pick up their keys at the Office of Student Affairs so that they can move in.

6. Wintersession ends Friday, January 25. Second semester starts on Monday, January 28. Students who attend Wintersession must move out of their Wintersession quarters by Friday, January 25 at 3 p.m. and return their keys to Student Affairs. Sunday, January 27, all 13 dorms will re-open and Wintersession students will be allowed to return to their own dorms. Students who live in Dorms five and six will pick up their keys again (hopefully, all will be returned unduplicated) and move in again.

7. At sometime before the end of Wintersession and the beginning of second semester, another dorm damage check will have to be made.

8. Wintersession students will be without telephones in their rooms and the telephones in Dorms five and six will either have to be put on suspended service or removed completely.

Approximately 22 percent of the dorm students will be inconvenienced by this—the 174 that have to move out of Dorms five and six, and the estimated 90 or more students who attend Wintersession.

The Energy Committee stated in their report concerning energy consumption that "we are already at the point where most places are trying to reach."

Greg Evans, President of the Student Senate, said that "if the only reason for shutting down the dorms is public relations, then I feel the dorms should not be shut down because of the extreme inconvenience that will be incurred by all students involved. If, however, there is a real need for the cutback and if Bryant will be prevented from remaining open if the dorms are not closed, then regretfully, I must agree with the Committee's recommendation."

If it is true that Bryant is at the point that other institutions are trying to reach and that our system was designed to conserve energy, then we see no reason why the dorms should be closed. We are running at peak efficiency now—we are conserving fuel while other institutions are not. The other 13 recommendations that will be put into effect immediately are enough to prove to the Gas Company that Bryant College is indeed doing its part in conserving energy.

tuO fo redrO

This week, The Archway would like to congratulate most of the members of the Bryant College Faculty for their interest in a new type of faculty evaluation. Faculty evaluation questionnaires were given out to 100 full-time faculty members and 30 part-time Evening Division students on November 19, 1973. The faculty members were asked to report to Dr. Gould by November 26. It only takes one-half to one hour to fill out the questionnaire which was prepared by members of both the faculty and student bodies.

As of November 29, only twelve of these questionnaires were completed and turned in to Dr. Gould.

Well, Bryant Faculty members, you have one more chance to redeem yourselves. You can pass out the questionnaires to your classes to get the students' answers to the questionnaire—even though most of you did not think it was important enough to complete yourselves. If you don't cooperate with this, it will only show your lack of concern in how students feel about faculty members and the courses that are offered at Bryant (it is also a course evaluation).

Once again, congratulations, Faculty! And to the twelve of you who cooperated with the evaluation, hang in there!

The Trustee Meeting That Wasn't

Dear Editor,

On November 19 at 5 p.m., Bryant's student leaders representing the Radio Station, Archway, Student Senate and the Greek Letter Council were to meet with the Trustees Executive Committee of Bryant College. At this meeting it was understood that the Trustees were to have read reports filed by us previously. These reports outlined past, present and future accomplishments and plans in relation to each group's expansion of college benefits and services.

The reports were to express an already known fact—the great importance of responsible students and their coordination and input with the college.

Mr. Evarts, President of Bryant College, and Dr. Fullerton, Vice President of Student Affairs, realize the importance of our input. Weekly meetings are held with them every Wednesday and among some of the constructive topics discussed are the energy crisis, security, placement, and lighting in the parking lots. These meetings are frank, to the point, and average an hour and a half a week.

At last week's trustee meeting, we knew something was wrong from the start. While waiting to enter the meeting, approximately four trustees left with their coats. When we entered we were confronted with only four out of eight trustees, which included Mr. Evarts, Mr. LeBeau, Mr. Brown, and Dr. Robinson. After a brief introduction, Dr. Robinson had to leave. Mr. Clarence Gifford, who is the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, was absent.

It is obvious to us and to other students that the majority of the trustees don't give a damn about student welfare. It is disgusting that they would insult our intelligence by conducting a disaster such as the one on November 19. It exemplifies the Peter Principle and the positions they acquired in their own corporations.

We strongly suggest that any trustee who is not able to adequately fulfill his duties to the college and to the students by spending one day a month with us should be censured from the board. We need people who will work and care about Bryant College.

If the meeting of November 19 had gone accordingly, we were hoping to show the Trustees the lack of Trustee involvement that exists at Bryant and their isolation from student needs and input. The disaster of November 19 only proved how right we were.

We hope that now we can get together and communicate effectively on the same level without face-saving devices and improve Bryant to the level that it should be. We might even adhere to our school's motto. We might even do something new together that is unprecedented and innovative.

We look forward to this as a challenge, as a learning process and maybe even an enjoyable experience.

Sincerely,
Stephen Boulter

Schedule Changes

Dear Editor,

Beginning December 10, 1973, any student can make changes to their pre-registration schedule. Any students who have conflicts in their schedules should feel free to make an appointment in the registrar's office. Changes should be made as soon as possible; however, the final date for changes without penalty is January 11, 1973. For any changes made after this date there is a $10 penalty fee. Don't wait! The sooner you make necessary changes the better your chances are of obtaining your desired schedule. Just a reminder, the last day for intercession registration without paying a penalty is December 14, 1973.

Graduate School Interest

Dear Editor,

Dear Students:

In the afternoon of December 7, 1973, Dr. William F. Lott will be on campus for the purpose of interviewing and recruiting students for a masters program in Economics at the University of Connecticut in Storrs.

Dr. Lott will be receiving students in Conference Room 331 after 1 p.m. on December 7. If you are interested at all in applying for admission to graduate school, whether it be in economics or not, we urge you to make an appointment to see him. Contact either Bill Sweeney or Bill Isrin for an appointment.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,
Bill Sweeney, Advisor
Economics Club
Bill Isrin, President

Dear Editor,

To the students,
faculty, administrators,
and trustees of Bryant College:

On Monday, November 19, 1973, the leaders of the two principle governing bodies and the two media met with the Executive Committee of Bryant's Board of Trustees. Prior to this meeting, reports explaining what each organization was doing and hoped to do were submitted to the nine members of the Executive Committee at the request of Mr. Thomas Brown, a member of the Committee.

We wanted to meet with the Trustees to respond to a question posed by Mr. Clarence Gifford, Chairman of the Board. Last April, when I last met with the Executive Committee, Mr. Gifford was interested in seeing what the Senate was doing to improve its credibility with the students.

Attempts to gain admittance

to the meeting were blocked by Mr. Brown several times prior to the meeting. Mr. Brown is also one of two trustees on the Trustees-Student Affairs Committee which is responsible for communicating student activities to the Trustees. Mr. Brown seems to have a rather unique interpretation of his role as a Trustee.

When we did enter the meeting, I was disappointed to find only four of a possible nine Trustees in attendance. Mr. Gifford was not present. What I had hoped to be a productive meeting at which we could discuss objectives turned into ten minutes of argumentation between Mr. Brown and ourselves. Mr. Brown seemed more concerned with the fact that we were at the meeting rather than in why we were there.

In my opinion, this type of attitude is not productive for Bryant; and I ask all of those who are Trustees of Bryant to look to themselves for the real reason they accepted their roles as Trustees. On October 29, 1970, the Board approved a criteria for the role of the college Trustee. One of these criteria says, "Trustees are responsible for effective and continuing communication between themselves and the faculty, students, alumni, and administration." We want to work to improve Bryant and meetings such as the one on November 19 could be productive if people like Mr. Brown gave other people a chance.

Sincerely,
Gregory Evans
President, Student Senate

TKE Humbled

Dear Editor,

I am not on the Dorm 2 & Co. or TKE football teams, I am just a side line observer. I'm writing this to bring a few facts out into the open that you wouldn't see from the statistics of the game.

It seems that TKE shows to the student body once again why they're not the most liked frat on campus. While Dorm 2 was trying to win a football game, it seemed that TKE was trying to win a fight. TKE tried to muscle their way to victory with Dorm 2, the spectators, and even the referees. This is not to try to criticize TKE but maybe they should put away their chains and get ice packs for their head and gain the rest of the students at Bryant College.

Will The Administration Ever Get Out Of The Gutter?

by Paul Carroll

Many of us here at Bryant put in long, tiring hours; and at the end of the day, we try to scrape our sanity together and go out seeking relaxation or recuperation in one form or another. Whether it be in a rousing game of basketball or in the placid solitude of music, we cut loose from our immediate pressures and try to enjoy life a little. Even the Administration (yes, they're human, too!) does more than just their official duties of running the college. What else do they do? Well, they too seek enjoyment and relaxation after a weary day; and what better way to do it than to go frolicking in the gutters—of the bowling alleys, that is.

Yes, the administrators of Bryant College can be found "rolling their own" in the Bryant Bowling Alley every Wednesday afternoon. In this compendium of bowling expertise is found a spectrum of colorful "holymollers." Leading the way with a 173 average is "Foul-line Falardeau," Manager of the alleys, followed by "Flyaway Fullerton," with his 159 average.

Of course, not all of the members of this trembling tribe perform quite as well as Falardeau and Fullerton; but they are trying to improve their game. Although the ball mysteriously wanders into the gutter from time to time, the high lob throwers are getting better (only three ceiling panels were knocked out last week!).

There is no correlation between their abilities as administrators and bowlers as can be seen in "Hurricane Harry Evarts" with his whooping second from-the-bottom average of 111. This less-than-perfect showing has been attributed to the gusting northeast tradewinds which persistently force his ball into the right-hand gutter.

The style and grace of the Administrative League is of the caliber that cannot be described on paper. To really get a good impression of their bowling abilities, stop by the bowling alley some Wednesday afternoon and see for yourself. Just make sure to wear protective equipment and a crash helmet—those foul balls sure do fly!

Hotel Seminar Trip

Professor Wallace Camper and the twelve students of the new Hotel Seminar Class participated in a field trip to the Holiday Inn of Burlington, Vermont, on November 15, 16, and 17. All rooms were complimentary. Friday morning, Mr. Gene Cenci, Manager of Holiday Inn and his staff, gave the group a tour of the facility.

The group asked questions of Mr. Cenci and his staff at a luncheon in the Inn's special function room. The afternoon consisted of a look at the restaurant, kitchen, and lounge segments of the Inn.

Friday afternoon was highlighted by Mr. Camper's presentation of Honorary Membership in the Servitium Club to Mr. Cenci. Mr. Cenci is a graduate of Nichols College where Mr. Camper was his professor. Gene is now 31 years old and has been manager of the Holiday Inn for nine years. In 1970 he was named "Innkeeper of the Year" out of 1500 Innkeepers, and the Restaurant Manager and Housekeeper in the same facility were names in the top ten in the country.

The students who participated would now like to thank Mr. Camper for his time and effort involved in the trip and Mr. Gene Cenci for his enormous generosity and hospitality. The entire trip was extremely rewarding because of the impressions made on the students by Mr. Cenci's expertise and professionalism in the Hospitality Service Industry.

Rick Kart

ARA Student Manager

by Debbie Colby

Rick Kart, a junior majoring in Accounting, is now Student Manager for the ARA Food Service. Rick is from Riverhead, Long Island, and has been working in the dining hall for two months now.

His job consists of working Monday through Friday from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., plus Sundays from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Rick is in charge of all the students working in the cafeteria. It is his job to be sure that all duties assigned are carried out by the workers. He is in charge of "the front of the house," and must be sure that dishes are clean and plentiful and that beverage machines are kept filled. He tries to keep things running smoothly and orderly.

Rick also helps to keep relations between students and the management running smoothly. If anyone has complaints, it is best for them to be able to talk with Rick, who can get quick results.

When asked why the position of Manager appealed to him, Rick replied, "I wanted the position because it presented me with a challenge, allowed me to take charge and to help with the management of ARA."

Rick says that he has no real goals that he plans on achieving, "but to do my job and keep things running smoothly. However, I would like to see all the students enjoying the meals prepared by ARA. They try hard to satisfy the majority of students, although it is a seemingly difficult job."

Rick stated that he did not plan on continuing his work with ARA after graduation because "there's more enjoyment and money for me as an accountant."

There are jobs open to student who do not qualify for work study. If there are any students with questions or who are just seeking jobs, see Rick Kart (usually in the cafeteria) or call 232-0122.

Bryco To Sell Products

by Paul Carroll

Junior Achievement is an organization which sets up small companies to be run by high school students. The purpose of this program is to give these students experience and training in how a business is run. One such company is presently being sponsored by Bryant College. "Bryco," the name of the Junior Achievement company, will be coming to sell its products here at Bryant today. These companies are set up just like any other business firm, and they even sell stock.

The products which Bryco will be selling today in the Rotunda will be linen calendars and candy in jars. The profits realized from these sales go back to the stockholders of Bryco.

Mr. Zeiger is the company's head advisor; and two Bryant students, Anthony Scacco and Charles Derderian function in the capacity of student advisors. A number of Bryant's staff has purchased stock in Bryco, including Dr. Harry Everts, Mr. Zeiger, and Mr. Galski.

It is hoped that this worthwhile endeavor will be a success through the support of the Bryant Community.

Musical Business Seminar

"The Business Aspects of Music," a seminar to examine methods of promoting successful events and conducting a musical business, is scheduled at Bryant College on Thursday, December 6, 1973 from 12 Noon to 1:30 p.m. in Conference Room 386.

Ms. Lucia-Lena Rosapepe, lecturer in music and a member of the Humanities Department at Bryant, is the director and initiator of this seminar. She has invited three guest panelists to participate. They are: Mrs. Muriel Stevens, executive director of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra; Mr. Walter Axelrod, owner-manager, Axelrod's Music Company; and Dr. Arthur Custer, composer-in-residents, Rhode Island State Council for the Arts. These panelists will deal with this subject from the creative, administrative and businessman's viewpoints.

The event is open to the entire Bryant community and the general public is invited at no charge.

Notices

A mixer will be held December 1 from 9:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. in the Rotunda. Music will be featured by Thrush & Homecookin'. Admission: 75 cents Beer 25 cents Soda 20 cents.

Seniors who had their yearbook picture taken in November will receive proofs in the mail, but will not be given a choice as to which one will appear in the yearbook.

A reminder to the student body that no beverages, food, or smoking is permitted inside the gymnasium. Please observe these few simple rules.

Final Meeting of Women's Organizational Seminar

Dr. Lilli S. Hornig, Executive Director of Higher Education Resource Services (HERS) will be the principal speaker at the final meeting of the Bryant College Seminar for Women in Organizational Management taking place Saturday morning, December 1, 1973, at the Smithfield campus.

This event will bring to conclusion this ten-week program devoted to maximize the utility of existing institutions to meet community needs and to prepare women for managerial positions in the important non-profit agencies that serve so many vital areas in our daily lives. This is a pilot program funded jointly by Bryant College and a grant from the Rhode Island State Advisory Council for Title I of the Higher Education Act.

Thirty women administrators from local non-profit organizations have completed this seminar course. They will be presented with certificates by Professor Joan F. Marsella, Professor of Social Sciences at Bryant, who is project director. She was assisted by Philip R. Graf, the Director of Management Development at Bryant.

Dr. Hornig's topic will be "Future Horizons for Career-Directed women." A graduate of Bryn Mawr, Mrs. Hornig, wife of Brown University President, Donald F. Hornig, earned her Ph.D. in chemistry at Radcliffe.

She and her husband met while both were graduate students in chemistry at Harvard and were married in 1953. Since then, Mrs. Hornig has found herself immersed in the dual role of mother and chemist.

After working together on research connected with the Manhattan Project at Alamos, New Mexico, the Hornigs came to Brown in 1946 when Dr. Hornig joined the Chemistry Department, his first university job.

Mrs. Hornig's research interests have been in the area of cancer-producing chemicals and the nature of drug action.

Dr. Hornig was named science advisor to President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964 and the family moved to Washington, D.C. Mrs. Hornig has served on several Presidential science missions to foreign countries, notably one in 1965 concerned with the establishment of the Korean Institute of Science & Technology. For several years she was Director of the Science Division of Catalyst, an organization devoted to facilitating the return of mature educated women to productive work. She has published several research papers and technological reports.

The public is cordially invited to this lecture which begins at 11 a.m. in Room 386 on the Bryant campus.

Energy Conservation Committee Report

Last Wednesday, the Bryant Energy Conservation Committee submitted its report to Dr. Harry Evarts, President of Bryant College. The report lists the factors and reasons why the problems at Bryant are not as urgent or imminent as other communities in the nation. It also lists 15 recommendations that would conserve energy. Fourteen of these proposals were accepted by Dr. Evarts. The report is as follows:

"Bryant College, like communities nationwide, is faced with a potentially serious energy shortage. Unlike others, however, Bryant's problems are not quite so urgent or imminent. Of course, there are specific reasons for our situation being somewhat different. Listed below are these factors and reasons for our differences.

1. Bryant College relies exclusively upon natural gas for its heating, ventilating, and air conditioning (HVAC) system.

2. As of this writing, the supply of natural gas to the United States, and the northeast in particular, is not seriously threatened. However, officials of the Providence Gas Company indicate that should (a) an abnormally long period of sub-zero weather develop, or (b) a breakdown in their supply pipe lines occur, Bryant would be forced to make critical cutbacks or even effect a total gas shutoff. It is not expected that either of the above will happen, but it is, of course, possible they might.

3. Bryant College's HVAC system is one of the most sophisticated and efficient in New England, although, as we all note from time to time, it is an imperfect system. Bryant College's HVAC system is designed to conserve energy. It has been estimated by our engineers that Bryant College presently is functioning at an energy efficiency level which most other institutions will only arrive at after having made rather severe cutbacks of services and operating hours. In other words, we are already at the point most places are trying to reach.

3.1 Our HVAC system functions in three operating modes:

a. Day Cycle—the system is working 24 hours a day, heating, ventilating, and cooling, whatever the requirement.

b. Economy Cycle—the system is working a pre-determined number of hours. During the operation of the Economy Cycle at the predetermined number of hours which is presently from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week, our present discharge air temperature from all A.C. units is 65 degrees to all occupied spaces. This is adverse of our normal designed temperature of 55 degrees to occupied spaces. When the Economy Cycle is in operation, a minimum of fresh air is introduced into the A.C. unit mixing with return air used to give us a discharge temperature of 65 degrees. When the Economy Cycle is in a complete shutdown, no fresh air is introduced into the building. The unit is controlled by a night thermostat which controls starting the A.C. unit. If space temperature falls below 65 degrees, the A.C. unit will start and recirculate air in the building without introducing fresh air.

c. Night Cycle—the system is completely shut down for a considerable period of time. The Unistructure was operated on Night Cycle during the recent Thanksgiving vacation. As indicated elsewhere in this report, an approximate 95 percent saving was realized during that Night Cycle operational period.

3.2 For our HVAC system to function most effectively at times when heat is required in our occupied spaces, it is imperative we keep our lights turned on during that same period. Our heating system transfers the excess heat generated by the lighting system back into the heating system itself.

During cold winter weather, the removal and recovery of light generated heat saves energy in two ways: (1) by reducing classroom heating and cooling loads, and (2) by reducing total energy consumption by transferring excess heat to other areas that need it. This excess heat is returned to the system through troffers around the lighting fixtures. Consequently, if it is necessary to maintain a constant temperature in our building, which we all agree it is, it is important that our lighting system be used on a continual basis, rather than on an intermittent basis. We realize an approximate 10 to 15 percent savings of natural gas by returning this dissipated lighting heat to the HVAC system.

3.3 Our HVAC system versus other heating systems—Normal heating operation is controlled by raising or lowering a space thermostat. A space thermostat is an auxiliary piece of equipment. Our HVAC system is much more sophisticated. We are conserving energy by controlling the discharge temperature from the A.C. unit versus raising the space thermostat. By raising the temperature of the A.C. unit by ten degrees, bringing it up to 65 degrees versus designed temperature of 55 degrees discharge air to occupied space, we are utilizing the A.C. unit instead of the space thermostat.

With the foregoing in mind, the Committee feels that the following recommendations represent a positive response on behalf of Bryant College to the energy crisis.

The recommendations represent the immediate steps we feel should be taken. There do not appear to be any other measures that would not eventually prove counterproductive. Also, there are no intermittent steps that can be taken should the crisis deepen. Our next step is total shutdown and we do not feel this a likely probability."

The following are the 14 recommendations that have been accepted by Dr. Evarts.

1. Bring outside air into our HVAC system at 65 degrees rather than the present 55 degrees. This measure alone will realize substantial savings.

2. Put our system on the Economy Cycle at 9:30 p.m. and return to Day Cycle at 6:30 a.m. Presently we are going on the Economy Cycle at 10 p.m. and returning to Day Cycle at 6 a.m. The change will provide one additional hour each day when the system is completely shut down.

3. If the Unistructure is not being used on weekends, the Night Cycle should be put into operation. It is recommended that the Coordinator of Special Events maintain continuous contact with the Plant Engineer so that he, the Plant Engineer, will know which areas must be heated and which areas can be completely shut off. (The same recommendation applies to the Gymnasium.)

4. Saturday classes, or Graduate classes in January, should be concentrated in either the 200 or 300 series classrooms. This will allow the Plant Engineer to run the system in the most economical way.

5. The outside floodlights, which are used only to illuminate the Unistructure and the Gymnasium, should be turned off completely.

6. The underwater pool lights should be turned off completely.

7. The two saunas in the Unistructure and the two saunas in the Gymnasium should be turned off until further notice.

8. The Director of Athletics should investigate the possibilities of scheduling all athletic events during daylight hours so that the Gymnasium can be put on the Night Cycle at an earlier time, thus conserving considerable electrical and gas energy.

9. Wintersession resident students should be housed in just two dormitories.

9.1. The Committee further recommends that the Office of Student Affairs seek ways of lessening the inconvenience to students who are forced to move from the two buildings which will be selected as winter housing.

10. During the Wintersession period (January 2 to January 22, 1974) the Night Cycle should be put in operation from 4 p.m. until 6:30 a.m. the following morning.

11. The Office of Student Affairs should send to every resident student a list of energy-saving suggestions and recommendations that should be effected immediately.

12. Shut off completely the electric heater blowers in the entranceway between the double doors in each dormitory.

13. Set dormitory boiler thermostats at 68 degrees.

14. All commuting students, faculty and staff consider organizing of car pools.

"The Committee also wishes to stress the need for all members of the Bryant Community to be energy conservation conscious at all times. Even though we operate an HVAC system that uses natural gas as its energy source and our system is designed to conserve energy, there is no legitimate reason why all members of the Bryant Community should not make a concerted effort to reduce our total energy consumption. It is in the national interest and in the best interest of every member of the Bryant Community to do all that he or she can to help us get through this difficult period."

Mandatory Safety Belt Legislation

The Governor's Office on Highway Safety today announced the release of valuable information pertaining to the use of seat belts from the National Safety Belt Council and the National Safety Council.

Charles H. Pulley, President of the American Safety Belt Council feels that 1974 may be the year that mandatory safety belt legislation is passed.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, 57,000 people died and four million were injured on our highways in 1972. This continuing rise in highway accidents has prompted federal and state officials to rethink their approaches to making highway travel safer. Rhode Island's fatalities themselves as of October 31 of this year have risen 18.8 percent over last year according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Pulley said that recent studies by General Motors and Ford Motor Co. have shown that when used, lap and shoulder belts offer more all-round protection against serious and fatal injury than any other restraint means, including the highly touted air bag.

Australia was the first country to mandate the use of safety belts, he said. Motor vehicle occupant deaths since have declined 20 percent and serious injuries 30 percent, as seat belts use rates have jumped from 25 to 85 percent.

Pulley said 35 states are expected to give attention to the belt use proposal in 1974, compared with 22 this year and eight in 1972.

One reason for heightened interest in this area is the availability of up to $141.5 million in additional federal highway safety funds to states passing safety belt use laws and reducing death tolls significantly.

Pulley's account of the Australian experience was confirmed by Dr. Michael Henderson, head of the New South Wales, Australia, traffic accident research unit.

Henderson said on the basis of statistics compiled over a ten-year period prior to the belt use law, his office predicted 939 motor vehicle occupants might die during 1972 in road accidents.

However, his state recorded only 701 such fatalities, 25 percent fewer than predicted. Compared with the previous year, in which 860 occupants died, that was a reduction of 18.5 percent.

Vincent L. Tofany, President of the National Safety Council, stated that each day individual states delay in passing mandatory safety belt usage laws means more lives lost that could have been saved.

Tofany said that "41,890 lives were lost in traffic accidents in the first nine months of 1973. Of these, about 31,000 were vehicle occupants and approximately 10,000 could have been saved if all states had adopted and enforced safety belt usage laws. Thousands of the more than 1,400 disabling injuries could have been prevented and the 138 billion drain on the nation's economy could have been stemmed."

The Safety Council President said "Although safety belts have been standard equipment on U.S. built cars since 1964, only about one-third of American motorists use them. Motorists consistently find ways to bypass buzzer, warning light and interlock systems that are designed to spur belt use. Massive public information and education campaigns clearly show the life-saving value of belts have been largely ignored."

Ida? Rosie? Juliette? Momma?

by Kevin McGarry
and Paul Carroll

Have you ever been confronted by a dual blue blur coming down the corridor? If you can distinguish a uniform from a trash bag through the clouds of Lysol being sprayed to "freshen" the air, you might find Ida Cantini, the "Queen Mother of Bryant College." Our own Lysol lady, who from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. can be found canvassing the corridors, has among her other duties the task of keeping inventory of the corridor ashtrays. And anyone who's been guilty of absconding one into a classroom knows the feeling of Ida's voice coming out of the woodwork quipping, "Who's Got That Ashtray!"

Being married for 37 years, Ida really knows what housecleaning is all about. She related that although the work is not difficult, it requires constant attention. Ida loves her world and enjoys providing her services to the College. Although she is constantly on the move, she always finds time during her coffee break to have a session of Cantini's Counselling Corner, offering advice to students concerning their trials and tribulations.

Unlike Old Mother Hubbard, Momma Ida's cupboard is never bare. She commends the coCollege on the availability of supplies and equipment on hand at all times.

What Ida likes most about her job is that she finds it interesting to talk to different people and enjoys listening to what work they are involved in. When asked what she attributed her widespread popularity to, she commented, "I'm just a simple person. They go for me. I don't know why—they just go for me." Ida is particularly pleased with the students this year. She feels that they are less careless with throwing papers and cigarettes on the floor and are becoming more conscientious with the appearance of the College.

Among her past glories, she was selected from a cast of thousands to draw the winning ticket in the recent Halloween Liquor Basket Raffle. Appropriately attired in her Budweiser T-Shirt, the "Queen Mother of Bryant College" drew the winning ticket, earning for herself a bottle of brandy, which we are sure she gave a good home.

Ida's favorite diversion is racing, and after hours you might find Ida (if you'll excuse the expression) cleaning up at the track. A hard worker and a fire ball of fun, Ida has done more than just her everyday work tasks here at the College. She has adopted all of us as her children, and has added sparkle and joy to our lives here at Bryant.

various Intramural Bowling Leagues.

John's outlook on life right now amounts to: "I have a good job, a good boss, and a good wife—who could ask for more?" He is very happy at Bryant and claims that he has never met a student who he did not like. John enjoys his work so much that he feels he has found a home; and the only way he could be removed from his position would be bodily.

With the Bowling lanes being a connection with Student Affairs, Dr. Fullerton is John's boss; and John thinks that his boss is terrific. "If everyone had a boss like Dr. Fullerton, they could all walk around with smiles on their faces." and, the more students who use the Bowling Lanes, the bigger the smile on John Falardeau's face.

Right Up Your Alley

by Kevin J. McGarry

John Falardeau started voice at the age of 10, and started singing professionally at 16. From 1955 to 1960 he travelled on the road with big bands accompanying such recording stars as Tony Bennett, Gerry Vale, Frankie Lee, etc. After five years on the road, John turned to singing with a local combo until 1969. During this time, John was a member of the Woonsocket Student Musicians, Woonsocket Senior Betthoven Club, Woonsocket Inter-Faith Choral Group, an active special officer of the North Smithfield Police Department, and a member of the Board of Directors of the North Smithfield Chamber of Commerce. He also worked as an Insurance Representative for Metropolitan Life.

Shortly thereafter, John was ordered by his doctors to leave all these types of involvement due to his health.

So, John charge it all to experience and left it behind him to devote his time to the Bryant community. Now, he manages the four Brunswick Lanes that are located in the basement of the Unistructure. For a charge of 50 cents per game, these alleys make for some good fun between classes or during afternoons or evening. The lanes are in operation Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Along with five Bryant students who work part time in the Bowling Lanes, John accommodated practices for our Varsity Bowling Team on Wednesday evenings, the Administrative League on Wednesday afternoons, and the Summer of '42

Director: Robert Mulligan

Along a misty, lonely beach on a summer colony-island, a man walks slowly among the sandpipers. On this solitary morning stroll, he relives a summer on the island, the summer of 1942. He was 15, a boy named Hermie, on the threshold of manhood.

Thus begins "Summer of '42," a nostalgic excursion for some and an open door to a generation ago for others. But for everyone, it is a simple human comedy with a timeless feeling. It's as true today as it was in '42, as it will be tomorrow. Only the calendar changes.

The story is one of growing up, of three boys spending the summer with their families on an island, of their adolescent yearnings and fumbings, their adventures, their hesitant forays into the mysteries of the opposite sex.

"Summer of '42" stars three newcomers, chosen after exhaustive tests: Gary Grimes, Jerry Houser and Oliver Conant. The Mulligan-Roth production also stars a blazing beauty named Jennifer O'Neill as the "older woman" of '22, and marks her first dramatic starring role.

The other day I went over to the coffee house to see if the lights were still on. As I walked in I thought that I had heard a small voice coming from over by the corner. I walked over to the other side to take a look. I saw a cup on top of the table with a moth inside of it. As I listened closer I thought that I had heard him crying. It was awful. Did you ever see a moth ball?

Pure Unadulterated Bull From On The Lighter Side

by Mark P. Vincent

Examination of the present state of things leads me to conclude that if I were walking through a questionable neighborhood somewhere in the state of Rhode Island, and a devious character pointed a gun at the back of my head and said, "Give me your money or I'll blow your brains out!" my answer would be simple. I'd let him blow my brains out because from what I've seen, you can't live without money; but you can live in Rhode Island without brains. I've been doing it for years. So have quite a few other people.

The other day, I was down in Newport doing some under cover investigation into the activities of a local hooker. Anyway, on leaving the young lady in question (and the question she was thinking was "what'd he mean $1.50 was too much?") I headed for brighter parts of the state. When I approached the toll booth at the Mt. Hope Bridge, I realized that I did not have any money on me since I had just spend my last dollar. I rushed to the guardhouse and told the gentleman sleeping on duty that I needed to use the phone for an emergency call. Before he woke up, I started dialing and had a close friend from Pawtucket answer on the other end. I explained the situation I was in and asked him if I could borrow a quarter for the toll. He said that I could but he wanted to know how he was going to give me the quarter over the telephone. Well, if he couldn't figure it out, I sure as hell wasn't going to tell him. Shortly after that, some cops arrived and upon their learning that I was a world-famous gynecologist, they arrested me.

The other day I was standing on a corner with a friend talking about who was doing what and to whom they were doing it, when a man strode by emitting this squeaking sound from his right leg just below the knee. My friend looked at me and commented, "time to oil that wooden leg," which is not really funny; but which reminded me of a book I once read entitled, "Around the Block in Eighty Days with the Cerebral Palsy Marching Band."

As I sit here typing, three State troupers have just walked into the room and have headed straight for me. Hey, what are you doing? Let go of me? Give me back that typewri

Coeds May Now Enroll In Army ROTC

Effective this school year, female students in the Providence and Boston areas are eligible to enroll in the Army ROTC Program at Providence College in Providence, Rhode Island.

While limited at this time to current freshman coeds, certain sophomores may also be eligible.

The Army ROTC Program is specifically designed to give college men and women "on campus" training and experience in the arts of organizing, managing, motivating and leading others. The program basically exists to develop officers for the Active Army and Reserve Components, but is also an important personal asset to the individual who aspires management positions requiring the ability to motivate people, to win their confidence, and to supervise them effectively.

Students cross-enrolled in the program from other institutions attend classes are Providence College on Wednesday afternoons only. There is no evening, weekend, or summer training involved in the first two years of the program. And the first two years are taken without obligation whatsoever; the student may drop out at any time before the start of her junior year in college with no obligation involved!

Female Cadets will participate in all aspects of the program except the shooting of weapons and field training, although they may do so if desired. They will receive $100 per school month, tax free in their junior and senior years just as male cadets do, and will be eligible to apply for Army ROTC Scholarships. These scholarships pay all tuition, books and school fees, plus give the student $100 per school month, tax free, while attending the college of choice.

Completion of the program results in the Cadet being commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army, and selected by Department of the Army for Active Duty, or duty with the Army Reserves or the Army National Guard. Current salary allowances and benefits equate to over $9,000 annually.

The program is so structured at Providence College to allow students to start in the program in January without missing anything. Coeds interested in finding out more about the Army ROTC Program should write to Professor of Military Science, Providence College, Providence, RI 02918.

State Government Internship Program

Applications for students interested in participating in the Rhode Island State Government Internship Program, which runs every Spring semester have just been received, according to Elizabeth Palter of the Department of Social Sciences, who is the intern coordinator at Bryant College.

The State Government Internship Program offers college students throughout the state practical experience in the state legislative and executive offices and also earns three college credits besides. Students attend Monday afternoon seminars for 12 weeks and are assigned to work several hours in a state office every week. Students interested in applying should be juniors and seniors in good academic standing; they may have any major. Two letters of recommendation are also required.

Further information on the program and application forms are available from Ms. Palter, Office No. 221. The final date for receiving applications has been set at Monday, December 17. Announcements will be made in January prior to the beginning of second semester.

REFLECTIONS OF A CROSS COUNTRY SEASON

by Peter Lockatell

It is always difficult to compete with handicaps in sports and still manage to be a success at the same time. In most cases, a problem team will end up with a horrendous seasonal record and attitude. The Bryant College Cross Country Team had more than its share of crippling problems through the course of its season; and yet they compiled an impressive 7-5 season record—an accomplishment that seems to be taken for granted by most Bryant track observers.

The team started on the wrong foot before its season even began. During the winter months of 1973, the Indians' Cross Country and Spring Track Coach resigned. Assistant Athletic Director Leon Drury coached the Spring Track Squad on an interim basis; but after the season, Bryant College was still without a Cross Country and Spring Track Coach.

A scant two weeks before the fall semester was to begin, a successor to former coach Frederick Reinhardt was named. The new coach was Jim Gambardella, a former star runner and captain of the LaSalle Academy Cross Country Team in Providence. Upon his arrival at Bryant, Gambardella found himself with a meager six able Cross Country performers—a fact that would discourage any coach.

With a handful of men, a minute budget, and no student support to speak of, the new coach and his squad embarked on another Bryant College Cross Country Tour. The results were not encouraging at the start, but things rapidly changed as the season progressed. The team won a tri-meet at Bryant, defended its Rhode Island Small College Championship Title, finished third in the NAIA District 32 Sectionals, and took the runner-up spot in the Tri-State Conference in the space of four weeks!

All of a sudden, the young Fall season had come and gone. Members of the team have since retired to pursue new challenges, but the challenge of this year's Bryant College Cross Country Season has not ended for Coach Jim Gambardella. He now spends his time trying to refine and evaluate the performances of this year's squad.

"I felt the outcome of the season was fruitful and very encouraging. They attained unity and team competitiveness which proved to be very important at the end of the season. The prerequisites were lacking in our track program," Gambardella commented.

He added, "the team learned to understand each other. They knew what to expect before and after a race. The team also displayed a lot of pride which made them realize their favorable traits. The Cross Country Team began to work as a team, and they fared better in competition as a result."

After months of working with the team, Gambardella also became more familiar with individual personalities. In this light, he made the following observations about the different members of the Indians' Cross Country Unit.

"I had heard a lot about David Stone (captain of the team) before I arrived. I like his ability to handle situations and take control when he had to. He is satisfied with being good, but he could be better than good. Sometimes I expect too much of David."

"I feel, though, he has not pushed himself enough in satisfying higher achievements. He knows himself what he can do and what he cannot. I tried to push him beyond what he could not do. At times, he ran under a great deal of strain; but he did not let injury overshadow any of his performances. He knew his responsibility to the team, and was very steady and constant in that respect."

"Steve Olson had an up and down year. Steven found himself fighting for position on the team harder this year than in the past. He realizes that going out to run is not enough. He always picked up when his teammates were down or injured. His effort and tenacity will pay off for him in the future!"

"Rich Collard is more accustomed to marathon running. His mental attitude for Cross Country is not what it should have been. He would finish a race and still have the energy to run another. Rich ran while hurt, which accounts for some of his performances. With the right attitude and proper psychology, he has the ability to be a good cross country runner."

"Gary Diggle has the credentials. He is the best freshman runner ever, and has a lot to offer Bryant. He pushed himself throughout the season, and fared well in every race. He knows he can run, and he wants to. Diggle made the adjustment to college cross country running easily. Gary has a bright future ahead of him, as long as he works hard."

"Bobby Kashmanian improved over last year's performances. I really do not know Bob's potential level. Kash practices hard, and puts the time in. I hope he will continue the improvement next fall."

"Bill Skinner is normally a good sprinter, and he did not believe he was a cross country runner. Bill picked up confidence as the year went on. It showed in his performances. He still has to make the adjustment to college cross country running, but his positive attitude will be beneficial for him in the coming years."

Coach Gambardella is hoping for a better turnout for next year's team. "I am aiming for a fifteen-man team. The chance of failure is greater with a smaller team. The atmosphere on the team is open, no one worries about the outcome. I do not try to be tough; but honest. Besides being tough does not prove that you are good. Overall, I enjoyed working with the members of the Cross Country Team. I learned a lot in light of all the handicaps we were working under. In the years to come, I sincerely hope the circumstances the team runs under will be alleviated." In that respect, it is the least the college can do for such dedicated group of athletes.

The Cheerleaders

by Debbie Colby

The Bryant College Indians will start off their 1973-74 basketball season just right. How could it be any other way when they have six young, energetic cheerleaders to spur them on?

The Cheerleading Squad this year, headed by Mickey Finn, consists of Captain, Jay Johnson, Oakville, Connecticut; Co-Captain, Nancy McHugh, Walcott, Connecticut; Lorie Bialack, Stamford, Connecticut; Sue Meigs, Meriden, Connecticut; Patty Croteau, Chocipee, Massachusetts; and April Springer, Groton, Connecticut.

The cheerleaders this year will bring quite a change to the Bryant basketball scene. This is the first year that Bryant College has a full cheerleading squad which will do both bench and floor cheers.

These girls will be cheering their team on dressed in gold body suits, black vests, and gold and black plaid skirts.

The girls are working very hard to produce a squad that all of us at Bryant can be proud of. They practice hard three nights a week. They work together as a team effort to think of new cheers and practice the old ones almost to perfection.

With these young, enthusiastic girls cheering them on, how can the Bryant Indians do anything but win!!!

More Football

by Rich Maged

The mouthful of football games the television networks fed us during the Thanksgiving weekend is now history. Whether or not too many games were televised is a matter of personal opinion. For the true football fan, it was the ultimate of all wishes. Great college football powers were displayed. Some games were surprisingly one-sided, while others lived up to expectation. The New Year's Bowl picture is set and the professional football playoff races became clear.

Notre Dame led the college games off by trouncing the Air Force Academy 48-15. This game was a mismatch. The fifth ranked Fighting Irish were propelled by the running of Art Best and Eric Pennick. Their strenuous running game and ability to play power football will make Notre Dame a tough Sugar Bowl team. This game marked coach Ara Parseghian's nineteenth straight victory over the military academies.

Alabama earned the right to play Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl by defeating L.S.U. 21-7, thus winning the Southeastern conference championship. The Crimson Tide's quarterback Gary Rutledge's ability to pass out of the wishbone formation confused the L.S.U. defense. Alabama also killed L.S.U. scoring drives with three interceptions. Despite being defeated L.S.U. metts Penn. State in the Orange Bowl.

Oklahoma proved to be the most balanced team in the nation by destroying Nebraska 27-0. The Sooners defense led by Lucious, Larry, and Dewey Selmon, as well as Rod Shoate prevented the Nebraska offense from moving the ball. David Humm and Tony Davis, Nebraska's two premier offensive stars were haulted throughout the contest. Shamefully Oklahoma is on a two-year probation and is ineligible for a bowl berth, but Nebraska will represent the Big Eight against Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

The battle for the West Coast Championship between U.S.C. and U.C.L.A. was an interesting game. The U.S.C. Trojans were victorious 23-13. Numerous U.C.L.A. turnovers provided the means of victory for the Trojans. Anthony Davis, the offensive star of the game, gained well over 150 yards for U.S.C. One might question U.C.L.A. Coach Pepper Rodgers alternating of quarterbacks. It appeared that Mark Harmon had a running game established buy Rodgers continuously put in his back up quarterback with orders to throw the ball. This move proved to be fatal. U.S.C. thus earned their second consecutive trip to the Rose Bowl.

The best college game of the weekend proved to be Ohio State against Michigan. Archie Griffin demonstrated tremendous running ability for Ohio State. He is a leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy despite being only a Sophomore. Griffin was responsible for Ohio's 10-0 halftime lead. Michigan, led by quarterback Dennis Franklin controlled the second half and tied the game at 10-10. Two late field goal attempts by Michigan failed. The hard fought battle ended in a 10-10 tie. A decision as to which team would represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl was left up to the athletic director of the conference. Ohio State was elected to go to Pasadena. Controversy has developed as to why Ohio State was elected. It is difficult to say what team is better beacuse the game was evenly played. Did Woody Hayes, Ohio State's fiery coach have influence on the athletic director? Maybe the injury to Dennis Franklin raised a question. With Franklin unable to compete in the game, Ohio State would be the better team. From this writer's point of view it seems the N.B.C. television network influenced the decision. Television controls many aspects of sporting events. A match-up of Archie Griffin against Anthony Davis proves good advertising as well as creating fan interest. This is the ideal situation for N.B.C. Whatever the case may be it is now history and may the best team win.

Bowling Update

Bill Flanagan, Joe Kubiskey and Reggie Spinello are returning starters with both local and national tournament experience. Freshman flash, Ken McKenzie rounds out the starting five.

Depth as well as quality is also a strength this year. Bob Foster, Bill Holmes and Paul Fineburg are also veteran tournament bowlers who would be starting for any other college in New England.

Bryant is heavily favored to the the Tri-State League Championship once again this year. Despite competing in a league having such powers as West Point, Cornell, Boston University, University of Connecticut and University of Massachusetts, Bryant has finished first-four out of the last six years.

In addition to New England tournaments in which Bryant will compete, the team is looking forward to the national match game championships, the American College Union Tournaments and, of course, the N.A.I.A. roll-offs for Kansas City.

The next tournament will be held on December 8 at the Laurel Lanes in Connecticut, sponsored by Central Connecticut State College.

THE ROSTER

Fred Wissburn—Senior from West Hempstead, New York. A four-year starter and veteran of two national tournaments, "Mr. Clutch" bowls anchor and is at his best in pressure situation. Average is 192.

Reggie Spinello—Senior from Glen Cove, New York, and three-year starter is very explosive, currently averaging 194.

Swim Team Preview

by Stephen Botwinoff

The Bryant College Swim Team opens its season this week. The team has been working out for almost two months now under the direction of Coach Gerry Sussman. The coach is optimistic about the upcoming season, even though at the moment injuries have hit some key performers and slowed down the overall team progress.

November 29 marks the opening of competition. Bryant travels to Babson College to take on Babson, Assumption College, and Lowell Tech.

Last year Bryant's record showed two victories and eight defeats in dual meets. In addition Bryant took a second place finish in a tri-meet, and a sixth place performance in the District Championship.

This year's team appears to have more overall depth and, of course, another year's experience. Exhibiting his optimism, Coach Sussman said, "This year we should win as many as last year, and hopefully one or two more if the injuries clear up." The injuries he was referring to include Charles Dedarian's broken wrist, Steve Mungovan's torn ankle ligaments, and Mark Rafferty's hernia operation. Rafferty was last year's team captain.

Tom Delaney and Jim Smith seem to be this year's leading sprinters. Sprinters are those swimmers specializing in 50 and 100 yard free-style events. Frank Burazzi, Henry Lightbourne, Richard Kuhn, and Steve Mungovan also are being counted for these events.

Swimming the middle distance events (200 yard free-style, butterfly, breaststroke, backstroke, and individual medley) will be Art Burrows, John Copely, Tim O'Brian, Pete Lockatell, Lynne Kemp, Charles Dedarian, and Mark Rafferty.

Craig Bogart, Kevin Gay, Armond Famiglietti, and Jeff Millman will be concentrating on the long distance races. These include the 500 and 1000 yard free-style events. Diving will be handled by Joe Hagan.

Coach Sussman also asked that special thanks be made to Tim Seebach, this year's student manager, as well as to the two assistant managers Sue Sharpes and Dorothy Aspinall. In addition, the coach wished to announce that there is still room on the team for anyone who would like to become a part of the Bryant College Swim Team. Also, all swim team meets are within one hour's drive of Bryant College and the team would be most appreciative of fan support.

Intramural Super Bowl Champs.

DORM 2 & CO. TKO'S TKE

On Wednesday afternoon, the Bryant College Super Bowl was played. A few of the outstanding players were Steve Simon, QB; Roy LaMothe, QB and linebacker; Steve O'Neil and Rich McGrath, blocking backs; Joe LaHout, Center and defensive lineman; Frank Halpin, offensive and defensive lineman; Ray Meyers, offensive lineman; John McCaffrey, split end and cornerback; Bruce Hall, split end; Dave Sirico, tight end; Tom Schmidt, split end and safety; Kurt Schlott, defensive lineman; Bob Breunig, cornerback and kicker; Scott Hamilton, defensive lineman; J.P. Millman and Charlie Drago, linebackers; and safeties Jef Stein and Larry Kromidas.

TKE started out fast but was stalled by the "Million Dollar Defense" that had yet to give up a field goal all year. Dorm 2 & Co.'s first play from scrimmage was a beauty—a Steve Simon pass to Tom Schmidt, a 60-yard bomb for a quick six with Bob Breunig adding the extra point. The first half ended with Dorm 2 & Co. commanding a 7-0 lead.

The second half was another story—an entire new ballgame. Dorm 2 & Co. received the ball and promptly delivered TKE with another blow. Bruce Hall caught a 60-yard, well-timed spectacular pass from Simon for another touchdown. Breunig added the extra point again. TKE was up to their necks in mud and tried everything. TKE's well-known and greatly admired sweep ran up against a brick wall. Dorm 2 & Co. stopped the Greeks cold. Schlott, Halpin, and Lahout, did an outstanding job in containing the TKE offense.

Dorm 2 & Co. gladly responded again towards the end of the game with another touchdown. Halpin made a tough catch from Simon, who played a great game. Breunig never had a chance to make that third extra point because of a slippery snap.

From the defensive side of the game, before TKE could turn the corner, Dorm 2 & Co.'s defensive backfield had closed the door. The Independents had a total of five TKE interceptions which were unanswered. Dorm 2 & Co., being an underdog, showed stimulation and determination in their best-played game all year. Credit must be given to the fine defensive unit that brought them the championship. Also deserving of praise are the hard-hitting offensive line and blocking backs who protected their quarterback against TKE's towering and stalwart line.

In all, it was a brutal and stinging game, but Dorm 2 & Co., with speed and smart thinking, rolled over TKE in a 20-0 finale.
