Dr. Manion Resigns As Provost Of Bryant

Dr. Thomas A. Manion, Provost and Vice-President for Academic Affairs at Bryant College, Smithfield, Rhode Island, will assume the Presidency of the College of Saint Rose, Albany, New York on July 1, it was announced Thursday. The College of Saint Rose is a private co-educational liberal arts college founded in 1920. It has an enrollment of more than 1500 students, which includes more than 900 undergraduates and over 600 graduate students.

Primarily an institution of teacher education, the college has more than 110 faculty members with a 12 to 1 student-faculty ratio. Forty percent of the students are enrolled in liberal arts, thirty percent in education, and thirty percent in business. The college is a member of the nine-college Hudson-Mohawk Association of Colleges and Universities, which includes Union College, Skidmore, Russell Sage, Siena, Rensselaer Polytechnic, Albany Medical School, Albany Law School, and Albany College of Pharmacy. More than 30,000 students are enrolled in this association of colleges.

Dr. Manion joined the Bryant faculty in 1960 as an economics instructor. A professor of Economics and former Chairman of the Economics Department at Bryant, he was appointed Vice-President for Academic Affairs in March of 1969 and was elected Provost by the Board of Trustees in July of 1970. It was at this time that he initiated and developed Bryant's Graduate School of Business Administration. He also served as Chairman of the College Curriculum Committee.

In August of 1969, he was named to an eleven-member Governor's Council of Economic Advisors to investigate and study the economic condition of the State and the factors affecting it. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Economic Education Council of Rhode Island and the New England Council for Economic Development.

Dr. Manion was invited by President Nixon to be present at the signing of the Revenue Sharing Bill at Independence Hall in Philadelphia on October 20, 1972. He is a long-time advocate of revenue sharing and is the Rhode Island Chairman of the National Citizens' Committee for Revenue Sharing.

A graduate of LaSalle Academy, he earned his undergraduate degree at St. Bonaventure University and his Master's Degree (MBA) at Boston College. He received his Doctorate (Ph.D. in Economics) from Clark University.

Dr. Manion, a native Rhode Islander, is 38 years old. He is married to the former Maureen O'Meara. They have six children and reside in Greenville, Rhode Island. Both are active in community affairs and various professional organizations. Mrs. Manion is a member of the faculty of Providence College.

New Directions Turns to Jazz

by Bob Rhault

A jazz group consisting of five musicians gave a concert yesterday in the auditorium. The concert began at 1:00 p.m. and lasted approximately two hours with a short intermission.

The band consisted of five well-known local musicians -- Artie Cabral of the Rhode Island School of Music on drums, Mike Renzi on keyboard, Bob Petturuti on bass fiddle and bass guitar, Art Pelosi playing tenor saxophone, and George Masso, a professor at the University of Connecticut, on trombone. The band also featured one of Bryant's professors of English, Dr. Burton Fischman. Dr. Fischman's musical (jazz) background was quite apparent as he slipped into the group replacing Mike Renzi on piano. Dr. Fischman revealed to his class that his experience with jazz combos dates back to his undergraduate days where he used his talents as a source of revenue. The gathering of 300 demanded an encore of the group during their feature of Dr. Fischman. The result was an expressionistic rendition of a popular Duke Ellington tune, "Satin Doll."

The concert was organized by Dr. Fischman in relation to an English course he is now teaching entitled, New Directions in Literature. The purpose of the concert was to promote the idea of jazz as an art form, but more specifically as an expressionistic free-flowing aspect of poetry.

Dr. Louis C. Nanassy Guest Speaker at Bryant

by Jean Susan LeSage

On Friday, April 6, the Business Education students of Bryant College were the voluntarily captive audience of Dr. Louis Nanassy, Professor of Business Education at Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, New Jersey. Our guest speaker is a very well-known author of over 60 manuscripts in professional journals and yearbooks and was the author/co-author of over ten teacher-orientated textbooks. Dr. Nanassy has also been the Editor of the Business Education Index since 1947; virtually every Business Education student has, at one time or another, used this index, as it is a guide to searching out articles on education principles.

The topic of Dr. Nanassy's discourse was "Challenges Faced by Beginning Business Teachers." His talk was very interesting, indeed, as Dr. Nanassy gave the Education students some very useful hints on what they should expect when they go out in the field as student teachers or as first-year teachers. An important element about this knowledge that was imparted to us is that it was gained by practical experience. Dr. Nanassy, in addition to being a college educator, spent ten years as a business teacher in various New Jersey and Pennsylvania high schools. When questioned on the job situation, Dr. Nanassy stressed the fact that teaching positions are available; but teachers must be willing to relocate.

As a service to students who may have unfortunately been unable to attend the lecture, I wish to review the major points of this informative lesson. A good beginning teacher, well-versed in his professional business/skill methods must be constantly aware of his objectives in his lessons; and there is no substitute for good lesson-planning and knowledge of the material to be presented. Therefore, all classes should capitalize on the business experiences of their students; provide significant variance of teaching procedures; and most important of all, a teacher must provide for the individual differences of his students.

In conclusion, the lecture was totally enjoyable, informative, and had a very personal touch. It is my sincere opinion that Dr. Nanassy should re-appear on the Bryant campus each year to aid the Business Education professors in quelling their students' fears about the tasks that await them in

Secretaries Seminar

Termed Successful

by Dan Aderholdt

Tuesday, April 10, from 9:00 - 10:00, the secretaries of Bryant had a break from their tedious schedules to attend the Fifth Annual Fine Arts Seminar, headed by Co-Chairmen Mrs. Bianca Bernstein and Mr. Robert Meek. The main purpose for this fine arts festival is to celebrate Secretaries Week, which is the last week in April, and also to expose the college to a bit of cultural music.

The program consisted of Candelight and music on the upper level of the Rotunda and followed by a presentation in Room 386 entitled Romance in Opera-Comique, H.M.S. PINAFORE by composers Gilbert and Sullivan. Miss Lucia-Lena Rosapepe, Lecturer in Music, gave the presentation.

Mrs. Bernstein commented that it was a "great success" and assured that such programs will continue in years to come.

Former Faculty Member Piperopoulos Named Advisor to Greek Official

In a letter to Dr. Thomas Manion, it was announced that Dr. Georgios P. Piperopoulos, former Assistant Professor of Sociology and Psychology at Bryant College, was named as a special advisor to the Minister of Planning and Governmental Policy in Greece. Dr. Piperopoulos left Bryant in November, 1972, to assume a position as the Director for the Greek National Center for Social Research in January. Dr.

duties on May first.

While at Bryant, Dr. P. made his mark as an innovator and instrumental figure in Bryant affairs. While serving as a dormitory counsellor in the Providence Campus's Appleby Hall, he initiated a successful channel of dialogue between students, faculty, and administration, known as the Appleby Experiment. Dr. P. was a constructive element in Bryant's participation in the 1970. While at Bryant, he instituted the Chess Club and served as the faculty advisor for TKE fraternity. Dr. Piperopoulos attended the University of Maryland and was very much involved in the War on Poverty.

Georgios Piperopoulos would like to extend his regards to all of his friends at Bryant and would like to hear from them. To anyone who would like to correspond with Dr. P, he can be written to at 14 Filippou Street,

A Modest Proposal

With Apologies to Jonathan Swift

Dear Editor,

It is a melancholy sight to those who walk through this great school when they see the doors to the Commuter Lounge crowded with students of both sexes importuning every passerby for advice on instructors. These students, instead of being able to work for their honest grades, are forced to employ all their time in conversation about which instructor is best for which course.

I think it is agreed by all parties that this prodigious number of registering students are an additional grievance to college life; and therefore whoever could find out a fair, cheap, and easy method of registration would deserve so well of the student body as to have his statue set up in the Rotunda.

I shall now therefore humbly propose my own thoughts, which I hope will not be liable to the least objection.

Since we, the students, are forced to pay exorbitant sums to attend this school, we should not have to go through the agony of registration. My plan is this: each faculty member should be given a number to designate the number of years they have taught at Bryant. As the time of registration draws near, each student will submit a list of courses he wishes to take. A copy of the student's college record will be attached to the list and the list will then be sent to the faculty who will be teaching the indicated courses (highest numbers get the list first).

As each instructor receives the list, he will look it over to see which students deserve his attention. He will then check off the names of those students he wishes to teach, and pass the list on. In the event that no teacher is satisfied with the list of students offered, the course will be cancelled. Those students that no one wants will be thrown out of school. At an appropriate time, the faculty will register for the students they wish to teach. In order to avoid confusion, all instructors will register according to classification number and month of birth.

I think the advantages of the proposal which I have made are obvious and many, as well as of highest importance.

First, this would lessen the number of students who waste valuable study time standing in line for some service offered by the school. Since there are fewer faculty than students, the line would be shorter.

Secondly, in theory, students who have proven that they are here to work for an education (as evidenced by their past record) will be taught only by those teachers who feel that they can impart some knowledge to students who will use it.

Thirdly, few people will fail courses since a failing grade would indicate stupidity on the part of the instructor. If he has his choice of students, then it is up to him to pass them. Should students fail, however, they will be blameless, as they have been in the past.

I profess in the sincerity of my heart that I have not the least personal interest in endeavoring to promote this idea, having no other motive than the good of the student body. I have no courses for which to register; my graduation being upon me.

If anyone should find the above proposal ridiculous, I submit that it is no more (or less) ridiculous than anything I have seen about registration or the faculty in these past weeks.

Sincerely,
Joan Ayotte

Is The Bryant Controversy Really Over?

Dear Editor,

As a result of the investigation of President Evarts, it has been rumored that Vice Presidents Joseph Hagan, Frank Delmonico, and Thomas Manion are going to leave at the end of this semester. It seems that the remark made on January 31, 1973 by the soon-to-be-married Father Haas, spokesman for the Trustees, that a compromise has been made between President Evarts and the three Vice Presidents was never true.

If the three Vice Presidents do leave, what will be the result? Will we (the college) be subject to people who will act just as President Evarts wants them to, or will the new vice presidents be independent thinkers? How much freedom will the students have if the top four administrative men owe their jobs to Dr. Evarts? These are questions that all of Bryant should be thinking about.

As time goes on, I am becoming more aware of the political play within the Administration of our college. It makes me sick to think that as an end result of the recent controversy, Bryant College may lose three intellectual men who have dedicated their careers to making this college what it is today.

Strikes Also Affect Families

Dear Editor,

There are 165 courageous people at the Dow Chemical plant in Bay City which has been on strike for 14 months. They would like to enlist the aid of your newspaper and members of the student body so that we may survive. Dow Chemical is using its unlimited resources in an attempt to destroy us economically and eliminate the collective bargaining process of our Local Union which is 14055 of the United Steelworkers.

Many workers and their families have suffered unlimited hardships in the loss of income and personal property which they have had to sell in order to feed their families because Dow Chemical refuses to resolve an unjust labor dispute provoked by Dow Chemical and its local management.

In the interest of humanity we ask that you print this letter in your college paper and that the student body aid us by refusing to buy Handi-wrap plastic food wrap and Ziploc bags which are made at the Bay City plant.

If there are individuals or groups on campus who would like to aid us in this humane endeavor, please contact me at the address which is given below. We request that they boycott the above mentioned products which are produced by Dow Chemical in Bay City and by any other aid or activities which may aid our cause.

Please print this letter in your student newspaper and if possible send me a copy.

Thank you,

To: Faculty, Administration, and Staff

Dear Editor,

It is with mixed emotions that I announce my resignation as Provost of Bryant College, effective July 1, 1973, in order to accept the Presidency of the College of St. Rose at Albany, New York.

The College of St. Rose is a private, coeducational, liberal arts college located on a twenty-two acre campus in the residential Pine Hills section of Albany.

Founded in 1920, the College has a current enrollment of over 1500 students. The College offers undergraduate students twenty major fields, and graduate students nine major areas of study. Primarily a teaching institution, the College of St. Rose has more than 110 faculty members. Forty percent of the students are enrolled in liberal arts programs; thirty percent in education (including fine arts); and thirty percent are enrolled in the area of business.

During my years at Bryant, the College has undergone a major transformation. This transformation to a fully accredited four-year college with a graduate program provided me with great personal satisfaction. I was indeed fortunate to have had this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to play a major role during this period of Bryant's growth and development.

I would like to express my appreciation to all who have given me support and assistance during my years at Bryant. I extend to all the members of the Bryant community my sincere wishes for every success for the continued growth and development of Bryant College.

Thomas A. Manion

Honesty Does Exist

Dear Editor,

Despite your publications of vandalism and theft printed in the ARCHWAY, "Honesty" does exist on our campus, for which I am very thankful.

Last Monday, when I returned home from a long day at college, I discovered I had lost my wallet at Bryant. The wallet contained fifteen dollars, my registration and license, a spare set of keys to my car, and a few credit cards. To myself all I could think was that someone was going to have a good time with my possessions.

Tuesday morning I checked with Security to see if my wallet had turned up, but to no avail. On a hunch, I checked with the bookstore and they did have my wallet. I checked the contents of the wallet and everything was there.

To the person who turned in my wallet I am very grateful. It's really a pleasure to know people like you still exist.

Very Much Appreciated,
F.H.P., Jr.

Bryant Store :

A Unique and Exciting Place

A bookstore is usually a place where only books are sold, right? Maybe, but not at Bryant College. The Bryant College Store is an innovative and unique place where one can fill his academic and non-academic needs. The Store offers many products from A to Z. It offers everything from Mascot Mugs, Bryant souvenirs, and monogram clothes to sneakers. Yes, sneakers!!! But wait, there's more. The College Store offers a wide variety of paperbacks along with tape recorders, cameras, radios, stereo systems, TV's, and many more items. It also has quite the selection of greeting cards, film, school supplies, and even health and beauty aids, with a selection ranging from Love Cosmetics to Hai Karate. The Store has even gone so far as to offer TIDE, CHEER, cleaners, crackers, cookies, and other impulse grocery items, alias "munchies." So, whatever your needs are, the College Store can fill them!!!

Why is the Store doing this? Book Sales too low? Not at all, according to Manager Lou Petrucci. Lou is hoping that the unique variety of products can meet the growing demand of the College Community. He hopes that the Store can serve all here on campus, satisfying all tastes and needs. "We are primarily trying to serve, as best we can, the entire community. After all, it's our job." Lou is satisfied with his plans; but wishes the store were a bit larger so that he could offer even more products and a wider variety of goods and services. The development of the store is enough of a change, but the transition has not finished. In the next few weeks, the College Store will have a few surprises in store for us, including the coming of "Big Sneak."

The Bryant College Store offers items for every member of the Bryant Community. Why not come in and browse around? You may find just what you're looking for!!!

An important announcement to every student in the health professions:

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY.

THEY COVER TUITION AND RELATED COSTS AND PROVIDE AN ANNUAL INCOME OF $5,300 AS WELL.

If a steady salary of $400 a month and paid-up tuition will help you continue your professional training, the scholarships just made possible by the Uniformed Services Health Professions Revitalization Act of 1972 deserve your close attention. Because if you are now in a medical, osteopathic, dental, veterinary, podiatry, or optometry school, or are working toward a PhD in Clinical Psychology, you may qualify.

We make it easy for you to complete your studies. You're commissioned as an officer as soon as you enter the program, but remain in student status until graduation. And, during each year you will be on active duty (with extra pay) for 45 days. Naturally, if your academic schedule requires that you remain on campus, you stay on campus—and still receive your active duty pay.

Active duty requirements are fair. Basically, you serve one year as a commissioned officer for each year you've participated in the program, with a two year minimum. You may apply for a scholarship with either the Army, Navy or Air Force, and know that upon entering active duty you'll have rank and duties in keeping with your professional training.

The life's work you've chosen for yourself requires long, hard, expensive training. Now we are in a position to give you some help. Mail in the coupon at your earliest convenience for more detailed information.

Commuter Corner

Route 7:

A Dream Come True

by Claude Houle

It was Friday morning; and for a change, a bright, sunny one. I was just coming on to Route 7 from 295. As usual, I braced myself for the most dangerous part of my journey to Bryant College—crossing the 116 and 7 "intersection" death pit; and travelling for the next six miles on the worst obstacle course and shock absorber wrecker ever experienced—Route 7. As I came closer to the intersection, I dreaded it even more, for the chances of my Volkswagen making it safely to campus with all four wheels on and the car in one piece became slimmer every day. This day was different, however, since the intersection was at one of its rare, quiet moments. My optimism grew and I crossed the pit with no problems at all. This day was different and surprising since the Route 7 that faced me was not a pot-holed, narrow road that waited to devour every car; but a wide stretch of newly laid black tar. The bigger surprise was that not even a bump existed any more. Today, I made it to Bryant safely, all wheels secure, and shocks still holding.

The State Highway Department had finally repaved Route 7 after several years of complaining by the many Bryant commuters using the road. The State had finally found the energy to provide for the safety of its many drivers; and for a change, has put the usually wasted highway taxes to good use—which, in Rhode Island, is quite a rare occurrence. The work took about a week, and did not obstruct the flow of traffic for too long a time. It was the first time in quite a while that I saw a traffic department worker actually working.

So to the State Highway Department, thank you for finally working on something worthwhile. Keep it up, and let's hope that the repaving is the first of many worthwhile repairs and updating of traffic conditions in Smithfield, which have been substandard for quite some time. Too many mishaps and frustrations have occurred to let the roads go unnoticed. By the way, while they're repairing Route 7, why don't they do the intersection of 7 and 116? It's about time something was done, rather than talked about and promised and never attended to. The repaving of Route 7 is definitely a dream come true.

On The Lighter Side: They Build Houses, Don't They?

by Mark Vincent

It's another Thursday morning like any other one because today I didn't make any classes again. It wasn't my fault though, I couldn't find it. At the Archway they suggest I do a story on Harry's House. Who the hell is Harry? What the hell is a house? Suddenly they realize I am slightly hungover and probably still sleeping as well.

Back to Harry. Since I have visions of the poor guy, whoever the hell he is, sleeping out on the campus in a tent somewhere, I figure I should write about it and get him some help from the Red Cross or a fairy godmother even. Besides I can sympathize with anyone sleeping anywhere on this campus. Anyway they fill me in on Harry's housing problem which is the fact that the school is supposed to build a twenty million dollar presidential estate on or off the campus depending on where they build it and also on whether they build it or not. Right now they're not.

I visit Harry at his tent somewhere in the woods off the entrance to the campus. I enter this tragic scene of deprivation and poverty, stride through a maze of empty cocktail glasses, and pause with the smoke from his still out back flowing gently throughout the tent. Now that is something I could investigate and write about. Harry, about this still.....

I've just regained consciousness and am having trouble remembering anything about the....what was I writing about? Oh yeah! I can't write about Uncle Harry's Homemade Elixir due to technical difficulty. Now I'm really out of focus.

Meanwhile back at the topic. I speak to a withering hollow shell of a man who has weathered the elements alone and unarmed

Island. This hard life has sapped not only his strength but his eyesight as well. I'm standing in the middle of a puddle; he thinks I'm walking on water so it must be the Second Coming of the Messiah, J. Robert Hillier. Although I'm not architecturally inclined, I vow to do my best to see to it that Harry gets his house.

I first check out a rumor that Harry's House is to be the one resembling the Unistructure on Twin River Road off Route 7. According to the contractor the house is not for Harry but is to be used by the Red Cross as a Home for Elderly Dwarfs.

Next I check with the Board of Trustees to obtain whatever information might possibly have been withheld by this August body in April. At last the issue is resolved. Construction will commence on or before May 1, 1973, at a location to be announced on a two-story, bungalow-type house with dual connibbers. Clarence Gifford stated, "In addition, since the problem of security on the Bryant Campus is so intense, the Board of Trustees has seen the foolishness of building a lasting estate within the premises, grounds, and territories of Bryant College. Instead, the mansion will be built at an off-campus location (one in Nome, Alaska is under consideration) and the Headquarters of Bryant Security will be moved into the basement of the new house. This will provide the optimum protection if it is possible to obtain that from the Bryant security force."

In the meantime Harry sits passively in his tent awaiting the day when deliverance will come and the torrential downpour of Rhode Island rain will end.

And so as we leave the jungle a shrill cry is heard,

Evening Division News

Authorization Cards Needed to Enroll For Day Intersession or Summer Courses

Evening students are reminded that they must receive authorization cards to enroll in day intersession or summer courses. These cards are available in the evening division office. Registration does not begin until May 1, 1973.

Evening students can take a maximum of three courses during the summer provided one is an intersession day course.

We are still interested in determining if any evening students are interested in forming an evening school student organization.

The evening catalog is being revised. Because some changes are still to be made, the catalog will not be available until June. It will be mailed to all students presently enrolled. Any changes in curriculum or required courses will affect current students only if the students can reasonably be expected to meet the new requirements within the required hours (60) for an associate degree or the one hundred twenty (120) hours for a baccalaureate degree.

The fall schedule will be posted on the evening bulletin boards on April 23. Hopefully, we shall have tentative faculty assignments posted also.

URI Black Studies

Dept. to Present Dr. Basil Matthews

The Black Studies Department at the University of Rhode Island will present its third speaker of the 1972-1973 lecture series this week.

Dr. Basil Matthews, a professor at the Howard University School of Social Work, will speak on Thursday, April 12, 1973, in Room 320 of the Rhode Island Memorial Union. The lecture, entitled "Cognition: Black and White," will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free and the public is welcome.

Dr. Matthews is a man of many parts; a philosopher, psychologist and historian. He has been spending the last few years doing a close analysis of black cognition. He teaches full time at Howard University and also lectures at Boston University. Dr. Matthews is the former Director of Black Studies at Talladega College in Alabama.

Movie Review

by david t. pandozzi

Explosions, highway chases, and a little blood shed are the high points in this film that just seems to slide along like a snake with no place to go. James Cann takes up the starring role as the rambling ex-con who almost immediately gets involved in some new caper. After losing a dear prison-mate in a rather explosive situation, he travels on his merry way with the information his friend gave him just before he died!!!

Now, from the film credits, you already know that the girl with the "hotlips" of M.A.S.H. is supposed to appear soon. So, low and behold, on the long and deserted highway, a voice is heard bellowing out obscenities on the emergency phone. Sally Kellerman, this time in "hotpants," is in need of help. Coincidentally, Mr. Cann arrives at just that time. With both their problems solved—her car repaired, his ride to somewhere—they strike up a friendly relationship with each other until he discovers that she is packing a gun. He unfortunately realizes this too late; and while he is on an errand in the men's room, she proceeds to rob the place. He manages to slip quietly—still alive—out the back door to catch a Greyhound Bus bound for glory and the unknown.

His destination is the home of Barry Fenaka (Peter Boyle) where the usual introductions are forgotten and replaced with a small scuffle over who is going to hold a gun on who. Nothing too serious happens, though—the gun is empty. Mary Fenaka enters and recognizes Dick (James Cann) as a high school football star and things are back to normal—that is to say, dull. At this point, a few reasons why the movie can even resemble a movie is finally revealed. It seems that there is a large sum of money to find and James Cann and Peter Boyle are about to start their treasure hunt.

From here on it is just a jigsaw puzzle of events that have no bearing on the outcome. Except for a rather funny and action-packed bingo game, the film slides right into a hole. The only other scene that helps it climb out again is one in which the sad destruction of two shiny black vans and a bright red car and camper takes place. It would have been a lot smarter and cheaper to destroy the film and protect the reputation of some otherwise fine actors. Nevertheless, a busy student can pay the $2 admission fee at the Apple Valley Mall Cinema and catch forty winks in a quiet theater where only occasional laughter interrupts the dialogue of this "movie film."

The Country Comfort Tales

A Humanistic Approach

If your mother never told you about ultra-brite or if you've never been to the coffee house here on campus, then I've got something to say to you about that. First of all, to set things straight, I don't really care what brand of toothpaste you use, or for that matter what type your mother uses either; but I do have a little something to tell you about the coffee house. It's a pretty big old wooden barn over 100 years old easy; and it's looking for some people to come in and take up some space.

Country Comfort features live entertainment weekly and also has the best cup-o-coffee here on campus. Sorry Dunkin'. The Coffee House is open to students for any group function that they might want to hold in there. The coffee house wants to grow and we need your help. If you want to work on the staff, or have any comments, suggestions, or ideas, please consult one of the staff members and chew their ear off for a couple of hours. We know that you are out there but we just can't see you. We are looking for a little help from our friends. We want to grow, as does a tree, from within and upwards, in a positive direction. Country Comfort saying so long...

Keeley Turns Up First

by Thomas Czapienski

In a quick turn of events, dark-horse candidate Pat Keeley, moonlighting as an English teacher during the day, extracted the vote needed to win "The Big Screw Contest."

What was behind this driving force to bring about his victory?

Who was responsible for "The Screw" for Keeley movement?

This reporter found it difficult to locate anybody to say anything. What he found was nobody saying anything about this whole screwy situation.

In an exclusive, curling interview with the well-rounded victor, I was told not to brink up the "Smuckers Award" that he had won three years previous.

What else is there left to be said, but "To the victor belongs 'The Screw'."

The following is Mr. Keeley's acceptance letter:

"Thank you, ladies and gentlemen. On this suspicious occasion I must give special thanks to Professor James Ingraham for his usual suppository remarks. However, I must humbly admit that I cannot accept this award without indicating that many individuals deserve it more than I. I have at times been flat-headed, ovally driven, and round-about. Hopefully, I have never lagged behind.

Therefore, to rethread my thoughts, I must thank all of you for clamping down and giving so generously. You have rotated your votes and fastened upon me.

Indeed, you have honored me. I hope this distinct honor will not spiral to my head. Thanks again. I intend to do you all a good turn in the near future."

This Year's
Ledger

You Ain't

Seen Nothin' Yet

Within the past few weeks, Bryant students may have noticed signs in the Koffler Rotunda to the effect that this year's LEDGER, the book which is published solely for and by the students of Bryant College, is going to be far different than anything ever seen in the past. Under the direction of Brian Meritt and Mark Krinsky, the LEDGER has taken on an entirely new look; from the new color pictures to the exciting design and informative club, organizational, fraternal, and faculty write-ups, the LEDGER promises to be an exciting and possibly even heart-rendering summary of the events and happenings for those students who will finish their college careers this coming June.

Part of the exciting change can be attributed to the contributions of many talented individuals. The book, the largest ever published at Bryant, covers every conceivable facet of college life; but it does it in such a manner that the true profile of Bryant College is presented. In addition to the special write-ups, an expanded photography staff has provided some of the most moving photographs ever to be published in a college yearbook. Typically thought of as a dull and dry method of recording events, this year's LEDGER is a welcome change. In addition to the classic photographs of our college campus "in life," student authors have made contributions which serve to tie together the meaning and the purpose of the publication.

Hopefully, this year's LEDGER is the beginning of a new era for creativity in this most important commemorative organization. Editorially speaking, this year's LEDGER is going to be one hell of a book; and for those of us who are not seniors, it holds a great meaning. For those who are leaving Bryant, the book will serve as a lasting memory of the heartbreaks, the successes, and the trials of life at a small business college by the name of Bryant.

Magazine Devoted to Work of Student Authors to be Published This Fall

THE NEW WRITER, a magazine devoted exclusively to quality short stories by student authors and offering a paying market for novices, will be published this fall in New York City.

The magazine, while focusing on fiction, also will include an open forum for reader views, interviews and profiles of teachers and students, and articles by instructors and notables in the literary field.

THE NEW WRITER is being published by Constance Glickman, instructor, journalist, author; and Gladys Gold, journalist and author.

"We believe encouraging talented new writers, and developing critical readers of the short story to be the best way to revitalize the whole fiction field," state the publishers.

Stories from students enrolled in any college, university, community writer's workshop or writer's groups within institutions, adult education and continuing education programs will be considered for publication.

Final selections of short stories for each issue will be made by a board of prominent educators and editors directed by Alice S. Morris, former chief literary editor of Harper's Bazaar and instructor of writers at the New School for Social Research in New York.

Information concerning subscriptions and rules for submission of manuscripts may be obtained by writing to the publishers of THE NEW WRITER at Workshop Publications, 507 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10017.

Bryant Baseball Loses Opener

by Richard Kart

The Bryant College Baseball Team opened up its season last Saturday with the Nason College Lions from Springvale, Maine. Bryant's team, coached by Steve Thorton and Matt Bernardo, showed a lot of promise and a good year to come.

The game began with Jackie Balme striking out the first two Nason players, with their third batter grounding out to short. Bryant led off with base hit by Tom McDonald who then proceeded to steal second base. His efforts proved to no avail with Brian Ahern flying out deep to center, Bob Penta flying out to left, and Norm Trahan flying out to right. Bryant also threatened in the second inning with 1st-baseman Craig Cole leading off with a single. John Kashmanian flew out to right, then John Costello was safe on an error by the pitcher. With a man on first and second, freshman catcher Mark Smith got a single. With the bases loaded, Jackie Balme was up. He missed the suicide bunt sign and Craig Cole was thrown out at the plate and Jackie Balme grounded out to the pitcher to end a promising inning.

Nason College failed to get any base hits until the top of the fifth and again in the seventh and eighth innings.

With the score 0-0 in the top of the eleventh, Nason put the pressure on by getting a lead off single from pinch-hitter John Aulson. Bryant could not get anything going and lost the game 2-0.

On the whole, it was a fine showing for the Bryant Indians. There was good, solid hitting throughout the game. Leading the team in hits was junior Craig Cole with two hits and freshman Mark Smith also with two hits. Jackie Balme threw all eleven innings while giving up seven hits, six walks, and striking out eleven Nason men. Bryant also showed excellent fielding with not one error.

Bryant was supposed to have a home game last Sunday with St. Francis; but it was called due to snow. There was a game played Wednesday with Roger Williams at Roger Williams. Bryant won 5-4 with 3 runs in the top of the ninth inning. So let's see you at the next game!

This Man Controls Your Money

by JoAnne Goldstein

His name is Berj Kassabian, he ran for Treasurer of the Student Senate and won. Berj was active for six years in such offices as Treasurer and Vice President while attending high school in his native country of Lebanon.

The reason that Berj wanted to run for this office were many. He wanted to see the funds reallocated where they would do the most good for the most students. He also is trying to get more activities for the commuter students as well as for dormitory students. The International Organization, which Berj is a part of, sponsored Lebanese Night. It featured Lebanese dishes, dances and a movie depicting the beauty of Lebanon. Berj was one of the coordinators. There was also a French Night featuring French food and a movie.

As to the office of Treasurer, Berj feels that more responsibility should be given. With this office come the ability to plan ahead, in other words if you spend all of your funds today what will become of tomorrow.

More faculty and administration participation in Student Senate activities is what Berj would like to see, a more personal relationship with the results being more of a one-to-one relationship.

As stated in Berj's running platform, "The communication gap is widening in the community, and I will do my best within the powers of my office to help correct this situation in cooperation with my fellow Senators to benefit the Bryant College community." Berj is trying his best, so why not give him your cooperation!

Why Public Relations?

by Thomas Czapienski

Why bother about Public Relations? "Public opinion is the single most powerful force in the world today," claimed Mr. Will Barbeau self-employed P.R. man, as he appeared as a guest lecturer yesterday.

Defining public relations as the evaluation of public attitudes and the creation of policies to change these attitudes, as Mr. Barbeau explained the need for public relations in today's society. Business exists only by the consent of the public in the community. Ideas are very influential forces in getting the message across. Public relations is here to organize these ideas and present them to various segments of society as they are geared. P.R. work is not only concerned with the consumer but the internal operations of an institution, namely the people who function within it.

For those wishing to enter public relations as a career, Mr. Barbeau suggests that one be interested in language. One should be able to use words effectively and write well and an interest in photography is also helpful.

Mr. Barbeau looks upon himself as a parking meter as far as time goes. He finds himself constantly intimidated by what his time is worth which few people are able to form this discipline.

This P.R. man cites that public relations is simply "a world of ideas," one who has the ability will succeed.

Indians Take Second In First Meet

by Leon Drury

This past Saturday Bryant College's Track Team hosted a very exciting track and field meet before a crowd of 150 people. Southeastern Massachusetts University dominated most of the track events and finished with a team high of 104 1/2 points. Bryant finished second with 44, Assumption third with 41 1/2 and Bentley fourth with 6 points.

The Indians scored heavily in the field events with school record holder Blaise Ravalli capturing first in the shot put at a distance of 44'11 3/4. After two years on the sidelines, Bruce Stewart won the high jump with a jump of 6'1. The effort sets a new record that Stewart currently held at 6'0. Murray Williams who finished third in the high jump, won the triple jump with only one attempt. Williams was not finished for the day after his 40'10". Murray narrowly lost to Fleming of Assumption with Green of SMU finishing third. Hall, Bryant long jump record holder, never seemed to get untracked in his speciality. He did not score in the event, but he did manage a second place in the triple jump.

Frosh Bob Charest surprised everyone by winning the javelin at 116'4 1/2". Doubtless, Bob will be trying to fill the shoes of Walsh and Morgan who dominated the event for Bryant last year. Co. Captain Mark Robbins also chipped in with some valuable points. Robbins finished a strong second in the 140 Intermediate Hurdles with a time of 101.7, and he also took a fourth in the 120 hurdles.

In the mile, Mark Kuchinski of SMU took first place with an excellent time of 4:28.8. Kuchinski also captured the two mile race, as SMU captured all four places in the event. David Stone finished 4th in the mile, setting a new record of 4:34.9 for the event.

The final event of the day was probably Bryant's high point of the day. Bryant had a narrow 39 to 38 1/2 lead over Assumption for second place going into the mile relay. SMU was favored in the event, but the Indians won the race in surprising fashion. The team of John Dross, David Stone, Mark Robbins and John Mascone finished with a 3:39.6 to edge out Assumption College for second place. The relay's performance was a shade off the school record.

If Bryant students would like to see their team in action, the Indians will be home this Saturday afternoon.

From The Grandstand

by Peter Lockatell

As of this Tuesday night, the Boston Bruins ended their season with a 6-3 loss to the New York Rangers. The series was a hard fought one, with the Rangers winning on tenacious fore checking and back checking, solid defense and goaltending and more than adequate goal scoring. In other words, New York played a near flawless series. The New York victory further proved that anything is possible in the playoffs and the world of sports.

The Rangers has already lost the quarter final series of the Stanley Cup to the Bruins when they arrived for the start of the series last week in Boston. They had blown second place, and the team looked quite hapless in end of the season tests against the Canadians and the Red Wings. On the other hand, the Bruins were flying, except for their last two games of the season. But for some reason, the playoffs supply mustal motivation for some teams.

The Rangers surprised everyone with their outstanding performance against Boston including their loyal (?) fans in New York. Of course, the Bruins suffered through many misfortunes in the five game set. Phil Esposito, the NHL's Hart Trophy Winner, was sidelined with a knee injury after the second game. Bobby Orr seemed to be skating with restraint, and other Bruins stars simply had a miserable series. It is funny that now New York fans will be congratulating Coach Emile Francis, after serenading him with "Goodbye Emile" two weeks ago!

In the NBA playoffs, the same circumstances have presented themselves. The New York Knicks, after stumbling and falling through the end of the current NBA season, made rather short order of the Baltimore Bullets in their quarter final series. Every member of the New York squad contributed to their success, and in my estimation, that might be enough to win it all. Once again, the team the supposed experts thought could have an easy series in the first round, is now in a desperate playoff fight.

The Boston Celtics were easily the pre-NBA playoffs favorite. With M.V.P. Dave Cowens, Sam Silas, All Star Jo-Jo White and the great John Havlicek, the Celts were to easily dispose of the Atlanta Hawks in the first round. The first two games went according to script, as Boston won both rather handily. Unfortunately for the Celts, the Hawks have stopped playing "dead."

In the last two games, it has been all Atlanta Pete "Pistol Pete" Maravich and All-Star Lou Hudson are reminding their fans of past glory. "The Pistol," who has a tendency of overshooting, settled down somewhat, and the result has been more points and a better all round game. Even if the Celts pull this series out, it will be the Hawk's determined play that will be remembered.

The NBA's two western quarter final series have also been a big surprise. The two favorites, Los Angeles and Milwaukee, find themselves in a battle similar to Celts. The Bucks are finding the Golden State Warriors a far worthy opponent. Both teams have won two games, and anything could happen in the last three games. Golden State's Rick Barry will be trying to fashion back to back playoff surprises, (Rich lead the ABA New York Mets to the final round of the ABA playoffs last season) and he might be the spark Golden State needs to shock the Braves.

Through my own misfortune, I was able to see the end of the L.A. - Chicago Bulls playoff game. At the time I picked up the game, the Bulls suddenly found themselves in the lead. Bob Love threw in a few more of his thirty-six points, and the Bulls had knotted the series at two games apiece. Wilt Chamberlain better change his attitude fast, or the Lakers will be taking an early vacation.

These results seem to bear out one important fact. "Anything goes in the playoffs." Goats turn to heroes, and heroes turn to goats. The team with motivation and confidence wipes out even the toughest opponents. But the most important single factor in the playoffs is pressure. Pressure does strange things to even the greatest of athletes, and such circumstances can alter a series outcome considerably. That is why the playoffs are considered a "new season" and that is why they are a "must" for any sports fan.

Collard Prepares For Boston Marathon

by Peter Lockatell

At last Richard Collard has come to the moment that he has trained so hard for. This Monday in Boston, Rich will be competing in the famed Boston Marathon for the second time. As a freshman last year, Rich surprised everyone (including former Coach Fred Reinhardt) by beating Roy Lapidus and establishing a new Bryant Boston Marathon Record of 296th place and a time of 2:59.48.

Rich has been in training under the watchful eye of personal coach Reinhardt. He puts in miles upon miles every day to prepare himself for the terrific physical strain of the race. "I try not to think about it. I just try to think about running in the B.M. The training before the race is bad enough, but the race is a real experience," commented Rich. Besides the pre-race training, Rich has come to dread the after effects of the race. "I think the worst physical effects are after the race. The blisters, headaches, stomach cramps and muscle spasms drive me up a wall; and it may be as long as a week to ten days before I'm near normal again."

Another factor of the race that might plague Rich will be its mental anxiety. In a race of this kind, the athlete must have complete control over his body. Furthermore, he must push his body to unlimited lengths—mind over body. "I guess one of the big assets of mental training is reinforcement mainly from my teammates on the Cross Country Team; but especially from Mr. Reinhardt. He has devoted much of his free time to put together a fantastic training program, and he has built a fantastic attitude toward running for me," Rich added. "I have been in long, hard training since the beginning of December; and I can't let all that training go down the drain."

There is much optimism that Rich will have a good performance in the race. In earlier road races this year, the results were most encouraging. (The Silver Lake Dodge Marathon, 2:01:24, 32nd place in 20 miles), New Bedford Road Race, 1:47:33, 25th place in 18 miles) "The Silver Lake Dodge Marathon and the New Bedford Road Race results of my splits has given my Coach, Mr. Reinhardt, the belief that I have a good chance to hit 2:45:00, which is 15 minutes faster than last year. The mark I definitely want to break is 2:50:00 and anything after that will just add to the glory."

Celtics On Their Way ; Red Sox Over Yankees

Rangers Down Bruins: High Low

Playoff time is here and while other events are of interest to the sporting public almost all attention is centered toward winter games' grand finales.

As of this writing, three of the four quarter final series in the National Basketball Association are still left undecided. Only the Knicks-Bullets series has ended with the Knicks scoring a surprisingly early victory over Baltimore in only five games. New York is definitely a "money hungry" team. When cash is at stake the Knicks always seem to be there, but the incentive of money alone will not life New York over the Boston Celtics.

Barring an upset the Knicks-Celtics series will prove to be one of the best of this year's playoffs. The Celtics who jumped into the Atlantic series much too over-confident are finding out that it takes forty-eight minutes of basketball to win a game. Boston suffers mental lapses because of its superiority approach, but they've wanted New York all along. Not many people forget last year's upset. This year the Celtics want a title and only the Knicks can stand in their way. We've seen a Ranger upset but Boston should dominate basketball.

In losing to the Knicks the Bullets have nothing to be ashamed of. With Unself, Hayes, Clark, and Co., the Bullets future looks bright. Through recent acquisitions Baltimore has strengthened itself substantially and soon they will emerge as one of basketball's kingpins.

Out on the West Coast both Chicago and Golden State are showing more than they ever did before. The Chicago Bulls are a tough physical basketball team, maybe too rough for Chamberlain and West. Speaking of Jerry West, it is easy to see that he doesn't possess the same interest that he did last year. With an NBA Championship finally realized, West has become complacent which is indicative of the way the Lakers have played all season. If Bob Love can keep his hot hand, Chicago may finally overcome Los Angeles, but it will require nothing less than a super effort.

In the other series Ricky Barry and Nate Thurmond are a tough duo but so are their counterparts, Jabbar and Allen. On sheer ability the Bucks are the favorites but Oscar Robinson is quickly fading and so are the Bucks. Where is the supposed dynasty of a few years ago? Dynasties seem to be a thing of the past. Big talk—no action!

Semifinal contestants will probably be New York and Boston in the East along with Milwaukee and either Los Angeles or Chicago in the West. As I've said before watch out for the Bulls.

Speaking of upsets what has happened to boxing? Within the past few months both Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier have been brutally beaten. While everyone drew their attention to a Frazier-Ali rematch, a few names have surprisingly crept up. With Ali it arrears to be that age has caught up with him. In the case of Frazier, it may just be rigor-mortis. Ali was beaten by a nobody by the name of Ken Norton because of it he must join the list of testers to see if a challenger will get a shot at the Champion. A little advice to both Frazier and Ali, "When the going gets rough, the rough get going".

Let's see what you're really made of in a rematch with no more importance than to see who will get a crack at George Foreman. The feeling here is that George Foreman can whip them all, if and only if the results of the Frazier fight wasn't a fluke. Otherwise, Joe Frazier stand alone as "King of the Hill."

Getting back to the playoff, I regret to admit that the Bruins failed to live up to expectations. Jacques Plante failed and Espo was hurt. Besides that dissension has suddenly rocked the club as Ed Johnston and Dan Awry are publicly unhappy. The Bruins let the Rangers play their game. For once Emile Francis won, and he deserves congratulations for a job well done. This is the year of the Rangers. Montreal watch out because the blueshirts are going all the way.

In the other quarterfinal series, Montreal and Chicago appear to have things wrapped up. If Philly can outlast Minnesota, Montreal may not enter the final round. Philly against the Rangers in the finals? What a storybook upset for the championship starved city of Brotherly Love.

By the way where were you on opening day? Well, if you were in Fenway Park, you must admit that the game was hilarious, but not quite as amusing as the oddsmakers who pick the Yankees over Boston. A three games series does not make a season, but Ralph Houk was absolutely stunned by the Red Sox. Twenty-nine runs in three games can make any manager want to kill himself. This year Houk's team will continually be on the losing end.

Next week: Baseball predictions.

Depelteau Named Honorable Mention All-American

By Michael Kata

Despite the fact that the basketball season ended over a month ago, the awards keep coming in for Bryant's senior forward Ray Depelteau. Ray, who is probably Bryant's greatest all around player ever, received the best recognition he could by being named a N.A.I.A. Honorable Mention All American. Depelteau, a resident from Holyoke, Mass., who averaged twenty points a game become the first Bryant player ever to gain such recognition nationally. His 1152 career points puts him third on Bryant's all time scoring list.

Along with being named an honorable mention all-american, Ray has also been named to the E.C.A.C.'s All East Team, both the UPI and the AP All New England Teams and the Top College Division player in Rhode Island just to name a few.

The 6'4" forward was also named "most valuable player" in the Naismith Conference as well as being on the All Conference Team for the second straight year. He was also selected to play in the Hall of Fame Game, which pits the best college division players against the best university division players.

Next season, Coach Folliard will have close to an impossible task in trying to replace Bryant's greatest all around player. A player who has worked hard to refine his basketball skills to become one of the top players in the East. Bryant Basketball will dearly miss Ray Depelteau.

Bryant Excels In Providence Open

This past weekend the 1973 Providence Open was held in the Rhode Island Table Tennis Club. The Open, a major tournament, was attended by several nationally-ranked players. Prize money of $100 was awarded to the winner and runner-up. Trophies were bestowed upon the top finishers in each classification of the tourney. Bryant's Table Tennis Team was well represented by Howie Dornfeld, Neil Goldman, Larry Ostrower, Howie Schreiber and Larry Selvin.

In Saturday's action in the Novice Class, the team's overall performance was outstanding. Larry Selvin highlighted the team by advancing to the semi-finals of this division. While making the final four (out of a field of 64), Larry possessed the "Leverage" to upend four opponents. Also making Bryant's name well-known was Howie Dornfeld. He displayed his capabilities before losing to the second seeded player. Neil Goldman had the misfortune of facing the eventual winner of this tournament. Howie Schreiber duled fiercely with a friend and fellow collegiate league member from Brown. Unfortunately, though, Howie dropped the third and decisive game.

Larry Ostrower, unable to participate in Saturday's competition, came back on Sunday to team up with Neil Goldman in the doubles grouping. This duo surprised the field by progressing to the fourth round. In this round, they lost to a pair of established veterans in two close games.

The Men's Singles Class had Alexander Schroeke of N.Y. City rated sixth in the country defeating Lin Ming Chui of Boston who was ranked tenth in the nation. After losing the first two games in the best out of five, Schroeke turned the tide by winning the final three games.

The Bryant College Table Tennis Tournament will commence the week after vacation. There will be four classes to compete in. To enter this tournament, please sign up in the gameroom.
