

Thoughtless

CHRIS SEMANSKY

A piano falls from the sky.

A quite beautiful piano.

A young girl's head is crushed into seed.

Things like this happen
all the time. In Afghanistan

there are three "a"s. Ideally,
the best sentences make you feel something without telling you what.

I won't spoil that.

Who wants all the journalist's questions answered? I'll say this once and once only:

"Self-identity is ultimately a symptom
of parasitic invasion, the expression in me of forces originating from the outside."

I lie. Someone else said that.

Insert moral here.
