

Senate Supports BRYCOL

Octoberfest to go as planned

Julia Arouchon
Archway Staff Writer

Student Senate unanimously voted to support BRYCOL's Octoberfest at yesterday's meeting. Plans for this Saturday's Octoberfest faced opposition because drinking would be taking place outside of the Country Comfort.

"BRYCOL is very pleased to gain the support of Student Senate," said Chairman of the Board of Directors of BRYCOL James Zahansky.

When last week's Octoberfest ad appeared in The Archway, it was called to the attention of Vice President of Student Affairs FJ Talley, who then contacted Zahansky. This Tuesday, a meeting between BRYCOL and Talley was held.

According to Zahansky, Talley issued a "grave concern" about the image this event portrayed to the Bryant Community and expressed concern because BRYCOL had not gone to Student Affairs for approval. "I think Dean Talley would have liked for us to go through Student Affairs, but BRYCOL is an organization which is not governed by any constitution recognized by the Student Senate," said Zahansky.

In the past, BRYCOL has included the Student Affairs Office in planning certain events, but this had not occurred in recent years. "Both parties were cooperative, and in the future we hope to work with Student Affairs to plan events such as Octoberfest," said Zahansky.

BRYCOL has an existing agreement with the College, dating back to 1990, which states that if BRYCOL wants to do something outside of regular business hours they must coordinate it with the Department of Public Safety.

When Octoberfest was planned back in September of this year, BRYCOL went through all the necessary procedures of getting approval from both Public Safety and the Fire and Safety Coordinator.

In the meeting with Talley, Zahansky reiterated BRYCOL's concern for safety while planning the event. BRYCOL had hired two Public Safety officers as well as obtained a one day liquor license from the town of Smithfield signed by the police chief and the Town Clerk.

"We thank Public Safety for all their work in coordinating this event," said Zahansky.

At BRYCOL's Board of Trustees meeting on Tuesday, Zahansky had been fully authorized by the Board to take whatever action necessary to ensure Octoberfest would go as planned. The board consists of eighteen members including a mix of alumni, faculty, administrators and Bryant undergraduates.

Student Senate President Rob Fontanella, who was asked to sit in on the meeting between BRYCOL and Talley, brought the issue to the Student Senate floor. Senate declared full fledged support for the event by giving student approval.

"Senate needs to represent and support student interests in all campus activities. We believed BRYCOL took all the necessary precautions for a safe event," said Fontanella.

Massie Moves On

Maria Tica Lema
Archway Staff Writer

Have you ever seen Bryant faculty and administrators featured in the national media? How about Dr. Judy Barrett Litoff on the Today show, Rosemary D'arcy in Ladies Home Journal or Dr. Sam Mirmirani in Men's Fitness? Timmian Massie, the talent behind the arrangement of these famous Bryant appearances is departing Bryant this Friday.

Massie, the man responsible for the features Bryant has made in the news both regionally and nationally, has accepted a position as Chief College Relations Officer at Marist College in Poughkeepsie, New York.

Jim Zahansky, Chairman of BRYCOL worked with Tim to put BRYCOL in the media spotlight. "Since day one Tim has always been concerned not only with BRYCOL, but with every student. He is concerned about the community as a whole," Zahansky then tells a funny story of when Massie on vacation. "He was in New York City and he was wearing a hat and tee-shirt with the Bryant logo and asked Nelson Mandela a question on the Today show. He went out of his way on his vacation!" Zahansky stressed, "He didn't just do what his job description said, he went above and beyond and he always found creative ways to put Bryant in the media."

Dr. Judy Barrett Litoff expressed similar sentiments about Tim's departure.

Tim just had this wonderful ability to understand what faculty do and to know how to get it into the public eye. He has such a creative talent for doing that." Dr. Litoff also explained that she was initially shy about dealing with the media and that Massie was very helpful in 'coaching' her.

"He prepared me to deal with the media. He would screen the media so that I wouldn't be bothered with mundane questions."

He told me what they would ask me so that I would be prepared. He's a wonderful person to know and to talk to. I'm going to miss him."

Massie also played a vital role in helping

Dr. Sam Mirmirani publish articles pertaining to health care management and the economics of health care.

"Tim has helped me a great deal. He has always been very receptive to new ideas and he made sure that Bryant expertise was on the front-line of the media."

Massie will be starting his new executive level position at Marist College on November 1.

His new duties will include instituting a new Public Relations program in the Marist College Communications curriculum and serving as the chief spokesperson for the College.

Amnesty International's Mission

Susanne Martone
Archway Staff Writer

"We are a group of people who feel strongly about unjust oppression and want to do something about it," commented Professor Glen Camp, advisor of the Amnesty International chapter at Bryant.

Amnesty International, which was established in 1961, has hundreds of chapters around the world. At Bryant, the group is composed of approximately ten faculty members and twenty-five students. According to Professor Camp, "All of these members work very hard to express their concerns about persons unjustly imprisoned because of race, gender, and religious or political views anywhere in the world."

In addition to the Internet, offices in both New York City and Boston provide Amnesty with information about various problems around the world, including people unjustly imprisoned and in need of help. Members then write dozens of letters to authorities and ask for the release of these "Prisoners of Conscience."

Also, Amnesty is often called upon to respond to Urgent Action Appeals. These letters are sent to members when there is an immediate danger of dying or torture that must be stopped. Members begin work immediately to flood dictators with letters telling them to "stop the killing."

Professor Camp added, "With the exception of cases of execution or torture, chapters do not work in their own country. Instead, they work for inmates in other countries so as not to get involved with their own political authorities. It is a means of protecting members."

The Regional offices in Boston notify Amnesty members when a prisoner gets released as the result of their letters. According to member Josh Tudryn, "It's good to hear that our hard work pays off."

"We're hoping to get more new members and build up the club again so that we can help even more people."

The next meeting of Amnesty International will be November 1 at 4:00 p.m. and new members are strongly encouraged to attend. Activities planned for the near future include Dr. Haas speaking on Human Rights.

Big Sisters Celebrate Halloween

Jody Furnari
Archway Staff Writer

Big Sisters of Bryant kicked off its fall festivities by assisting little girls of Rhode Island. This past weekend, a Halloween party was held for some local little sisters of Rhode Island.

Big Sisters is a non-profit organization consisting of Bryant students who donate their time and enthusiasm to less fortunate little girls all over Rhode Island.

This organization invites these girls to attend "unmatched events", which occur once every three months. Unmatched events are held for girls who currently do not have a big sister of their own.

At these events, the Big Sisters of Bryant prepare certain projects, and fun activities to make the girls feel important, and keep them interested in Big Sisters of America.

At their most recent Halloween event, both big and little sisters dunked for apples, painted pumpkins, and decorated the windows of

Talking About A Revolution

In the past, many editorials have dealt with the apathy and lack of motivation displayed by students on this campus. We are happy to say, however, that we are beginning to see some changes.

Finally, the student body is standing up for what they believe in. This past week, the Student Senate unanimously voted to support BRYCOL's Octoberfest, BRYCOL refused to be pushed around by the administration and decided to run Octoberfest as planned, and SPB stood up for their rights when faced with attempts by the administration to censor movie ads. We support these organizations fully and are proud of them for taking a stand.

However, we are concerned over a letter which was slipped under our door this week (see letter to the editor). The author(s) of the letter said they did not want to sign it for "fear of repercussion".

Perhaps they feel pressure from other members of the Bryant Community and want to avoid conflict with friends and colleagues.

Some administrators are even choosing to move on — and it is not because of re-engineering.

This past semester we have been working hard to present issues and encourage students to take action by publishing controversial editorials, photo editorials and a new opinion column all in the hopes that others will take notice and eventually join the crusade. But we had seen little response to our call until recently.

The signs we see are encouraging, but the appearance of an anonymous letter signals much more needs to be done to eliminate existing fears.

We do not want people to be afraid of voicing their opinions and concerns.

We believe if enough people come out on a limb, it may just snap. Remember, the discussions of dissatisfaction we only share with friends behind closed doors will go unnoticed unless more of us choose to go out on this limb.

Perhaps, we are on the verge of a major shake-up and a new beginning for the College.

Anonymous Letter Calls For Contacting Trustees

To the Bryant Community,

We think it's time for action. There are a lot of problems at Bryant and the trustees don't seem to know about it. Tell them what you think.

Answer To Last Week's MSU Question

Q: Who was the first woman ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal Church?

A: The first woman ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal Church was: The Rev. Li Tim Moi. She was ordained in China in 1945. However, the first American woman ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal Church was: The Rev. Pauli Murray who was ordained in the United States in January (8th), 1977. The first female Anglican (Protestant Episcopal Church) bishop in the world, consecrated a suffragan bishop for the Diocese of Massachusetts is: Bishop Barbara Harris Bishop Harris was consecrated on February 12, 1989 and as a woman was elected to this post previously held by men only dating back to Saint Peter. This was a most unusual move for the church and raised quite a controversy. Bishop Harris was ordained to the priest-hood in 1980.

MSU Question Of The Week

Who set up the first blood bank in England?

MSU will provide the answer in next week's issue of The Archway.

South Dining Hall. Stacy Dougherty, president of Big Sisters of Bryant, said "At the end of the day the little sisters went home with goodie bags, and the big sisters went home with a rewarding feeling of accomplishment."

Thousands of people help other people's children each year through the Big Sisters of America program. For many years Big Sisters has been pairing up less fortunate girls, with mostly single and childless adults. Many children all over America are currently teamed up with an adult. The remaining girls who participate in this organization are on waiting lists which on average run about eighteen months.

Since its founding, about 2.5 million young girls in the United States have been involved in the program, according to Colleen Watson, director of marketing of Big Sisters of America.

This organization gets only 9% of its revenue from government funding; the rest of its $85-million-a-year operating budget is funded through private donations. The Big Sisters program is now active in over 500 US cities, and has spread to other nations, including Canada, Japan, Korea, and Russia.

Department of Public Safety

Larceny (Off Campus)

October 18, 1994 - An officer at the ECS took a complaint from someone who owns a fruit and vegetable stand down the street from the college about some students ripping out two flag poles that were mounted in the ground. One of the persons then put the flags in their car and drove away. The people in the car are assumed to be students do to the fact that the person spotted a Bryant College sticker on the car. The person asked that DPS be on the lookout for these flags. One is described as red, white and blue with the word "Open" printed on it. The other is blue with a brown basket of apples embroidered on the front. If anyone has any information pertaining to these items, please contact DPS at 232-6001.

Fire Alarm-False

October 19, 1994 - An officer was dispatched to Townhouse J block for a fire alarm. It appeared that the fire was started by steam from the shower. The panel was then reset.

Disorderly Conduct/Disturbance

October 19, 1994 - An officer saw four students in the Hall 1 circle throwing punches, shoving and pushing each other. Abusive language was also exchanged. After the officer broke up the fight, the students started again. All available DPS officers came to assist in this matter. One student had a slight cut above his right eye. It must be stressed that after each time they were separated, they shortly started fighting again. Smithfield Police Department was then called and shortly appeared on the scene. It was apparent that these individuals have been drinking. All four were arrested on the charges of disorderly conduct.

Fire Alarm-False

At this point, one of the suspects grabbed the student and was then pushed against the wall. A short time later after there were some words exchanged, the victim left the hall. When DPS talked to the students, they stated that the individual just walked into their suite and wouldn't leave. One of the students then admitted to kick him at this time due to the fact that the victim seemed extremely intoxicated. One of the students admitted to being intoxicated. The other student was in fact sober. No criminal charges were filed, but the victim wants the suspects prosecuted internally. Charges filed.

Harassing Phone Calls

October 21, 1994 - A student contacted the DPS because they have been receiving phone calls since they beginning of the semester. The calls are both either hang-ups or until the harasser hangs up. Also, the student found a rather unpleasant note slipped under their door. The student was issued a phone log and was advised of the escort policy here at Bryant.

Fire Alarm-False

October 21, 1994 - DPS officers were dispatched to Hall 11 third floor for a fire alarm and after searching the rooms, they found a blocked heating vent. The alarm was reset. It just so happened that in the same room, a kitten was found. The student stated that he was just taking care of it for the weekend. Your Silence is not Golden

I guess it is fortunate that it is never as hard as I think to find a topic to write about concerning Bryant. Every week I think maybe I'll do a piece about something having nothing to do with this place, but every week something else is brought to my attention, and I eagerly bring it to yours. Well, this time I really thought I was going to get away with not writing about Bryant, but I guess that's just not going to happen.

Those of you who have been reading my columns over the past few weeks must know by now that the objective of my writing about Bryant is to bring this institution's problems out into the open where they can be discussed and resolved. Looking back over the past few columns, one will easily see how I have repeatedly requested that the administration of this school respond in The Archway to my columns, yet not one of them has deemed my invitation fit enough to take pen in hand.

Every week I walk into The Archway's office and ask if there has been a reply, and every week I am told there has not. This always struck me as unbelievable, but thanks to information I have received over the past few days, I think I now know why.

From sources close to them, I have been informed that the administration of Bryant College has thus far chosen not to respond to my columns because they have actually convinced themselves that I am some "lone student" who is dissatisfied with the poor job they are doing of running this place. They really think the rest of you are happy!

Pointless Ramblings

Brian Epro
Archway Staff Writer

Friends of mine who work with these administrators have passed on to me some of the comments they have overheard concerning myself. It is truly amazing, but they all really think I am some lone, (this is an actual quote) "frustrated" student with an abundance of "pent up anger towards Bryant." Where's Dr. Joyce Brothers when you need her?

A topic I have touched on before is Bryant's utter refusal to admit any problems even exist. I still feel this way, and I was amazed to learn from one of my friends who works in an administrative office that, when she expressed support for my columns, she was told she shouldn't because it would cause a "conflict of interest." Astounding. Censorship on a college campus! By the way, did everyone enjoy 9 1/2 Weeks? I'll bet a lot more of you would have seen it if you knew it was being shown. Bryant asked SPB to pull some of the advertising so families attending the Open House on Sunday wouldn't know we were allowed to watch movies with sex in them. (What's the sex? That's not how they make babies, is it?)

I want it understood by the administration that my columns represent the feelings of many students on this campus. The support I receive from them is growing stronger as the weeks progress. We should take the silence of the administration as a slap in the face, for it is an insult of the worst kind, as our opinions are being discounted by those who think they know better.

I directly and openly challenge the administration, and especially President Trueheart, to answer any issues I have raised in my columns. We have allowed you to fail us with your silence for long enough. You are accountable to us. Start doing your jobs and give us some answers. Now.

Halloween's-A-Coming

It seems almost unbelievable, but this semester is practically half over. Where does the time go? I'm sure you remember well the day you arrived at Bryant to start a new academic year. Here it is, the end of October!

One cannot help but notice the incredible transformation in nature, during this time of the year. The trees—with their bright yellow, orange, and red hues— even make driving Route 295 a joy. Of course, I could also mention the sudden appearance of hot cider, pumpkins aplenty, and lots of homemade squash and apple pies.

Soon the streets will be filled with witches, ghosts, and ghoulies searching out households for sweet treats and other goodies. When I was a kid, I'd team up with cousin, Bob, who was an expert at maximizing the Halloween experience. With an older cousin at my side, I'd end up with twice the amount of candy than had I made the nightmarish journey alone. Bob seemed to know all the "good spots" to hit, those houses that gave great, copious amounts and a few coins to boot. With our homemade costumes, we'd stand toe-to-toe with any other trick-or-treater who'd cross our path. Of course, the moment of truth came when, to our great delight, we'd count our booty to see who'd collected more of those sweet delicacies: Hershey's, Baby Ruth's, and Milk Duds, to name but a few. Ah, the joys of Halloween's past!

The following day, before eating any of those sweet morsels, I remember my folks taking me to Mass;

it was (and still is) the Feast of All Saints. Halloween means "All Hallows' Eve," the Vigil of All Saints. Back in medieval days, people would dress up in terrifying costumes in order to vanquish the Evil One from their midst. In this way, they prepared to celebrate the great feast by recalling their salvation and need for holiness.

I remind you that All Saints Day is a holy day of obligation. Mass will be celebrated on Tuesday, November 1, at 12 Noon in the chapel in the Bryant Center. So, after you make your Halloween rounds, be sure to stop by for Mass, as we recall together the saints of the church and our call to be members of their company.

Mass is also celebrated every Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in the Bryant Center, Rooms 2A&B. Everyone is very welcome to attend. Please join us at the Lord's Table. We have set a place for YOU.

Sources for Monthly Statistical Data

Colleen Anderson
Reference Librarian

Locating monthly statistics for developing an economic forecast can be a tedious task if one is not familiar with the primary statistical gathering organizations. The United States government is the major provider of business statistics, with 3 agencies supplying the most used data in the nation: the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Economic Analysis within the Department of Commerce, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. (see: Tapping the Government Grapevine by Judith Schiek Robinson, Chapter 12, "Statistics" REFZ1223.Z7R633 1993)

The Bureau of Economic Analysis publishes the monthly Survey of Current Business (shelved behind the Circulation Desk). Until April of 1994, this publication included one of the best sources for monthly figures on a commodity or product, a blue section entitled "Current Business Statistics." This series has been discontinued; however, the April 1994 issue provides addresses and phone numbers of primary sources to contact to get the monthly figures.

Historical monthly data is found in Business Statistics (REF HC101 .A13), the cumulative volumes of the Survey of Current Business. The library shelves the 3 most current volumes in the main level reference stacks behind the reference desk; earlier volumes dating back to 1957 are shelved in lower level reference.

Note: For more information about the Survey of Current Business or Business Statistics, contact the Bureau of Economic Analysis direct at 202-606-9968 or 202-606-5367.

Standard & Poor's is the publisher of an excellent commercial source for monthly statistical data entitled the S&P Statistical Service (REF Table 1 HC101 .S74a). This loose-leaf service consists of 3 sections: the yellow pages of current statistics, the white pages of current statistics with data going back 1-2 years from the data found in the yellow pages, and the white industry sections providing historical data. Entries in the yellow section provide page numbers for locating historical data in the white industry sections.

If you have not found the monthly statistics you need after checking the Survey of Current Business and the S&P Statistical Service, your best bet for finding these figures is to contact an industry trade association (e.g., Aerospace Industries Assn. of America or the Tobacco Assn. of the U.S.) to see if they can provide you with the figures you need. Large trade associations collect and monitor statistical information on their particular industry/commodity. The Encyclopedia of Associations (REF AS22 .E5) will provide phone numbers and addresses for trade associations.

The key to getting the information you need on time is to begin looking early for your monthly data. You may need time for a response from a trade association, and such an association may turn out to be the best source for locating the statistics you need.

Why Science?

Thanks for this week's question to countless students I've met or overheard since I arrived at Bryant. "Why do we have to take science at a business school?"

a) It gives the science faculty jobs, thereby reducing unemployment in the northeast.

b) Occasional students like science but, since we don't know who they are ahead of time, we should test everyone.

c) Science training improves students' ability to cope with our highly technical society.

d) Science skills help business students find jobs and perform better at those jobs.

e) all of the above

Those crazy guys and gals of the science department have not only missed the hint

(that science courses are a downer to student morale) but they've even the audacity to offer a new program - Science Minors! That's right...you can augment your business concentration with a minor in Biotechnology or Environmental Science (coincidentally, two areas of tremendous business activity in which the USA leads the world technically and which need business personnel with training in science and technology).

Do they really think that Bryant students can handle the math and concepts necessary to really understand science? That Bryant students want careers as leaders in emerging industries that require highly trained individuals? That they are willing to spend their electives on difficult subject matter rather than trying to boost their cumulative grade averages with easier courses? As they say in the Midwest... "you betcha!"

They're throwing a party to disseminate information about the programs, Thursday, October 27, from 4 - 6p.m. in room 344. Since you're likely reading this after the fact, check with me (#6096), Gaytha (#6145) or Doug (#6432) for information (and leftover pizza).

Remember, you don't need a low lottery number to get a prime spot in most of our great science courses!

Enigma is a weekly column in which our science faculty tackle the technological riddles of life. Loyal Archway readers who submit topics that we feature in the column will be eligible for a monthly drawing worth 25 points. Submit questions to Dave Betsch, C223 and look for the answers right here in the coming weeks.

Alcoholism: the Disease of Denial

No one chooses to be an alcoholic. Alcoholism is a disease. In their hearts, most alcoholics know they are in the grips of a powerful addiction, yet they feel helpless to combat it. This inability to control the disease often leads to denial that the disease exists-not only on the part of the alcoholic, but by those who care for the alcoholic most.

Self Denial

Although alcoholism is now known to be a disease, many people still hold the incorrect view that it is a behavioral problem. This widespread misconception may cause the alcoholic to feel guilt and embarrassment about their problem, which can contribute to self denial. Many persons who suffer from alcoholism exhibit similar behaviors-concealing the amount they drink, hiding bottles, drinking alone, and so on. Yet, when confronted with their drinking "problem" they are apt to deny it altogether or make excuses for their behavior. While they deny their problems to each other, their very actions indicate their own awareness of their actions.

"Co-Denial"

Clergy, doctors, lawyers, social workers, family and friends are valuable resources for the alcoholic. Yet, in some cases these people unwittingly

Health Services

Marc Perry
Health Services Intern

tingly assist the alcoholic by covering up for him and denying that he must correct his own mistakes. When people make excuses for the alcoholic, the alcoholic is conditioned in believing there will always be a "protector" who will come to his or her rescue.

Denying Dependence

As the disease progresses, the need to deny dependence becomes greater. The alcoholic may refuse to acknowledge that anyone has helped him. He may deny that his behavior is causing family trouble. The real problem is that the alcoholic is well aware of the truth. The sense of guilt and remorse often becomes intolerable and the alcoholic's helplessness in controlling his disease may be embarrassing to him.

Initiating Recovery

If someone you care for has a drinking problem, seek counseling immediately. A professional who treats alcoholics and their families can help all of you - the alcoholic and his or her loved ones - to help yourselves.

Just Blowing Smoke?

John Rattigan
Fire & Safety Coordinator

Picture this: It's a crisp, cold Thursday morning. You're sleeping after a rough night of studying for your first giant test in a subject that you have no interest in. All of a sudden someone is shouting, "FIRE" down the hall. This is definitely no a dream. It's more like your worst nightmare!

As you read that scenario you were probably thinking, "That'll never happen." But you're wrong - it could happen. In fact, it did happen.

On Thursday morning, October 6, there was a fire in Resident Hall 14. Although this action may have been considered a prank, it has developed into a case of arson.

The Rhode Island State Criminal Laws states Arson - First Degree. - Any person who knowingly causes procures, aids, counsel or creates by means of fire or explosion, a substantial risk of serious physical harm to any person, shall upon conviction be sentence to imprisonment for not less than five (5) years and may be imprisonment for life.

Bryant College offers a reward of $1,000.00 for information leading to the conviction of a person(s) involved in this incident. Any students with information can contact Public Safety X6001. You may remain anonymous if you wish.

The Bryant College community must work together to insure the safety of everyone.

A PLACE TO BE

CONFIDENTIAL

Amnesty

by Lisa Westgate

Why should you join Amnesty International? The Top Ten reasons to join are:

- 10) Because human beings should be treated like human beings
- 9) Because torture is horrible
- 8) Because hope is power
- 7) Because the death penalty isn't a punishment, it's a crime
- 6) Because none of us are truly free unless we all are
- 5) Because an eye for an eye leaves the world blind
- 4) Because you could be arrested for what you are doing right now
- 3) For the children, women, and men who have been victims of human rights violations

2) "Write a letter, save a life"

1) All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed with reason and conscience and should act towards one another in a spirit of brother/sisterhood

"It's kind of an extraordinary thought to think that somebody, a young 16 year old poet, can be imprisoned for doing exactly what Sting and myself do everyday, which is just offer our opinion and effect change for the good, the common good." - Bono of U2 during the Amnesty International Conspiracy of Hope Concert Tour.

"It can be fun to write to people who lead authoritarian or repressive regimes, have a dictator as a pen-pal, and be a complete nuisance to him by sending him these letters." - Sting

Amnesty International is growing fast all over. It is big at schools such as Harvard, Boston University, Brandeis, Tufts, U-Mass of Dartmouth, U-Mass of Boston so why shouldn't it be just as important at Bryant College?

Come to our next meeting on November 1 in the Chapel of the Bryant Center at 4:00 p.m. and make a difference. Amnesty is all about students protecting students!

BACCHUS

by Yoke Chung and Scott Lynch

Hello everybody. We would like to start off by thanking those members who took the time from their busy schedule to help out at the Crime Prevention Fair and at Open House. We appreciate your help. Also, for those of you who missed our last meeting, dues should be given to Chris A.S.A.P. especially for the people who are interested in receiving hats.

Our next meeting will be on Tuesday, November 1 at 7 p.m. in Room 1 in the Bryant Center. This will be a very important meeting and we encourage all members to attend. We will be amending our mission statement and we appreciate any input from our members on what our group objective should be. We hope you can attend this meeting. We will see you there.

Beta Theta Pi

by David Tenofsky

I am happy to say that Ragoo, Deacon, Crane, Flip, Lark, Abacus, Floyd, Gunner, Monty, Alf, Cobb, Darwin, and Oscar, are all doing fine.

Alumni weekend was a great time for everyone. We are also under the new direction of Otter since Weasel is getting too old to drive.

This Week: Mitt Romney stopped by; all of the babies are gone; Chorister is being considered for an E-Board position; Trout vanished; Otis got caught; Fudd and Mack went into business; Syd went out of control; the townhouse got an interesting new movie; Treat lost something; Dude should become a professor; and Ike hasn't lost his magic touch.

Quote of the week: "To hell with the world."

Bowling Club

by Jon Hester

This weekend the club traveled to State College, PA for the Nittany Lion Kegler Classic. Where do they get these corny names? Anyway we finished 6th. I guess everyone is entitled to a bad week. As much as I hate to say it, lefties get the kudos this week. Great bowling, Jason and Dave.

The team also made it's annual trip to Hoss's Steak and Sea House. Sandy, we'd like to thank you for being the best Hoss's waitress we've ever had. Good luck at Penn State. Dave is the new flirting champion. For the second consecutive tournament Tom gets the Sadosky award. Tom, Ritter said he'd sell you that ball for 30 bucks. You might want to take him up on it.

I'd like to congratulate myself on the glorious reign of Saturday night, and personally say hello to all of the people that stopped by our hotel room that night. Granted we had no clue who any of you were, but we enjoyed your company anyway.

The club has a few weeks off. The next action is Wallington, NJ for Conference Match #2. Then it's on to the National Team Match Games in St. Louis, MO. The home match is December 3 so come and watch one of Bryant's most exciting and most successful teams.

Bryant Karate

by Mark Towle

Pil Son! Hopefully everyone is preparing for the belt tests which will be here soon enough. Keep practicing your forms and one steps. Don't forget to look at your definitions, they may come in handy on test day. Phil says keep your hands up!

Well for all of you who made it to the Karate Townhouse on Friday, I'm sure a good time was had by all. If you were not there you missed a visit by Sifu and Mike Richard as well as the Jason Mason Birthday swim-a-thon. Jason was a good sport about the Bryant Tradition and promptly returned to the Townhouse to have his first legal drink. On top of all this fun and excitement Back To School was finally shown. Thanks!

Bryant Lacrosse

by Dave Crosby

On Sunday we played a game versus Nichols College, a Division III varsity team. The game was locked at 0-0 halfway through the second period, until they scored. At half-time we trailed 2-0, mainly because of Luush's outstanding goal keeping.

In the third period Veratti got a ground ball off the face-off and took it in to score his first goal. He scored because he was wearing a lucky jersey, mine. That goal would be the last, as we finished the game with a loss, final score 6-1. Overall, we played a really strong game. The new guys were really impressive, they should be proud of the way they played. The defense, along with Luush in goal, played a strong game especially the killing off a penalty when we were down two guys.

No practice until next week when we go on everyday from Monday through Thursday. Practice time is at 3:30. If you have any questions call Andy at x4734.

On Saturday, November 5, we have a tournament at Dean Jr. College. This is our last fall game.

The Bryant Players

by Donald Widger

Greetings everyone! This week is the busiest one yet for the Bryant Players. Fundraising is our main thing right now. Between candy, T-shirt, and credit card sales, we're hoping that funds can be raised to put towards our Spring Musical.

However, there is some fun planned for this Monday night, a.k.a. Halloween! The Bryant Players are sponsoring a Halloween bash at the Country Comfort for all of you trick-or-treaters out there! It's only $2 at the door (for those of age), and begins at 9 p.m. Monday night. A live DJ will also be there to liven up the party even more! So put on your best costume and come enjoy a great night of spooky fun! We'll see you there!

BRYCOL

by Jennifer Barile

Entrepreneurship is alive and well at Bryant College just ask anyone from Brycol Student Services. As stated in our bylaws we are here to meet the needs of students and others in the Bryant Community. If you are thinking about running your own business now or someday in the future, please do not hesitate to contact us. We can offer you advice, feedback on your business plan and refer you to the right resources or contacts. We aren't here to run your business for you, but we can help you get your foot in the door.

Comfort News: Octoberfest is this Saturday, October 29. Curbside Prophets will hit the stage at about 6 p.m. This is a senior event and so we hope to see all of you there. Two forms of ID will be required at the door. See ya then.

Applications are out for various positions. If you are interested in being involved with Brycol now is the time to do so. As always questions or comments can be directed to Brycol Mon.-Fri., 3 - 5 p.m. at 231-1220 or Box 9. Thank you.

Delta Chi

by Frank L. Milazzo

Roadkill was up this week and left us something to remember him by. At least Baloo didn't have to do his laundry again. Is there a connection between Rush chairmen I don't know about? People should have learned from last year not to listen to G.Q. when he says he knows where he is going. Maps are in English! Beak is getting publicly harassed in the Rotunda and he might not be able to finish up the football season. Although his sprinting ability has increased.

Barnacle hasn't quite gotten used to New England roads. SwanX and Miah are preparing for basketball. Spanky is taking the floor manager position a little too far in his renovations.

Artistic expression is this week's theme, at least in the 3rd suite. Hey Pete, are you still reading this? Lefty is making his "big" move. Magoo has found a new home and now we can't get him to leave. Hoyt thinks he's Dr. Doolittle.

Lastly thanks to Smokin' for keeping his comments out of my column this week.

J.D. is settling in now and he even knows the founding fathers. Six and strong. Until next week. C-ya.

Quote of the Week: "I don't like his belt."

Tip of the Week: "Make sure you know where you are going before you get there."

Delta Kappa Epsilon

by Tim Quin

Another week went by and all the brothers are still alive. We had a visit from Danny "Bear Hug" Beaulieu this weekend and it was just like old times. We also had a visit from Nate this weekend, but where was Greg? I think we should all agree with Flares, "From now on only brothers who graduated can visit, except Dan."

Well Remy might be a little cold at night for the next few weeks, but once he's finished with his paper he won't be feeling much anyway. Gregory is building a cabin with sixteen inch logs. Hey Bakes, those cupcakes were great, thanks.

The brothers learned something from pledging this year, Macero's favorite rap group is Salt-n-Pepa. Tubbs, your buddies should visit more often. Dyer told his girlfriend, "head back." "Lil' B, Lil' B, that's my Lil' B, Lil' B. Scuda, Hoochie says see you next Tuesday. Rippa, you're fired! Ask Grabowy if Nippa Lippa paid. Wesley's eyes were like Niagara Falls on Friday night. How was that pizza Nate, don't worry we'll take it off your dues, now you only owe $2,984, I think.

Have a nice trip to Vermont, Clarky. And then there were nine. A big thank you to DZ. Joia, if I have to go on one more road trip... KuKuButt! "Is this Ronzio's?" It's the Handy Road Atlas. "Rich, go home now!" Remy's window cracked. Hey boys this is the Last Shabang, DEKE best!

Delta Zeta

by Emily Thomas

Hey, we're back. Two weeks in a row! Well, on to the interesting events which have taken place this last week. We have a new turtle. Her name is Caitlin McGovern, she was born on October 24, Founder's Day. She weighed in at 6 lbs. 14 oz. and showed her beautiful face to the world at 4:53 p.m. Congratulations Renee! We hope Caitlin gets potty trained as quick as Mr. B did.

We would like to thank Phi Kap for inviting us on their Annual Hay Ride, I mean bus ride. Despite the confusion, we all still had a fabulous time, even Pisces who couldn't decide which date to go with. Phoenix, on the other hand, got bored and rode a bike instead. We are now taking donations to buy her a bike of her own. Navy is still looking for her keys. Savannah and Violet were unable to ride the bus with us, however they have scheduled campus tours every Thursday night, weather permitting, at 9 p.m.

TEP was nice enough to share their Apple Pies with us on Friday. Dazey borrowed a T-shirt, would the owner please claim it. Pisces wanted to keep Simon/Bill because she never had one when she was little.

Saturday proved to be an interesting day. We had a visit from Spiderman who turned into the Incredible Hulk before our eyes. Phi Kap-check your mail, there will be a paper arriving saying "Amount Due."

We would like to thank Delta Chi for remembering Kristen Hatch and our Founder's Day. The roses and carnations are beautiful. Also, thank you for the pumpkin. Thank you to Public Safety for letting us sell candy in your office. So for anyone who visits them, please purchase a candy bar for 50 cents. The proceeds go to the Kristen Hatch Memorial Scholarship.

On to the quote of the week from Ellis: "U-hauls are the wave of the future!" Have a good one. See ya.

The Learning Center

by Chris Bruneau

The workshop programs held at The Learning Center have been a phenomenal success. In preparation for exams, The Learning Center has held a Humanities Workshop with attendance of 84 students and an Accounting Workshop with attendance of 93 students. These workshops are lead by professors who are assisted by qualified students. With such figures, students clearly are taking advantage of this opportunity.

The Learning Center also holds other workshops to assist students in various disciplines. For further information about workshops offered at The Learning Center, ask your professor who instructs the class in which you would like to attend a workshop.

Do not forget that The Learning Center also provides tutoring services. The staff is ready to assist you between the hours of 11:00 a.m.-10:00 p.m. on Monday-Thursday, 11:00 a.m. - 4 p.m. on Friday

Phi Kappa Sigma

by Jason W. Madson

I hope that everyone had a great week. If you didn't have as great a week as you would have liked, don't get down on yourself. There are always people around that love you. Remember, don't ever waste a chance to tell someone you love them; it could change their whole day.

I would like to apologize to everyone who attended the only annual Phi Kap bus ride on Thursday. It didn't really stop us from having a good time. I still got to pet the horses and watch Tracy ride someone's bike in some town in Massachusetts.

We are still looking forward to Ambush in a few weeks. This is a chance for anyone who is interested in playing paint pellet wars to go out into the woods and shoot your friends. Relax, it's safe and it's a lot of fun.

Coming up on November 17, Phi Kappa Sigma brothers will be spending a night outside to pay our respects to the unfortunate homeless people of Rhode Island. The Gamma Rho chapter here at Bryant was the first chapter of Phi Kap to hold what we call cardboard city. The brothers build shelters out of cardboard boxes and sleep in them all night while asking for donations from students and faculty. All the money we receive will be donated to the McAuley House in Providence. Please, we all have a place to call home here, there are those that don't. Your generosity will be greatly appreciated.

If there is anyone who would like to go to the Roger Williams Zoo in Providence, please give me a call. I would really like to go while it is still nice out. Soon it's going to get cold outside and being out will only be fun for those who are prepared for it.

Thank you for reading and caring. Remember the wild kingdom will reign forever, they were here first.

Hello, hello! I'd like to start out by wishing our oldest Sister a Happy Birthday, even she's one of the youngest in age! Happy B-Day Linda, you're finally able to travel to the Comfort with us!

Please don't be alarmed and think that there is a Tri-Sigma invasion of the library, we've just been bogged down with 20 page papers (poor MO), midterms, and the like! Plus, we love keeping our pledges company!

"Why are there never any sisters around when Linda feels like being Superwoman and tramping through the woods, and why do our Alumnae think that she's insane?" She's only changed a little.

Crazy P.C.D.O gathering on the floor which led to anarchy around campus! Hey, Axl, I'll play thumb tag with you anytime, just stop telling me I'm the best!

Grogan, I'm so glad you're not mad, "Oh that's cool, I'm here every weekend!" - sound familiar to anyone?

Saturday night my sisters and I traveled to Nick's comedy stop for a good time. Why is it that everyone wants to be in Deanna's car? "What do you mean $5.25?"

Hey, Phi Sig, I have two words for you, "Patrick Koeley" - who is he again, and what's my pitch?" - thanks for asking us!

Quote of the Week: Until next week, respect other people and do your best to make the world a better, nicer place. Also, listen to Madsen, he makes a world of sense! P.S. sisters: Mine is the best, no matter what you say!

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Greetings fellow brothers and Bryant students. First of all we'd like to congratulate our football team who finished Thursday with a friendly game against Sig Ep. Although our season wasn't too successful we had a lot of fun and it was a learning experience. What's the count Puck?

Also, a congratulations should be given to all brothers who attended Zeus's birthday. The brothers of the first suite would like to thank tattoo for the interesting artwork left on the floor, and River would like to thank those who helped him get in his room. Speaking of rooms, what was that written on your door Blasi? Several CD's were stolen from our townhouse so keep your eyes open for TKE CD's.

Puck, Chewy, Blitzen, & Roland would like to thank Tri Sig for their hospitality on Wednesday night. I think we could offer Mr. Webster a new definition for "zombie."

Quite a few alumni were up this weekend. Lars, Chico, Kudo, Slomba, and Disco came down to join in the festivities and meet our new associate members who were certainly pleased to meet them.

As for the rest of us, we look forward to a good Halloween weekend and as the infamous Cameron would say...See ya later...pal...

Hey Theta! Hi everyone. Well, last week we were again denied a spot in the paper, hopefully we can make up for it in this issue. Alright, I just had to vent. Anyway, we are all very psyched for What The Hell, and we are also looking forward to spending Halloween with Phi Kap.

Alumni has been making several appearances in the past week. Thanks to all of them who joined in the festivities! Fun was had by all, especially Ex-Streem.

And now on the lighter side of things...Spartan Happy Birthday! - You're getting up there pal. Is the war finally over? 8-6-7-5-3-0-9 is the number for Jessie's girl! Yeah 80's!

Thank You Delta Chi for the fabulous pumpkin, we love it. Eclipse got picked up by a trucker. "Deep thoughts with Carrie Leinonen..." Beta, are you sure it's not Oglvie Home Perm? Kianna - I have dish pan hands as I type, we definitely have a problem. Pixie, do you have a friend with a truck or do you want me to put on Beauty and the Beast? Treat, you're never getting them back. That's all, Later Theta!

Playoff Hopes Dwindle

Angelo L. Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The men's soccer team dropped a heartbreaker to St. Anselm yesterday, and are now clinging to narrow playoff hopes. The 1-0 loss dropped the Bulldogs conference record to 3-5, and placed them in seventh place with one game left to play.

The lone goal came 51:43 into the game win when Jim Gray deflected a cross past Bryant keeper Mike Pavano.

The Bulldogs had one final chance to tie the game, but came up short, when the ball glanced off the post into the hands of the Hawks keeper. Ten seconds later, the whistle blew, and the game was over.

"It was an evenly played game," head coach Andy McMahon said. "We had our chances to win, but came up short."

On Saturday, the Bulldogs were able to pull out the upset when they defeated Stonehill 2-0. Steve Bigler headed a John Hennessey pass into the net to open the scoring at 43:12. The insurance goal came with just 13:00 left in the game, when Craig Arling deflected a Mike Rondinelli pass by the Stonehill keeper.

"We struggled midway through the season, but their attitude was great," McMahon said. "We have turned it around lately, we beat Stonehill 2-0 on Saturday and played well today. Over the last four games, we have been playing good soccer."

Coach McMahon also feels the team has been very "unlucky" this season.

"We have lost a few game on penalty kick, and by one goal," McMahon added. "[However] their attitude has been great all season."

Leading the scoring attack for the Bulldogs is freshman Jared Dewey. Over the season, Dewey has collected seven goals and one assist in 13 games. Another key to Bryant's success is Ces Jeha, with four goals, and three assists. Bigler is next on the list with three goals, followed by Rich Eannarino with one goal and two assists.

Despite having three goalies on the roster, Mike Pavano has been the only keeper for the Bulldogs. In 1350 minutes of play, Pavano has only given up 34 goals (2.27 GAA); he also stopped 145 shots, which is among the conference leaders.

Despite having five seniors on the team, Bryant still has a young team which will cause trouble for other NE-10 Schools in the next few years.

"Basically, we are a young team trying to get a focus," McMahon said.

The team has one game remaining

Mike Rondinelli dribbles the ball past the Saint Anselm defender during a 1-0 loss yesterday, the loss hurt Bryant's playoff hopes.

on the schedule, and it could be the last game for a talented group of seniors. Sabino Boccuzzi, Steve Bigler, Damon Del Monte, Randy Leete, and Mike Pavano will all graduate in May, and will be missed by the team.

Depending on the outcome of the remaining conference games, Bryant still has a very slim chance of making the post-season. However, they will need help from other teams.

In this situation, they will play at the site of the number three seed going into the playoffs.

Men Surprise Field

Angelo L. Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The men's cross country team had an impressive showing at the Stonehill Invitational, last Saturday, and surprised many.

Overall, the team finished in second place just eight points behind, the host, Stonehill.

Leading the way for the Bulldogs was Shawn Nassaney who blazed the 6 mile course in 27:45 for a seventh place overall finish, he was also named NE-10 Freshman of the Week for his accomplishments.

Right behind Nassaney, was Jeremy Adlemann, eighth overall, 27:51. Seven seconds later Ryan DeTucci came across the line, finishing in 10th place.

The rearing scorers for the Bulldogs were Mike Walsh, 11th, 28:03; Andy DeRose, 16th, 28:34; Steve Michaud, 29th, 29:38; and Darrel Golden, 35th, 30:18.

Rounding out the finishers for Bryant were Jeff Hiltbold, 36th, 30:21 and Jason Perry, 39th, 30:44.

Team scores for the meet were: Stonehill 44, Bryant 52, Wheaton 66, Merrimack 84, Suffolk 102, Sacred Heart 116, Rivier 140.

The two biggest meets of the season still lie ahead for the Bulldogs.

They will be in the NE-10 Championships at Saint Anselm College on Saturday.

They will then travel to Kutztown, PA for the NCAA Regional Meet on Saturday, November 5.

Women Run In New York

Angelo L. Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The women's cross country team traveled to the New York state capital for The Albany Invitational, last Saturday. The meet consisted of 38 team and 195 runners.

Bryant finished 10th overall with 328 points.

Coming across the line first for the Bulldogs was Heather Crouce who ran the three mile course in 19:30, finishing 17th place overall. Her townhouse-mate Karen Palczynski was the next finisher for Bryant, she finished 39th overall with a time of 20:03.

Rounding out the top five for Bryant were: Amanda Freidrich placed 76th overall with a time of 20:41; Karen Calederoni, 97th overall, 21:17; and Carrie Stygar, 112th overall, 21:41.

The final two finishers for the Bulldogs were: Jody Russo, 126th overall, 22:00 and Jess Duval, 139th overall, 22:30.

The top ten teams were: Buffalo 85, SUNY Binghamton 122, Hamilton 140, Ithaca 140, Trenton State 143, Trinity 144, St. Lawrence 151, Middlebury 224, Albany 275, and Bryant 328.

Bryant still has their two toughest meets of the season.

They will be at the NE-10 Championships held at Saint Anselm this Saturday.

They will then travel to the NCAA Regionals in Kutztown, PA on Saturday, November 5, 1995.

Volleyball Upsets Bentley

Angelo L. Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The women's volleyball team had a 4-2 week last week, to improve their record to 21-9 overall, 5-2 in the NE-10.

Tuesday night, the team faced Merrimack and came away with a win in three games. Merrimack put up a fight in the first game, and stayed with Bryant for most of the game.

However, after Kim Potrzebowski placed a serve into the heart of the Merrimack defense for an ace, Bryant won the game 17-15. In game two, Bryant came flying out of the gates and came away with an easy win 15-5.

In the final game of the match, the Bulldogs rattled off 10 unanswered points to jump out to an early lead. Merrimack was able to rally for five points of their own, however, they mishandled a serve by Bryant's Meribah Dean and lost the game 15-5. During the match, freshman setter Jen Carvalho collected 31 to give her more than 1,000 assists for the season.

Meribah Dean lead the attack for the Bulldogs with 15 kills and no errors, and Kim Potrzebowski added nine kills of her own.

Over the weekend, the team traveled to Bentley College for the annual Bentley Invitational. Their only loss of the tournament came against Dowling College from Long Island, New York. Bryant lost in five games 15-6, 9-15, 15-10, 9-15, 14-16.

Prior to the loss to Dowling, Bryant has a huge win over NE-10 rival Bentley. The Bulldogs won in four 15-9, 15-12, 6-15, 15-0. This marked Bryant's first victory over Bentley since September 29, 1992.

The team also defeated Stonehill 15-3, 15-8, 15-7; and Mercy 15-6, 15-6, 8-15, 15-11. Much of the Bulldogs offense came from Maria Bras and Jen Carvalho, who were both selected to the All Tournament team.

Bryant's other loss this week came at the hands of #22 New Haven 12-15, 6-15, 15-10, 2-15. During the match, Bras exploded for 32 kills, and Carvalho collected 53 kills.

For the fourth consecutive week, Carvalho was named NE-10 Freshman of the Week. She averaged 11.7 assists and 2.8 digs per game.

Bras, on the other hand, was named the NE-10 Player of the Week. She averaged 4.8 kills, and 6.1 digs per game. However, Bras was not done yet. She was also selected the American Volleyball

Coaches Association (AVCA) Division II Player of the Week.

The AVCA is a national board of college volleyball coaches which handles all the volleyball matters for the NCAA.

They are involved in the national rankings, post-season tournament, and the governing of all college volleyball matches.

Bryant has a few players amongst the leaders in the NE-10 conference.

Bras is second in digs and kills per game with 3.82 and 4.57 respectively.

Carvalho is second in assists per game with 9.52 and Meribah Dean is fifth in digs per game with 3.06.

As for the team, they are first in digs and kills with 16.65 and 12.56, respectively, per game. They are also third in assists with 10.54 per game, third in kill percentage with .224, and fourth in blocks with 2.38 per game.

Next up for the Bulldogs is Assumption, who will be in town for tonight for a 7:00 p.m. match.

Over the weekend, they will host the Halloween Classic starting at 9:00 a.m.

Teams scheduled to appear are Southern Connecticut, Saint Rose, and Franklin Pierce.
