

Modern Peasantry

MARK SMITH

Are you not yet cognizant, my people, of how your television re-designs as games and news the same old brutal fairy tales once told by snowbound peasants starving in the wolf-infested forests of the Gauls?

Gobbled child, stone soup, murdered giant, thieving trickster, gold laying hen and goose?