

Author Bios

SANJANA AIYAR is a Teach For India Fellow. She has majored in Journalism, Psychology and Literature and loves a good story. She prefers writing poetry for the individual experience it allows the reader to have. She usually writes under the pen name kiwiwana.

LILA BOVENZI is an aspiring young writer and undergraduate student at the University of Rhode Island. Her areas of study are Spanish, English, and anthropology. She is passionate about incorporating her love of language and human culture into her stories and poetry.

LILLIAN GRACE (they/them) is a queer interdisciplinary artist from SoCal, currently attending NYU Gallatin. Their work can be found in Sterling Clack Clack, Humankind Zine, Youth Aspects Magazine, Coffee People Zine, Adolescent Content, Clementine Zine. 'i am the love letter' (2020, Tablo Self-Publishing). More at lillianlippold.com.

MICHAEL GRASSETTI is a student at Bryant University, class of 2021, majoring in Finance. Born on July 3, 1999, he grew up in Somers, Connecticut. An avid reader from a young age, Grassetti's literary immersion and affinity for nature and the cosmos inspire his work.

MIKAELA GRETTY considers herself an "art major guided by a business brain." Her work expresses how nature intertwines with the worlds raging within us - mentally, emotionally, politically, and economically. Mikaela aims to leave these thoughtfully constructed pieces echoing in readers' minds. At Bryant University she studies Marketing, Environmental Science, and Creative Writing. This combined with coaching from Eric Paul, rounds out her perspectives.

W.W. HARRIS has been published in Voices Israel, Poetry Salzburg Review, Canyon Voices, and recently came runner up in the 2019 Blue Mesa Poetry Award and shortlisted for the Bridport Prize and the Grindstone International Poetry Prize in 2020. He studied at University of Tennessee, Knoxville and DePaul University and is currently enrolled in the MFA Program at Eastern Washington University. He lives in Cheney, Washington with his girlfriend, kid, five cats and collection of guitars.

CLAIRE KUO is a junior at Columbia University studying creative writing. While most of her work has been concentrated in nonfiction, she has been thrown headlong into her first real exploration of poetry. Her current writing obsessions include Taiwan, her family, and the multifaceted nature of water.

NILSA LAINE is a current freshman at Bryant University. At Bryant, Nilsa is pursuing a Bachelor's degree in Politics + Law and Global Studies. Nilsa's hometown is Bridgeport, Connecticut. Apart from writing, Nilsa finds joy in reading, spending time with friends and family, and broadening her knowledge in a variety of topics.

CALEB LEWIS is a Senior at Bryant University currently living in Whitman, MA. His poetry is a reflection of the nurturing creative culture fostered by his parents and the influential teachings of Eric Paul and Jana Iampietro.

RILEY MAYES is a full-time student and essential worker currently residing in Brunswick, Maine. She is interested in explorations of nature and the self in her studies, writing, and adventuring. Her work has been published in several print and online publications, including Garfield Lake Review, DoveTales Literary Journal, Beyond Words Literary Magazine, and Sudden Denouement Collective.

JEAN PAUL MAZLYMIAN is a second-year university student majoring in English literature. He enjoys most types of literature and especially enjoys more contemporary works. He is a writer in his free time and only began writing fairly recently, writing mostly short stories and poems.

KILEY McALEER is from Warwick, Rhode Island. She is expecting to graduate from Emmanuel College in Boston, MA in May of 2023 with a BA in Writing, Editing, & Publishing.

REBECCA MEAR is a senior at Gordon College, where she is an English major with a French minor. Her favorite genres of writing are creative nonfiction and poetry, and she has pieces published in the Sigma Tau Delta Rectangle and the Vox Populi. Rebecca is a writing tutor in Gordon's Writing Center and she also works as a remote intern at a Massachusetts publishing company.

ALEXA O'KANE is a senior at Champlain College with plans to pursue an MFA in Poetry and Writing for Children & Young Adults at The New School in August. Her poetry has appeared in Pinnacle Anthology (2019) and Willard & Maple (2021), and her debut poetry book, Troubles, premieres May 5, 2021.

NICHOLE PAGE currently attends Bryant University where she double majors in Applied Mathematics & Statistics and Literary & Cultural Studies. Page's work has previously been published in the Bryant Literary Review. She lives in Plainville, Connecticut with her family and pets when she is not at school. She works part-time as a data engineer in the Hartford Area.

MEGAN PETERS is a senior at Roger Williams University, where she is an editor for the Mount Hope Literary Magazine, as well as captain of the Swim & Dive team. After graduation, she plans to serve as an Americorps volunteer at a nonprofit in her hometown of Cape Girardeau, Missouri. Bryant Literary Review is her first publication.

AIDAN POWERS (Class of 2021) is from Tewksbury, Massachusetts, and is currently a senior at Bryant University. Aidan is a dual concentration in both Finance and Psychology, along with holding a student Portfolio Manager position for the Archway Equity Portfolio. After Bryant, his goal is to pursue a career in asset management.

JULIA RABOY was born and raised in Westchester, New York. She is currently a Junior at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine where she studies Gender and Sexuality Studies, History, and Philosophy. Outside of school, she loves dogs, her peloton bike, and a good New York Times crossword puzzle.

EL J REYES is a junior at Johnson & Wales University, studying Media and Communication Studies with a focus on media production and screenwriting. Her work has been previously published as a headline in the Stars and Stripes, a daily newspaper for the United States Armed Forces.

CLAUDIA ROSADO is an emerging poet, journalism major, and English minor at Boston University, set to graduate in May 2021. She has previously been published in Lowlands Magazine.

LEAH RYAN is from southern Maine. She is graduating from Bryant University in May of 2021 with degrees in Actuarial Mathematics and Team and Project Management. She is an HRA, ACE peer tutor, and honors student.

MCKENNA THEMM is currently an MFA in Creative Writing: Poetry student at San Diego State University. Her poems have been published by the San Diego Union-Tribune, JMWW, and The Stray Branch. She is writing her first full-length collection of poems, based on the life and work of Vincent van Gogh. She is the managing editor at the Los Angeles Review, the production editor for Poetry International, the MFA Director's Assistant at SDSU, a Content Strategist at Circa Interactive, and a Teaching Associate at SDSU. □