Bryant Welcomes New President And New Students

Dr. Harry F. Evarts
Fourth President of Bryant College

A Word Of Greeting From Our New President

It is with pleasure and deep appreciation to the Presidential Search Committee, which had student representation, that I begin my responsibilities as President of Bryant College.

The past several months have certainly been challenging and rewarding ones for you. The new campus in Smithfield is progressing very well; and, barring any unforeseen labor or material shortages, we continue to plan toward our "moving day" in September, 1971.

I shall need several weeks to get settled into my duties, but I am looking forward to meeting many of you personally in the coming months. Dean Nelson J. Gulski has my deepest admiration and appreciation for his excellent interim leadership as Acting President of Bryant. Alumni should be very proud to have such a capable leader among their members.

I shall count upon your encouragement and support to make Bryant one of the outstanding colleges in the nation. As we progress together, I invite your opinions and suggestions.

Half-Price Book Sale Underway

For the second straight year students are able to buy and sell used books. In the past these book sales have been found to be quite helpful and very convenient. The book sale is being held in the lounge directly above the book store. We need your books to sell! Just bring us your old books and we will sell them at half their original cost. On Monday, September 21, you will be able to pick up any of your unsold books and the money for those that were sold less a 10% charge for selling.

Remember the success of this book sale depends on you! Bring us your books and at the same time browse around and pick up your books for the semester.

We will be open from 9:00 A.M. to 3:00 P.M. daily. See you in the lounge above the book store!

Dr. Evarts Fourth Bryant President

The Presidential Search Committee wishes to announce that on Friday, June 5, the Trustees of the College unanimously elected Dr. Harry F. Evarts President of the College. Dr. Evarts is a native of Troy, New York. He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees at Ohio University in the fields of Economics and Management. His Doctor of Business Administration degree was earned at the Harvard Business School in 1959.

In addition to two years in the U.S. Army (Korea), Dr. Evarts worked as an industrial engineer in private industry for three years, served on the faculty of northwestern University for five years, and later rose to the rank of full professor at Ohio University's College of Business Administration. Since 1965, Dr. Evarts has held the post of Dean of the College of Business Administration at Ohio University in Athens.

Dr. Evarts was the first choice of the Presidential Search Committee, carrying the highest number of votes of any of the three candidates recommended to the Board of Trustees.

Our new president will officially take office on September 1, but will be on campus from time to time to meet College personnel and to acquaint himself with the problems confronting the College.

New Students Arrive

Bryant College began its 108th academic year last Saturday with the arrival of freshmen and transfer and resident students. The freshmen who arrived will be part of a class of about 825 persons. After two days of orientation they were joined by upperclassmen with registration for all taking place Tuesday and Wednesday. Total enrollment is about 2,000 for the 1970-71 academic year.

Those returning students saw many new changes and faces in the ranks of Bryant College. Seven new instructors have joined the Bryant College faculty. A new Dean of Student Life and a new Dean of Women have also joined the Bryant family. Among physical changes to the campus is the lessening number of co-ed students, with the number of women dormitory students at 169. Two dormitories have been converted from women's to men's residence halls. Many rules and regulations have also been changed to meet the needs of the ever changing Bryant, changes needed now and in preparation for the move to the new Smithfield campus in the fall of 1971.

BULLETIN

From The Editor's Desk An Open Letter

Dear Freshman:

You are about to embark on a totally new career, that of a college student. The life of a college student as compared to that of a high school student is analogous to sand lot baseball and major league baseball. Although they are both baseball, there certainly is no comparison between the two.

Before you lies a most challenging and rewarding experience. As a student at Bryant College you may find it difficult to keep abreast of all the events and happenings on campus. I can think of no better place to be, to be in the know, than The Archway.

The Archway is published weekly and we on the staff attempt to present all sides of an issue fairly and accurately. You too can be a part of this beehive of activity.

Now that you're on campus, won't you look us up? We are looking forward to meeting you.

Even if you don't wish to join our staff, stop by the office or write if we can be of any assistance to you.

Sincerely,
Harold C. Monroe,

College Editors Show Pollution Concern

(ACP) — Fifty-nine per cent of the nation's college newspaper editors see pollution as an immediate threat to their lives according to a recent poll conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press.

Two hundred polls were sent out to colleges across the nation and of the 98 polls returned, 29% indicated that this threat of ecological pollution had lessened their desire to propagate.

Organized movements dedicated to fighting pollution have begun on 45% of the campuses represented, and 20% more should experience such movements in the near future.

However, 52% of the editors polled did not feel that pollution will become a more important issue on their campuses in the near future than the draft or the war in Vietnam.

Sixty-eight per cent of the editors have considered or waged an editorial campaign against pollution, but only 13% are members of an organized group against it.

When asked what they were doing to prevent pollution, 46% admitted they were doing nothing.

Many of the others are using their editorial pages to make the public aware of the problem.

Some are fighting pollution by leaving the anti-pollution devices on their new cars, or by not owning a car and walking to and from school.

A couple are stopping smoking or guarding against littering; a few are writing their congressmen.

One editor and his future spouse plan to adopt children rather than have their own.

Some editors are organizing rallies and teach-ins, but about 20% don't seem to consider pollution to be a major threat to their lives or their campuses.

One fellow from Nebraska comments: "I do not do anything to aid pollution, but the problem here is not as bad as in many places, I feel."

Another from Georgia says he is doing "nothing because of the location of our college — in a small southern town. Pollution is not so obviously a threat here as it is in metropolitan areas."

One girl expressed the opposite viewpoint. "I'm finding out as much about it as I can, so I can act intelligently to prevent it. In the meantime, I'm doing what I can."

A Letter

To Dorm Students,

I hope you all had a great summer. The dormitory council, like the Student Senate is here to serve the students. This year, the dorm council will move toward such goals as longer parietal hours, better living conditions, and establishing a line of communication with the Administration pertaining to the standards we will have on the new campus. If any problems occur in your residency here at Bryant, see your dorm president and he or she will in turn bring it to the attention of the dorm council for immediate action. Remember your life here at Bryant is what you want to make it.

Thank you,
Ed Metcalfe

Ode to a Vice President

Chaos seems to rule today
With change and flux and flight

Each inner mind is sure of
What's intuitively right.

Uncalloused hands hold high the Banner of some sundry cause

While middle-aged and
balding tongues
Quote antiquated laws.

Perhaps the past sowed
fruitless seeds
That hybrid channeled
thought

And maybe youth will still deny
The good that age has wrought

But, I'll move on steadily toward the light
For nature doesn't need my help
To paint a darker night.

Insights

by Alan Kluger

As a new year begins at Bryant College we cannot forget the events of last spring. These events undoubtedly will act as a catalyst in the shaping of Bryant College's future. The question remains, will these events act as a beneficial rebirth or will they do great damage to the future of this institution? The answer will not be known for some time, for it will be the actions of the Students, Faculty, and Administration that will decide the successes or failures of the upcoming year.

Last spring the forces of contrast broke down into many groups. Among the students, there was the "radical" element, the so-called "conservative" factions, and each had its number of followers. There was a bitter confrontation between Vietnam War Veterans and Strikers. There was harrassment and name calling from both sides. No one was excluded in the bitter exchange of ideals.

In the hallowed halls of the Faculty House the situation was similar. There were those who were branded as "student sympathizers", "senile-old men" and one man's ability as a spokesman was not only questioned, but dragged out into the open like dirty linen.

Even inside the ivy covered walls of 154 Hope Street, hours were spent debating the course of action needed to "restore control."

All three segments of the Bryant Community underwent a great change in terms of respective attitudes toward each other. There is now a serious rift in the foundation of this college. As we enter this crucial period in determining the course of our school's future, I offer an impassioned plea to everyone: To all "radicals", "conservatives", "student sympathizers", "senile-old men" and disenchanted members of the Administration; Put down the implements of revenge, bury the hatchets, and reunite with your self-proclaimed foes. Let us use the past only as a lesson so that we may look to the future. Let us all work together as a cohesive unit whose main goal is the betterment of Bryant College.

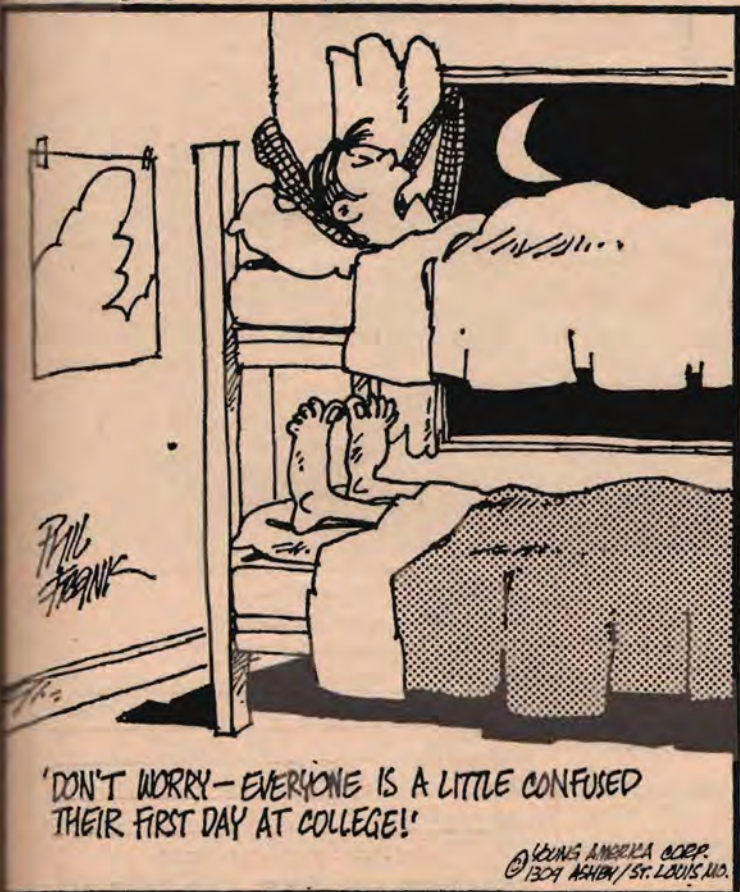

Here is a reminder to those who question the plausibility of re-unification; Lest we forget that Pittacus when he had got Alcaeus into his power released him, saying "Forgiveness is better than revenge."

The Right Comment

By William S. Holden

Introduction

Now that another semester is upon us, we find that we must settle down to business. The administration, faculty, and majority of students know what should be done, notwithstanding that some of the latter group do not always give this impression. However, there is on our campus a group of students who do not really know what to expect—discounting distorted news coverage of campus activities—or what is expected from them. This group bears the undistinguished but not unworthy classification number of one. It is to this group that this week's article is devoted.

For many of you, this is your first time away from home, with the possible exception of having gone to summer camp some years ago. At summer camp there were counselors who told you what may or may not have been done. The situation here is different. With the exception of a few regulations set by the college you are free to do as you please, so long as you remain within the law. There is no one to tell you when and how long to study. Similarly, you do not have to be "home" at any special time. You are now the one to determine where to go, what to do, and when to return. With this new founded freedom comes a great responsibility, greater than most of you currently realize.

It is up to you, not your parents, to decide what is best for you at college. Ask yourself, "Why am I here?" If your reason is other than "to get a good education," you should drop out now, pack your bags, and go home. By now, however, you should realize that learning and education is not limited to studying books. Your associations with various types of people play a great role in your education.

There are three general classifications into which all students belong. Decide for yourself which classification to set as your goal. Now, not six months from now, is the time to set your goals. You could become a so-called "apathetic student", doing nothing and caring even less. Another alternative is to become a "good time Charlie" by going partying every night while neglecting your studies and trying to earn yourself a reputation as a big man on campus. Finally, you can become an involved student; attending your classes, studying your assignments, and becoming active in worthwhile organizations on campus (emphasis on worthwhile).

Before joining any organization you should first find out the stated objective of the organization and what it does. Then, observe the actual performance of both, the organization collectively and the members individually. For example, you should not come to college with your mind already made up that you are going to join a fraternity just because you know someone who did belong or now belongs to a fraternity. Forget that you ever saw the boys on the Ozzie and Harriet Show sitting around their frat house drinking milk and eating cookies. As "fraternity life" is different on each campus, observe the "fraternity life" at Bryant in a completely objective manner. Then, if you feel that you would like to join a fraternity, compare the various fraternities and select the fraternity which is best for you. You will have plenty of time to make this decision. There is no law which requires that you pledge a fraternity in your first year at college. Therefore, if you are not completely sure about joining, or if your first semester grades are unsatisfactory, you can always wait until next year to join.

To get back to the point, it is your decision which will determine what will become of you in the next four years. If you make an honest effort, no more than that can be asked of you. If you are just here to a) avoid the draft, b) have good times, or c) become a dope freak, remember, a) the maximum fine for draft dodging is $5,000; considerably less than the cost of two years of college, b) you can go around the world and still have vast amounts of "good time" money left for the price of one year of college, c) your friendly neighborhood pusher will gladly supply you with seemingly unlimited quantities of dope for $3,500 a year. You might even purchase sufficient quantities to go into business for yourself.

Don't waste your time or money. Make the most of it.

Bob Antignano Selected To N.A.I.A. All-Stars

Bob Antignano

By Bill Stien

Bob Antignano, hard hitting second baseman for the Indians last spring, was among nine players selected to the N.A.I.A. (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, District 32) All-Star team which was announced on June 4th. In July he was also named to the N.A.I.A. Honorable Mention All-American Baseball team.

Bob, who is entering his junior year, is from Johnston, Rhode Island. He was the top hitter with a .349 average. He also led the team in five other areas: official appearances — 63, runs—16, hits—22, base hits—4, stolen bases—9, and unofficial appearances —16. Out of a total of 76 chances, Bob made only 6 errors for a .920 fielding average. He was instrumental in leading Bryant to an 11-8 record and thus was voted Co-Most Valuable Player, along with Don Gray, by his teammates.

X-Country to Defend S.N.E.C. Title

The 1970 Bryant Cross Country Team began training yesterday to defend the Southern New England Conference Cross Country Championship which the team won last year at Nichols. Returning to Coach Fred Rheinhardt's team are the top three runners from last year's team: Roy Lapidus, Bob Armstrong, and Charlie Guglielmetti. Also returning are lettermen Don Macaulay, Charlie Hasheil, Mike Taylor, and Tom Lees.

Carl Cannon will be joining the team and should provide much needed depth. The first team competition will be a five mile road race in North Attleboro on September 19. All home meets will be run on the five mile course at the Tupper Campus in Smithfield.

Armstrong 14th in Road Race

Bob Armstrong, captain of last year's Bryant Cross Country Team, won a 14th medal in the annual Warwick Labor Day Road Race.

His time for the 5.3 mile course was 30:15 which represented an improvement of almost four minutes over his time in the same race last year.

Bob, who is a senior, will be returning to the Bryant team for his final season of collegiate cross country competition.

Brown Football Tickets Reduced

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Advisory Council of Brown University it was suggested that a half-price ticket for Brown football home games be offered to all college students of Rhode Island. The suggestion has been approved and a $4.00 reserved seat can be purchased for $2.00 with the presentation of a school I D card. The student may also purchase a seat for his date at the reduced price.

You can start in the mailroom, or you can start on executive row.

Most people say you have to start at the bottom no matter how high you want to climb.

Is that really so?

Maybe it's a story they tell just to get people to start at the bottom.

The United States Air Force lets you start climbing as soon as you get out of Officer Training School. If you have a college degree you become highly responsible, fast, as an Air Force pilot.

You become a space-age leader on the Aerospace Team.

Lots of people start at the bottom.
