Don Gray Scores His One-Thousandth Point

Don Gray, an eighth-semester senior, scored his 1000th career point in Bryant's 9th victory held last Thursday against University of Maine. Although he only needed 3 to make the career mark, Don made 11 just to be sure. This makes Don the second to accomplish such a feat at Bryant, the first being Tom Smile.

Don has been a star athlete dating back to his high school days at Rogers High both in basketball and baseball. Although only 5' 9" tall, and 165 lbs., he has amassed such statistics as 245 rebounds; 1008 points in his college career as of Thursday's game. He was leading scorer in his sophomore year with a 17.2 average. He has since made a winning battle against mental and physical odds against him from an attack of mononucleosis. He has constantly been a spark to the team as well as an offensive and defensive threat to our opponents on the court with an average of 9.9 points a game.

What does Don make of this milestone in his career? Although nervous before and during the first few minutes of the game, Don hasn't made too much of it. As Coach Folliard says "Donnie has wanted only one thing—to play ball" and we're glad he is.

Youth Guidance Seeks Members

Do you want to be someone? Do you want to do something that will give yourself personal satisfaction and also a chance to help somebody else? If any one of these happen to be an aim in your life, then look into the Youth Guidance Association.

A special kind of person is needed for this type of organization. We don't accept just anyone. You must be willing to make a lot of sacrifices in time, work, and patience. We don't want anyone who's just doing it so that his personal status will be lifted. We want someone who is willing to work hard and many times without thanks. Your thanks will come to you when your little brother or sister have waited for an hour in the pouring rain for you to come and in a deep shivering voice says "Hi."

If you have any questions or are interested in joining the organization, contact any member and he will be gladly assist you.

Curriculum Changes

Much talk has been in the air concerning the present curriculum of studies offered at Bryant. Consequently, numerous questions have been raised relating to possible future changes, additions, and omissions concerning the curriculum. Recently I interviewed Dr. Thomas A. Manion, Academic Vice President of the College, to find out exactly what the college administration has in mind concerning curriculum changes.

The motto of Bryant, "Education for Business Leadership" is a compact summation of the desired result of the following proposals for the near future. The need today is for good business leaders, not just "specialized business mechanics" in a given business area.

Four new majors are in the process of approval this week: Industrial Management, Finance, Office Administration, and Accounting systems (EDP). If approved, these new majors will take effect at the new campus in 1972.

Also, by 1972, the requirement for one to be eligible to sit for the C.P.A. Exam will be extended to five years of undergraduate study instead of the four year minimum now required. At Bryant, a student planning to eventually sit for the C.P.A. Exam can continue here for one year of graduate study after receiving his B.S. in Accounting. The student will then qualify to sit for the exam with five years of study completed.

The new proposed Finance Major will prepare the student for a career in business finance from a management standpoint. Institutional Management will be a major in Travel Tourism. The Accounting Systems (EDP) Major will prepare the student for a career in programming, a field of widespread expansion today. The Office Administration Major is particularly designed for women who wish to continue their education beyond an Associate Degree in Secretarial Studies. This program will consist of mainly management courses, in the last two years, to prepare the student in assuming more executive and administrative duties.

In addition to the six present majors, Secretarial Studies, Teacher Education, Accounting, Management, Marketing, and Economics, plus the four new proposed majors, stated previously, two more programs have been added to the night school curriculum, Transportation and Law Enforcement. This gives Bryant a total of twelve undergraduate majors.

With the above changes in mind, one can readily see Bryant's attempt to keep pace with the ever changing complex world of business. The school is also in the process of initiating a core program where the first two years of the Business Administration Program will be almost identical. More professional electives are now being offered to seventh- and eighth-semester students. It is hoped that fifteen professional business credits, out of the sixty required for graduation, will become electives in the near future. The core program and the individual selection of business electives will also be of great value to transfer students from two year colleges.

A final question in many students' minds is whether more liberal arts courses will be offered in the future. Presently, sixty hours of liberal arts study is required for the B.S. degree. The majority of these liberal arts courses are explicitly required for graduation. It is hoped that, in the future, the curriculum will only state so many credit hours required in science, so many in humanities, so many in English, etc. Then the choice of how to "spend" these various credit hours will be left up to the student in accordance with his own particular interests.

How To Become President

A unique and rather exclusive organization will be represented at Bryant College on February 10, 1970. The Young Presidents' Organization will initiate the lecture series for this semester. The Young Presidents' Organization is composed of outstanding men who became president of their companies before the age of 35. The topic for the evening will be, "How to become a Young President by really trying."

The organization's representatives comprising the panel will include Bronson H. Fargo of the Sure Oil & Chemical Corp., located in Worcester, Mass., John M.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

IN REPLY TO MAGICAL MYSTERY TOUR

This letter is in reference to the article, "Magical Mystery Tour", which appeared in the Christmas issue of the Archway about the Registrar's Office being a lion's den.

First of all, I feel that the article was written in very poor taste. Using sarcasm and scaring people away from the Registrar's Office before they even go is not possessing or displaying mature collegiate conduct. Just because some students have had a bad experience in obtaining information on schedules, electives, or dropping a course doesn't mean that all other students will.

Did you ever ask yourself why Dr. Hammond occasionally shows irritation towards a student who comes to see him? Take a few minutes and put yourself in his shoes.

For the past three years, I have had close contact with the Registrar. Students come in at all times during the day and many expect to see him the minute they arrive at the office. Do you ever stop to think that Dr. Hammond is busy doing other work pertaining to our college records? Have you made an appointment to see Dr. Hammond so that you could see him at the time that is convenient for you? There are very few business offices that will do business without appointments so consider yourself lucky that you are allowed to walk into the Registrar's Office at any time.

If you could see the way students approach Dr. Hammond, perhaps you'd realize why he becomes annoyed at times. I would be, too. Every person that has gone to the office with etiquette that we should all develop as we prepare for the business world has received the same etiquette in return. Those who have had a demanding and irritated manner have been treated with the like.

I've also seen students ask questions that they, themselves, could answer if they did some thinking of their own instead of running to someone else for the answer. This is disturbing in itself. Did you ever stop to realize that perhaps Dr. Hammond is doing you, the student, a favor by forcing you to think for yourself? If someone doesn't at this stage in your life, when will you learn to make decisions?

It was stated in the article, "Magical Mystery Tour", that the student doesn't know whether to take Biology or Political Science, and yet the student body wants the freedom to select and plan their own schedules and courses as is done in many other colleges. If you can't decide on one elective, how can you decide on your entire schedule of courses?

As to being greeted by an uninformed secretary, I'm sure every student has been greeted most graciously. If you're there to see the Registrar, why do you expect the secretary to answer what you came to see the Registrar for? Her job is not the Registrar's job. The secretary is there to keep records of the arrangements made by the Registrar, Dr. Hammond, and the Assistant Registrar, Mr. Alberg, and is in no way obligated to disclose this information.

Furthermore, the article stated that as one sits in the office and surveys the surroundings he sees "a quivering, cowering student trying to speak to Dr. Hammond." Are you, the student body, going to stand for being pictured this way?? Since when are we afraid to stand up for our own rights?

In the very near future, there will be a certain amount of time allotted each day to see the Assistant Registrar, Mr. Richard Alberg, about schedules, conflicts, etc. The final decision on the particular problem will be correlated between the Assistant Registrar and Registrar.

Any students needing to go to the Registrar's Office, please go there with a sincere attitude and be pleasantly surprised at the help you will receive.

Respectfully submitted,

Fran Maby

WORDS OF THOUGHT FOR HARRY KRISHMAN

The Bryant environment is quite honored to have a person of your writing caliber among us. We will have equal pride of watching you develop into another Jonathan Swift. For it was his work title "A Modest Proposal" which satirized the evils of 17th century England. Of course our institution has not reached the point to where roast children are being served in the dining hall.

Sarcasm is sometimes a brutal, but needed tactic to bring across a point. I believe there to be a distinct difference between sarcasm and cynicism. Cynicism is the last refuge of the idealist. Let me pass this thought on to you . . . be it only but a sheath for your own literary scalpel.

Theoretical concepts far too often become the premise for the idealist writing his "ideal article". Most theories remain workable only on the surface of a piece of paper.

It is the science of pragmatism that turns ideas into workable solutions. It also is pragmatism that discards cynical criticism for rationale and reasoning. Ideas should be intellectual instruments for directing our activities when we are dealing with reality. The pragmatist, William James, puts forth the concept that an "idea is truth only if it corresponds to reality." He argued that truth in its practical character means the property of an idea that will lead us successfully from one point on the continuum of our experience to some other point through a successive series of experiences. John Dewey, an American pragmatist, points out that good is not defined, "in terms of desires and satisfactions that occur regardless," but in terms of a "harmony of satisfactions and desires that result from intelligent inquiry." This concept might be applied to the Needed Good at this school.

You have so "carefreely" lifted the words "Hare Krishna" from Allen Ginsburg's poem. If your research had taken you a little further than just the title you too might have found that "Hare Krishna" is a newly formed American religious cult based around peace and harmony with one another. Hardly a title synonymous with your articles.

The word "Peace" seems to be an overused word in this day.

By no means do I see any detrimental effects in seeking "Peace." Personally I see more hope towards the attainment of peace between men by helping the pragmatist than blindly following the stoned idealist.

The words "Hare Krishna" meaning "to live with peace", becomes pragmatic only when people cease to just state the phrase and start applying it.

The purpose of this article is not to promote a personal feud between one another but to make known the presence of a highly opinionated system of intellectual checks and balances on one another. May it be that we and others might pick up some new ideas . . . at least a mild stimulation of thought.

Steven R. Hill

On the Movie Scene

By Jesse Linhares

Who would ever think that the old adage, "Good will triumph over evil," would be the theme of a comedy starring Steve McQueen? As far fetched as it may seem, this proves its place in this fabulously entertaining movie. It is hard to discern whether Steve McQueen is the good or the evil. A Reiver is a person who lies and steals to achieve any goal that will give him pleasure. I guess Steve McQueen will go down as the greatest Reiver who ever lived.

The setting is in old Alabama just after the turn of the century. The characters are vivid and friendly but very dependent upon the town's rich man called Boss. The story begins when Boss buys one of those new contraptions called an automobile. Now I ask you what happens out a man's best and worst at the same time better than a car? Well, things weren't any different then. Steve McQueen is the semi-adopted son of Boss who takes over as chauffeur and protector of the canary yellow model T.

As told by the narrator, things really begin to buzz in that town after Steve McQueen gets the car. There were a few minor incidents surrounding the car before grief struck Boss's family and the movie really starts to move. While the family has gone to a funeral Steve decides to take the future, the car, and a little boy and mold them into a good time in the big city.

I'll try to wrap up the story without giving away the whole movie. In order to get the car Steve has to take Boss's grandson with him. This is where the story gets its plot. Steve McQueen teaches the boy the art of the Reiver. He shows the innocent kid the wonderful rewards of a well thought out lie. From here on out the story is packed with laugh filled action.

I can't tell you any more of the movie without ruining it for whoever plans on seeing it. I'll give you one last bit of information: Good does win out in the end.

The movie is very good and the acting is superb. Though the only famous star is Steve McQueen, all the minor roles are played by well picked talented actors. The role might be different from that of "Bullitt," but my guess is Steve McQueen might be for another oscar nomination for his role in the "Reivers."

P. S. If you don't like flick, it's your fault, not the writers.

CURRICULUM

There is no proposed expansion of liberal arts courses in the curriculum. Only an expansion of choice of both liberal arts courses and professional courses. Bryant is a college specializing in business leadership, not a university composed of various colleges. Consequently Bryant has received its reputation as an excellent business school.

ALPHA SIGMA ALPHA

The sisters of ASA would like to congratulate all the girls who received their bids. We hope that you are looking forward to pledging as much as we are. Congratulations to alumni sister Sharon DeMerchant on her recent engagement. Some of the sisters are planning a trip to BOSTON in the near future. Any interested brother should contact Helen.

ALPHA SIGMA TAU

The sisters would like to welcome back Pam Coates who was student teaching last semester and Nancy Harris. Congratulations to all those who received bids. You have a long four weeks ahead of you.

ALPHA THETA CHI

Congratulations to Frank Antonucci on . . . finally graduating from Bryant. Four and a half years is enough. Who's that new guy with the sunglasses? It's Pete Vescera, an X'er from three years ago. Hondo's basketball team is starting to click. With help from Herb Garrett and Dave Sweeney, the team should have a successful season. Pledging will begin today at 3 o'clock. The brothers would like to wish all the pledges the best of luck.

KAPPA DELTA KAPPA

Welcome back, everyone! Congrats to all those who will receive bids today. Pledging has arrived at last. Good luck to all our pledges in the weeks ahead.

PHI EPSILON PI

Pledging tonight! Congratulations to those who received bids. Thanks to Joel and Todd for the great party last weekend. Bubba and the mini-Brute can be found behind Johnny's. Bill Nerse is alive and well. "Real Man Award" goes to Harry Hoopis on his recent pinning to Chris. Harry, you have to be a Real Man to throw your life away like that.

PHI KAPPA TAU

Congratulations to all bid holders. We hope to see you as brothers in six weeks. Good luck to the basketball team. Best wishes to Phil Walker and Cathy Ferger who are to be wed Tomorrow.

PHI SIGMA NU

Good luck to all the Phi Sig pledges. Tonight is the first night. Congratulations to Dom Proto, Ev Chorney, Reg Lee, Mark Challis, Jack Renza—our graduating brothers. Phi Sig will surely miss two great brothers—Rich Edlin and Pete Calci. Congratulations to "GEO." on his pinning to Linda.

TAU EPSILON PHI

Congratulations to all pledges and social brothers. Best of luck to the basketball team. We are all saddened with the loss of the "OWL". Congratulations to brothers: G. Biben, Chico, P. Cavaretta, R. Biben, B. Parenteau, A. Fellner, and Clink for making the Dean's List. To all pledges of all sororities and fraternities, congratulations and best of luck.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

We hope everyone had a nice time during the semester break. Why does it take Ken Barth all day to wash his face? Best of luck, Joe Knight, getting married takes guts. Congratulations to everybody who received bids.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

Congratulations to Dave Cabonetti on his recent marriage. Good luck to all pledges—we're looking forward to calling you "brother." Watch out for DSP on the basketball court!!

BETA SIGMA CHI

Congratulations to all the brothers who graduated. Good luck to all the pledges.

V. A. College News

Q—Last summer when I went to school under the G.I. Bill, I was confused by the hours shown on the attendance card. I was only taking three semester hours, yet on the card it showed 15. Why is this?

A—Since summer school is an accelerated session, payment is based on standard class sessions rather than semester hours. sions per week.

However, to avoid confusion, this year the card will show the actual semester hours. You will still be paid on the number of standard class sessions.

Q—I am attending school under the G.I. Bill and am receiving $155 per month for myself and dependent wife. Do I have to report to the VA if my wife goes to work? Will she be dropped as my dependent, if she is to make a certain amount of money?

A—The answer to both of your questions is "No." The amount of your wife's income has no bearing on your dependency status as far as educational assistance is concerned.

Q—Recently I started training at State University. I now find that I would like to return to my home town and enter a junior college for the first two years. Is this permissible under the G.I. Bill?

A—Yes. Assuming that your ultimate training objective remains the same you may transfer between recognized colleges and universities. Contact your nearest VA office and request approval of the school you now desire to attend.

Q—I have been attending college on the G.I. Bill for the past two years. I married three months after I enrolled but VA still pays me a single person. Why?

A—You have not previously notified VA of your marriage. You can receive additional allowance for one dependent when you submit a declaration of marital status and a certified copy of the public record of your marriage. The effective date of the increase will be the day you first advised the VA of your marriage provided the proof is furnished within one year.

Viewpoint

By William Holden

I find it deplorable having elderly ladies in the student union. They are being granted privileges enjoyed by nobody but the students of Bryant College. Senior citizens have too many advantages already. They enjoy the privileges of medicare and social security. Instead of going to the union they can go to the Narragansett Room like all of the other non-students on campus. Why should they be allowed to go to our student union which is supposed to be a place to obtain food and socialize? The next thing they will want to do is to sell jewelry, such as rings, in the union.

The incident which ultimately caused me to object happened on the morning of January 22, 1970. I was enjoying my morning cup of coffee with a few friends when an employee of the union, accompanied by three elderly ladies carrying full trays, came to our table and requested that we move so they might not have to carry their trays so far. We politely refused to move because it is our table and we were their first.

In the past my friends and I have condescended to senior citizen occupation of the table we normally sit at, but that will not continue.

I do not think that the continuance of this situation at Bryant College is conducive to an intellectual atmosphere. After all, what could we, as extremely intelligent college students, possibly learn from someone who may never have attended college?

I have been meaning to make note of these appalling deeds for some time. Thanks should go out to a fellow student for his suggestions which helped me develop my ideas.

Bryant Ups Record To 10-2 With 92-60 Win Over Gordon

By Mark Cutler

Everybody got into the act as Bryant defeated Gordon in league action last Monday night. All nine members of the team saw action and all but one registered in the point column. Bobby Chuprevich led the way although playing only half the game. He finished with 22 points. Also finishing in double figures were Tommy Burns with 16, Bill Zilliox, 13, George Yates 11, and Don Gray 10. Tommy Asselin also contributed 9 second half points, in coming off the bench.

The team defense limited Gordon to 17 first half points while employing a 3:1:1 half course press. This placed Gray, Peckham, and Burns at the "three position" double teaming the ball, and forcing turnovers and bad shots.

Zilliox again played an excellent game. He turned in thirteen rebounds to go with his thirteen points. He also played strong defense in his second straight strong performance. Tom Burns burned the nets the second half for five straight buckets. He played a good all around game except for a brief three minutes when he threw the ball away three straight times.

Don Gray never stops amazing the fans with the way he manipulates his body on his drives. He played a good defensive game along with Peckham as they double teamed the ball in the first half.

Peckham has to learn to shoot foul shots. It was a poor performance at the line for George who was one for six. He contributed five points and eight assists.

George Yates continued his drive toward the 1,000 point club as he finished with a strong 11 points and numerous rebounds. Yates will probably pass 1,000 tonight.

The freshmen team has a tough road the rest of the way. They lost Carl Mancuso a key rebounder and scorer. They have been helped by the coming along of Rich Lense. Not even in the starting lineup the first game, he has taken it upon himself to improve and he's had the help. Bill Stein is an excellent teacher when it comes to these freshmen. He has the team so, tightly knit that everybody is helping everybody else. The men on the bench are a cheering crowd by themselves.

If you want to see the Stein manner in players look at the way varsity players like Burns and Westman dive for loose balls, bloody their knees and such for their coach. Stein taught them to go to the floor. How many times this year has Bruce Stewart been seen diving over the scorers table? At Bridgewater he played the whole first half with a broken, bloody blister. This is the Stein manner. He is an ideal freshman coach. The hustle he teaches the young players is to the benefit of Tom Folliard. Come early next game and see the freshman team hustle. Stein himself is a spectacle. With the half empty gyms lately one can hear him disagreeing with the refs back at Bryant. At Bridgewater he drop-kicked a chair ten feet. The freshmen team is well worth seeing. You have your chance next week against Babson on Tuesday. Let's see more people at Marvel than there has been of late. Sure the team misses Gary and Alexander, but some people feel they're working hard to be the winners we all knew they were with Gary and company. I feel they are. They have yet to prove themselves losers since they lost some players. So let's get out to Marvel and support them next Tuesday against Babson.

Folliardmen Have New Look

If you hadn't a chance to catch the basketball team in action last week, you wouldn't know that the team has a new look. With the absence of Jim Gary, M.C. Alexander, and Sonny Garrick the team has gone through a change. They no longer can rely on the all-round play of Gary or the sixth-man spark of Alexander. With John Westman out of the lineup with an injury the team is now down to nine men.

Against Maine the team showed two new starters. George Yates and Tom Burns were combined with George Peckham, Donny (1,000 points) Gray and Bobby Chuprevich. Burns had done some outstanding work against Colby and started the next night against Babson. Also seeing plenty of action is sophomore Bob Pasano. Bill Zilliox is seeing more action and he is scoring. Against Maine Gray played the whole game which is great to see as he is needed on the court more and more because of the absence of Alexander.

Chuprevich is the only player on the team averaging in double figures. He's averaging somewhere around twenty points a game. With Gary's scoring gone, the team is going more and more to Chuprevich. Also important to the offense is George Yates who has really been hitting those all important offensive boards. Look for Yates to be a big scorer along with Bobby the rest of the year. Don't mistake the team as a two-gun team, however. The other three starters all have shown scoring ability. Burns is an explosive shooter, watch him when he gets hot . . . everything goes in. Gray and Peckham are adept at drawing the foul on the drive. The two of them have lived at the foul line lately.

The team defense has improved although it has some lapses against Maine. George Peckham had seven steals while George Yates had eight blocked shots against the diminutive Mainers.

The pressure is now on every man on the varsity right down to Asselin and Lamite. The team is being forced to produce with a manpower shortage but who was it that said he'd rather have quality than quantity? Bryant has a very good chance to go on and beat Babson and Barrington again and find themselves in the tournament. Second semester finds the team on the road more often than not including two long Maine trips. Let's all get out and get behind the team like we showed against Quinnipiac. Quinnipiac, by the way had a key player flunk off the team . . . Cliff Mosley will not be in uniform against Bryant when they travel to New Haven. The Indians need your support more now than ever before. The next home game is February 10th against Babson, our conference arch rival. We have already beaten them once up in Boston. Marvel Gym should be full for that one. See you all there!
