Dear Bryant Service Club,

Just a few lines to let you know that I am still stationed in England and have been for almost nine months. We were one of the first contingents to arrive in England, people, but now I guess the Americans have spread out just about everywhere.

The war seems to be affecting the college in a number of ways—the faculty, the students, and the administration. It seems just like yesterday that I too was cramming for finals on a hot, sultry day. How long has it been since I last saw thousands of others that I could be back again enjoying life as a civilian.

Really, though, in my little over a year in the Army I have had a number of very enjoyable and some unforgettable experiences. Fortunately, none of mine can compare with that of some of the boys.

Wishing to hear from you again.

Yours,
Bill McCaughy.

P.S.—Any donations.
