Looking Forward!

One New Year is Worth a Thousand Old Ones

You can prove it. Make 1928 a year of growth and progress.

—Build in the right direction each day and the sum total at the end of the year will please you.

—Success does not happen. It comes to those who work for it, study for it, and overcome the obstacles in the way of it.

—The very tasks you are doing from day to day are the very best training for subsequent responsibilities.

—Study the lives of successful men and women and you will find that a large part of their progress has resulted from doing things well—even the little things. Having acquired this habit they hold to it.

—Every member of the Bryant-Stratton executive staff and faculty is here to help you build for the future—

At best this help can only direct and encourage the motive power that lies within yourself.

POPULARITY CONTEST ALMOST ENDED
February 10 Draws Near

Who are they, Bryant-Stratton's most popular boy and girl? As yet we do not know, nor dare to guess; but by February tenth, next, we should have received a convincing number of votes to indicate an authentic decision of the whole college.

That a keen interest in the contest is prevalent among the students is shown by the increased number of votes cast every day, and by the enthusiasm with which the results are received every Tuesday and Friday mornings.

Judging by the results, the contest is sure to prove exciting: for there seems to be such an equality of popularity that the candidates are separated by narrow margins of one or two votes, in some cases tied. It is quite obvious that no candidate is certain of the place he or she now occupies. One is as likely to win as the other.

Who knows but that some “dark horse” not already on our list may enter the race and carry away the honors? It’s as easy to pick a winner now as it is to pick berries around a hornet’s nest—you’re likely to get “stung.”

As I have learned from reports on contests of previous years, history is repeating itself on the eighth floor. That same old friendly rivalry between the normal and secretarial classes still exists, and is as strong now as it ever was before. It is not only a battle of individuals, but a battle of departments.

The Business Administration and Accountancy Departments have placed several of their members in the contest and are giving them their support; but the Business Department is not as active as it should be. Maybe its members are playing the part of insurgents, waiting for a ripe moment to spring a surprise on us. Who knows?

Vote—and you shall have done your share in making Bryant-Stratton’s 1928 Popularity Contest a huge success.

Our Christmas Party
Santa Distributes A "Ton" of Gifts

December 23, the students of Bryant-Stratton College held their annual Christmas party, featuring the distribution of many gifts as has been the custom for many years.

Due to lack of snow, Santa Claus, impersonated by George Wilkinson, was compelled to come on foot; but, notwithstanding that handicap, he arrived on schedule time, driving before him his beloved team of gallant deer. The gifted deer, introducing Harold Dray, Raymond Chaufy, John Victoria, Charles Pielan, Byron Smith and Lorrie Hoffman, performed especially well.

An enthusiastic and expectant gathering awaited the arrival of old Santa. The students were not held in suspense long, however, for soon the jingling of sleigh bells from a distance was heard. Hardly a few seconds had elapsed when Santa drove briskly through the doorway with his team of spirited deer. The students responded with rounds of applause and cheers, which with the jingling of the sleigh bells, helped to perfect that wonderful atmosphere of Christmas spirit.

With a final jerk of the reins, Santa soon brought his horse under control. In his usual long-drawn fashion he began his speech with:

"Here I am!"

With bells a-jingle
You know me

I'm old Kris Kringle

(Here a dramatic pause—Santa's audience got mixed with his whiskeys)

I've a ton of gifts

As you can see
If you don't get your wish
Don't blame me.
Here, my 'dears,' give out—"

Santa's speech was interrupted by laughter and applause.

Lively Christmas Dance
At New Providence Plantations Club

With the Christmas vacation of one week in sight, the students of Bryant-Stratton College of Business Administration forgot business and entered with zest into celebrating the Christmas spirit.

The Seniors of the Business Administration Department were hosts at a Christmas Dance held in the ballroom of the new Providence Plantations Club Saturday, December 17. Music was furnished by the Metropolitan Dixie Sextet. The Committee included Dudley Seltzer, J. Everett McCabe, Lewis Dordine, Thomas Furey and Joseph Barlow.

Those who attended voted it a very enjoyable and colorful affair. Dancing began at eight and continued to twelve o'clock. Much credit is due the energetic committee who fostered this dance.

NEW MEMBERS FOR BETA SIGMA CHI

The Beta Sigma Chi Fraternity has started the year with a great deal of enthusiasm. It is working its way slowly along progressive lines.

An initiation was held on November 30, when the Fraternity accepted the new members: Arthur Burton, George Craig, Gilbert Crasston, Romeo Dunham, Solomon Golden, Charles Hinckley, Arnold Lalone, Edwin Libby, James McLaughlin, George Wilkinson, Raymond Nadeau.

Their Idea of Work
Boss: "What are you two darkies doing, walking so slowly up those stairs?"
Midnite: "We is workin', boss. We is carryin' dis heah desk up de stairs."
Boss: "I don't see any desk."
Midnite: "Foe de Lawd's sake, Carbona, we done forgot de desk!"

With the assistance of his reindeer and other members of the "Booster" Board, the many gifts were distributed from the huge Christmas tree. The faculty, students and executive officers were all remembered.

Dancing followed and continued to five-thirty. Music was furnished by the college orchestra including Harold Hinckley, piano; Arthur Lewis, violin; Thomas Byrnes, saxophone; Harold Nightingale, drums.

The Booster Prospects
The Editor-in-Chief is Happy

The three issues of "The Booster" have merited very favorable comment and support. Not only do our readers appear to favor the new size, the introduction of new features, and the printing of literature published, but they are also much pleased with that variety of material which is so essential in satisfying the demands of all readers.

We have our technical and business men who find pleasure in reading the business topics, editorials, and essays; our worthy friends who are not satisfied until they have gleamed every joke for a hearty laugh; our athletic fans; our poetry enthusiasts; news seekers, etc. Each one has tried to entertain. Our aim is to please.

We have received an abundance of jokes and anecdotes, and news of the activities in the college have come from various sources.

We congratulate those who have contributed to "The Booster," and urge them to continue their good work. In addition to these, new writers will be welcomed, for they are certain to furnish us with many new ideas.

"The Booster" now has a circulation of 1500—financially healthy—in paying a courteous visit to schools and colleges throughout the country which send their publications to us—and will grow in size and interest with the aid of your active and continued cooperation. More advertisements are needed. See if you can get some—and then—patronize our Advertisers.

Bryant-Stratton Students Win in National Shorthand Test

Graded on Accuracy and Speed

Miss Mary O'Brien and Miss Anna Knowlton of our Secretarial Department, were successful candidates in the recent shorthand test given throughout the United States by the Gregg Publishing Company of New York. One hundred and twenty-five words a minute for five consecutive minutes, were dictated. Miss O'Brien made a record of ninety-eight and Miss Knowlton, ninety-five percent.

Both young women were awarded bronze medals attesting accuracy and speed in Shorthand.

Such proficiency in shorthand comes through careful attention and training. Miss Grant is looking for future champions among the students now studying theory. When they arrive in the Office Training Department, Mrs. Dyre will give them that painstaking, finishing touch which developed our recent winners.

RECENT HAPPENINGS

Dolores Iannuccillo, who has been ill for some time, has returned to her classes.

Helen Cullen and George Silver of Attleboro, Mass., evening school students for the past two years, were married January 4th.

Evening school students sympathetic with Catherine and Fred McCaffrey in the death of their mother.

Harold Dray of New London, who was badly injured in a recent automobile accident, is reported as improving and will return shortly.

B-S girls are assisting in getting the books, collected by the Providence Journal, ready for shipment to Vermont.

Josephine Kirda, who won the silver medal for high standing in the Evening Stereographic Department 27, has the sympathy of her friends in the loss of her father.

Leap Year Dance a Success

At last the evening of January 11, 1928, finally arrived. To many people, there was nothing unusual about this particular night but to the students of the Normal-Secretarial Department it meant their social function, long dreamed of, was actually going to take place. The dance, held in Froebel Hall, proved to be a great success financially and socially and surpassed the fondest hopes of the committee, thanks to the efforts of the boys of the Business Administration Department, whose assistance was greatly appreciated.

"Peppy" music was furnished by the College orchestra, with Harold Hinkley at the piano. The committee comprised Miss Mary Mullaney, chairman, assisted by Miss Marie O'Connor, Miss Georgiana Beasham, Miss Sadie Fogel, Miss Celia Einstein, Miss Katherine Buckley, Miss Julia Ferreira and Miss Mary Kelley.

Many of the dances were in keeping with Leap Year customs, the young women choosing their own partners. Attractive favors were distributed at intermission. Members of the faculty were present to participate in this pleasant affair.

Marie O'Connor.

WE WONDER WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF
H. Andrews wasn't giggling.
Bourl wouldn't cough during penmanship.
Heerau didn't say "shut up."
Boucher wasn't making faces.
Cook wasn't humming.
Collins didn't blush.
Hungar wasn't whispering.
G. Johnson forgot his powder.
Kilton got it in spelling.
Latt didn't think she was good looking.
Lewis didn't wear an attractive tie.
Malle came in early.
Tayler was sitting still.

We wonder what Miss Jefferson would do if all the pupils knew their spelling. (Oh, what a shock she would get.)

Conundrums
Why is the letter U a most uncertain letter?
Because it is always in doubt. —

Why is the letter E lazy and extravagant?
Because it is always in bed, and never out of debt. —

What is the strongest day of the seven?
Sunday. Because the others are week days. —

It has been asked, "When rain falls, does it never get up again?"
Of course it does, in dew time.

"Mix Thoroughly"
A young bride asked her husband to copy a radio recipe she wanted. He did his best, but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting physical exercises and the other the recipe. This is what he took down—

Hands on hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes, and mix thoroughly in half a cup of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, lower the legs, and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a sieve. Exhale, breathe naturally, and sift into a bowl.

"Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg until it comes to a boil. In ten minutes remove from the fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels, and serve with fish soup."
Jingle: Hey Bell, why didn't you go to the leap year dance?
Bell: Huh, I didn't want to do any leaping.

Here I am, who's going to keep this chair warm?

May be a traffic cop would help the elevator situation at 245.

-Resolutions-

Now don't none folks, I'm just going to take your picture.
WORDS OF WISDOM

He has good judgment who does not always trust his own.

He who can take advice is sometimes superior to him who can give it.

The wise father said to his sons, "Remember as you go through life, every man you meet in business is a little smarter than you are."

The greater the difficulty, the more glory in surmounting it. Skillful pilots gain their reputation from storms and tempesets.

The men who are lifting the world upward and onward are those who encourage more than criticize.

Intelligence!

Gatekeeper—How's she get in here?

Collegian—On my friend's ticket.

Gatekeeper—And where's your friend?

Collegian—Oh, he's home looking for his ticket.

LIFE

Life was not given to us simply to ramble aimlessly through the world. Each one of us has a place to fill. Each of us is a link in the great chain of the universe. Each of us has a part to play. Some of us forget. We assume no responsibility and bear no load; neither toil nor spin.

During the next generation, who will keep the industrial, social, political and religious machinery in operation, if we do not carry on the work?

We are expected to carry on and to perform it well, even better than our forefathers. We owe it to ourselves and to the world to so shape our lives that we will be qualified to render the best of service to the world. May it be said of each one of us when we are gone, "He has finished the course, he has fought the good fight."
MISS KNIGHT, our Student Welfare and Placement Bureau Director, is always glad to hear over the telephone, "Miss Knight, they've accepted me!" from a recently placed graduate—or a short note telling how one is getting on. Such appreciative acknowledgement tells her where our graduates can be found for any future reference, and also that the business men asking for office assistants have been satisfied. At all times, she will be grateful for prompt, courteous response from those whom she assists through her department.

"GOOD WILL"
Pan-American Conference to Promote Peace and Prosperity

On January 16, President Coolidge, journeying outside of his homeland for the first time since he became President, spoke to the distinguished gathering in Cuba not as the head of a prominently powerful country but as the spokesman of a nation on an equal footing with all others. He was trying to find the way to a peaceful solution of whatever problems interfered with their complete understanding and friendship.

"All nations here represented," Mr. Coolidge said, "stand on an exact footing of equality. The smallest and the weakest speaks here with the same authority as the largest and the most powerful. You come together under the present condition, with future expectation of profound peace. You are continuing to strike a new note in international gatherings by maintaining a forum, in which not the selfish interests of a few, but the general welfare of all, will be considered."

The material vehicles for the promotion of a closer union of American States enumerated by the American President were highways, railroad lines, ocean lines, transportation of mail by air and the Press of all countries. He noted that "great progress has been made in the publication of fuller information and unbiased news," but he expressed the hope for a still better exchange of news service between the various countries, contending that "what happens in this hemisphere is of more vital interest to all of us than what happens across any of the oceans."

President Coolidge portrayed his interest in the development of shipping between North and South America with the construction of railroads and highways to serve as feeders. He disclosed that he is asking the United States Congress for authority to send American Engineering Advisors to whatever South American nations request their services.

He predicted that air mail routes will be established soon and told the Conference that the American Congress was considering supporting such routes, and that private citizens of the United States negotiating their establishment. "In the domain of commercial relations," the President added, "the last few years has made for an extraordinary strengthening of the economic ties binding together our republics. In both the agricultural and industrial production the countries of America are now complementing one another to an unusual degree, resulting in an ever increasing exchange of commodities."

Leo Nussnield.

HOW ARE THESE FOR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS?

Resolve to earn more money before you spend it. Resolve never to speak ill of anyone. Resolve to always speak the truth. Resolve to keep your own secrets and those of your friends. Resolve to be just before you are generous. Resolve to keep every appointment on time. Resolve to make few promises, but to keep those you do make. Resolve to keep good company or none. Resolve to save a certain sum each week. Resolve not to trouble trouble until trouble troubles you.

Popular Cause
If Pullman porters really want to abolish tipping, all they have to do is take a decided stand on the matter; we can assure them of plenty of backing.

BACKBONE There are two kinds of Backbonesthese are not with the Back and no Bone and the one with both Back and Bone! Backbone! what great things have been put across in your name!

It is a great thing to have a big Brain, a fertile Imagination, grand Ideas, but the man with these, bereft of a good Backbone, is sure to serve no useful end.

There is a little vise that starts at the base of great trees. Then it climbs and twines about until it squeezes and saps away unto death the tree around which it clings. It has not a Backbone —no vital individual strength of its own, so it seeks out to tear down and kill where there is strength, power and life. That is what Backboneless people do.

Stiffen your Backbone. Use it to stand alone with. Use it to bolster up your own individual resources. Use it to strengthen weaker Backbones than your own. Use it for the working out of your entire character. Then Deeds Done will gather about you in Battalions, and Opportunity will stand around anxious to introduce you to her friends.

Stiffen your Backbone. Use your Backbone at your job today—you who clerk, you whose fingers pound the type keys, you whose brains formulate plans, distribute details and master problems. For the temple of Success is upheld by the strong arms of men and women who have Backbone and use it.

TROUBLE IN THE OFFICE
The pencil has made a number of pointed remarks about the sponge being soaked all day and the waste-basket being full. The scissors are cutting up and the paper weight is trying to hold them down, while the macigale is sticking around to see that the stamps get a good licking. The ink's well, but appears to be blue, while Bill is stuck in the file and the calendar expects to get a month off. The blotter has been taking it all in.
Central Falls Quintet
Winner by 22-21 Score

As soon as it was notified that Attleboro high, upon whom it had counted for some real competition, had decided to cancel its basketball engagement, Central Falls High booked Bryant-Stratton of this city to fill the open date. The Providence team furnished all the opposition Central Falls desired. The score was: Central Falls 22, Bryant-Stratton 21.

You Tell Her—We Haven’t the Heart

Conversation had flagged. Both were getting desperate. He took another plunge.

"Uh—you are interested in sports?" he asked.

She was determined this time not to fail him.

"Oh, yes," she cried, with enthusiasm, as m. "I’m just dying to see whether Tilden will beat Dempsey!"

He gritted his teeth.

"And who do you think will win?"

"Oh—Tilden," she answered sweetly.

"by a touchdown."

ATHLETICS

B-S 19—Assumption College 33

On January 11, the Bryant-Stratton boys journeyed to Worcester to play the fast Assumption Quintet.

The first half saw an evenly played game, in which the B-S boys showed good team work.

The superior teamwork, plus good training, carried the Assumption boys to victory.

With only a few minutes to play, Captain Roberts crashed into the wall, in the act of making a basket, and was badly shaken up.

B-S 16—R. I. S. D. 27

Bryant-Stratton fell before the fast Design basketball team. Kauter, their star forward, was the high scorer of the game, and put in a few fine shots from the center of the floor. B-S made many fouls and the Design boys took advantage of this and missed very few of these shots. Coach Waterman substituted often in an effort to find a working combination.

B-S 34—Cranston High 6

In a closely played game the Bryant-Stratton quintet easily defeated the Cranston High School five.

From the very first basket the B-S boys showed their superiority and there was no doubt as to the outcome of the game. The clever work of our forwards, coupled with the wonderful defense by our guards, proved that the boys can play basketball. Casey, our center, was the shining light in this game, coming through with seven baskets from the floor and two fouls for a total of sixteen points, more than double the whole Cranston score.

The lineup included Roberts, Stowell, Feinberg, Casey, Hopkins, and Gallup.

Baskets: Roberts 2; Casey 7; Stowell 3; Feinberg 4. Fouls: Casey 2.

Bryant-Stratton Defeats Pharmacy

Bryant & Stratton outplayed Rhode Island College of Pharmacy, 38-10, in a basketball encounter at the Providence Y. M. C. A. Pharmacy started the scoring on a foul try but was unable to break the ice again in the first period, the opponents running up a lead of 8-1.

The second period was almost a duplication of the first with the business college boys on the long end of a 20-3 score at intermission. The Pharmacy five played desperately in the second half but to no avail. Casey, the winners’ center, was leading scorer with seven goals from the field and one from a foul try. Stowell tallied four field goals and Capt. Roberts and Hamer three each.

Cunningham, left guard, who shot two field goals, was the only member of the losing team to rim more than one basket. Jenkins was referee.
