FROM THE PRESIDENT’S DECK

A very cordial welcome to Bryant’s new students and a warm greeting to our returning ones.
May the college year be a happy and profitable one for every one of you.
We want all of you to get here at Bryant College a training that will fit you for the future, to help you to spend pleasant, happy days at Bryant while getting that training.
The happy person is the busy one, so work to get the most out of the training offered you.
Let there be no day without some constructive thing done. Know a little more each day than you knew the day before. The lesson you do not understand TODAY, the work you have not done TODAY, is harder to understand, harder to do, TOMORROW.

"The first years of man must make provision for the last," said Dr. Samuel Johnson. So let your Today’s make provision for your Tomorrows.
The members of the faculty, the administrative officers and I are at all times glad to help you solve any problems that may arise for you and help to make your days at Bryant happy and profitable ones. Do not hesitate to ask for that help when you need it.

The members of the faculty, the administrative officers and I are at all times glad to help you solve any problems that may arise for you and help to make your days at Bryant happy and profitable ones. Do not hesitate to ask for that help when you need it.

ASSEMBLY FRIDAY MORNING

The first Assembly of the college year will be held Friday morning of this week at 9:15.
Attendance of all students is required at Assembly always. Students are to be in their seats at 9:15 sharp.
Professor Frank Earle Waite, of the Rhode Island College of Education, will give the Orientation address. Professor Waite is lecturer on Psychology at Bryant and a member of the Bryant College Advisory Board. He is professor of Education and the Philosophy of Education at Rhode Island College of Education. He always has something well worth hearing and his lectures here in the past have made him very popular with Bryant students.

THE FIRST ALL-COLLEGE DANCE

The first All-College Dance of the year will be held in Stratton Auditorium on Friday, October 1st. Don Faben’s Orchestra, which scored such a success at the Senior Prom and which is the favorite orchestra of Dartmouth, Harvard and several other colleges, will provide the music.
A committee to represent the different sororities, fraternities, the Forum and other college organizations, will be announced soon, also the list of patrons and patronesses.
The entire student body is invited and each student may bring one guest.
TEA FOR DORMITORY RESIDENTS

Young ladies of Bryant College residing in any of the College dormitories, or St. Maria's Home or the Y.W.C.A., are invited to a Tea to be given at Bryant Hall Sunday afternoon, September 12, from 4.30 to 6 o'clock.

President and Mrs. Jacobs, and members of the Faculty and Administrative staff will receive and pour, assisted by the following seniors who are dormitory residents:

Marjorie Woigold, Balboa, Canal Zone; Annette Jones, Watton, Ill; Mary Houghton, Fort Fairfield, Maine; Dorothy Geiser, South Norwalk, Conn; Cynthia Cahoon, Woods Hole, Mass; Barbette Davis, Turners Falls, Mass; Phyllis Edwards, Chatham, Mass; Mabel Silkman, Goldens Bridge, New York.

BRYANT COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

The Bryant College Orchestra has long been a source of pride and pleasure to the College. The members themselves have enjoyed the hours spent in rehearsals under Professor Handy's able and enthusiastic direction and they have presented some very fine concerts.

If you play an instrument of any kind, join the Bryant College Orchestra. Come to the first rehearsal in Stratton Auditorium on Thursday, September 16th, at 3.30 p.m.

LORD MARLEY COMING

The first of a series of lectures by internationally known speakers will be given in Stratton Auditorium on Friday evening, October 14, by the Right Honorable Lord Marley, D.S.C., J.P., D.L.

Lord Marley is one of the most popular British speakers who has ever lectured in America, and his coming to Providence is one of the important events of the year.

Lord Marley's lecture is presented by Bryant College free to students and the interested public.
WELCOME, STRANGERS

This year's enrollment finds us with students from many distant states and foreign countries. To them we extend not only the welcome of Bryant, but also the welcome of Rhode Island. Strange places, strange customs, all make a new environment for which you may need special adjustment, special advice, from time to time. Do not hesitate to turn to the members of the administrative staff or the faculty for such help as they may be able to give you.

For these strangers within our midst, we bespeak from local students the friendly hospitality that will make the students from afar soon feel "at home" at Bryant and in Rhode Island. We give here a list of dormitory residents, so that you may know where to find the out-of-town students whenever you have the urge to make the gesture of friendliness and hospitality. Remember how YOU would feel if you were far away from home, and how YOU would like it if someone came around to your dormitory and said a friendly "hello."

STUDY IS PLEASANT AT BRYANT

An expression frequently heard about our College is, "Study is pleasant at Bryant."

There is pleasant contact with the members of the faculty, to whom every student is an individual, not just a member of the student body.

There is pleasant contact with fellow students in class rooms and on the campus and the founding of many fine, strong friendships.

And, there is a pleasant mixing of serious study and social and athletic activities. At no time are social or athletic affairs allowed to interfere with the chief purpose for which the student has come to Bryant - namely, to prepare for a business career - and the student whose classroom marks are in danger is not permitted to participate in many extra curricula activities.

But social and athletic affairs are more than a pleasant diversion. They are a valuable part of college life.

Athletics contribute to the healthy body which is necessary for mental effort. Dramatics develop poise and personality, an invaluable asset for the young man or young women of business. Photography instructs in a subject that plays an important part in many businesses of today. Club clubs develop good voices - and a good voice for telephonic conversation or public speaking is vastly important in business. Orchestral music nourishes the artistic side of one's nature and furnishes a diversion that makes a happy alternative for the serious side of life. Fraternities and sororities develop friendships and loyalties, a capacity for which is the mark of every good business man or woman. College dances, moonlight sails and class outings are clean, wholesome fun and relaxation that are a valuable balance for serious study.

So we include a number of these extra curricula features at Bryant, not only because they are pleasant diversions, but because of their real solid value to the embryo business man or woman. After a conscientious study of your classroom marks, come out for these extra curricula affairs. Join some of the athletic groups, the camera club, the dramatic club, a fraternity or sorority - come to the college dances and other social affairs when you can - but get from them not only a good time, but some of the underlying value which each one has.

MRS. STICKNEY RETURNS

An affectionate welcome to our beloved Dean of Women, Mrs. Stickney, who returns to Bryant this week after her long and serious illness to resume her work as Dean of the Secretarial and Commercial Teacher Training Divisions.
