Alumni find their way at Navigant Credit Union

Since graduating from Bryant, Lisa G. (Millard) Dandeneau ’90 (North Smithfield, RI), executive vice president and chief operating officer at Navigant Credit Union, has stayed close to her alma mater – literally and figuratively. Based in the Credit Union’s headquarters downtown the street from the University, she also participates in Bryant programs and events.

“Navigant sponsors several initiatives at Bryant, which I encourage,” she says. “I attend the Women’s Summit™, participate in the Alumni Job Shadow program, and go to Smithfield Rotary Club meetings on campus. I enjoy giving back to the community that has afforded me the opportunities that have led to my successful career.”

And Lisa does all this in addition to being a wife and mother. “It’s a challenge sometimes because I enjoy work,” she says. “But my family is what’s most important to me. I’m lucky to work for a company that is aligned with my values.”

NOT JUST A NUMBER
“Whatever I’ve kept me at Navigant for 14½ years is that our CEO and senior management care about us,” says Joanne (Hallak) Baz ’04 (North Providence, RI), assistant vice president and branch manager. “I don’t feel like I’m just a number. I matter. My voice is heard.”

It’s easy for a positive corporate culture to thrive at Navigant because it starts at the top, with president and CEO, Gary E. Furtado ’78 ’05 MBA. He believes in the mission and his employees. “We sincerely care about our communities,” he says. “We sponsor sports teams and volunteer with Special Olympics. We are genuinely interested in the people we serve.”

For close to 100 years, Navigant has been working to improve the financial well-being of the families, businesses, and communities of Rhode Island – as a financial institution and employer. A mission to which the Credit Union remains highly committed, says Lisa.

Alumni Leadership Weekend 2012

Alumni Leadership Weekend, one of Bryant’s largest on-campus alumni events, offers alumni the opportunity to meet and network with other alumni, faculty, and students, and attend workshops and keynote presentations. This year’s theme is Responsible Leadership.

“Each year, Bryant’s theme for Alumni Leadership Weekend focuses on an area for alumni to become more informed as they engage in panel discussions and leadership sessions on campus,” says Jennifer Parkhurst ’93, ’06 MBA, president of the National Alumni Council, the voice of the Alumni Association. “Character, ethics, and leadership go hand in hand in today’s world,” she continues, “and Bryant’s Leadership Weekend this year will focus on the ethical ramifications of decision making, equipping alumni with the tools needed to become ethical leaders in the 21st century.”

Make plans now to participate in Bryant’s Sixth Annual Alumni Leadership Weekend April 20-21, 2012.

On Friday, April 20, alumni entrepreneurs will gather for a kickoff luncheon to recognize participants in the Alumni New Venture Competition. Up to five finalist teams will pitch business ideas to a panel of alumni judges.

The winner of the $10,000 first prize in the Alumni New Venture Contest will be announced at the dinner honoring the 2011 Alumni Achievement Award recipients.

This alumni-oriented weekend will continue the following day with interactive panels and workshops focusing on ethics in the workplace. Visit www.bryant.edu/alumnevents for information on the weekend’s guest speakers, program details, and local accommodations. You can also phone Director of Alumni Relations Robin Warde at (401) 232-6233 or e-mail rwarde@bryant.edu to be included on a select mailing list for the weekend’s program. Online registration opens March 1.

Leonidas Foussekis ’07
President, Black Tie Marketing and Entertainment, LLC
www.blacktiemarketing.com

Mixing and mingling with current and former NFL stars? That’s just another day on the job for Leonidas Foussekis ’07 (Lincoln, RI), president of Black Tie Marketing and Entertainment, LLC, a full-service marketing firm with several professional athletes as clients.

“What I like best about my job is that it’s fun and unique,” he says. “From the time I saw the Red Sox take home the World Series in 2004, I knew that I wanted to be involved in the business end of sports.”

After graduating from Bryant, Leo became an international currency broker at Commonwealth Foreign Exchange, based in Providence, where he brought $5.5 million worth of foreign currency transactions to the firm. But Leo never gave up on his dream of working in the world of professional sports. A chance meeting led to a friendship with two-time Superbowl champion, Jarvis Green. Their discussions naturally led to talk about the sports world.

“Jarvis is one of my best friends today,” says Leo. “His support was instrumental in my launching Black Tie Marketing and Entertainment.”

In addition to his marketing firm, Leo collaborates with Jarvis on a cable show, “1st and Goals,” which appears on NESN-TV, for which he serves as on-air talent, coordinator, and director.

Carma Lee (Gallo) Pawlewicz ’86
Owner, Carma’s Creations www.carmascreations.com

Carma Lee (Gallo) Pawlewicz ’86 (Newbury Park, CA) was three years old when she first discovered the joys of dancing. “When I was old enough to think about career plans, I knew I wanted to choreograph and teach dance,” she says. “In fact, I was teaching dance in my basement while I was still in high school.”

Coming from a family of entrepreneurs, she grew up knowing that being her own boss was something she wanted to do. She attended Bryant precisely because she intended to launch and run her own business.

“For me, choreographing and teaching dance, combined with my marketing degree, made starting and running a successful dance studio possible,” she says. “I founded the Bryant Dance Club, which was an amazing opportunity. Twenty-five years later, the club is still active. I couldn’t be more excited that there is still so much interest in the art form.”

When her husband was relocated to accommodate job promotions, Carma sold the studio. But she discovered a way to have her own business—no matter where the family calls home.

“I now have a mobile dance studio,” she says. “I provide on-site training at private pre-schools and elementary schools and at children’s museums. I hold workshops for teens and families, among other activities.”

Like many people involved with the arts, Carma has other creative talents. “When my son was about three years old, I began writing children’s stories,” she says. “I wanted to create stories that were educational and entertaining.”

Now that her son is 13, Carma has decided to share one of her favorite stories with the world. “I wrote my book, A Friend Indeed, much the way I choreographed routines,” she says. “The rhythm and tempos roll around in my head, I hear the words, and I let them ‘dance’ onto the paper.”

For more information about Carma’s book, see the box on page 8 of this issue.

MaryElla Gainor
Lecturer, Accounting, Bryant University

“You inspired me to keep working hard,” writes one student in a “Thank You” note to MaryElla Gainor, long-time accounting lecturer at Bryant University. “You really made a difference to me,” the note continues.

“That’s why I teach,” says MaryElla. “Those moments when you realize that you helped someone—you’ve made a difference—that’s what motivates me.”

She’s been teaching at Bryant for the last 22 years, the last six as a full-time term professor. MaryElla’s teaching incorporates her broad experience working as an accountant, a planning and forecasting analyst, a finance and control manager, a purchasing manager, and a consultant for local and international firms.

“All firms have their own unique set of accounting practices and issues,” she says, “but managers of all disciplines must use accounting information to communicate business plans and measure objectives.”

She gravitated toward teaching when she thought about how she wanted to define the word ‘accomplished.’

“To me, it doesn’t mean accruing wealth or assets,” says MaryElla. “Being successful is about the people I can affect in my life—my husband, my children, my family, and my friends.”

Falling into this category, for MaryElla, are her students. “I treat them as if they are my own family,” she says. “Much in the same way you would set high expectations for your children, I do for my students. They will rise to the occasion.”

As an accounting professor, MaryElla believes part of her job is dispelling myths about the profession.

“Accountants don’t sit in a corner office crunching numbers all day,” she says. “They are critical players on the organizational team, and they are important to moving the team toward accomplishing its goals. It’s an extremely rewarding profession.”

Former Bryant coach and professor honored

Arthur “Archie” Boulet, former science professor and coach of Bryant’s golf team, was inducted to the Rhode Island Golf Hall of Fame and the national Golf Coaches Association of America in December.

He was honored by the Rhode Island Golf Hall of Fame for his distinguished record of 47 years of service as the Bryant golf coach. His teams dominated Division II golf for five decades, followed by continued success at the Division I level. Archie’s teams captured the Northeast-10 title 20 of 27 times. He coached hundreds of young men, many of whom became head or assistant professionals at courses across the nation.

The Golf Coaches Association of America named Archie to its 2011 Hall of Fame Class for his many contributions on and off the course. Since he began the varsity program in 1964, Archie’s coaching produced 23 Division II All-Americans, seven New England Players of the Year, 10 national top-20 Division II finishes, 11 New England Division II titles, 31 NCAA tournament appearances, one ECAC all-divisions title, and four New England all-divisions.

Among Archie’s many commendations throughout his distinguished career, he was also cited for being a charter member of the Bryant Athletics Hall of Fame and for being named the Words Unlimited Coach of the Year in 1990 by Rhode Island’s sportswriters (the only recipient of that award associated with the sport of golf).

Help ensure that the values and athletic rigor Archie Boulet personifies remain a legacy at Bryant. Your gift to the Arthur “Archie” Boulet Endowed Scholarship will provide life-changing experiences to generations of student athletes on the Bryant Golf Team. Go to www.bryantbuildings.com/giving, and choose gift designation Arthur “Archie” Boulet Endowed Scholarship to make a difference.

Ah, baseball...it’s as American as apple pie, and a great family-friendly spectator sport. The distinct crack of the bat hitting the ball, the roar of the crowd, and the unique flavor of ball park hot dogs beckon young, old, and those in between.

Baseball is also somewhat of a Bryant alumni event tradition. Three major Regional Alumni Network events happen around America’s favorite pastime.

The first is coming up right around the corner: Red Sox Spring Training BBQ and game in Fort Myers, FL, on March 16. “It’s a popular event,” says Robin Torbron Warde, director of alumni relations. “In addition to the large population of Bryant alumni living in Florida – retirees and otherwise – we have those who live in Red Sox Nation making the trip down south.”

The Office of Alumni Relations also plans a family BBQ before a Pawtucket Red Sox game in late spring/early summer. Confirmed are the alumni outings at a Chicago Cubs vs. Red Sox game on June 17, and at Fenway on September 8. Be on the lookout for these fun events; check www.bryant.edu/alumnevents regularly for updated schedules.

In Ft. Myers, FL, Bryant alumni can’t wait to have their photo taken with Wally the Green Monster, the Boston Red Sox mascot.

BRYANT HAS HISTORY

Founded in 1863, Bryant is Rhode Island’s second oldest college, moving to the East Side of Providence before relocating to Smithfield in 1971. Always looking toward the future, Bryant has grown from its original space of 220 acres in Smithfield donated by Earl S. Tupper to its current 428 acres.

Bryant students began publishing their own newspaper, Bryant-Stratton News – Voice of the Student, in the 1930s. The newspaper was renamed The Archway in 1946, and is still produced weekly. Issues from 1946 on can be accessed online through Bryant’s Krupp Library archives. The most recent issue can be read online at www.bryantarchway.com.

MAKING A GIFT TO BRYANT can be a life-changing experience for you and for generations of students to come. Although cash contributions are the simplest way to support the University, there are many ways to give and your contribution is welcome in whatever form is most advantageous for you. Options include:

SECURITIES ▶ Gifts of appreciated stocks, bonds and mutual funds allow you to make a contribution and deduct the full-market value of the security at the time of the gift. You can also avoid the capital gains tax on qualified assets given to Bryant.

BEQUESTS ▶ Bequests are contributions made through your will. A bequest can be a specific asset, fixed sum of money, or a percentage or residue of your estate. Your gift may be entitled to an estate tax charitable deduction for its full value. Those who include Bryant in a will are recognized as members of the 1863 Society.

LIFE INSURANCE ▶ A gift of life insurance entitles you to a charitable income tax deduction when you name Bryant as both owner and beneficiary of an existing policy. You can also purchase a new policy and make Bryant the owner and beneficiary.

LIFE INCOME GIFTS ▶ Life income gifts, such as charitable gift annuities, let you make a larger contribution now while receiving a guaranteed income for life, and at rates higher than other conservative investments. By establishing a charitable gift annuity, you will be recognized as a member of the 1863 Society.

RETIREMENT PLANS ▶ In many cases, naming family or heirs as the beneficiaries of your retirement plan can subject them to both income and estate taxes, thereby reducing the benefits they will receive by 30 percent or more. By making a gift of retirement plan assets to Bryant, the University will receive the full amount, avoiding income and estate taxes and giving you the option of leaving more tax-advantaged, non-retirement plan assets to your family.

MATCHING GIFTS ▶ If you or your spouse works for one of the many companies that offer matching gifts, your philanthropy can have greater impact. You will be recognized for the full amount of your gift, plus any resulting match. Visit www.matchinggifts.com/bryant to see if your company matches gifts.

MEMORIAL & HONORARY GIFTS ▶ A contribution made in honor or memory of a teacher, student, relative or friend is a thoughtful remembrance. Those who are memorialized with a gift of $1,000 or more to the University are honored in The Memorial Book, a handmade leather volume on permanent display in The Ronald K. and Kati C. Machlief Interfaith Center and online, at www.bryant.edu/memorialbook.

For more information or to make your gift, please contact Executive Director of Development Ed Magro at (877) 353-5667 or visit www.bryant.edu/giving.

Tim Draper ’87, ’00 MBA (Cumberland, RI), vice president of marketing.

“Navigant was the first credit union in Rhode Island,” says Tim. “We’ve evolved from a small room in the basement of Notre Dame Parish in Central Falls with $22,000 in assets, to nine current branches with two others in development and $1.3 billion in assets. Through all our growth, we’ve maintained a very conservative and caring approach.”

SERVING PEOPLE While she’s been in the banking business for 24 years, Kathleen C. Grovit ’04 (North Smithfield, RI) thinks that working for a credit union has given her a focused perspective on the industry’s purpose.

“Navigant has a strong and clear mission to serve people and provide access to credit and services necessary to prosper in life,” Kathy, who is senior vice president of retail banking, says. “Its philosophy is very member-centric. We are here to serve them.”

A LADDER TO CLIMB Navigant encourages the development and promotion of talent from within—a practice that many believe contributes to its success.

Monique (Morin) Morissette ’93, ’98 MBA (Cumberland, RI) has transitioned from the accounting to the information technology to the risk departments, in roles of increasing responsibility in line with her career ambitions.

“The ability to advance in my career is one of the reasons I enjoy being part of the Navigant family,” says Monique, assistant vice president and information security officer. “But it’s just one of many benefits of working at Navigant, which also include providing a work-life balance and a stimulating work environment.”

RECOGNITION AND REWARDS “Our management team recognizes quality work and dedication,” says Monique. “They guide you toward your development goals.”

The Credit Union employs many Bryant alumni, and with several top management positions occupied by women, Navigant shows equal opportunity can have real meaning.

“I would advise any young woman starting a career to remain teachable after college,” says Monique. “Find a mentor or two who will be open and constructive to help you develop your career.”

Monique adds, “Be yourself. Never stop learning. Your college years are only the beginning of a lifetime of learning.”

Bryant’s newly updated Web page for legacy gifts www.bryant.edu/plannedgiving,

Clearance describes the types of gifts you can make, and has basic guidelines to help you see just what you can do, whether you’re younger than 40, or older than 70. A tradition of remembrance is an esteemed hallmark of philanthropy in America, and your legacy gift to Bryant will provide educational opportunities for the future.

A Friend Indeed
Carma Lee (Gallo) Pawlewicz ’86
(see profile, p. 3) captured her son’s favorite bedtime story and transformed it into a book for all to enjoy. Her book, A Friend Indeed is available for purchase through her website, www.carmascreations.com/BU12.

As an added bonus, Carma Lee has agreed to donate a portion of the proceeds from Bryant alumni purchases of A Friend Indeed to the University for student scholarships. When you order online, use the code BU12, and Bryant will benefit!

Happy birthday, dear WJMF…
Forty years already? Seems like only yes-terday Bryant’s student-run radio station opened its doors as a 10-watt program.

A special WJMF alumni reunion is being planned to coincide with Alumni Leadership Weekend April 20-21, 2012.

Details are still in the works, but if you’re interested in attending or participating in this special reunion, contact WJMF’s office manager, Katie Colton ‘12, at kcolton@bryant.edu.
