Wednesday

Dearest Susan,

Got your letter, honey, and it was so sweet—you write the best letters. Had a sorta fight with Ginny today and was feeling rather blue but when I read your letter, I felt all happy again. Ginny and I are going to come to blows pretty soon. I'm looking for another job now, if I can find something half way decent, I'll leave but quickly. Rosemary and I are both looking for another job—lately I hate to have an argument with anyone.

Today's Wednesday, there are only three more days til you'll be home again. Betty misses you so much. It does seem months since last Sunday.

Yes, I got to bed early Sunday. That's more than you can say, so there! Do you get much sleep? This weekend we'd better just for a change be wide awake and stop yawning.
(Sonny Mccor is playing "I'll be your love"— you should hear it sometime.
We had a few snowflakes Monday but nothing exciting. It made me laugh.
because you had said it had to snow or do something different—what was it like to fly in the snow?

I'm very proud of your being able to save $4.38 by March. You're really thrifty.

Now he's playing "almonds"—how true—well, the way things look now I probably will have about two dollars saved by next Christmas if I get that fur coat especially.

What are these "pretty-good-ideas-on-how-to raise money" ideas of yours?

Well, I was talking to some people about the cost of diamonds & they're practically an arm & a leg now. Tomorrow I'm going to send out for myself—going downtown to many to look. They're supposed to have very good jade because they're all marked & checked by officials or something so that people won't get gypped. Daddy can get most jewelry wholesale & if he could do that it would be wonderful because there probably wouldn't be a tax on it if he got it.
No, honey there's no doubt in my mind at all and I've decided not to try to talk myself out of anything to just be happy and not worry about anything. When it happens anything then maybe I'll worry about it but not till then.

I hope that you can remember all the things we're going to have a long talk about because there are millions of things that I've already forgotten.

Yes, we've told Daddy. He doesn't want me to get married till the war's over but I want to be with you and I don't see why I'd do it any way. Once my mind's made up it's pretty hard to change it. Anyway nothing anyone could say about waiting would bother me. If you want to get married in March, we'll get married in March.

Honey, I love you and miss you so much. Just finished dinner and Daddy said that he could get veggies wholesale. That would be neat. He says they're about 250 or 250 plus tax.
Singing as now he is singing "There Goes That Song" that reminds me of last Saturday when Henry James played it. Golly, so many things happened last Saturday. Golly, there are so many things we have to get settled. Money. I have a fairly good idea of what I'll have to do between now & March. There are only 35 more shopping days to Christmas. This is going to be some Christmas.

How should I do about telling that fellow? Again, that reminds me. Have you been able to get Woody a date for this Saturday? She is so nice. I don't know what I'd do without her now. She's been helping me plan stuff. We have more plans. To get back to the subject. I hate to write him but that's the only way I guess because it would be awful. Guess writing is the only way.

Dancing this Saturday seems so far off. They keep adding extra days in some place during the week. It will be wonderful to be with you again. Maybe we could slow down the clock or something. Time really flies on those weekenders.

Guess that Gilly & I won't go to the Pelham - Pleasantville game because we can't find anyone who's going. well, honey, please write soon again. I love you.

All my love,
Dottie

P.S. Please don't forget about getting Leo a date, honey. Oh, Swatia is at the Waldorf Astoria or someplace. Maybe we could go there sometime, huh?
Where do you want to have the reception? Where did your sisters have theirs? Beverly, there are so many questions that I want to ask you.
we're going to have to talk awfully fast to get everything said this weekend.
Have you told any of the cadets yet? So far I've only told two girls - of course, I'm practically going crazy but until it's official or announced anyway - they're the only ones who'll know.
There are going to be a heck of a lot of people who will be surprised. I'd love to hear what people will say. That would be fun, but I don't especially care what anyone thinks—wonder what Don or Bill would say. I'll bet they wouldn't believe it. I'd love to see the expression on their faces when they hear about it.

Well, honey, goodbye again. I love you a bunch that weekends lasted months at a time. Where do you think that you'll be sent after you get your commission?
