105TH COMMENCEMENT WILL HONOR ALUMNUS

VICE PRESIDENT R. LUCIEN APPLEBY TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Class Day exercises will open the 105th commencement activities for the Class of 1967 on Friday, July 28. The class will be led by its president, Anthony DeQuattro, a Providence Teacher-Education major.

Miss Kathleen McCarthy of Stamford, Connecticut, and Carmine F. Marabello of Bristol, R. I., will be the Class Day speakers. She is a legal secretarial major. An accounting major, he is the holder of an Alumni Scholarship. He is also a Dean’s List student and member of the Key Society.

Commencement exercises will take place in the Meehan Auditorium at Brown University on Saturday, July 29. The commencement speaker will be the president of the University, Dr. Ray L. Heffner. He will have the degree of Doctor of Science in Business Administration, honoris causa, conferred.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Science in Business Administration will also be conferred upon R. Lucien Appleby ’27, vice president and treasurer of Bryant College; Clarence H. Gifford, Jr., president of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company; Dr. Howard W. Johnson, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Robert E. L. Strider, president of Colby College and immediate past-president of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; and Dr. Ernest W. Veigel, Jr., president, Rochester Business Institute.

The Venerable Canon William L. Kite, Archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island, will receive the degree of Doctor of Human Letters, honoris causa. Dr. Asa S. Knowles, president of Northeastern University, will receive the degree of Doctor of Science in Business Education, honoris causa.

FACULTY FORM FEDERATION

On May 19 an election was held among full-time Bryant College faculty which determined that the Bryant Faculty Federation would be the officially recognized faculty organization. The vote was 35-20 in favor.

Because it should be of interest to alumni, Federation president James P. Ingraham has submitted an article to explain the general objectives of the new organization. The views presented are those of the author and the Federation and do not represent the views of the entire faculty or the president of the College and the Board of Trustees.

The Bryant Faculty Federation has the following officers: President, James P. Ingraham, associate professor of history; Vice President, Cornelius J. McAuliffe, instructor in law; Secretary, Francis J. Ferguson, associate professor of business administration, School of Secretarial Science; Treasurer, Lee Weaver, assistant professor of accounting; and Faculty Advocate, Wallace S. Camper, instructor in business administration, School of Secretarial Science.

Jeremiah Barber Scholarship
To William Stranding ’70

The Alumni Scholarship Committee, under the chairmanship of Anna Mignanelli ’40, has awarded 15 scholarships totalling $5,000 from the Alumni Annual Giving Fund. Other members of the committee were: Elizabeth Ramsay Thurston ’28, Grace Aldsworth ’36, James R. Brennan ’59, Everett Efros ’57.

Asn. of Medical Assistants
Honors Dean Castronovo

The Providence Association of Medical Assistants has selected Mrs. Philomena B. Castronovo to be their first honorary member in recognition of her interest in the preparation of medical secretaries and medical office assistants. Mrs. Castronovo, Dean of Women at Bryant, has passed along some news of interest to graduates of our medical secretarial program. Plans are being discussed to offer a series of courses in the Evening Division of the College for members of area chapters of the American Association of Medical Assistants who wish to prepare for certification as an Administrative Medical Assistant or a Clinical Medical Assistant.

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

By Charles M. Menge ’51

Since 1956 Bryant alumni have been represented through the National Alumni Council of Bryant College. The Council’s first president, Raymond H. Hawksley ’27, established it as a sponsor for many alumni projects, including the annual Homecomings and the Alumni Fund.

At several different times the Constitution Committee was asked to evaluate the structure of the group so as to provide continued leadership and support of its program. Last fall, Constitution Committee chairman Charles Menge ’51, convened a committee comprising the Director of Alumni Affairs, Ken Cedergren, and Alumni Council President Fred Kenney. The entire membership of the Council was then brought into a general discussion of the matter at two meetings in January and two meetings in March. The final draft of a revision was approved and ratified at a Council meeting on April 20.

Alumni Elections

This new constitution establishes a Bryant College Alumni Association, with wider representation through election of representatives from the alumni by a ballot. Those elected will be members-at-large and the Association officers will be elected from among this group.

Members of the Alumni Council will include twelve members-at-large, representatives from active alumni chapters, two alumni faculty, the president of the Student Senate and the president of the Senior Class.

Membership in the Bryant College Alumni Association is automatic and includes all graduates from the College and former students who have completed at least 30 semester hours of work. Recipients of honorary degrees and trustees of the College will be Associate members, will not be eligible to vote, and may not hold any office in the Association. More about this new constitution is forthcoming. It is expected that the first election will be held in the Spring of 1968. You may write to the Alumni Office for a copy of the Constitution of the Bryant College Alumni Association.

Here we are—all contemplating our pending graduations. We have been fortunate to have received so much from those around us: an education, friends, confidence, skills, hope, love, ideas, and goals.

But after our years here where we have formed attitudes, beliefs, feelings, close attachments, and maturity, we find we lack a few minor things. One is how to relive all that has happened. Another is how to face facts and life squarely. Another is how we are going to continue in our different paths away from our closest friends from whom we will now be separated by long distances and different environments.

We are a frightened group—frightened of the unknown. Our only consolations are our advanced education, our abilities in human relations, and our ability to think, dream, work, love, and to treasure many wonderful memories.

ANNUAL ALUMNI AWARDS

DORIS BULLOCK '24 AND RUDY BIGDA '35 HONORED

Selected for the 1967 Alumni Awards were Miss E. Doris Bullock '24 and Rudolph A. Bigda '35. This honor was bestowed upon them at the annual dinner held this year at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

Miss Bullock has taught for over forty years in Bristol, R. I., and holds many professional life memberships in educational associations. She was cited for her contribution to the teaching profession.

Mr. Bigda is an officer of the Philip Hano Company, Inc., of Holyoke, Mass. He is an incorporator, officer and director of Berris Motels, Inc. In 1964 he received the Hitchcock Award from the Springfield Chapter, National Association of Accountants. He is also a graduate of the Dartmouth College School of Credit and Financial Management.

Homecoming activities began Friday evening at the Chopmist Hill Inn, with nearly 100 alumni and guests on hand for an informal evening.

The Old Guard, classes of 1917 and before, seemed to be the first on hand for the coffee hour Saturday morning. There were many from more recent classes, too. During the morning several students performed with guitar and vocal selections and a skit, directed and coordinated by Richard Atberg of the faculty.

The Student Activities Center, open since last fall, was officially dedicated. Director of Student Activities Robert W. Hathaway, Jr., presided.

MY 76th REUNION

Thought I wouldn't come back this year? Thought I'd had enough? After I got my 75th bowl, Thought it might be too tough? Well I'm still alive and kicking, Life's sweet and tasty too, I have another thoughtful poem I'd like to share with you.

What is it all, when all is told, This constant striving for fame and gold, The fleeting joys, the bitter tears, We are only here a few short years.

Nothing our own but the silent past, Loving or hating, nothing can last! What is it all but a passing through, A cross for me and a cross for you.

Ours seems heavy, while others seem light, But God in the end makes all things right!

He tempers the wind with such loving care, He knows the burdens each can bear. Then he changes life's grey into heavenly gold

Ah! That is all when all is told!

This poem was written and read by Mrs. Helen F. Goff of the class of 1891 at the 1967 Alumni Homecoming at Bryant College on May 15, 1967. Mrs. Goff is 94 years old and resides with her daughter in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. This was Mrs. Goff's 76th class reunion.
A Statement from the Board of Trustees—May 12, 1967

TO MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY:

The Board of Trustees of Bryant College recognizes and appreciates the desire of the faculty to participate through elected representatives from their own ranks in making plans and decisions concerning the welfare of the College. This includes participation in the determining of policies affecting academic programs as well as student and faculty welfare. Faculty welfare includes such items as faculty rank, salary schedules, fringe benefits, tenure, leaves and retirement.

In order to create a climate within which these ends may be achieved, the President was authorized and directed to meet with faculty representatives:

1. To develop a tenure policy to be implemented promptly.
2. To review the matter of academic rank and to revise the salary schedule promptly.
3. To request the faculty to form a representative council which would report to the Board of Trustees and Administration its views as to the functions and policy role and other matters the Council would be willing to assume.

The Board of Trustees does not favor faculty representation by persons outside of the Bryant organization and affiliation with a national labor union, as has been suggested. However, if the faculty desires that the question of representation be resolved by a secret ballot election, the Administration is authorized and directed to cooperate with your representatives to make arrangements for such an election under impartial supervision.

A Statement by President Jacobs on the May 19 Election

We approach this decision with the hope that harmony will always prevail between the officers of the College and the faculty and between the students and faculty.

The College will continue unswervingly to devote itself to the advancement of higher education and its primary objective of developing the intellectual and professional status of its student body.

We look forward to a continuation of our concentration on improving our academic program and fostering understanding relationships between the Students, Faculty and Administration.

DECLARATION OF THE BRYANT FACULTY FEDERATION

By JAMES P. INGRAHAM, President

The Bryant Faculty Federation is an instrument to ensure the autonomy and independence of the faculty, to make the relationship between faculty and administration a matter of formal agreement rather than one of tradition and consent. The Federation was formed, not simply to serve as a "bargaining agent" in the regulation of professional working conditions and salaries, but to effect a stable adjustment on the part of the faculty to continual changes within the college community.

The development from a two-year business college to a four-year fully accredited college necessarily brought about great shifts in the relationship between administration and faculty. To maintain its proper posture of academic independence and to assure its full and continued participation in the growth of the college, the faculty has had to establish its own independent authority. This does not imply conflict with the administration, but rather a mature posture of cooperation in the governing of the college.

The advanced curricula of Bryant and the sophisticated objectives of its new professional program require a more liberal teaching atmosphere than has been traditional at Bryant. Under the superseded two-year program the faculty was primarily concerned with equipping its students with skills, giving them practical knowledge for purposes of immediate business employment. The relationship between student and teacher was one of apprentice to master: the student came to the teacher a novice seeking instruction in techniques of business procedures. Because of the nature of the program and the type of instruction it demanded, the faculty was subordinated to a highly centralized administrative supervision. Administrators set the standards, established methods of instruction, and determined courses of study. However appropriate to the two-year college this supervisory system might have been, it is inappropriate to the college that has emerged within recent years.

Bryant has become a professional college. Its objective is to provide, not merely instruction in business procedures, but a learning environment within which the student can mature to the threshold of a professional life. Insofar as maturity requires individual freedom, it occurs only in an environment that seeks originality and personal responsibility, which are the fundamental ingredients of freedom. To create this environment, the faculty must be independent. Teachers must be individuals acting in accordance with their own professional authority enjoying the self-government previously enjoyed only by administrators. To subject a faculty to restraints of protective supervision, however permissive, is to embarrass creativity and professional competence.

Unlike doctors and lawyers, teachers are not self-employed. They are in the anomalous position of being professionals who are subject to the controls of employers. To be professional, they must be independent; to practice their profession, they must be on a payroll.

It was to resolve the special problems inherent in this anomalous situation that the American Federation of Teachers was formed. Because teachers are professionals and employees, the American Federation of Teachers is a professional organization firmly rooted in the authority of organized labor. It is not an industrial union. It is a professional union. Its fundamental purpose is to insure the professional status of teachers.

American Federation of Teachers affiliated chapters, such as the Bryant Faculty Federation, are self-governing. They do not take orders from the national organization. Nor do they take orders from the parent group, the AFL-CIO. Their relationship with these larger groups is democratic, just as faculty association with any other group would be.

For centuries, ignoring the realities of their employment situation, teachers have been content with the illusion that they can be professional without being independent, that they can act authoritatively without having authority, that they can be respected without possessing the power to demand respect. Traditionally they have relied upon the "benevolent paternalism" of administrators to give them a semblance of freedom. And traditionally they have been abused.

The appearance of freedom is not freedom. Permission is not authority. Dependence is not independence. For a teacher to rise to his full stature as a human being and as a professional, he must have authority and independence. The Bryant Faculty Federation was formed to give him these sovereign attributes of professionalism so that in a creative spirit of democracy he can make his best contribution to the academic life of Bryant College.
Fred A. Gafner of Hopewell Junction, New York, has recently been promoted to assistant area manager of SMD Headquarters Information Systems. This involves the coordination and implementation of common Manufacturing Information Systems within IBM.

He will be responsible for plants in Kingston, N. Y.; Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; San Jose, California; and Boca Raton, Florida.

Mr. Kenneth W. Cedergren
Director of Alumni Affairs
Bryant College
Providence, Rhode Island 02906

Dear Ken:

Will you convey to the members of the Alumni Association on behalf of the students, the Faculty, and the Administration our sincerest appreciation for their generosity in making it possible for us to update our typewriting classrooms.

Beginning with the 1967 summer session, our rooms will be equipped with two hundred of the latest model electric typewriters. This has been made possible through Alumni contributions and a Federal grant. Changes are inevitable if we are to keep pace with the demands of business and if we are to maintain our position in education for business.

Beginning next September, we are planning to provide a well-equipped science laboratory to take care of the new science program. This program includes six courses, three in the physical sciences and three in the biological sciences.

Sometime in the near future we hope to provide an audio laboratory to be used in the many different disciplines, as well as in instruction in languages.

We greatly appreciate the interest, the cooperation, and the assistance of the Alumni.

Very sincerely yours,

Lionel H. Mercier

“Your participation in the Alumni Annual Giving Program is urgently needed. The 1967 Fund will conclude July 31. Won't you put your check into the mail TODAY? Thank you.”

ALAN E. LANG
General Chairman
BRYANT REPRESENTED AT NINTH ANNUAL FORECASTING CONFERENCE

William B. Sweeney, Jr., instructor in Economics, attended the Ninth Annual Forecasting Conference held at the Hotel Commodore in New York City on April 28 as a representative of Bryant College.

As he points out in his article, the science of forecasting is dependent upon certain variables and an "econometric" model. "Econometrics" is a branch of mathematical economics and combines theoretical, mathematical and statistical analysis. It is a science that deals with the determination by statistical and mathematical methods of concrete quantitative laws occurring in economic life.

Mr. Sweeney is a member of the Financial Analysts Society and has contributed this article for the general interest of alumni.

It seemed from the seminars attended at the Ninth Annual Forecasting Conference that the speakers were in strong agreement about the future growth of the U. S. economy. They all saw strong growth trends developing in the years ahead as measured by the GNP (Gross National Product). While they crossed swords on such points as which is the most important stimulus to the economy, Fiscal Policy (President Johnson) or Monetary Policy (Federal Reserve System), the general consensus was that as long as personal income continues to rise at a rapid rate our industrial expansion seems pretty much assured by virtue of this exploding buying power.

Personal income is expected to climb on the strength of heavy Federal, State, and Local expenditures. A projected scarcity of labor will bid up wage and salary levels. A great growth of technical advances will help to control consumer prices and keep our economy competitive internationally.

Most of the forecasting was built upon the premise that the United States would experience nothing worse than brush fire wars in its future dealings with other nations and that the American consumer's appetite for a higher standard of living would continue to grow more robust. As a result, soaring corporate profits should preserve a Bull stock market over the long term.

The following is a compilation of the projections made for the United States economy 1967 to 1975.

Based upon the consumers well-established trend for a higher standard of living including better education, health, and technically oriented products, the following industries were graded as to their growth potential in terms of future volume over the next five (5) years. The percentage of growth figure was computed on a compounded basis or per year basis.

Below Average (Less than 6%)
Iron and Steel
Coal
Agriculture
Footwear
Automotives
Amusements
Military Aircraft
Lumber
Oil

Average (Above 6%, Below 10%)
Textiles
Glass
Electronics
Utilities
Personal Services
Paper
Commercial Banking
Insurance
Consumer Appliances
Railroads

Above Average (Above 10%)
New Housing
Business Services (computers, photo-copyers, etc.)
Publishing
Chemicals
Commercial aircraft
Drugs and pharmaceuticals
Furniture

Applying this breakdown to the stock market, it would seem advisable to buy stocks which are in growth industries, that offer a total concept of technology, and are leaders in their field. IBM, Xerox, and Boeing were suggested as falling into this category.

Economic forecasting is achieving a greater level of precision, although it is still a game of chance to some extent. The ability of the computer to take voluminous bits of information and process raw data into a meaningful correlation has helped make the difference.

For example, most of the seminar speakers based their forecast upon econometric models programmed into a computer. A model is really like the operation of an automobile assembly line. Components are fused to the chassis in such a sequential manner that the car will operate for an intended purpose. So, too, statistics and economic relationships are integrated so as to function as a "vehicle" for the forecaster.

They consist primarily of equations which attempt to describe the various behavioral, legal, and technical relations of consumer and investor behavior, production functions, tax collections, and price and wage relationships.

The model does not attempt to describe all important decision making processes in structural terms because some major economic variables are determined independently of the other factors. The most important independent factor in the model is Fiscal and Monetary Policy. Therefore, the model is only a guide in forecasting, provided the independent factors are given. To the extent that the government's fiscal and monetary policy was correctly predicted by the forecasters with a fair amount of intuition, the projections for the U. S. economy and its industries can be expected to stand up well in the light of future developments.
DEATHS

Charlotte Burlingame
Miss Burlingame made her home in recent years with her niece in Wilmington, Delaware, and died April 26. She graduated in 1892, and from 1918 to 1933 had been secretary to Frederick Thurber at Tilden and Thurber in Providence. She was a cousin to Mrs. Muriel Pickett Kent '36 of East Providence.

1968 ALUMNI DIRECTORY QUESTIONNAIRE

Dear Alumnus or Alumni of Bryant:

The information that you will give on this questionnaire will be used to 1) bring your alumni records up to date, and 2) to provide current and correct information about you for inclusion in an Alumni Directory to be published in January, 1968. Without a questionnaire, your name cannot appear in the alphabetical section of the Directory.

You may reserve a copy of the 1968 Alumni Directory as soon as the facts you give us can be assembled in alphabetical order, geographical order, and by class. Graduates and non-graduates of the College will be included in the alphabetical and geographical sections.

You are urged to return this questionnaire as promptly as you can. Remember to include any changes in your address, marital status, job title, or name. To begin our work on this project we must have your return by September 1. Mail your completed questionnaire to the Alumni Office. We'll be looking for your reply.

Cordially yours,

Kenneth W. Cadegren
Director of Alumni Affairs
