Teleconference Looks at Europe 1992

Douglas J. Hippee
Archway Staff Writer

In a satellite teleconference broadcast to Bryant yesterday, a panel of experts discussed, debated, and answered questions pertaining to the European Community of 1992.

"The Making of Europe—1992: People, Taxes, and Money" was the topic of the conference, which was broadcast from the University of Oklahoma in the US, Canada, and Mexico. Led by Jerry Zoffer, dean of the graduate school of business at the University of Pittsburgh, authorities on the European Economic Community looked at what effects an economically united Europe will have on US business both here and abroad.

The biggest problem currently facing the EEC is that of a single currency. "There has been a move towards a universal monetary system," says Merrill Burns, senior VP for BankAmerica International.

This is because of the economic differences between the 12 member nations, and the need for a "central European bank like the US Federal Reserve," says Francisco Lamorillo, manager of International Trade for KPMG Peat Marwick.

Ingo Walter, professor of International Business at the University of Pittsburgh, raises an argument for EC '92. The member nations have in the area of taxes, the panel The two-hour teleconference looked at what effects an difference will have on US business both here and abroad.

Economically united Europe will, according to Landolphi, said. The key to safer sex is communication, honesty, and trust. Landolphi stressed the importance of using latex, nonoxynol-9 condoms. Landolphi urged extreme caution when choosing a sexual partner.

The biggest problem currently facing the EEC is that of a single currency. "There has been a move towards a universal monetary system," says Merrill Burns, senior VP for BankAmerica International. This is because of the economic differences between the 12 member nations, and the need for a "central European bank like the US Federal Reserve," says Francisco Lamorillo, manager of International Trade for KPMG Peat Marwick.

Ingo Walter, professor of International Business at the University of Pittsburgh, raises an argument for EC '92. The member nations have in the area of taxes, the panel discussed the possibility of European sales tax rates on those who are planning to compete in Europe to be prepared to act very competitively.

"The EEC will be the most dramatic economic factor of the 1990s," says Walter. "The US must be ready to compete."

The two-hour teleconference concluded with the answering of questions called in from around the country, three of which were from Bryant students and professors.

Safes Sex On Campus

Travis Nike Gray
Archway Staff Writer

"Within five years, we will all know and love someone who has tested positive for HIV-positive," said Landolphi, shown last night in the Papino Dining Room.

Through a blend of humor, banter, and seriousness, Landolphi tried to get her message across and the aim was to about 100 students present.

"We're all AIDs out," Landolphi said the crowd, as she spent just a few moments talking about AIDs. The remainder of the program was devoted to safe sex.

The key to safer sex is communication, honesty, and trust. Landolphi stressed the importance of using latex, nonoxynol-9 condoms. Landolphi urged extreme caution when choosing a sexual partner.

The biggest problem currently facing the EEC is that of a single currency. "There has been a move towards a universal monetary system," says Merrill Burns, senior VP for BankAmerica International. This is because of the economic differences between the 12 member nations, and the need for a "central European bank like the US Federal Reserve," says Francisco Lamorillo, manager of International Trade for KPMG Peat Marwick.

Ingo Walter, professor of International Business at the University of Pittsburgh, raises an argument for EC '92. The member nations have in the area of taxes, the panel discussed the possibility of European sales tax rates on those who are planning to compete in Europe to be prepared to act very competitively.

"The EEC will be the most dramatic economic factor of the 1990s," says Walter. "The US must be ready to compete."

The two-hour teleconference concluded with the answering of questions called in from around the country, three of which were from Bryant students and professors.

Follow Up: EPA Comments on Davis Dump

by Jeffrey Wacker
Archway Staff Writer

In a recent telephone interview with Neil Handler of the Boston office of the Environmental Protection Agency more light was shed on the Davis Dump issue.

According to Handler there are two locations on Davis property that are on the federal Superfund Clean-Up list, Davis Liquid and Gloucester Regional. The Davis Liquid site is an area of open pits which liquid waste of questionable origin was dumped. The Davis Gloucester Regional Landfill is a site where municipal wastes were dumped.

In some cases drums stored at the site are buried underground, beneath tire piles, and are still unear. It is still unear. It is still unclear exactly what is contained in the drums.

Asked what would happen if the tires caught fire Handler said although he can get some idea, such as the amount of certain materials, how much of each there is, and what the chemical makeup is, he is not sure until after the fact an "educated statement would be that it would be a big bang." says Lamorillo, who said that a five percent increase in sales tax was discussed as a flat sales tax rate in all EEC nations. Also, Lamorillo remarked that the EEC will eliminate the double taxation for corporations on transfer of profits to their subsidiaries. She concluded her statement by urging US companies who are planning to compete in Europe to be prepared to act very competitively.

"The EEC will be the most dramatic economic factor of the 1990s," says Walter. "The US must be ready to compete."

The two-hour teleconference concluded with the answering of questions called in from around the country, three of which were from Bryant students and professors.

Remember: Turn your clocks ahead for Spring!
If You Have Nothing To Do...

Organizations on this campus are dying. They are dying a slow death, but nobody seems to notice.

It may not seem that they are dying. Campus organizations always seem to be around, they always seem to be doing something on campus. So, why are they dying?

The lack of membership. All organizations have had trouble recruiting members. The lack of student participation on this campus seems something going on, but didn't go in because "nobody asked." Because we have been unable to find just one person who wanted to become involved. What makes the matter worse - this position is not a "volunteer" position - it is a paying position. We couldn't even pay someone to get involved. Kiniel & Moniez - Thank you for getting involved.

The organizations on campus are here to benefit the lives of the students on campus. They are not asking you to devote your life to them. Organizations need members to help them get their jobs done.

To The Editor:

I would like to echo my support of the letter written by Steve May, President of the Greek Letter Council, which appeared in the March 23rd issue of The Archway.

On a number of occasions I have indicated to the Greek Community that there is a need for the Greek system to be taken out of, when ever possible, on philanthropic and positive community issues to help offset the negative image that fraternities and sororities exist only to party. The Greek community understands many positive philanthropic programs throughout the year and these efforts should not be hidden under a basket.

I would like to add my support to the Greek community.

It seems to me that the attitude taken is, "Well, I won't be here when the building is finished, so it doesn't affect me." Well, if it doesn't affect us, who will it affect? Perhaps it will affect our younger brothers and sisters, or even our sons and daughters who may be future Bryant students.

Is it fair to place the safety of the future Bryant community in jeopardy because of our apathy for them? We, the classes of 1980-1982, must represent and defend the future students of Bryant College.

So, until the next rally, imagine how you would feel being a prisoner in your own room, while the real criminals are roaming our campus.

Sincerely,
Jennifer D'Entremont

MBA Issues Corrections

To The Editor,

We would like to take some corrections in regard to the articles "Extravagama Night a Success" and "MBA's Cultural Diversity Month" which appeared in last week's Archway.

In the Extravaganza Night article, the name of the新鲜 seceneriug student singer was incorrectly stated. Also, the co-Chairs of Black History Month were Christine Allegra and Nadine Schave. We would like to express our gratitude for their cooperation, and we apologize for the mistake.

We would also like to clarify that the student organization involved in helping MBA celebrate Black History Month was the Cultural Exchange Organization (CEO) formerly the International Student Organization (ISO).

In the Extravaganza Night article, the name of the freshmen student singer was not correctly stated. The correct name is Ricardo Rodriguez. He is originally from Venezuela and the name of his song is "El Naranjero," originally from his home country.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank all those who were associated in making Black History Month the success that it was. The month proved to be a learning experience for all who participated. We look forward to working together again next year, and again we apologize for the mistakes.

Tangar Irby
Laura Latimer

Archway Submissions Policy

With the installation of a new disk drive at The Archway, we would like to make a request that all student submissions be made on disk to The Archway. The policy concerning these submissions is as follows:

- All submissions should be typed in WordPerfect version 4.2 (not version 5.0) and saved on a 3.5" diskette.
- Submissions should be saved with the filename "ARCHwriter's last name".
- All submissions MUST be double spaced and include the writer's name and phone number.
- A printout of the submission must accompany the diskette.
- Students may bring their diskette to The Archway office (on the top floor of the MAC) between 4-5 p.m. on Mondays or between 2-4 p.m. on Tuesdays.

This policy will go into effect as of the deadline for issue number 11 on Thursday, April 19, 1990. Any submissions made on disk before the April 19, 1990 issue must be submitted by Monday at 4 p.m.
Questions and Answers About Lithuania

Compiled by
Travis Niles Gray
Archway Staff Writer

by John Omicielli

Question: What is the Lithuanian diaspora all about?
Answer: Gradually over the past two years, Lithuania has declared itself a republic independent from the Soviet Union. However, no foreign country, including the United States, recognizes Lithuania's independence, since its March 17 declaration. Lithuanians rejected Soviet president Mikhail Gorbachev's offer of a five-year phase-in of independence.

Q: What happens if Lithuania's move succeeds?
A: If Lithuania goes, other Soviet republics such as Latvia and Estonia won't be far behind. (On Sunday, the Estonian parliament voted 432-3 favoring independence.) Eventually, the Baltic states — Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania — and the southernmost parts of the Soviet Union will be on a collision course with the Soviet Union. The Soviet government has plans to retain intact the -the Ukraine — could drop out too, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev faces the threat of a disintegrating nation that could lead to the breakup of the Soviet Union and Byelorussian republics, little more than the early czars' empire.

Q: Why is Lithuania's economic importance to Soviet Union?
A: Lithuania, like Estonia and Latvia, gives the Soviet Union's important access to warm-water ocean, much more important ports (Riga and Tallinn). Because most of the USSR's major ports are beyond the Arctic Ocean, and because major ports are ice-blocked many months of the year, Baltic access is important to Moscow's navy and merchant marine. Gorbachev has already announced Lithuania is amplified now with political independence.

Q: Are there similarities between Lithuanian secession and the breakaway that triggered the U.S. Civil War?
A: Some make the connection, but it is tenuous. Lithuania and the two other Baltic states, Latvia and Estonia, are in a different predicament than the U.S. case. While the 1860-1865 Civil War was fought over states' rights, the three Baltic states were forcibly annexed in 1940 by Soviet troops, acting under a "secret protocol" made between Stalin and Hitler. In 1940, 30,000 members of the Lithuanian intelligentsia were deported to Siberia. Between the two world wars, Lithuania considered itself independent. "Stalinism and Hitlerism destroyed independent states by secret deals," a Lithuanian commissioner said last August, on the 50th anniversary of the so-called Molotov-Ribbenbropf Pact. In the United States, the states that made up the Confederacy previously had joined the United States by a "secret" deal, as with the 50th anniversary of the so-called Molotov-Ribbenbropf Pact. In the United States, the states that made up the Confederacy previously had joined the United States by a "secret" deal. "A Lithuanian commissioner said last August, on the 50th anniversary of the so-called Molotov-Ribbenbropf Pact. In the United States, the states that made up the Confederacy previously had joined the United States by a "secret" deal.

Q: What are Gorbachev's options for putting pressure on Lithuania?
A: Economic and political options exist. High Soviet officials such as Yegzhig Lavichev have discounted use of force, believing they need to discuss the weekend rolled into Vilnius and now occupy several important port cities, including some Soviet buildings. When Moscow demanded Lithuanian soldiers return to the Pacific, the Lithuanians staved off the conference previously had joined the United States. The Soviet Union, with a population of 30,000,000, defeated the recent rash of auto vandalism, had just announced Lithuania is separate from the Soviet Union, the states that made up the Confederacy previously had joined the United States by a "secret" deal. "A Lithuanian commissioner said last August, on the 50th anniversary of the so-called Molotov-Ribbenbropf Pact. In the United States, the states that made up the Confederacy previously had joined the United States by a "secret" deal. The U.S. government has the muscle and resources to put together a people's army to defend their independence.

Q: What's the best guess as to what Gorbachev will do?
A: As Bush administration officials suggest, Lithuania may be allowed to "Finlandize" the Baltics. Finnish Lithuanian president MikhaI Gorbachev's offer of a five-year phase-in of independence.

Rash of Vehicle Vandalism

During the evening hours of March 21, 4 cars were reported broken into. In each case a window was smashed to gain entry into the vehicle. Some vehicles had further damage inside the car, while others had only stolen from the vehicle. Estimated damage per vehicle range from $50 to $200. Police received word that the vandals were parked in the Brycok Parking Lot, the other two were in the C-3 Lot. Earlier this week, additional cars were reported vandalized. Chief Wheeler said that Public Safety has developed a few theories about the break-ins. He also stated that Public Safety has increased patrol of the parking lots, including Saturday and Sunday.

Forced Entry into Unstructured

A male tried to enter the Unstructured during the late evening hours of Thursday. The student entered through one set of doors, the individual proceeded to the MRC entrance door where, after several attempts to enter, one door gave way. The individual entered the Unstructured where he was discovered on the first floor by a Public Safety Officer. Upon questioning, the individual said he was a Smithfield resident and had been partying with his friends. The individual did not have identification on him. After speaking with the individual, the Public Safety Officer noted that the individual was apparently very intoxicated. As he was being escorted off campus, the individual said he was a resident student. He was then transported to the Public Safety Office where he was identified as a resident student by a Resident Director. The student was also identified as under 21. No damage was reported to the Unstructured.

A complaint has been filed with Dean Talley against the student.

Confiscated Drug Paraphernalia

On March 20, a Public Safety Officer was dispatched to assist an R.A. The RA had observed several individuals smoking drugs from a "bong." This was observed through a window in the RA's room. Upon arrival, the Public Safety Officer could also see the bong in open view. The RA asked one of the occupants of the room to turn over the bong, which the student did. The bong was confiscated.

Residence Life will be filing a complaint with Dean Talley against the occupants of the room.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed for the Dorn Watch and Lot Watch committees of Bryant's Campus Crime Alert. The need for volunteers is especially high now because of the recent rash of auto vandalism. Anyone interested should contact Ginnie Bowry at the Public Safety Office or at 232-6001.

Incident and Frequency of Occurrence

(wec of March 20 - 27, 1990)

Booted Vehicles: 10
Automobile Vandalism: 7
Vandalism: 2
Fire Alarms: 2
Parking Lot Accidents: 2
Theft of Property: 2
Possible Fire: 1
Drunk to Endanger: 1
Breaking and Entering: 1
Under drinkage: 1
Vehicle Towed: 1
Confiscation of Drug Paraphernalia: 1

Peace of Mind

- Urge resumption of Moscow-Vilnius talks.
- Allow Gorbachev to retain Lithuania with force.
- The last alternative seems thoroughly unlikely. More than 100,000 Soviet paratroopers have been deployed to recognize Lithuanian independence. If Bush does that soon, it would be a catastrophe. The real danger is in the Kremlin, perhaps endangering not just 100,000 Soviet paratroopers but the entire Soviet security network.

References

MOSCOW TRIES TO STOP LITHUANIA: Moscow is still attempting to block Lithuania's independence. A U.S. helicopter dropped leaflets in London's Houses of Parliament, got a lot of attention.

SOVIET AUTO BATTERY PLANT: Wisconsin auto battery plant, which banned them from jobs with a carcinogen, where they could be exposed to lead, could be closed because of metal fatigue. A new hammer is being made.

DLR GIVES A BREAK: Big Ben, Britain's 1,000-year-old clock that marked the turn of the century, recently restarted Monday. The clock has been silenced for maintenance work. The hammer that strikes the bell needs to be replaced because of metal fatigue. A new hammer is being made.

SUPER COURT HOIRES A CASE: The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a case on whether employees can exclude women from hazardous jobs to protect fetal health. The job_blocks at a Wisconsin auto battery plant, which banned them from jobs with a carcinogen, where they could be exposed to lead, could be closed because of metal fatigue. A new hammer is being made.
Suspenders That Bloom In The Spring Tra La

By Andy Rooney

Stores sell more clothes in the spring than any other time of year. The models are dressed in fashions with new fashions. I think of fashion as being for women, but a lot of ads are for men, too. I'm not sure if that's just enough articles so they'll have some ties left in between the ads.

Advertising is just enough articles so that they're doing, but I'd be surprised if many men don't do it because it's a result and suit and say to themselves, "I'd look good in that. The color is important, too."

I think I'd buy one of those. I don't know how many men who smoke to clothes before they're worn out because they've gone out of style. I have never seen ties that are too narrow that I no longer wear. I don't have to make a decision that I make to fashion. I keep the ties because I know the time will come when narrow ties are on the fashion again. The models at those clothes I just wear, year after year, oblivious to whether they're in fashion or out of it.

Women are cruelly throwing out old clothes of male sex. Most of the clothes that come into the secondhand shops are dresses. A man tends to wear his clothes until they're gone, and then he goes to the same store and buy another suit just like the one he's worn out.

The only mistake I make to the back of my closet or give to the Goodwill are things that no longer fit me.

I think of fashion as being for women. I think of men's suits. A man tends to wear suits for show 99 percent of the time and for holding up pants 1 percent. This is an informal survey I have taken, just by looking around.

The men who wear suspenders to hold their pants up are fewer than the number of women who wear panty hose for warmth.

In one article I read by a woman who must be a man's fashion expert, she said a new jacket designed by Giorgio Armani is "long, lean and liberating." Its loose fit and nonaggressive spirit has left her mark on men's fashion this year.

Well, Sir, you could have fooled me because I didn't even know a mark had been left on men's clothing this year. I was completely unaware of the nonaggressive spirit in the two pairs of underwear and the raincoat bought.

I think they have a harder time making fashion out of men's clothing than women's. Edging toward nakedness always makes women's fashions shows interesting and during the skin get shorter, the bathing suits skimpier, the decolletage decollage.

What can you do that's comparable with men's clothes that is comparably interesting? As a result, men are left with suspenders and handkerchiefs.

Looking at a big, special, men's fashion advertising supplement magazine, folded into last Sunday's edition of The New York Times, I realized I'm going to be out of style again. And as if the clothes weren't enough to start mine, there are ads for men's perfume—when perfume is sold to a man, it's called cologne—and I don't wear perfume. I'll stand out in a crowd because I'll be the only one who doesn't smell.

Everybody will stare at me as though I were a freak.

(C) 1990 TRIBUNE MEDIA SERVICES, INC.

ATTENTION ACCOUNTING MAJORS

The Becker CPA review Course is offering a scholarship in the form of a FREE review course.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS:

Must have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 and be a member of the Accounting Association.

A resume and transcript must be submitted to Box 1572 by Friday, April 6 to be eligible.

If you have any questions regarding the scholarship contact David Arden at 232-4115.
by Lucy Young and Judy Egerton

Food boycotts may make a political point — but it is difficult for such pressure tactics to hurt the bottom line.

The grape and Icelandic fish boycotts show the National Organization for Women may have a hard time using a potato boycott to pressure Idaho's governor into vetoing an abortion bill given to him Tuesday.

Those involved in the grape and fish boycotts say NOW must do two things: — Get a big customer — mobilize people, deciding how much 10 Emory University, Atlanta, has boycotted tuna to protest Iceland's whale killings.

Iceland's fish industry was targeted because about 75 percent of the small country's export dollar is derived from fish.

The country agreed to stop whaling last year after Long John Silver's canceled a $9 million contract for Icelandic cod.

The United Farm Workers have not yet gotten major grocers or enough consumers to support them.

Bruce Obbink, president of the California Table Grape Commission, said, "The potato boycott is one that can be continued with ease, and have the ability to affect their dollars, or the Effectiveness of boycotting can be seen on a national level if you look at the pressure economic, California Table Grape Commission, said. "If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.

Gandy says NOW is working to mobilize people, deciding how much 10 Emory University, Atlanta, has boycotted tuna to protest Iceland's whale killings. But she isn't so sure she will support a potato boycott.

"If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.

"If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.

The boycott proved successful when several fast-food restaurants began buying fish from other sources.

"You have to get the country or company or whatever to feel the pressure economically," said Sally Shoup of Greenpeace, who led the Icelandic fish boycott to protest Iceland's whale killings.

"If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.

"If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.

"If we want to get the legislators' attention, we have to do something that will affect their dollars, or their state's dollars," said Kim Gandy, NOW's secretary/treasurer.
Lease Missent in Night Club Fire

by David L. Lewis and Robert Burg

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — The New York City Department of Buildings failed to send a copy of its 1985 order to vacate a Bronx social club where 87 people died to the company holding the primary lease, though the lease is listed as an intended recipient of the order.

Instead, the city apparently sent the leaseholder’s copy to a mother of five children who worked as a bartender at the club and who died in the predawn fire there Sunday. A lawyer for the primary leaseholder, Little Peach Realty Inc., said Tuesday the company would have taken steps to eliminate the safety violations cited in the order if it had been sent a copy.

The realty company had also been trying to evict the club’s proprietor since summer, but the case wasadjourned seven times and no hearing was held, according to court records. The proprietor, Elvis Colon, also died in the fire.

A hearing on the eviction was set for Wednesday.

“It’s been a series of errors from the beginning,” said the lawyer, Martin P. Hirsh, who represents One Peach Associates, the firm’s management arm. She said the company had worked with the city to eliminate illegal activities at other properties in the past.

“The city never contacted my client on this matter. We would have cooperated with them fully here, had they contacted us, which they failed to do,” she said.

Borough President Joseph L. Bruno and District Attorney Robert T. Johnson have been investigating the liability of Little Peach and the owner of the building since the Happy Land social club was set afire.

Police say Julio Gonzalez, 36, an unemployed factory worker angered by a lover’s rejection, poured gasoline into the club and lit it. It was the worst fire disaster in New York City in 79 years.

Johnson had been presenting evidence to a grand jury Tuesday in the case against Gonzalez, who — if convicted on all 87 counts — will go down as the worst mass murderer in the nation’s history.

The fire also spurred efforts across the country to reduce the number of illegal clubs. In New York, Mayor David Dinkins’ administration will introduce legislation to impose new restrictions on social clubs at a City Council meeting Thursday, according to councilman Victor Kovner.

“We’re hoping to have it authored immediately, looking at the issuance of an order to vacate,” he said.

A Honduran airline airline offered to fly the bodies of victims back to Honduras for free. The offer was accepted by at least 28 families who live in the heavily Latino neighborhood where the fire occurred. And the city’s newly revitalized social-club task force kept up its pressure on illegal clubs.

Johnson, visiting 110 and closing 107.

Little Peach Realty, which has 25 years left on a 30-year lease on the club property, is owned by Morris Jaffe and Jay Weiss, the husband of movie star Kathleen Turner. The November 1985 order to vacate the premises was sent to building owner Alex Di Lorenzo but not to the realty company, Ven Tiryakian, a building department spokesman, confirmed Tuesday.

Department policy calls for the owner and leasee to be served with the notice, he said.

The city sent the leaseholder’s copy to someone else, Gladys Gomez, Hirsh and Tiryakian said. Hirsh said no one at Little Peach knew who Gomez was. Tiryakian refused to say how the department identified her as a leaseholder, referring all questions about the document to the Bronx district attorney.

Johnson spokesman Ed McCarthy said the district attorney would have no comment until the investigation was complete.

Relatives and neighbors at her apartment said Gomez was a bartender at the club and may have helped run it with Colon, who subsisted the property from Little Peach.

©Copyright 1990, USA TODAY / Apple College Information Network.
Broccoli Debate Looks Toward Other Vegetables

by Gloria Sanderman

President Bush should rethink his position on broccoli and become a spokesperson for vegetables, say growers of spinach, asparagus, cauliflower and other less-than-popular produce.

Even actress-model Brooke Shields is standing up for veggies as a spokesperson for cauliflower.

Nutritionists and national health organizations are encouraging people to eat vegetables, and Bush should show some leadership, says Ray Clark, executive director of the Leafly Greens Council.

"Whether broccoli is served on Air Force One or not, I think the president should be aware of the nutritional values of foods," Clark said.

The council, based in St. Paul, Minn., promotes such vegetables as spinach, lettuce, escarole and endive.

The Nunes Co. in Salinas, Calif., one of the country's largest producers of cauliflower, also thinks Bush should promote vegetables.

"I definitely believe in authority figures acting as spokespeople," said Matt Seeley, company marketing director.

The company has hired Brooke Shields to speak up for cauliflower. The commercials stress the nutritional benefits of cauliflower and refer to it as "natural beauty food."

The New Jersey Asparagus Industry Advisory Council hopes Bush is aware of the nutritional benefits of asparagus and doesn't ban it from Air Force One, says agriculture department employee Al Murray. Asparagus is high in fiber and contains large amounts of vitamin A and C. Murray said.

"We don't know for a fact that Bush likes asparagus, but he hasn't banned it yet, and we're happy to hear that," Murray says.

In the meantime, first lady Barbara Bush is not revealing her plans for the broccoli she has accepted from growers. The first lady will not be releasing her recipes to the public, her office said Monday afternoon.

Mann Packing Co. in Salinas, Calif., the country's largest broccoli grower, has sent one of its favorite recipes to the White House. It's called "Broccoli Godfather," and it's a dish the president can't refuse, says Dave Siddelphy, company marketing director.

BROCCOLI GODFATHER

(From David Skppard, Mann Packing Co., Inc., Salinas, Calif.)

1-1/2 cups milk
1/4 ounce crouton
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 bunch fresh broccoli, cooked and drained in 1-inch salted boiling water
Toasted slivered almonds
1/2 teaspoon salt

In saucepan blend cream cheese and milk. Add crouton, milk and stir until soup is smooth. Heat through. Add lemon juice. Pour over broccoli and sprinkle with toasted almonds. Serves 6. (Note one pound of fresh broccoli easily serves four persons.)

©Copyright 1990, USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

---

Volcanos May Naturally Open Ozone Hole

by David Shepard

SOCORRO, N.M. — A new study suggests that a steaming Antarctic volcano — not just man-made chemicals — may play a role in opening an ominous hole in the Earth's protective ozone layer.

Philip Kyle, a New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology geologist, found Mount Erebus pumping skyward large amounts of chlorine and fluorine, natural elements found in man-made chlorofluorocarbons. These chlorofluorocarbons deplete the ozone, which protects the earth against the sun's deadly ultraviolet radiation.

"All I'm saying is we have an important natural source of chlorine and fluorine, and we know these chemicals destroy ozone," he said.

"We don't know how much of the (volcano's) emissions make it into the atmosphere, but they certainly could be a potential contributor to the ozone hole."

The hole is a seasonal depletion of stratospheric ozone that appears over Antarctica across an area as big as the United States. Its opening and closing is related to polar weather conditions.

Many atmospheric scientists think chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) cause the ozone hole, but the cause of the annual fluctuations still mystify them. Chuck Stearns, a University of Wisconsin atmospheric scientist who studies Antarctica's weather, is convinced there is a connection between the hole and the 12,500-foot volcano.

"It's a potential hole contributor," he said. "The CFCs observed at the South Pole last year are very close when compared with the chlorine put out by that volcano."

The volcanic link is flatly dismissed by Mario Molina, an atmospheric chemist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who was among the scientists discovering the link between chlorofluorocarbons and ozone destruction.

He said massive volcanic eruptions can puncture the layer, which happened during the 1982 eruption of El Chichon in Mexico. Researchers reported last year that ozone fell to record lows in the tropics after the eruption. Molina contends that stratospheric gases from Erebus disperse quickly in Antarctica's winds, and "there is no chance of reaching the stratospheric ozone."

"Measurements indicate very clearly that the ozone loss increases with altitude," he said. "The chances that the air from the volcano is getting up there are essentially nil."

Kyle disputes that, claiming Antarctica's unique climate favors high-altitude mixing of the volcanic plume. Stearns wonders how skeptics can "buy the theory that CFCs are put in at the Northern Hemisphere (where most people live) will goad the way to Antarctica and destroy the ozone, but question this volcano that's right there near the pole."

For his study, Kyle measured Erebus' sulfur dioxide emissions in 1983 with a device used for monitoring smokstack pollution. Three years later he had specially treated filters in the crater rim to trap and measure volcanic chlorine and fluorine, elements that would deplete ozone if they reached the stratosphere.

From such data, Kyle calculated Erebus in 1983 emitted 450,000 tons of hydrochloric acid and 180,000 tons of hydrofluoric acid. In contrast, a typical volcano annually vents 100,000 tons of hydrochloric acid and 25,000 tons of hydrofluoric acid, he said.

Chlorofluorocarbons are used in refrigeration systems, industrial cleaning and in some plastic foams. They can drift upward in the stratosphere for years, breaking down when they reach the ozone layer.

The United States banned chlorofluorocarbons from spray cans in the 1970s. Jolted by discovery of the ozone hole, many nations joined in a 1987 treaty mandating a rapid reduction in chlorofluorocarbon usage by 2000. New evidence of ozone depletion has since spurred several countries, including the United States, to sign a ban by 2000.

©Copyright 1990, USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

Announcing an offer designed to save money for people who are, well, a bit long-winded when it comes to you know, talking on the phone, and who, quite understandably, don't want to have to wait till after 11 pm to get a deal on long distance prices.

If you spend a lot of time on the phone, the ABT Reach Out! America Plan could save you a lot on your long distance bill. And you don't have to stay up late to do it. Starting at 5 pm, the ABT Reach Out! America Plan takes an additional 25% off our already reduced evening rates.

And don't worry, we'll keep it brief.
INQUIRING PH...

This Week's Question: WHAT ARE YOUR THOUGHTS ON A PRISON BEING BUILT NEAR BRYANT?

Jennifer, Toni, Kristen, Stacey, Angie, Franja, Susie, Evelyn: This campus is enough like a prison. We don't need another one! Unto prisons.

Allie, Jen, and Nicole: We have enough security problems here. This is just going to add to it.

Jennifer, Toni, Kristen, Stacey, Angie, Franja, Susie, Evelyn: This campus is enough like a prison. We don't need another one! Unto prisons.

Mike, Hawk, Mustafa, and John: We believe that it will bring down the name that Bryant has established over the last 126 years.

Noel: Bryant would lose student and alumni support if a prison gets put in our back yard.

Hallie Wirot and Shelly Godfrey: It will hurt the college's reputation and affect the lives of the students.
A POSSIBLE PRISON

JOE AND PETE: "NO WAY MAN"

KEVIN: "NO, UNLESS WE GET A MAJOR DISCOUNT ON OUT TUTION. WE WOULD ALSO LOSE A LOT OF PEOPLE TO BENTLY, WHICH DOES NOT HAVE A PRISON NEXT DOOR.*

FLOOD: "BRYANT WOULD NO LONGER BE CONSIDERED A "COUNTRY CLUB" WITH A PRISON ADJACENT TO ITS ENTRANCE."

PHOTOGRAPHS BY HENRY THOMPSON

MATT LEHANE AND LARS PLUS: "IT WOULD AFFECT THE REPUTATION OF BRYANT. IT WOULD RESTRICT THE FREEDOM OF THE STUDENTS BECAUSE IT WOULD BE HARDER TO WALK AROUND FREELY ON CAMPUS."
OH NO!
I WISH I HAD PUT MY REFLECTIONS IN THE ARCHWAY....

THE ARCHWAY

COMMENCEMENT ISSUE

COMMENCEMENT IS A TIME TO REFLECT UPON YOUR EXPERIENCES AT BRYANT. THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE TO RECORD ALL THOSE GREAT AND NOT-SO-GREAT MOMENTS - THE ONES YOU CAN'T FORGET, AND THE ONES YOU'D LIKE TO FORGET.

Interested? Contact Melissa at The Archway, Box 7, 232-6028.

To contribute on a more personal note, send this form to: The Archway Commencement Editor, Box 7.

Name: ____________________________
Box#: ____________________________
Phone#: __________________________

This information is for verification purposes only and will not be printed.

ATTENTION: GOVERNMENT HOMES from $1 (U-repair). Broke or Elizabeth would like to make $500/-$1,000 per month. Contact Peter Mandel: 232-6008 (days), 831-5227 (even).

ATTENTION: HIRING FOR CRUISE JOBS, your area. Call (1) 602-838-8885 Ext. W8126.

SUMMER INTERNSHIPS
Chafee Summer 1990 Internships in Washington

Each year the office of Sen. John Chafee (R-RI) sponsors a Summer Internship Program in his Washington Office. The Program is designed for students with excellent writing skills and a strong interest in government who would like to deepen their understanding of our political system by spending 8 weeks (June 11-August 3) in Washington, D.C. this summer.

Interns work directly with the Senator's legislative staff. They have an opportunity to witness the lawmaking process firsthand, assist in the research and drafting of legislation, participate in a wide variety of projects, and enjoy the cultural and historical benefits which our nation's capital offers.

QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants for the program must have completed their Sophomore year, either be a Resident of RI or be attending a school in RI, and have a strong academic standing (3.0 GPA or better).

A stipend of approximately $1,150.00 is provided by the Senator's Office to the Intern to help defray living expenses while in Washington.

THE APPLICATION DEADLINE IS MAY 4, 1990!!!

If you are interested in applying or learning more about the program, see Dr. Bill Hill in Suite C, ext 6237. Office hours: MWF 10-11; MW 2:00-3:15pm.

TRIP TO BOSTON
HARD ROCK CAFE AND CELEBRATIONS DANCE CLUB
Bus leaves Bryant at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday April 19th and returns at 2:00 a.m. Transportation costs of $4.00 will be collected on Thursday March 29th in Room 2A & B in the Bryant Center. Otherwise contact Susan Linkes at 232-4486. This trip is sponsored by the Adventure Club. If there are any questions please contact Mike at 232-4884.

1990 Summer School Schedule

Reprinted by request of the Registrar's Office.
COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Tuesday, May 22 - Saturday, May 26

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Tuesday, May 22 | 4:00pm, Senior Assembly - Gymnasium
Pick up rain tickets for emergency indoor exercises (Plan X) |
| Wednesday, May 23 | Senior Event                                                           |
| Thursday, May 24 | Senior Banquet                                                         |
| Friday, May 25  | 1:30pm, ROTC Commissioning - Auditorium
4:00pm, Graduate School Exercises - Gymnasium
9:45pm, Fireworks (Sponsored by the Alumni Office)
10:30pm-1:00am, Seniors in Salomonson |
| Saturday, May 26 | 10:00am, Undergraduate Commencement Exercises - Track
Line begins at 8:50 am - Dormitory Village and field adjacent to Koffler Technology Center
Procession begins at 9:25 am
12 noon, receptions (Sponsored by Alumni Office)
1. Koffler Rotunda...MKT & BCM
2. Plaza/Koffler Technology Center...ACG, AAM, CIS, FIN & ECN
3. Plaza/Bryant Center...MGT, HIM, GNR, TRP, CRJ & OFA |

OPPORTUNITY

Are You a Peak Performer?
Would you like to learn how to become one?
If you are looking for an exciting and challenging course, consider taking ID361, Learning for Leadership.

ID 361

Extensive examination of leadership
Takes multidisciplinary perspective
Can be applied to social science, liberal arts, and unrestricted electives
Meets 2:00 to 3:15pm Tuesdays and Thursdays

---

PEAT MARWICK

The Providence office of KPMG Peat Marwick is pleased to announce that the following 1990 graduate from Bryant College has also joined its professional staff:

MEMILIO COLAPIETRO

Welcome to Peat Marwick!

---

LEND A HAND, GIVE A HUG, AND SHARE A SMILE

On Saturday, May 5th

Bryant College will host the 10th Annual Rhode Island Special Olympics

We Need Your Help!!

Volunteer sign-up sheets will be in your mailboxes today, as well as at the Info Desk, the library, and the post office.

Keep Saturday, May 5th open!!

Come support the games and the athletes at the track.
Henderson's Duke's First Option

By Phil Anastasia

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — He has played in more games than any other player on the Duke University basketball team. Henderson has started more games than any other member of the Blue Devils' starting five.

Henderson, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound guard, was the first option...
Submitted by the Tennis Team

The men's tennis team got off to a strong start, as they blanked Merrimack College 9-0 on their home court in the season opener. Despite the cold and windy conditions, Bryant came out aggressively, winning 18 of the 19 sets played. In singles play, no player by the indians kept their opponents on the defensive for most of the afternoon.

The team is relatively young one, consisting of 8 sophomores, 2 juniors, and only 1 senior. For experience and leadership on the court, Coach Glanz will look to co-captains Dave Bogosian(soph) and Scott Johansen (Jr). Both players know the competition in the conference and will be able to set the tone for the team in their matches. Bogosian and Johansen will play an important role in bringing back some of the top spots in the NE-10 conference.

Junior Bob Meunier and sophomores Matt Antin, Steve Marano, and Mike Komorowski are all returning from last year. Coach Glanz will look to Meunier for his doubles play in the #3 slot throughout the season. His previous two years experience should prove helpful. The sophomore trio are three of the strongest second year players in the conference. Marano and Antos jumped into the lineup right away last season, gaining the match play which should take them to the top spots in their respective singles divisions. The third improved player from last season is Komorowski. Although he did not see too much action last season, Komorowski has built up his game to earn himself a spot in the singles lineup and a possible doubles position as well. Mike should be a big plus for the team this season.

The three new members of the team, Lars Plass, Mike LaPrade, and Jeff Holmes, were just what Coach Glanz was hoping for. Plass, the leading singles player of the Year candidate, will be playing in one of the top singles spots in his first year.

While LaPrade and Holmes will be fighting for a spot in the singles lineup, Coach Glanz is impressed with all three's ability in doubles play. The #2 team of Plass and LaPrade have paired up to form a strong doubles team which should make a name for themselves this year and years to come. Holmes have been paired with another doubles picture and will view much playing time with Komorowski and Meunier.

Overall, this year's men's team has not been seen for a while. The team is strong from 1 through 6 singles, and 1 through 3 doubles. It should be an excellent season for Coach Glanz and his team.

Upcoming Matches:
- 3/2 @ AIC, 12:00
- 3/4 @ Belmont 3:00
- 3/4 at Bridgewater State in Massachusetts.

Lacrosse Falls to Brandeis

by Joshua Lander

In their first outing of the season, the Bryant College Lacrosse club suffered their first loss Sunday, 14-10 to Brandeis University.

The Indians were led by two freshmen, Craig "Diagotico" Ciccone and John Larabee, who each scored two goals. The Indians also got a strong outing by goalie Peter "Biz" Bitzer, who had 18 saves in his first game in goal.

The game, part of the Face Off Tournament held at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, got off to a quick start as the teams exchanged goals in the opening minutes. Brandeis then netted three unanswered goals and the first quarter ended with Brandeis ahead 4-1.

The Indians scored three times in the second quarter, but could not tighten the score as Brandeis answered, with a 3-0 of their own each time. The teams went into halftime with the score 8-4.

In the second half, Brandeis dominated the Indians, scoring six times while holding down the Indians offensive attack. Said one player, "We just couldn't get anything going on the offense. Half overall, we saw a lot of promise. Biz (Peter Bitzer) looked good for his first time in goal, and our forwards still show tremendous promise." The Indians return to action on the beach.

The Indians return to action on Wednesday afternoon with a 4 pm at the fields. Come and support the team.

Loyola Coming to Grips with Gather's Death

by Mike Davis

In stunning victories over New Mexico, Alabama, and Missouri, the Lions channeled their emotions into their playing — and distracted young minds that might otherwise have been consumed with thoughts of their fallen friend.

"That was one of the things we could run away to," forward Per Nordgren said. "We were running scared," reserve guard Tomo Peabody said. "We just couldn't get anything going above an occasion.
"It was something else, beyond Indians, on the other hand, lost it's going back to the opening minutes .

In College Basketball, two Boston teams make the final four. "That was one of the things we

The Free-Throw Line: Thuggits From the World of Sports

Richard Mixer

Archway Staff Writer

This week's Free Throw Line will be brief, but very opinionated. The Red Sox, Yankees, and Mets all will play meaningful baseball. The Indians, on the other hand, lost it's first. That's why they win't be in the World Series.

In College Hockey, two Boston teams make the final four.

The Celtics have won five in a row, both to say they won't get knocked out in the first round. The Knicks have won the first four, and they most likely won't get their act together until too late. Detroit looks tough to beat, but they've been on a little slump, losing a few games. Chicago can't see their lead down, however, winning a couple times leaving a couple more. Come playoff time, teams become sharper up unless they want to see another Laker-Piston Round.

As the weather got colder, so did the Bryant baseball team. Taking second in the 4x100 relay (47.19), the Androids failed to place in the triple jump, taking third place with a jump of 37.14". Sophomore Dave Morin jumped 20' even in the long jump to take third for the Indians.

Sophomore Clark was the only volunteer to clear a height, and won the event with a vault of 9'0".

In the 1,500 meter run, the Cesars took third place in 4:34.1. Sophomore Jeff Farmer was just a little slow to the line.

Loyola Coming to Grips with Gather's Death

In stunning victories over New Mexico, Alabama, and Missouri, the Lions channeled their emotions into their playing — and distracted young minds that might otherwise have been consumed with thoughts of their fallen friend.

"That was one of the things we could run away to," forward Per Nordgren said. "We were running scared," reserve guard Tomo Peabody said. "We just couldn't get anything going above an occasion.
"It was something else, beyond Indians, on the other hand, lost it's going back to the opening minutes .

In College Basketball, two Boston teams make the final four. "That was one of the things we

The Celtics have won five in a row, both to say they won't get knocked out in the first round. The Knicks have won the first four, and they most likely won't get their act together until too late. Detroit looks tough to beat, but they've been on a little slump, losing a few games. Chicago can't see their lead down, however, winning a couple times leaving a couple more. Come playoff time, teams become sharper up unless they want to see another Laker-Piston Round.

As the weather got colder, so did the Bryant baseball team. Taking second in the 4x100 relay (47.19), the Androids failed to place in the triple jump, taking third place with a jump of 37.14". Sophomore Dave Morin jumped 20' even in the long jump to take third for the Indians.

Sophomore Clark was the only volunteer to clear a height, and won the event with a vault of 9'0".

In the 1,500 meter run, the Cesars took third place in 4:34.1. Sophomore Jeff Farmer was just a little slow to the line.

NHL Report

Patrick Mahler

Archway Staff Writer

With less than one week until the end of the hockey season, most of the playoff spots are filled, yet the order of finish in each division is still up for grabs. In the Adams Division the Bruins should hold on for the championship, but Buffalo should edge out pre-season favorite Montreal for second place in the Canadian League. In the Midwest Division, An over improving Hartford team led by Ron Francis, 95 points, will take fourth place easily over the Quebec Nordiques.

In the Patrick Division the New Yorkers will hold onto first place in the Patrick Division, but playoff spots being fought for. Washington and New Jersey should both receive a playoff berth while the fourth and final playoff spot could be determined on the last day of the season.

In the Norris Division, all the teams have cooled off since the beginning of the season except for the St. Louis Blues. St. Louis, Chicago, and Toronto will take the first three spots respectively while Detroit and Minnesota fight for fourth place. Chicago made the playoffs last year with a win over Toronto to last minute of the season.

The Rangers have been struggling at the end of the season, with a win over the Bruins to last minute of the season.

While the Los Angeles Kings have been struggling to make the playoffs, they have lost their last three games.

The Los Angeles Kings have been struggling to make the playoffs, they have lost their last three games.

In the Norris Division, all the teams have cooled off since the beginning of the season except for the St. Louis Blues. St. Louis, Chicago, and Toronto will take the first three spots respectively while Detroit and Minnesota fight for fourth place. Chicago made the playoffs last year with a win over Toronto to last minute of the season.

The Rangers have been struggling at the end of the season, with a win over the Bruins to last minute of the season.

While the Los Angeles Kings have been struggling to make the playoffs, they have lost their last three games.

In the Norris Division, all the teams have cooled off since the beginning of the season except for the St. Louis Blues. St. Louis, Chicago, and Toronto will take the first three spots respectively while Detroit and Minnesota fight for fourth place. Chicago made the playoffs last year with a win over Toronto to last minute of the season.

The Rangers have been struggling at the end of the season, with a win over the Bruins to last minute of the season.

While the Los Angeles Kings have been struggling to make the playoffs, they have lost their last three games.