Get "Goosed" This Weekend
Unhomecoming '92 in Full Swing

Mary Margaret K. Phillips
Archway Staff Writer

"I Get Goosed at Bryant" is an intriguing notion. What does it mean?
This theme is the Student Programming Board's way of informing the Bryant community that the organization wants to be as well-known on campus as the game are; positively speaking, of course.
This Wednesday, Nov. 18, Bryant students are beginning the Goosing festivities began. This year, things are a bit different. Students do not have to pay the full $50 if they choose to participate in only select events; the events can be paid for separated.
During the day on Friday, the product, Nordic, will be introduced to the student body by the Coca-Cola Company in conjunction with Bryant, the student-run business on campus. Friday night at 8 o'clock p.m. in the MAC, the biggest event features Paula Poundstone, the popular comedian who has appeared on an HBO special. Back-2-Back, Bryant's well-known UncleNephew duo, will be performing as well. Admission is $6.

The Battle of the Bands is another long-awaited event that will happen this weekend on Saturday at 8 o'clock p.m. in the MAC, here comes home Paul Stewart. Five bands will compete during twenty minute intervals. The audience gets a chance to vote for the band of their choice, and the winner gets to open for this year's Spring Weekend. Fiends 2 and 1, and even there, will be a beer garden. Admission is $5.

Those are the highlights of the weekend, but there are more many events, including a car give-away (1993 suzuki Arizzo), caricatures, and candy sales. This year's Unhomecoming should prove to be a great time had by all, especially with student support, enthusiasm, and participation.

The weekend's events:
Thursday, November 19 - Caricature Artists, Hoop Shoot, and Candy Sale 1am - 3pm, Bryant Center; Pat-A-Thon 1lam - 5pm Roundup.
Friday, November 20 - Pie Toss 11am - 3pm Bryant Center; Afternoon at the Comfort 4pm - 7pm; Unhomecoming Comedy Show featuring Paula Poundstone with opening act Back 2 Back, Nordies; Mist sampling 8pm - 10pm MAC.
Saturday, November 21 - Bryant Basketball, halftime show for 3:30pm; Battle of the Bands with Comedian Paul Stewart 8pm, in MAC.
Sunday, November 22 - Paints vs. Jets at Ferxboro 4pm game; Lethal Weapon III 7pm & 9:15pm.

Renowned Comedienne to Perform

Paula Poundstone started down the comic career "13/2 years ago by doing open mike nights in Boston. She baffled tables, washed dishes, and even waited on tables for a while, until she changed from cleaning up after people to making them laugh.
According to her, "it wasn't a huge career change."
She then got a Greyhound bus and tried clubs in other cities. When she moved to South Dakota, she lost her jobs and again did open mike nights.
Since those days, her career has blossomed. She is now one of the leading stand-up comics in America. Poundstone, 32, was born in Alabama, raised in Sudbury, Massachusetts, lived in San Francisco and now lives in Los Angeles.
Poundstone has a long list of accomplishments. In 1989, she received an American Comedy Award for best female newcomer.
She won an Award for Cable Excellence also last January in Best Female Stand-up from a special, "Cats, Cops and Stuff" on HBO. This past February, she started her own weekly talk show also on HBO, "The Paula Poundstone Show." "Guess on the shows, the people are so different," explains her agent, "and the way people talk is different." In an interview yesterday with 88.7, "Tru View," Paula Poundstone stated the conventions were "interesting," because she was able to see what it was all about. She went on to say it was "exciting" because "you see people from all over the country participate." Paula Poundstone's act is largely anecdotal, reflecting things she's seen and heard involved in. Popular and cats (she has six) are a large part of her routine and everyday life. Her dislike to tell more stories than jokes, especially from watching the world and trying to make sense of it.
Poundstone likes being a comic because "everybody likes to hear people laugh."
Interacting with members of the audience is one of Poundstone's favorite parts about being in comedy. She believes everyone has a story to share.
Due to her heavy appearance schedule at colleges and concert venues, Poundstone is away from home an average of 45 weeks a year. But, she is not away from home for the entire week, only for three to four nights. She prefers being in a different place every night, but, after a while, a said, "all the cities start to blend into good and is to keep track of where I'm at."
She stated, "I wish it could be like..."

If you were a Rhode Island College student, and you picked up the October 26, 1992 issue of your student newspaper, The Anchor, you would have found an insert you didn't go for. The insert wasn't telling you what your local pizza parlor was having a special that week or even telling you to apply for a credit card. Instead, the insert was trying to get you to save your life. It was a condom.
According to the Executive Editor of The Anchor, Jeff Wallace, the staff decided to devote the issue to safe sex because they felt people weren't getting "educated enough about AIDS, and how to protect themselves."
Wallace added he wants people to understand and all aspects of it and he wants to educate them.

In the editorial near the end of the paper, "The Anchor is not promoting sex, rather safer sex...The age of free love is over. We are living in an age that requires sexually active people to take precautions. Sex cannot be casual and unprotected, because sexually transmitted diseases are too easy to contract. Condom use is vital...Ignорance equals death. Don't let it happen to you."

Current Yugoslavia is broken into five different countries: Yugoslavies (Serbia and Montenegro), Croatia, Slovenia, Macedonia, and Bosnia-Herzegovina.
The civil war puts the Serbs high on the list of the Bosnians in the middle, besides to Vanja, the current civil war is "too big, too right" for what happened during World War II. Approximately, 750,000 Serbs were killed in Bosnia, and Bosnians in that war.
Slovenia was the first nation to declare independence, followed by Croatia and Bosnia, which led to the current civil war. Croatia and Serbia fought for which land belonged to which republic.
Vanja cannot justify what is going on. He says the problems are deep rooted - the hate must be settled. Vanja will continue on page 3.
What In the World Do We Have to Be Thankful For?

Dear Editor,

We are writing to address the issue of calling in guests at the front gate to secure the new policy has been that if someone wants to call in a guest after 6:00 p.m. that person has to walk to the front gate to give their name and the name of the guest. The possibility of knowing when a guest is going to arrive prior to 6:00 p.m. is not always possible. We find that this new policy is absolutely ludicrous. With fall weather and with the winter weather approaching we find that the front gate should take down the guest names over the phone as was done last year. Snow now snow and ice will be accumulating which does not provide the safest conditions to travel across campus. Although we understand and somewhat feel we are in this situation that it is quite dangerous. Darkness approaches much earlier now and when someone has to walk to the front gate we feel is their guest is rather unsafe. This is especially true for the female students when no one is available to accompany them. On the weekends most people on campus have been drinking and the possibility for harassment to occur is greatly increased. The new policy across campus alone at night provokes unpleasant situations that the individual may be subjected to. As female students of the Bryant community this can be uncomfortable and frightening situation. If Public Safety can answer the phone, would be so serene to write down a few notes while the phone has already been answered. We do not find any logic in this new policy and do not understand the reason for not taking any phone calls past the hour stated.

Public Safety Policy Questioned

Hurricane Andrew, Jeffrey Dahmer, "Father" James Porter, war-torn Yugoslavia, economic recession, AIDS. Homelessness, hunger, ozone depletion, police brutality, sexual assault, crack babies, domestic violence, Los Angeles riots, carjackings. Vigilantism, racism, sexism.

The list goes on and on, but these are just a few of the buzzwords throw at us recently. All the while we've been trying to get along with our everyday lives.

As students we have the stresses of exams and papers and interviews and job searching.

As members of the society we all have the stresses of hard economic times, a bleak job market, and problems in our personal lives.

In the midst of such confusion and virtual mayhem in our world, it seems like we have little for which to be thankful. We can be thankful for senseless violence, destruction, and cruelty. A quick glance can make our world look pretty hopeless.

But then we look forward to a big turkey dinner with our friends and family next week for the Thanksgiving holiday. But Thanksgiving means much more than turkey and stuffing and pumpkin pie.

By definition, Thanksgiving is a time for giving thanks. In a time when things seem rather grey, we have all the more reason to be thankful — for whatever we have, instead of worried about what we don't have.

This year you're sitting around the table, fork poised to shovel in a moundful of cranberry sauce, stop and think about how lucky you are.

To have a home, be thankful. Not everyone is surrounded by a loving family and friends.

To have food to eat, be thankful. People all over the world, in our own country, and yes, even in our own community go hungry everyday.

Thanksgiving is not a time to reflect on what we don't have or on the injustices of the world. It is a time to be truly thankful for what you would.

Despite all of our common stresses and strains, most of us are more fortunate than others. As the holiday season continues, remember not only the "thanking" part of Thanksgiving, but also the "giving" part. Let's not only be thankful for what we have this year, but also give to the many people who truly are less fortunate.

Wintersession Courses Span the Curriculum and the Globe

Lisa Lucchesi and Karin Finkenbach
Architecture Staff Writers

Wintersession is an intense, concentrated session discussing topics not generally a part of the regular curriculum. Some of the courses are required courses, while others concentrate on program electives, interdisciplinary studies, and special topics in both liberal arts and business disciplines.

Wintersession is a valuable option for students who wish to explore new courses in special topics, getting ahead in credits, or pursuing a double major. It is also an opportunity for students to gain a unique learning experience.

Betsy Powers, the Assistant Director of Part-Time Studies, is responsible for coordinating the Wintersession programs. "I believe that what makes Wintersession unique is that the courses span academic, cultural, and social learning experiences," Professor Roger Anderson said.

Professor Mike Farghly will be teaching a course on Liberal Education in the Curriculum. He added, "This course is not only different and unique, it is probably the only course in the curriculum that was designed by students."

Professor Farghly said, "It is essential for students to learn about the relationship between what you learn in liberal arts courses and career success. Students will have a better understanding of how their liberal arts courses can complement their business careers."

The idea for this course basically emerged from a 400 level Sociology at Work course. The seniors taking this course thought this would be an exceptional on, so they designed one. Many seniors commented they wished they had this course offered to them when they were freshmen or sophomores.

The course was designed for the intense Wintersession format. Such courses involve a combination of short lecture, class discussion, and guest speakers. According to Professor Farghly, the end result of this course is to give students a better idea of how to select courses that will prepare them for their chosen career. This course is open to all freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Professor Ronald Deluga will be leading students in a course of Directed International Study. Professor Deluga described this course as having a combination of academic, cultural, and social learning objectives which are achieved, in part, through living and learning in another country for four weeks.

He commented, "With this program, the learning is 24 hours a day, no longer ends."

"This is the most exciting thing I do every year, but it is really the students that make the trip," Professor Deluga said.

The Directed International Study program fulfills social science, liberal arts, or unrestricted elective requirements. Students will spend 20 evenings in the Chateau Colin in Lyons, France, where they will be allowed to travel throughout Europe to such places as Germany, Italy, Spain, and many other exciting countries and countries.

Professor Deluga explained, "The students who have completed this course are expected to receive a scholary benefit resulting from the completion of an in-depth academic project, a clearer awareness of living from learning and abroad, and a self-knowledge which is difficult to obtain from more traditional classroom learning experiences."

The Wintersession courses will run from January 4 to January 22. The classes are scheduled from 8:30-11:30, five days a week. Instructors may adjust this time schedule with the class to meet course requirements. All students wishing to register on campus will be required to present residence hall 8 Points may be purchased from ARA for the period of Wintersession. Food service will not be available after 3pm.

Registration for these courses will run from November 30 to January 4.

The next Archway will be published on Thursday, December 3. All submissions are due by 4pm on Tuesday, December 1.

Have a safe and happy Thanksgiving!

Bryant Center Operator Directs Digital Equipment Corporation's Future... by Scott Martin

On Thursday, November 5th, 1992, 54 miles away from Bryant, the Annual Meeting of Stockholders for one of the largest corporations in the computer industry took place. The location was the World Trade Center in Boston and the company was Digital Equipment Corporation.

Chuck Merrihew
downsize certain student services because of the decreasing size of the student body.

Digital Equipment Corporation's Future... from today our progress will be self-evident. That is my commitment to you.

Floor Questions:
A long-time shareholder expressed a desire to see a two-fold plan put into effect immediately. The plan sought the divestiture of common stock by the company and a willingness by the President of our company to negotiate mergers take place.

Mr. Palmer responded by assuring the shareholders of his intentions to direct the company toward increased revenue and cost reductions. He also indicated that he always held an open ear for the negotiations of mergers, but in the past has seen it in the best interest of Digital not to do so.

A question from the floor inquired about incentives to lower management for cost reduction effectiveness. One could safely assume the individual making the inquiry was a member of Digital's lower level management team. Cost reduction incentives have been offered in the past in the form of stocks and profit sharing. These long-term benefits will again be complimented by cash bonuses for the reduction of cost.

Mr. Palmer was pressed in the area of predictions for the future. After hearing the questions searched through the copies of the Annual Report to locate the expense account for "Psycho Chemicals" it is clear that he would expect the President of a firm to venture to guess on today's economics shouldn't expect an answer.

However, Mr. Palmer answered the question he just anyone could, seeing he was asked to foretell the future. He spoke of a task force employed to analyzing the cost-effectiveness of many systems including pending lease agreements in Vanja.

A comment on flattening the hierarchy of DEC arose from the shareholders. The general thought is of course lost jobs, on the contrary this concept will allow more flexibility and agility to maneuver around obstacles. The survival of the firm through economic hard times is crucial for Digital to top create future jobs.

a cancer. "I don't have words to describe what is going on," said Vanja.

"In Sarajevo we felt it couldn't ever happen to us because it seemed so far away," Vanja said. She noted, however, that Serbians now have control of Sarajevo and everyday fifteen to twenty people have been reported killed in the area. Serbians have set up detention camps where starvations, beatings and interrogations of innocent lives. Time magazine reports civilians are the prime targets of such. Vanja is half Serb and half Croatian. Because of her background, Vanja has difficulty understanding the current differences between the two. "There are hundreds of Serbians and Croats married to each other, but yet the two continue to fight against one another." Currently, Vanja is in contact with her father who is in Slovenia, but has not had any information about her mother since July. "I truly believe she is strong enough to go through the insanity of this war," Vanja said. "I read the news that would confirm it."

Vanja believes the people of her country are going through the same cause of the fighting, and as a result, they will never be the same. "The war causes people to be in "blank" for everyone who called Yugoslavia home. But, she does feel like she has found a second home at Bryant. "I want to thank all my friends that helped me through my difficult moments."
Changes in The Koffler Center

There are some new things over at the Koffler Center. Some of them are big changes and others are small.

The biggest change is that the DEC System will be completely replacing the Academic Data System. At this time, they are planning to have the job completed for as many seniors as possible. Currently, three classes are using the DEC System.

The next change is just an extension of old Koffler has had for a while. Many people are using the Print Booth as a copy machine. This is now stopped. The people at the Print Booth are under no obligation to do anything.

"Are Sexy Ads OK... What About Sexist Ones?"

Not For Women Only...

Submitted by WEB

assisted that failure came in the form of Klein's excessively smug 12-page outfit, which didn't boost sales and resulted in dismissal of four key Klein execs.

Perhaps the enormous loss of revenue led Klein to an epiphany that led him to get into the market's head and hearts, instead of their pants," Salembier said.

Salenbier added Klein for rediscovering the "aged" Lisa Taylor, the woman of the season. Klein's ads feature the now forty-something model in a very low-cut suit. "It's simple yet elegant," she said. "It's sexy not because she's having her breasts, but because [women] can relate to her."

There are some marketers using good, clean sex, instead of sexism in their ads. Salenbier cited Donna Karan's new perfume ads as making good use of some rather steamy images. "It's not shocking. It's enlivening. It promises using the perfume will be a sensual experience, but it's about you, not about getting him."

Salenbier also praised the Anne Klein II ad that shows a picture of a firefighter in his gear next to a shot of a woman in a suit with the caption, "my uniform." The women aren't shown draped across the page, or as sex objects, but they're still "pensive, sexy," she said.

Fashion marketers seem to have a bigger problem than most in distinguishing between sex and sexism, and Salenbier said that's because they're pitching products that appeal to a person's vanity.

"There's always that tension between how marketers sell cereal and how they sell fantasy," she said. "It'll sell to sell fantasy, and they'll look and feel good. It's their method that has to be held up to scrutiny."

To pass that test, Salenbier said marketers should avoid any idea that is designed to produce guilt in women or implies that women are anything less than their male counterparts. They should also never assume more of their customers or not being really interested or motivated by information about a product.

It's becoming more important for marketers to not cross over the line from sexism to sexist because women are paying more attention. While it might not be "top of mind with some people, the reality is that when consumers think about something, women can tell you exactly what they define as offensive."

She cites the courage that came from average women over Old Milwaukee's Swedes Bikini Team ad. "These were not die-hard feminists. That has to sell you something," Salenbier said.

The Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas trials "galvanized women," she said. "There's a parallel in that the same way women have been identified as a political force, advertisers and marketers recognize the importance of appealing to our consumer power."

"Sexism in advertising hasn't turned out to be a very big mistake," and if a company's product is associated with sexist images, "sales can and will go down. She added: "Once a company feels offended by advertising, they're too inefficient in saying they're not buying the product."

Although it may be tempting to blame "good old boys" and advertising, it's not just making marketers marketing the sexual fantasy pan."I'm always horrified to learn a woman was responsible for a sexist ad," Salenbier said.

She also noted that sexism in advertising isn't limited to women's specialty ads that had women making all sorts of encumbrances about what women look for in men's pants. She was quick to add though advertising campaigns, they're not just making marketers marketing the sexual fantasy pan."

Please join us for our last two events of the semester.

Wednesday, November 23 - Monday, noon. Papitto. We'll be discussing sexual assault and harassment — and Bryan Ann Bryant. Our feminist speaker will be Rosanne Dona. Bring a bag lunch - we will have tea!

Thursday December 16th - Dinner at Wrights Farm. In the spirit of giving, we'll be taking, together baskets of solaties, etc., for women who are staying at battered women's shelters. This will be a fun, non-alcoholic gathering — what we have as an early dinner.

There are a few Resident Assistant positions available for the Spring semester. Pick up an application today from the Office of Residence Life located in Hall 6.

Holiday Decorations

As we enter the holiday season, the Office of Residence Life requests that you keep in mind the necessity for safety in placing holiday decorations in the residence halls and townhouses. The following guidelines must be established to help provide continued safety for all campus residents.

- A. Natural trees and wreaths are not permitted in the halls or townhouses.
- B. UL approved lights may be used in moderation on your tree and in your windows. Do not place lights on doors, ceilings or near any flammable objects. Outdoor lights are not permitted.
- C. Candles or any open flames are not allowed in the residence halls or townhouses at any time of the year.
- D. As usual, you are not allowed to place anything on your doors. Please refrain from placing excess paper or wrapping paper in the rooms or covering the doors.
- E. Hallway decorations, door decorations, decorations in lounges or in any common area are strictly prohibited.
- F. Remember, extension cords are not allowed. You may use power strips with circuit breakers.
- G. Please be sure that room and suite exits are not blocked.
- H. Finally, if you use spray snow on your windows, please remove it prior to leaving for semester break.

Careful attention to these guidelines will help ensure a safe holiday period in the halls and townhouses. If you have any questions please direct them to your R.A. or the Office of Residence Life.

A Thanksgiving to all of you! It’s time to celebrate this season with friends and family. We invite everyone to our annual Silver and Bordeaux event on Monday night. It is a bountiful night to enjoy wine, food, and good company. Also, a reminder to all that attended our Charity Auction this weekend! We are co-sponsored by Health Services. Everyone enjoy Thanksgiving Break.

Thank you to all the members who worked last Tuesday at the Comfort - we had a great turnout. Also thanks to the guys in The Woodsmen and good luck this weekend!

A reminder from Leslie: this weekend is Unhomocoming. If you need any more info give her a call at 232-4168.

Don’t forget that there are still a few more T-shirts left. We will have T’s at the next meeting, so remember to bring $10.00. I’m starting to plan Earth Week which will take place the week of April 22. This week is our biggest event. I need one person who is able to plan the whole thing. If you’re interested, please let me know at the next meeting. Also, I am looking for suggestions for a band for April 22. Any ideas are welcome.

The next meeting will be after Thanksgiving. Check out signs and the campus scene for dates and times. Have a happy Turkey Day!

The final three of flag football took place and our BSC team put up a good fight. They fell to a team of juniors who didn’t know there was an A league. The final was 16-3. They did have an undefeated regular season so good job.

Our first annual Painting Challenge has taken place and we donated all proceeds to the Hole in the Wall Gang.

Thanks to Delta Zeta for a great time on Saturday! One of our beloved alumni showed up on Wednesday to meet our pledges.

We have a great lineup for our next two meetings and please note that our meeting is tonight, November 19.

At our meeting tonight, we are fortunate enough to have a representative from one of the world’s most recognized and successful retailers, The Body Shop. She will discuss The Body Shop’s unique promotion strategy as well as some of the renowned policies developed and implemented by its founder Anita Roddick. Attendance will help you understand some of the pressing issues retailers must address in the 1990’s.

And on Wednesday, December 2, our guest speaker will lead an in-depth discussion on careers in the field of advertising.

Congratulations to our seven new brothers Matt, Phil, Greg, Dennis, Brian, Evan, and Joe. You guys finally made it. We’d like to thank them for their new sign and our social Saturday night. Congratulations also go out to all other new brothers and sisters. Thanks to the Phi Sig sisters of URI for their hospitality again this year. Finally, this week we celebrate the second anniversary of our receiving our charter from National, Happy Birthday.

On the sports scene, the brothers took time out to “kill each other” at paint ball. Good shot awards go out to Jano for his “blind” skills and to Walker for shooting the red numerous times. Good job in goal to Skidder for his 2-0 shutout vs. Flying Skins and a win vs. Sig Ep B this week.

Any brother interested in helping out the volleyball team should see Brad immediately.

Happy Thanksgiving to everyone, Adonis.

Sunday’s turkey dinner was excellent. Thanks to everyone who contributed. Look for the upcoming food specials at The Comfort.

Stop by the convenience store and The Connection for great buys. Soon to come are cigarettes, and the fresh ground coffee maker is now in use. BRYCOL would like to wish everyone happy Thanksgiving and a safe trip home.

Hang in there boys! Congratulations to all those who have finished. Alumni weekend was a success. The brothers had a good time on the floor Friday night with Sigma Sigma Sigma. Thanks!

This weekend the brothers are looking forward to the Delta Zeta gathering on Saturday night.

On a serious note, our condoners go out to Brian Maffei, hanging in there buddy.

In sports, well it’s that time of year again. Basketball season! This year KDR-A will be looking for a repeat, as the returning 4 years in a row champions will be steering up the court.

The KDR-A roster are the favored to win the league this year with returning veterans Carman, Spence, Dennis, and Swell. They will joined by rookies Flounder, Little Spence, and Grrrrg. Until next week, Wreck Em.

First off, I would like to say that I had a very productive meeting with the Archway staff and that this report will be as formal as they like in the Phi Kappa Sigma format. Brother Kenneth missed two free throws to knock out an order of the tournament on Monday night. The brothers enjoyed Friday night at the track and Saturday night at Phi Sigma Sigma. Congratulations to all of their new sisters on a wonderful finish.

At our last meeting, we wrapped up Cardboard City which was a huge success last night, we raised approximately $2,000 for the McCaskey House in Providence. Thanks goes to all of those that contributed. The hockey, volleyball, and basketball teams all look forward to winning seasons. Hope everyone has a good Turkey Day, I know I will.

FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS

Mary's Danish Set a New "American Standard"

Mary's Danish's latest effort, American Standard, is a great record. The diverse styles of the band have pulled together to create really good rock music.

On their previous albums, the different tracks have represented different members musical genes independently. On American Standard, the strength of the music comes from the diversity of musical styles in the band. These styles have been blended together to form a union of wonderful sounds and rhythms.

At one time, the differences amongst Mary's Danish members almost tore the band apart. They came together again with a new sense of tolerance and unity. This enabled them to focus on a common denominator, rock, and to produce something that I'm sure will become one of the most memorable records of the nineties.

The album was written and rehearsed in a garage warehouse in a bad part of L.A. during the Rodney King police brutality trial. This helps give the album an earthiness and reality.

The verdict and subsequent riots happened, the band was in the plush skywalker studio in northern California.

The album has love songs, hate songs, songs about friendship and evil televangelism. The different styles of punk, folk, funk and jazz are all present as influences in the rock of every song, but none of the songs fit into any of those categories. Killjoy, Purgatory and Leave It Alone are faster hate songs. They are very catchy and you want to sing along to these songs.

The vocals are strong and feminine throughout the entire album. At moments, they are sympathetic and at other moments, they hit you hard. Purgatory is a short pop sounding song about someone rolling up in a ball for defense, yet if you get close, be careful. The abstract emotion of Leave It Alone makes you feel like you just watched an hour of seven second political soundbites. It stands out at the state of politics today.

One of my favorite songs is Sister Shade as it rolls along through the many styles of the band. It is long moody and jazzic, with crooning organ and guitars, far away from the powerful riff sparring of the faster songs.

American Standard the album with the same name as a famous brand of toothpaste, sets a higher American standard, and certainly should not be flung away. It is definitely a "buy recommendation." If you look in the October 1st edition of The Archway, there is a review of Mary's Danish live performance at Rocky Point.

Quite simply, they are powerful, beautiful, energetic and fun to see live. On Monday November 22nd, they will be playing at Club Babyhead with the Darlings. A couple of years ago, I watched the Girls perform at Babyhead, they too, put on a great live show.

They are currently promoting their new release Erotica (not Madonna). If you like good alternative rock with great female singers, then this is a show you just cannot miss. See you there.

The 1992 All-Conference teams were selected last week and Bryant had quite a few names on the list. Men’s soccer drew the most selections with seven spots in all. Choices for the second team were: forward Mike Masson, a junior from Framingham, MA; captain Jonathan Cross, a junior marketing major from Eastport, NY; back Matt Lipps, a junior finance major from Bethlehem, PA; back Donald “DJ” Spelman, a senior management major from Newton, CT.

Making the honorable mention for the second team was senior midfielder Chris McLeod, a senior finance major from East Weymouth, MA, and back Mike Siemprowicz, a senior management major from Glasgow, CT.

Head coach Len Mercurio was also named Coach of the Year in his second season with the team.

From the women’s team, sophomore forward from Hampden, ME, Melissa Roberts made honorable mention in the NE-10 conference. Three women’s national teams also had selections to All-Conference teams.

Sophomore outside hitter/setter Marno de los Angeles, an all conference player from Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico was selected to the first team, and junior middle hitter Kim Bejerowicz, a senior finance major from Orange, CT was selected to the second team.

The Lady Indians also had a few conference leaders in individual categories. Bejerowicz with 3.78. The team itself also led in digs per game and kills per match.

Women’s cross country rounded out Bryant’s success with two selections to the All-Conference teams. They were juniors Tom Gappa, a CIF major from North, Berwick, ME and Pete Gosselin a finance major from Manchester, NH.

With most teams only having one game left in the regular season, the focus is now turning to selection time. Michigan closed the regular season better than the national championship. Michigan cleared their ninth hurdle this past weekend by defeating the Temple Owls by a score of 48-10. In doing so, Michigan extended the NCAA’s longest winning streak to 27 games, while winning their 31st consecutive home game.

So, who can beat Michigan in the Orange Bowl? This is one question that Syracuse does not want to worry about. The Orange have hope they can be the team to hand Michigan its first defeat this year when they meet in the Carrier Dome. A win could vault Syracuse into a New Year’s Day Bowl, while a loss could severely hurt their chances.

In other Top Ten action, Alabama held onto its number two ranking this past weekend by defeating number six Mississippi State, 59-23. This helped Alabama finish the regular season undefeated, and places them in the SEC championship on December 3 against either Florida or Georgia. If Alabama is able to sweep its current run, they get an automatic Sugar Bowl bid, and could possibly face number one Miami.

Last week’s number three Michigan, despite six turnovers, was able to tie Illinois on a last second field goal. The tie somehow dropped Michigan back to number six, number six ranking behind two teams with a loss, but it also clinched a Rose Bowl birth for Wolverines. Texas A&M, last week’s number four, were denied the number three spot, even though they beat Houston 38-30 to remain undefeated. And finally, number five Florida State was able to score ten touchdowns for the second straight week, as they steamrolled the Green Wave of Tulane, and took over the number three spot.

Congratulations go out to Iowa State, Marshall Faulk of San Diego State and the quarter-backs of the Nebraska and Utah State. This past weekend Iowa State was able to end a 13 year losing streak, against number 12 Nebraska, as the Cyclones were able to hold on for a 19 to 10 victory. Also this past weekend, Marshall Faulk joined Herschel Walker as the only two college players to gain over 2000 career rushing yards in their first two years.

And last but not least, there are the quarterbacks from Nevada and Utah State: Nevada’s Chris Vargas and Utah State’s Johnny Henson combined for a miraculous 3,124 passing yards. It only makes one wonder, “Where were their defenses?”

The AP Top Ten

1. Miami (9-0-0)
2. Alabama (10-0-0)
3. Texas A&M (10-0-0)
4. Washington (9-1-0)
5. Florida State (8-2-0)
6. Notre Dame (8-1-1)
7. Syracuse (9-2-0)
8. Florida (7-2-0)
9. Georgia (8-2-0)

Bobby’s Top Ten

1. Miami (Who else?)
2. Alabama (10-0-0)
3. Texas A&M (They’re undefeated)
4. Michigan (They’re still undefeated)
5. Florida State (Only one loss to #1)
6. Notre Dame (They only lose to #1)
7. Washington (Only 3 points against Arizona)
8. Wisconsin (7 wins in a row)
9. Florida (Beat Georgia)
10. Georgia (Why ask why?)

You and your friends are at a game, and you hear Robert and Rebecca, don’t be afraid to stand up and say something. More than likely someone else will back you up. Maybe they don’t realize how annoying they really are. They should look around and see if people are getting them dirty looks every time they open their mouths. When this happens, they should just sit back and try to put themselves in other people’s shoes. How would they like it if their favorite players were victims of these attacks. Maybe then they will realize how annoying they really are and shut up (too).
A New Look and Goal for Men's Basketball

Bob Beutinski
Archway Sports Writer

The men's basketball team will kick off their regular season this Saturday, at 7:30, against Rhode Island College. With all of the troubles of last year behind them, the team is looking forward to what could be their first winning season in a couple of years.

This year the Indians will be abandoning their traditional game-plan of ball control offense, for a new 'open offense.' This should make the game more exciting for the players and the fans.

The team's new game-plan will be tested early in this season, with three league games in the first few weeks of play. These few games will most likely set the pace for the rest of the season. And if the Indians are able to grab a couple of quick league victories, they will be in great shape as the season winds down.

With nine of the 12 players being either sophomores or freshmen, the team is hoping that they can lay the foundation for what could possibly be a winning tradition here at Bryant. But this team is a team with experience.

The Indians have three returning upper-classmen who have already proven themselves as true basketball players. The men's basketball team may have finally hit all of the pieces together.

One of the major goals of this basketball team this year is to re-establish the school pride that once went along with our basketball program. The team also hopes to get support from the Bryant Community, they feel "a packed gym pumps the players.'

Do you know what is one of the most annoying things about going to a sporting event? The fans who sit there and make comments about everyone on the opposing team and their mothers too.

You know people, the ones who sit behind you and constantly make stupid remarks during the game and never shut up. Well last Sunday I had the pleasure of sitting in front of two of these people, we'll call them Bob and Rebecca. They were screamers, at a Providence Bruins game.

The first period wasn't that bad. They were pretty quiet and didn't bother anyone. But the second period was a bit different.

The teams switched sides and now the opposing team, the New Haven Senators, were guarding the goal in front of us. This is when the fun started.

First it was Bob's turn, calling the Senators a bunch of "women" and told them to "put their skates on." He then went on about their uniforms and how ugly they were. Calling them a bunch of women was a bit dumb since there is a woman in the NHL, a goalie for the Lightning. And about their uniforms, they have no control over that. What is the player supposed to do, not play because he doesn't like the uniform?

As the period got underway Bob and Rebecca started in on the Senator's goalie, Steven Weeks, making remarks about his mother being an "unintelligent monkey."

Women's Basketball Driving Toward Season

The women's basketball team has been working hard to prepare for the upcoming season which will open at home on Saturday against Rhode Island College at 1:00. This year's team consists of five veterans and five rookies and are looking to improve upon their 11-13 record from last year.

The team will be more athletic all around this season, and we have quality athletes returning and coming into our program," head coach Mary Burke said.

"I like the direction that we're going in, as with a more athletic team we will be able to do more things to build our confidence."

Returning to lead this years team will be seniors Bridgett Casey, Kim Ross, and Kelly Jacob who will have a big role this year. "More than getting my freshmen up to the level we need them I need my seniors to be good leader," Burke added.

"The freshmen will be looking up to them and need them to role model."

Jacob's return will be a key to Bryant's inside game with her dominance of the boards and her inside shooting.

She will also be looking to bounce back from a knee injury that she suffered late in the season but her great attitude and work ethic has been a driving force in her continued rehabilitation. The lady Indians will be looking to get a lot of support from their back court.

Ross and Casey are expected to be the leader and pick up where they left off last year. "Bridgett (Casey) is a fifth year senior and has a seasoned eligibility left. She has a lot of experience and will be one of our go-to people," Burke said.

"Kim is an outstanding leader both on and off the court. She will run the show for us offensively and her experience as a starter will be plus for us at guard."

Other returnees for Bryant include Jennifer Chao who got valuable experience last year when injuries plagued the team. She did an outstanding job coming off the bench and is a smart player who sees the court well, according to coach Burke.

Another returning player, trying to recover from a knee injury, is Kristen Berg who only appeared in six games last year.

Burke feels she could be a major force as a rebounder this year and is looking for her to continue to develop into a top player.

One area where the team will be lacking is in experience. Due to the graduation of Holly Grimme, last years team leader in scoring. The lady Indians are looking for rookie Liz Davis to help in the paint, and fill the void.

Davis helped lead her high school team, Notre Dame Academy, to back-to-back appearances in the Massachusetts Division III state championship game, and is expected to be a starter this season.

Rounding out the team are group of four all-around athletes who will bring the team up to a different level.

They include: Katrina Haik, Rebecca Hall, Beth Connolly, and Heather Lopes.

Hall and Connelly will add outside shooting to the Bryant attack, while Haik and Lopes will add quickness to their fast breaks.

All players are expected to see time this year since the team is so small.

"I feel very confident," Burke said when asked about the upcoming game. "We are ready physically and RIC should give us a challenge physically but we should rise above them mentally. This game will also give everyone a chance to play and the freshmen can bet their first game jitters."

Athlete of the Week

Kim Bejnerowicz

This week's Athlete of the Week is Kim Bejnerowicz of the women's volleyball team. After missing the last season due to an injury Bejnerowicz returned to action this year to lead the team to a second place finish in the NE-10 Conference tournament. She was also selected to the All-Conference second team and third in the conference with 3.39 digs per game.

When asked how the season went Bejnerowicz said, "At first it was disappointing with the last loss. But, as it look back I realize we pulled together as a team. I injured myself last year and came back to play my senior year; I couldn't have asked for a better season."
