Senate President Welcomes Back Students, Offers Advice

By: Jesse Brodbury

Welcome back!! I know we say this every year, but boy, did the summer go by fast!! As my fellow seniors can probably agree, it seems like just yesterday we started our freshman year and here we are senior year. It’s sort of bittersweet for me. I’m anxious to start my senior year, the one that culminates the whole awesome college experience but I’m not ready for it to be over.

I hope everyone had a restful and enjoyable break. I guess it’s down to business...literally. As we start the school year, you may notice some major changes around campus. Of course the largest change would be the “70s” or so new freshmen.

On behalf of the Student Body, I welcome you to Bryant. Another major change is the Biddle Center, which is our new, state-of-the-art library. My congratulations go out to President Marksby and the people who worked on its development. It looks great and I can’t wait to use it. Another change is the food service. I think I speak for everyone when I say, “It’s about time that changed!” As a senior, I am incredibly jealous of the underclassmen that now have Sodexo and their new food service. But as they say, “better late than never.”

Another change would be to the alcohol policy. Please review the letter you received from Dr. Eakin this summer that outlines the changes. Also, review the student handbook.

Student Affairs and the Student Senate will be working hard to make sure that you are aware of these changes, but please do your part too. As always your Student Senate is here to serve.

My vision of the Senate this year is to be a pro-active organization, consisting of committed Senators; who operate in the best interest of the Student Body. In an effort to be “pro-active,” we will introduce a whole slew of initiatives. But first, we have to complete our organization and attend our retreat the second weekend in September.

If you would like to get involved or just learn more about our “pro-active” initiatives this year, please feel free to attend our Senate meetings Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. in Papito.

Don’t forget to read our newsletter which should be coming out sometime in mid-September, or come see us Monday through Friday in our office in the Biddle Center (3rd floor). You can also email us at Senate@bryant.edu.

As always, we are looking for freshmen to complete our organization. We need freshmen that are interested in developing their leadership skills and representing their class. Our first information session is Wednesday, September 4th at 4:00 p.m. in Papito (in the Bryant Center). Come and hear what we’re all about.

I thought I would end my article with some advice. This advice is mainly for freshmen, but it still applies to upperclassmen.

classmen, I will begin with one of my favorites.

1. Get involved.
Freshmen year is a time for exploration. See what Bryant has to offer.

2. Communicate with your roommate.
You have to live with this person for at least a year, so make it worth your while. Plus, if things end up going sour, you have some sort of communication to help you work it out.

3. Use the Wellness Center.
How can you go wrong? It’s free! I am going to try and use it every morning, so if you don’t see me, feel free to wake me up and drag me there.

4. Eat popcorn as a late night snack instead of pizza. If you have any questions on this one refer to why I need to follow number 3.

5. Ask for help.
Roommate issues, deciding on a major, trouble in classes? All of these things can be addressed by people that work at Bryant and they are here to help. Use them!

6. Hide money on your I.D. for laundry. When you get to the end of the semester you will thank me. Plus, no one likes a stinky roommate...no one!

7. Study. I mean, that is what we here for. No excuses with the new Bello Center.

8. When you visit the bookstore, buy an I.D. holder/KEY CHAIN. It is really convenient and chances are you might not forget your keys at all, or lose your I.D. as much.

9. Talk to your professor.
Developing a relationship early on will definitely prove to be beneficial later.

Last, but most important:

10. College is what you make it. I think this one speaks for itself. I don’t know about everyone, but my friends and I can’t help but the time here at Bryant has been great (Geek). I am already looking in past tense...don’t worry guys it’s not over yet!

I look forward to serving as your Student Senate President this year. It’s an exciting time to be at school and I hope this year is going to rock! I wish everyone the best year possible. Good luck!

The George E. Bello Center: Ready For Student Use

The $27 million, two-acre (72,000 square foot) George E. Bello Center for Information and Technology is the centerpiece of Bryant College’s $50 million information technology expansion. Each freshman takes a course called Personal Productivity Software, which is offered in the reference classroom in the George E. Bello Center.

George E. Bello is a 1958 graduate of Bryant’s accounting and business administration curriculum, and he donated $2 million to help us develop this building. He was the executive vice president and controller of Refsuman Group Holdings, Inc., headquartered in New York City, until he retired in 2001.

The George E. Bello Center for Information and Technology was designed by Gwathmey Siegel & Associates Architects, a New York City firm that has been nationally recognized for its work. They even designed Steven Spielberg’s home.

First Floor
The Grand Hall is the main entrance to the facility, as well as dramatic space for exhibitions, receptions, and lectures accommodating up to 400 people. The ceiling in the Grand Hall is specially designed to meet the acoustical needs of various functions in this area. The entry will have a media wall with nine video monitors that show one image or multiple images.

The ticker tape running up the wall is the data feed that goes directly to our Financial Markets Center. We’ll talk more about that when we go up to the second floor. The spaces on the second floor are the new campus common and are capable of 24-hour flexible usage without impacting the library security controls and its acoustical requirements.

The Multipurpose classroom off the Grand Hall, seats 25. It has an instructor station and the audiovisual equipment is built right into the room. Every seat has a data port with Internet connectivity. Reference classroom—35 people can plug in simultaneously.

The Cyber Café—students will be able to enjoy refreshments and have plenty of data ports to connect their computers in a social setting. The large plasma screen in the center of the room will broadcast CNN or Bloomberg TV.

There are more than 150,000 items in the library’s physical collection.
Welcome Guide

The Archway...

A whole new publication

Let me first just say thank you for taking a few seconds out of your busy day to pick up this first issue of The Archway. This Welcome Guide has been put together to supply you with information pertaining to Bryant and the services that are offered.

It is my hope that you will find this useful in the coming days as we all get settled into our routines. My main goal as Editor-In-Chief of The Archway this year is to concentrate on making this a student-centered publication.

This Welcome Guide is a step toward encouraging Bryant students to use The Archway as a resource and, more importantly, as a voice. I am extending this invitation to all Bryant students. Take advantage of what The Archway has to offer.

You have something to say, write a letter to the Editor. If you have a talent for writing, or photography join our staff and help your fellow students become aware of what is happening around them. One of the most frustrating things is to find out about something after the fact. Or worse yet, to be kept in the dark when it comes to issues that affect you as a student and as a member of the Bryant community.

My ultimate goal is to make sure no student is left out of the loop when it comes to events, policies, or other points of interest. The Welcome Guide will provide you with a lot of information and hopefully will be able to answer questions about where to go and who to talk to on campus-who are the members of this college that are helping with the treatments and prevention of illnesses. Bryant's campus is a home, an extension of your family. The Archway is a tool for finding your place and your purpose.

Check out upcoming Athletics events beginning on page 3, as well as the schedules for Welcome Weekend on pg. 6. For the freshmen specifically, take a look at your Bryant Experience schedule on page 8 as well as a few words of advice from some experienced seniors on page 3.

In future issues, look for coverage of campus news and events, campus and local entertainment, comics, outstanding student athletes, and many other features that I hope will have you running to those newstands on Fridays. This year The Archway is a whole new publication. It is my hope that myself, along with the help of a talented and motivated staff will be able to demonstrate just what a college newspaper is capable of. It is my pleasure to present the new and improved Archway to you! Maggie Grocy, Editor-In-Chief

What advice would you give the incoming freshmen?

Bryan Shea, '03
Finance & Management Major

“My advice to freshmen is to have fun! While here, get involved, try something new and be who you want to be. High school is over and you are growing up, so make the most of your years at Bryant.”

Kaly Azza, '03
Communication & Marketing Major

“Savor these next four years and embrace the good with the bad. Realize your time here is what you make of it!”

Lauren O'Donnell, '03
Communication & Finance Major

“Never walk anywhere barefoot around here (geese, grass, gross, enough said). Always carry a student planner. (“I have a paper due today??”) and realize that you’re about to have some incredibly embarrassing moments, so learn to laugh at yourself. Oh yeah, and never underestimate the value of friendship.”

Tim Watt, '03
Marketing & CIS Major

“The next four years are going to fly by fast, so make sure you enjoy them. Don’t be afraid to take chances because you will often find that the risk was worth it. Get involved with a club, organization or sport early because you will meet some great people and have fun. And don’t forget that we are here to go to class too.”

Intercultural Center provides services
The Intercultural Center provides counseling, advising, and support services to meet the unique needs of the international and multi-ethnic students at Bryant College. The staff develops and delivers programming which enhances the appreciation and awareness of diversity within Bryant College and the surrounding community. The staff advises two student organizations, the Multicultural Student Union (MSU), and the International Student Organization (ISO).

The office is located on the 2nd floor of Hall 6. The office can be reached at telephone number 322-6496 and the e-mail address is interc@bryant.edu.

The Intercultural Center staff is committed to the creation and maintenance of a campus environment which enhances the existence, increases the appreciation of, and values the contributions of an increasingly diverse population. One's cultural identity is very personal. With this in mind, the Intercultural Center staff seeks to support any member of the Bryant College community who believes that, of life experience, views, beliefs, values, interests, or for any other reason, they consider themselves to be culturally unique.

The Center strives to provide support services which address the adjustment needs and ensure the success of domestic students of color and international students. In order to foster within the community a respect for, and appreciation of the history, traditions and cultures of a multicultural population, the Center provides opportunities for the majority population to expand their worldviews and engage in intercultural communications and relationships.

The staff serves as a resource to departments in developing policies, curriculum, programs and activities that increase the number of multi-ethnic students enrolling and staying at Bryant College.
