Faulty Career Connection
By Colin Kelley

College seniors around the nation are preparing to enter the workforce. This year's competitive job market is beginning to heat up. If you are a Bryant College senior you are most likely familiar with the conveniences and pitfalls of the new e-Recruiting software. The Bryant Career Connection is an e-Recruiting software package linking over 200 colleges and universities across the nation; including Brown, Providence College, and this year, Bryant College. The software is operated through the Office of Career Services, and directed by Skip Nordhoff. According to Nordhoff the goal of the system is to "automate the recruiting process", while "streamlining the existing network" making for a more "convenient process". Many students are finding that the streamlined process is actually causing more headaches than it is relieving. Among these problems are long file conversion times, problems with certain browsers, and particular job requirements.

It is understandable that a new system would have some bugs, however this software system was created in the mid 1990's by a Boston start-up, Experience.com. Most likely the bugs are on the user-end of the software. In order to have full use of the e-Recruiting system students must attend a Senior Orientation given by Nordhoff. These sessions will be finished by Wednesday, October 3rd. If you have missed all of the Orientation programs students may contact Career Services; more programs will be held on an "as needed basis".

The software groups job listings from companies recruiting on campus and posts them for students to view. It is then possible for students to apply for these positions by electronically submitting resumes, cover letters, and unofficial transcripts. All users must upload the system their resumes and cover letters as MS Word documents to be converted to PDF files. This process is where most students initially run into trouble. During peak hours the system can become overloaded, with thousands of students using the software across the nation. It is not unusual for resumes and cover letters to take up to 24 hours to convert to PDF format. This offers little comfort for students with pending deadlines.

Transcripts are more complicated. The student must first obtain a "hard copy" of his or her transcript. This often requires 3-5 days processing time from Academic Records, and a $5.00 fee. It is also possible to print the transcript from the Banner network at Undergraduate Programs. Although it is often suggested saving the document as a word file from the Banner system is not sufficient for the e-Recruiting software. Students must scan their "hard copy" and save it as a word file.

In the Koffler Center and in some student's rooms there have been difficulties running the software using a Netscape Browser. Apparently, Netscape freezes and can crash during certain operations. This problem is yet to be confirmed by Career Services.

A final complaint of the e-recruiting software is the screening of candidates. Many job postings require certain majors, student status (senior-junior-etc.), and a minimum GPA. If students do not meet all of these criteria they are blocked from even applying for an interview. Many students are finding that their GPA's keep them from being able to apply to a number of job postings. Nordhoff suggests that the minimum GPA requirement is a method for "employers to filter applications for academic excellence". This comes as a disappointing limitation to students who strive for "academic excellence" but fail just short of the prescribed boundaries.

Despite these drawbacks to the system, the new Recruiting software at Bryant will be a widely used tool for job searches. The system does offer an expanded universe of opportunities.

Seniors: It's Time to Prove How Smart You Are
By Maggie Grace

Lately, there has been a lot of talk circulating amongst seniors and faculty regarding the mysterious ETS test. If you haven't heard anything about it yet, I'm here to fill you in. The ETS Business Major Field Exam is a standardized test that is given to seniors as part of their Business Policy class. It was administered for the first time last year to the seniors as a way to gauge their understanding of the business education that they had received. At that point the only thing that was mandatory about the test was attending. The main purpose was to measure learning outcomes.

I spoke with Dr. Ron DiBattista, the head of the management department here at Bryant in order to gain a better understanding of what the ETS test was and how it impacts the school. He gave me a rundown of the test, as well as some information that I hope will put the rumors surrounding the exam to rest. When asked why it is now a mandatory part of the curriculum, he explained that this is an effective way to measure the proficiency in business concepts that Bryant students are supposed to have when they graduate. The test can also evaluate the performance of professors and whether they are communicating all the necessary information. Dr. DiBattista also said that this is a great way for Bryant students to determine how to continue to provide the best in business education. Here is some technical information regarding the exam:

- The test is given in 2 separate parts. Students are given 1 hour to complete each part with a 30-minute break in between the two.
- The test is administered outside of class time on four different dates. Students have to take it on one of the assigned days. (Dates are listed at the end of this article). All of the dates for this test are

IT'S NOT BUSINESS AS USUAL
(First of a Series)
By Asa Williams

Bryant College's slogan, in case you're unaware, is "Expanding the World of Opportunity." This year, those words have a whole new meaning, as three new majors have been added, all outside the business area.

Regarding this expansion, Bryant's President Ron Machlery said that "the new majors will become popular and will help us bring some very good students to this campus, students who would not have even looked at us had this move not been made." Also aware of the sudden growth in our school, he says that, as another result, "more female students will be coming here."

One of these three new majors is communication (notice that there is no "s" at the end). This program has actually been upgraded from a liberal arts minor and concentration. "All popular at the field is here," says professor Dr. Kevin Pearce, "communication is one of the fastest-growing disciplines today. According to the Labor Department, there has been a steady increase in the need for communication majors in the current marketplace, that increase is expected to continue." He also says that communication was and still is the school's most popular minor and liberal arts concentration.

The communication department also has a new chair in Dr. Stanley Baran, formerly of San Jose State University, where he held a similar position in that school's Theatre Arts department. He is one of four faculty advisors for the Bryant Communication Society. Baran says that there are two ways to look at this expansion. First, it stresses the importance of communication and its technologies in business. "There is nobody in any business," he says, "that will not benefit from improved communication skills and more thoughtful use of communication technologies. Technology provides us with different ways of connecting with our publics; the resultant benefits and risks vary." He also says "there is almost no aspect of communication that is not related to a business; any improvement in personal communication skills or in the use of communication technologies will be of great advantage to the graduate, whoever she may work for."

On the college front, Dr. Baran explains why Bryant is a great place to be a communication major. "our school's offering of communication courses and a liberal arts education can rival other universities, but our main advantage is that we can provide a good dose of our signature business core as well." He says that we must be aware that "the college graduate with a communication degree will more often than not be working in a business setting. After all," he says, "why would you want to remain ignorant of it?"

FEATURES

Seniors: Time to Prove...

Test are at the end of October. This way, seniors will receive their scores and be graded in the class before the end of the semester. This test can also be included as an item in your resume, and can aid in career planning.

The exam will be offered in April 2002 for all those seniors who are taking BUS 400 second semester. Dates have yet to be determined.

There will be no review sessions or class time devoted to a review of the material. This seems to be one of the main issues that people have regarding this test. Because it is a nationally standardized exam, colleges cannot use class time to prepare, nor can they offer special review sessions.

Dr. DiBattista stated, "We are prohibited from giving student study sessions or using class time."

Perhaps this sounds a little unfair to you. But look at it this way: The ETS exam focuses on the 5 cores of business that are taught here at Bryant.

1. Accounting
2. CIS
3. Finance
4. Management
5. Marketing

So, you figure that if you don’t have it by now, a couple of review sessions aren’t going to do that much for you. The exam is based on basic business concepts that by the time you are ready to graduate should be within your grasp. Initially the test was supposed to be 10% of the BUS 400 grade. But after a meeting last week between Senate President Andrew Goldberg, Senior Class Clair and Jess Stetson, Dr. DiBattista and V.K. Uuni, the Dean of Academic Affairs, a more acceptable 5% was decided upon. Nick Kakas, a senior finance major commented that he agrees with the test. "As long as we are given adequate notice, and it is a basic test, I think it should count for some sort of grade." In light of all this, I thought I would add some additional information. At some schools, (not Bryant), the test can account for as much as 20% of a senior’s final grade in a class. (5% doesn’t sound so bad now does it?) Some schools even offer cash bonuses to those students who perform exceptionally well on the exam. (Sorry, this doesn’t apply to Bryant either!)

Sometimes funding for state schools is based partly on the results from this test. In Bryant’s case, funding is not determined based on test results. In addition to this, let me just add that this exam has no bearing on graduation. It is not a graduation requirement here at Bryant.

It is however a mandatory part of BUS 400. It also in no way affects the AACSB accreditation that Bryant holds. This test is a tool to measure business competence and quality of instruction. So, to all you seniors: dig out those accounting notes from sophomore year...you just might want to take a look!

In light of the fact that Bryant cannot offer a review for the exam, here is a website that provides information about the test as well as sample questions.*

Test Dates are as follows:

- Monday, October 22, 2001
  - 3-5:30pm

- Tuesday, October 23, 2001
  - 3:30-6pm

- Wednesday, October 24, 2001
  - 6-8:30pm

October 5, 2001
by Stephen Lynch

The Orange County Register

They were the bygone days of, oh, two years ago. Remember when? Vaguely, I'm sure. But if you concentrate, you may conjure images of that olden decade: the '90s. Between Kurt Cobain on the cover of Spin magazine and '90s week-ends on local radio stations, the days of grunge and the Gap are enjoying a come-back. Britney Spears performed on last month's MTV Video Music Awards. You remember Britney, don't you? Sure do you. Just enough time has passed since Bill Clinton (remember him?) left office, and those oh-so-'90 bands like Linkin Park and Staind swept away '90s artists like, let's see, the Backstreet Boys, Faith Hill and the Foo Fighters. Even Puff Daddy was usurped by some guy named P. Diddy. So now it's time to look back and give that decade a handy label, a fashion look and a 10-disc retrospective. Break out the flannel, put "Nevermind" on the stereo, think about what the definition of "is" is, and go retro. --

TELEVISION: Who did kill Laura Palmer? We think it was the dwarf. But since "Twin Peaks" is now out on videotape, you can see for yourself. Weren't the '90s great for TV? Back when "Friends" was funny, "ER" was interesting, The X-Files was scary and The Simpsons was still the best show on the air. When Christina Applegate was a saxopt, and the only reality series was "The Real World." Cable television got really good then, too. We got food channels and cartoon channels and comedy channels. And did you download "The Spirit of Christmas" off the Internet before you saw "South Park?" And do you remember what you were doing the day "Seinfeld" ended? Watching "Seinfeld?" We thought so.

ONE-HIT WONDERS: You might think that one-hit wonders are a phenomenon of the '80s, those "Walking on Sunshine" tunes that show up every day at noon on the radio from artists you're not quite sure of (it's Katrina and the Waves). But the '90s had its share of musicians who - thank goodness - were never heard from again. Here's a mix-tape collection: "Ice Ice Baby"-Vanilla Ice - "Tubthumping" - Chumbawamba - "Sex and Candy" - Marcy Playground - "Jump Around" - House of Pain - "Unbelievable" - EMF - "Wohoo! (There It Is)" - Tag Team - "Cantaloop (Flip Fantasia)" - US3 - "Crazy Train" - The Breeders - "Macarena" - Rio Los Mar - "Jump" - The Presidents of the United States of America - "Flagpole Sitta" - Harvey Danger - "Jump, Jump" - Kiss Kross - "Standing Outside a Broken Phone Booth With Money in My Hand" - Primitive Radio Gods - "I'm Gonna Be (500 Miles)" - Proclaimers - "Mmm Mmm Mmm Mmm" - Crash Test Dummies - "Informer" - Snow - "Your Woman" - White Town.

NOMINATIONS FOR WHAT TO CALL IT: If the '70s were the Me Decade, and the '80s were the Greed Decade, what to call the '90s? Some suggestions: Decade X - The Monica Decade - The Greedier Decade - That '90s Decade - The Age of Irony - The Me (and my kids in the SUV) Decade - The Dot-Com Decade - The Retro Decade - The Britney Decade --

THE BEST NOSTALGIA CRADLES OF THE '90s: Did the '90s have an identity? Because as much as we can recall they just recycled other decades. Let's see, there was that swing movement with "Swingers" and bands like Squirrel Nut Zippers. And then the '90s came back with bellowbottoms and movies made out of old television shows like "Charlie's Angels." We returned to the '60s with Woodstock II. Eighties music was really popular. Weezer had a video about a '70s television show ("Happy Days") based on the '50s. "Star Wars" came back. How about the Recycling Decade?

WHATSOEVER HAPPENED TO: Nominees for "Hollywood Squares": Kevin Costner, Penelope Ann Miller, Jenny McCarthy, Alice in Chains, Milli Vanilli, Quentin Tarantino, Ethan Hawke, Liz Phair, Hootie, the Blowfish, Bob Saget, Kenneth Branagh and Emma Thompson, David Copperfield and Claudia Schiffer, Alicia Silverstone, Sherilyn Fenn, Kirstie Alley, Daniel Day Lewis, David Caruso, Rob Morrow and Janine Turner, Linda Fiorentino.

FASHION CRAZES (WELL, SORT OF): No one can forget metallic pants and shirts, even though we try so hard. Everyone (well, every woman) wore thigh-high boots for a while ... Then there were sideburns. And no sideburns. And the George Clooney haircut. And the Jennifer Aniston-do. And the dark, "urban" makeup look, and low-riding jeans on men and ... Well, were there really any '90s fashion trends? -- IMPORTANT EVENTS: Decorate your living room in a pseudo-cybercafe, complete with 4800-bps modems and Windows 95, and reminisce about where you were when the Gulf War was on CNN ... in junior high? Do you remember the war or the George Clooney movie? Remember when Russia was part of a union and we were scared of it? Did Clinton wear boxers or briefs? Wasn't Tabitha Soren somehow involved? And didn't he get into some kind of trouble later on related to that question? It's a wonder people won't remember the decade simply for the wackos - the Unabomber, Timothy McVeigh, Milosevic. Perhaps the Northridge quake and your bedroom. Or the Loma Sirna fires threatened your home. Or El Nino made you grab your surfboard. And, most importantly: Do you remember when you had a job?

Stevie Wonder Offers Songs in the Key of Healing

By Ben Wener

The Orange County Register

Surely you took away a memory, something special that compelled you to donate - as if we needed a more compelling reason. But of the many profoundly emotional moments the "America: A Tribute to Heroes" telethon provided, for me the most heart-wrenching by far was watching Stevie Wonder fighting back tears during "Love's In Need of Love Today." Perhaps because it was the first time in years I've seen him be anything other than Stevie Wonder, Professional Legend. If you're not familiar with the song, here are the lyrics that seemed to get Stevie choked up: "The force of evil plans to make you its possession/And it will, if we let it, destroy everybody/We all must take precautionary measures/If love and peace you treasure." Stevie's most sprawling masterpiece, however, is ultimately about uplifting the spirit, not merely observing it from a coolly detached distance. It's about jumping in headlong and experiencing its exhilarations from the inside out - from the wonder of birth (the ray of sunshine "Isn't She Lovely") to the innocuous rambunctiousness of youth (the imperially grooving "I Wish") and it's just dawning on me that I haven't mentioned how dazzling the music is. But then, maybe that's something best discovered by yourself.
Delta Zeta
By Jennifer Crisafi

Welcome back everyone! The sisters of Delta Zeta would like to start off by saying that our prayers and deepest sympathies go out to all of the members, either directly or indirectly in the tragic events that took place on Tuesday September 11th. Although nothing could ever be said to ease the pain and horror felt by the unthinkable acts that were committed, by standing together we can help push forward into the future, coming out stronger than ever.

I would like to start off by thanking Angel, Jaedan, Jasper, and Quinci for their wonderful job painting the wall! Next time girls, try to get more on the wall and less on yourselves okay? Although it’s early in the semester, there has still been a lot of shadiness going on around Turtle Town. Angel wants to warn the Sigmas to lock their doors because Worm seems to be having trouble finding a bed. Masyn, on the other hand, is “that girl” who spends her nights climbing onto townhouse roofs. Meanwhile Jasper wants to remind Joeys and Zoey that wet leaves are equivalent to ice so be careful! Meanwhile Jaxsyn and Phoebie are waiting for her mom to send more supplies so to next time don’t get well you know. Jasper wants to know if Angel is the surprise, and she wants to know if Quinci wants to dance! And all Quinci has to say is that Kitey says “You are the weakest link!” Survivor Flip-Cup? Angel wants to thank Kiti for their night out, and to tell everyone that all people can have fun too! Angel and Byron want to give a “high-five” to Blake’s late-night tackle on the 50-yard-line. And Kacey wants to remind Kiti that “Yeah, I seen that stuff before!” We need to find the number for that infomercial—We need that! Meanwhile Jaxsyn is recovering from her weekend of “Candy necklaces gone wrong,” and wants everyone to know that she is not a parochial school girl. But don’t worry Jaxsyn, your Big promises to protect you from the slums!! By the way Kitey, Kacey wants to know if it’s at all possible for you to control your elf while next time we have to be another continuing threat in an injury plagued game. The potential for our team was really seen in this hard fought loss. Chip, with his second try, would show to any other agoflling defeat by the visiting team. We would like to thank all the Alumni for showing up and helping out. Our second match versus Springfield College at Bryant would show how much the team has grown since last year, even with the losses of many graduating players. Lights Out!! We aU also scored our first try, and Jassy then went on to score even more on the field as almost all the rookies got a chance to play significant minutes in our first away game at Wentworth Institute of Technology, we would show even more progress on the field as almost all the rookies got a chance to play significant minutes. In another agonizing “defeat”, Brand and Regan would score their first try’s to confirm our enormous improvement from last year. With position changes, some players got to see how the rest of the reg season worked. Juggy, a long time wing was thrown in at flanker to show that he had the intensity and strength to play with the pack. As we continue to practice daily there is no doubt that we will continue to improve our game and successes.

HOUSING COMMITTEE

Elena Fertitta
Housing Committee Chair

So far, the year is off to a good start! We have had a few housing issues, but they have been swiftly resolved.

A couple Announcements and reminders:

* For all of you New Townhouse Residents, I was recently informed that we will all be receiving our living room lamps by next week—sorry for the delay but better late than never!

* I am looking into a better recycling program for halls 14, 15 & 16 per the request of a few freshmen students.

* I have had questions regarding banners being hung in/ outside windows or outside residence halls/townhouses. As I reported at the Senate meeting on 9/19, NO BANNERS OR DECORATIONS (with the current exception of the American Flag) shall be hung for public display. (Of course, campus advertisements and informational flyers/bulletins fall under a different category.)

If you have any questions, comments or issues, please contact me at erf11@bryant.edu and I will gladly look into things for you. I meet with Julie LeBlanc, Director of Residence Life, on a weekly basis, so I will do my best to swiftly respond to your concerns.

Hang in there seniors!!!!

Fun Fact: There’s only 225 days until graduation!

By Jessica Stetson

On behalf of the senior class committee we are happy to report that our class is up and running on the fundraising front. We’ve set a goal for the year and our working our butt’s off to meet it so that senior week can be as inexpensive as possible for our graduating seniors. However, we need your help!

While we do have a core committee working hard to put together fundraising efforts and events for the senior class, we would love any input you have for us on Cornerstone Nights and how we can make them better, any fundraising ideas that you think might bring in some money for our class, as well as any useful contacts that anyone might have that we could use in looking for a location for the senior ball, the cruise or a kickoff event. We had a Cornerstone Night last Thursday, but I’m sad to say that the turnout wasn’t as great as it was on the first night. Please look out for flyers and other advertising next time and come out and support your class. If you have any ideas on how to get more seniors there, let us know ASAP.

We’re currently looking into raffling off a trip to the American Bald Eagle Reserve during Alumni/Parent Weekend and the 8th Annual Duck Race during Parents & Family Weekend, so tell your parents to come out and buy a duck to support the seniors that weekend. Other fundraising ideas we’re working on include a possible Senior Olympics Competition down in the townhouses and a possible sale of Class of 2002 t-shirts. Once again, if you’ve got any ideas, comments, concerns, or potential contacts let us know at seniors@bryant.edu, and check out our webpage at web.bryant.edu/seniors.

FOOD OPERATIONS

By Gina Riccardi and Meaghan Hubler

The Food Operations Committee has achieved a few changes at South and Salzman Dining Halls this past September. We brought back the Chicken Caesar Salad, that seemed to be a favorite meal at Salzman and we have developed some value meals at South to lower the prices and make the food worth your money. Soon to come will be changes in the menu plans, which is in process right now, by getting the equivalency back at South.

This we are looking forward to, and we're sure that you are too. If you have any questions or issues about or for the Food Operations committee or you would like to join it please email Gina Riccardi at glrl@bryant.edu. We will work to the best of our abilities to make sure that all the problems are solved.

CHAPLAIN’S CORNER

By Rev. Joseph A. Pescatello
Catholic Chaplain

In reflecting upon the events of the past several weeks, I have thought that if any good can come of this tragedy it is to awaken us to the realization that although we are all different and come from varied backgrounds ethnically, religiously, and culturally, we share a common humanity. We need to stand together, not only as Americans but as members of the world community to work for peace, understanding, and to foster a deeper awareness of our interdependence upon one another. We all can make a difference, each in our own way.

A second year student, Avi Levine, sent me an email following the 9:15 prayer service on the evening of September 11, 2001. I would like to share a portion of his message with you.

"A little while ago, I got back from a prayer service. This service was directed towards general prayer, non-denominational. After the service, about 100 students gathered around our campus pond and prayed together, holding candles, representing themselves and others who are affected by this tragedy. We were all there—Blacks, Whites, Hispanics, Jews, Catholics, Muslims, and others. We were all there for the same reason—to hope. We were told to look at the light, a light that was generated by 100 students of all backgrounds, cultures, genders, and religions, who were willing to help for the same cause. We were told to "see" the light, but not just the light of the candles, the light of peace which was generated by our community gathering together as one to mourn those who were lost, pray for those helping others, and for those who need help. This really made me see how "dark" everything really was. Why did we wait until now to see the light? I don't know why.

While sitting at the service tonight, I took a lesson out of all of this...to keep the light shining. Let's keep shining.

Let us not forget this message, and let us live to make it a reality.

The Hodgson memorial Library now subscribes to EBSCO's Academic Search Premier, a database with indexing and abstracts for 4,150 scholarly journals, 3,180 of which are available full text. This product is available campus-wide and to off-campus library patrons via the library Web page under "E-resources".

The scope of the database includes coverage for a variety of subject areas, including the social sciences, humanities, education, ethnic studies, and literature. A large number of academic journals can be accessed from this new EBSCO database, and researchers can limit their search to academic journals only by checking a box marked "peer reviewed". Researchers can select one of four methods for searching the database: by keyword, natural language, advanced, or expert search. The advanced and expert search methods let researchers focus their requests by limiting their search terms to the author, title, or subject search fields. Retrieved articles can be printed, emailed, or downloaded to a disk. The reference staff offers training on EBSCO every Monday evening at 7pm. For more information, or to sign up for a training session, call 232-6299 or email Colleen Anderson at canderson@bryant.edu

The CQ Researcher on the Web is an award-winning product (Sigma Delta Chi award for journalism excellence, 1999) offering in-depth, objective reports on "hot topics" in the news. CQ essayists write on topics ranging from the environment to politics, culture, technology, and science. These reports include an overview and history of the topic, a chronology of important events, a provison viewpoint on one particular aspect of the topic, and a list of sources for further reading. Students can print the whole report or parts of the report for free. For example, CQ Researcher is an excellent product to use to research the issues surrounding the terrorist attacks of September 11th. The producers of the database have put together a special educational segment titled Recent Terrorism Events: Background and Context. This free supplement includes the full text of publications written by analysts at CQ Researcher containing in-depth studies of terrorism--Combating Terrorism, Islamic Fundamentalism, and The Middle East Conflict.

Ask at the reference desk for a demonstration of how you can use CQ Researcher as a tool for locating information on any paper on current events.

With plenty of time off, the Bulldogs should be well rested and prepared for 2nd place Bentley this weekend at Bulldog Stadium. Their last game against the Greyhounds from Assumption was bittersweet, as the Bulldogs showed off their firepower, but let the Greyhounds put 36 points on the board.

Junior quarterback TONY GRANIERI (Atlantic City, NJ) rushed for 152 yards, scored three touchdowns and passed for two more as Bryant College defeated Assumption College, 52-36, in a wild Northeast-10 Conference game at Robertson Field, which was broadcast live on WMEF 88.7 FM Bryant College Radio.

Sharing the spotlight for the Bulldogs, now 2-1 overall and 2-1 in the conference, was sophomore running back ANDRE MCLEOD (Monroe, NY) who rushed for 94 yards.

The Bulldogs used a GARRETT WEBSTER (Cheshire, CT) fumble recovery to set up their first score... a 29-yard field goal by sophomore JOHN HARTSHORN (Plainville, MA) capping an eight-play, 41-yard march. McLeod ran four times in the march for 33 yards.

The Hounds then struck right back as freshman tight end JOSE HOWLLETT (Wilmingtom, MA) caught an 11-yard pass from postgraduate quarterback CHAD CARGES (North Attleboro, MA). Carges ran twice for 27 yards in the march as the Hounds led 7-3 following a junior TIM LONGDEN (Holden, MA) conversion.

Bryant then scored three second-period touchdowns to move to a commanding 24-7 halftime lead. A nine-yard run by junior BILLY JOYNER (Mattawan, NY) capped a 12-play, 69-yard drive. Joyner had rushed five times for 39 yards in the march. Granieri scammed 40 yards following a J.P. SHEVORY (Dedham, MA) interception and then fired a 24-yard touchdown pass to CHRIS ANDRADE (East Providence, RI) to cap an 83-yard drive.

With more than half of the season left to play the Bulldogs are looking to capitalize on their win against Franklin Pierce as they head to Albany to take on St. Rose.

Bulldogs Blank Franklin Pierce, 1-0

SMITHFIELD, R.I. — Freshman goalkeeper James Purpura (Massapequa, N.Y.) made nine saves to register his first career shutout, allowing sophomore Clint Stonacek's (Omaha, Neb.) goal in the eighth minute to stand up as the game-winner in Bryant's 1-0 win against Franklin Pierce Saturday at Bulldog Stadium.

Franklin Pierce finished with a 15-9 advantage in shots, including an 8-2 discrepancy in the second half, but Purpura came up with four saves in the final 45 minutes to deny the Ravens. Stonacek's goal came when his blast from 15 yards out deflected off Raven keeper Dominico Roma (Windsor, Ont.) and a Franklin Pierce defender into the back of the net. The Ravens threatened just once more in the opening 13 minutes after midfielder Matt Parrazzo (Reykjavik, Iceland) received the ball alone at the top of the box, but Purpura came out to smother the shot. The Bulldog keeper made a nearly identical save on the Ravens' Ernest Olus (Hillsdale, N.J.) with 10:30 left in the first half.

Bryant improved to 3-5-0 overall and 2-3-0 in the Northeast-10 Conference with the decision. Roma made six saves for Franklin Pierce, which fell to 0-3-0 overall and 0-3-0 in the NE-10. Bryant's next match will be Wednesday, Oct. 3, when the Bulldogs face Saint Rose at 3 p.m. in Albany, N.Y. Franklin Pierce hosts UMass Lowell Wednesday in Rindge, N.H.

Bulldogs Fall To Merrimack, 1-0

NORTH ANDOVER, Mass. — Freshman Joe Picariello (Sandwich, Mass.) scored his first career goal in the 73rd minute, lifting Merrimack to a 1-0 win against Bryant Wednesday afternoon at Warrior Field. Bulldog goalkeeper James Purpura (Massapequa, N.Y.) made nine saves to register his first career shutout, allowing sophomore Clint Stonacek's (Omaha, Neb.) goal in the eighth minute to stand up as the game-winner in Bryant's 1-0 win against Franklin Pierce Saturday at Bulldog Stadium.

Volleyball Report

By Brendan Shannon

The volleyball team takes their first Northeast 10 Conference loss of the season and turns in a banner performance in the Dowling Classic. After losing to archrival Bentley last Tuesday, the Bulldogs marched down to New York and picked up 3 convincing wins. Theresa Garlacy’s team heads to Merrimack on Tuesday and then takes on PACE in a Friday night match-up in the Bryant Athletics & Recreation Center. And if you decide to head home early this weekend there is plenty of more games to catch! 7 home games in between October 16th – October 27th will give you more than enough opportunity to cheer on the Black and Gold!

Bryant Wins Dowling Classic

OAKDALE, N.Y. — Sophomore setter Britta Beckman (Omaha, Neb.) was tournament most valuable player, and junior right-side hitter Sarah Smith (State College, Pa.) and junior middle hitter Allison Gunther (Hauppauge, N.Y.) were named to the all-tournament team as Bryant captured the championship at the Dowling Classic Saturday afternoon.

Bryant, which had defeated St. Thomas Aquinas, 3-0, Friday night, followed with a 3-0 win against Adelphi and a 3-1 win against Dowling. The three wins improved Bryant to 14-7 on the season, while the win against Dowling marked the 100th victory for the Bulldogs’ three seniors, Jeanette Rulli (Barkhamsted, Conn.), Alicia Harris (Clinton, Conn.) and Melissa Wright (Methuen, Mass.).

Beckman had 36 assists against St. Thomas Aquinas, 38 against Adelphi and 35 against Dowling to earn MVP honors. Gunther finished with double-figure kills in all three matches, while Smith stood out with 12 kills and 26 digs in the win against Dowling.

Bryant returns to action Tuesday, when the Bulldogs face Merrimack in a Northeast-10 Conference match in North Andover, Mass.
SMITHFIELD, RI. - Sophomore midfielder Jean Wall's (Sharon, Mass.) Franklin Pierce fell to 2-6 overall and 1-1 in the NE-10.

The first half saw the Bulldogs take a quick 1-0 lead 25 seconds after the opening whistle on junior Lindsay Schoolcraft's (Barre, Mass.) third goal of the year. But Kutztown answered less than a minute later when Carol Seyler (Tunkhannock, Pa.) converted a Dana Ferguson (Philadelphia, Pa.) cross, and the Golden Bears gained a 2-1 lead when Baer scored on a penalty stroke.

Bryant's Emily Grandmont (Auburn, Mass.) made it a 2-2 game with 9:15 left in the first half when she redirected an Erin Hoffmann (South Dennis, Mass.) shot past Kutztown goalkeeper Veronica Carr (Mifflord, Pa.).

Ferguson finished a Rachel Gladfelter (Felton, Pa.) cross with 29:16 left in the second period to give Kutztown the lead for good, and Baer added the game-winner exactly 10 minutes later finishing a scramble in front. Bryant's Heidi Chirigos (Westport, Mass.) scored with 17:26 left to make it a 4-3 game, but Kutztown's Rebecca Moorey (Phoenixville, Pa.) reclaimed the two-goal lead with 7:36 left.

Car made seven saves for Kutztown, including five in the first half, as the Golden Bears improved to 6-4 overall. Bryant goalkeeper Sharon Foley (Littleton, Mass.) made 13 stops, including two of three penalty strokes, as the Bulldogs fell to 5-4.

Patat Stone-Walls Franklin Pierce, 1-0

SMITHFIELD, R.I. - Sophomore midfielder Jean Wall's (Sharon, Mass.) first career goal stood up as the game-winner as freshman goalkeeper Kristen Patat (Portsmouth, N.H.) registered a seven-save shutout to lead Bryant to a 1-0 win against Franklin Pierce Tuesday afternoon at the Bryant Field Hockey Complex.

Wall converted a Lindsay Schoolcraft (Barre, Mass.) cross with 22:30 left in the first period for the only goal Bryant would need. Patat made six of her saves in the first period, and she preserved the win with a big stop in the game's final 10 seconds.

Wall's goal marked the first points of her collegiate career, while Schoolcraft registered her second assist and eighth point on the season. Patat, meanwhile, has not allowed a goal in two games and has stopped all 17 shots she has faced. Junior Kasey Mc Clemments (Ashland, Mass.) was solid in goal for the Ravens with 12 saves.

Bryant improved to 6-4 overall and 3-2 in the Northeast-10 Conference, while Franklin Pierce fell to 2-6 overall and 0-1 in the NE-10.

9/29/01
Bulldogs Roll Past Merrimack, 3-0

NORTH ANDOVER, Mass. - Junior forward Lindsay Schoolcraft (Barre, Mass.) has been named one of Bryant's three goals as the Bulldogs cruised to a 3-0 win against Merrimack Saturday afternoon at Warrier Field.

Schoolcraft set up Bryant's first goal and added an insurance tally late in the second half, giving her four goals and three assists for 11 points on the year. Bryant took a 1-0 lead into the break when sophomore forward Heidi Chirigos (Westport, Mass.) finished a Schoolcraft pass with 5:21 to play in the first half.

Junior forward Emily Grandmont (Auburn, Mass.) added her team-leading seventh goal of the season with 20:04 left in the second half to make it a 2-0 game, and Schoolcraft completed the scoring with 16:00 left when she converted a Dana Scott (South Yarmouth, Mass.) cross.

Junior goalkeeper Sharon Foley (Littleton, Mass.) needed to make just one save in registering her seventh career shutout. Bryant held a 2-0 advantage in shots and took 20 penalty corners to the Warriors' two.

Bryant improved to 7-4 overall and 4-2 in the Northeast-10 with the win, while the Warriors fell to 2-7 overall and 1-5 in the league.

Bryant's next game is Thursday, Oct. 4, when the Bulldogs faced top-ranked Bentley in Waltham, Mass., at 7:30 p.m.
Women's Soccer Report
By Brendan Shannon

"Failure is not my destiny"...no kidding? 5 wins in a row! And with 5 home games left out of the 9, there is plenty of time to catch the Bulldogs as they look to hold onto their #8 regional ranking. Chris Flint has turned this program around and it is taking it to new heights. With a barrage of shots being peppered against opponent goalies, watching this team is a pleasure. You owe it to yourself to catch one of the upcoming games!

Bulldogs Fall To No. 2 Franklin Pierce, 5-1

RINDGE, N.H. - Franklin Pierce College, ranked No. 2 in this week's National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA) Division II poll, used a four-goal outburst in the second half to break open the match en route to a 5-1 victory over Bryant College in Northeast-10 Conference women's soccer action at Crystal Field this afternoon. The Ravens then broke the match wide open with three goals in a 15-minute span, led by Keelie Herman who connected with freshman Meghan Welcome (Haverhill, Mass./Haverhill) on a textbook give-and-go that resulted in Welcome's seventh marker of the season at 33:37. Bryant, ranked No. 8 in the New England region, got on the board at 75:13 as sophomore Alison Kelly (Trumbull, Conn./Trumbull) scored on a deflection off a FPC defender. But it was too late as the Ravens 5 goals sealed the victory. FPC senior goalkeeper Kara Shemeth (Edgartown, Mass./Martha's Vineyard) preserved the win with three saves, including a pair in the final ten minutes of play, while freshman Kim Rekart (Ellington, Md./Mount Hebron) registered five saves in 72-minutes of play for the Bulldogs.

9/26 Win Streak Ends At Five As Merrimack Hands Bryant First NEC-10 Loss, 2-0

SMITHFIELD, R.I. - Senior strikers Melissa Edwards (Wakefield, Mass.) and Rachel McCarthy (North Easton, Mass.) scored first-half goals and senior goalkeeper Alison Skoglund (Haverhill, Mass.) held the fort with three saves, leading No. 14 Merrimack to a 2-0 win against unranked Bryant Wednesday afternoon at Bulldog Stadium. Merrimack remained unbeaten on the season (8-0-0) as the Warriors ended Bryant's program-record five-game winning streak. The Warriors scored the game-winner in the 27th minute when senior defender Annmarie Yutkin (Burlington, Mass.) sent a free kick 40 yards into the box to Edwards, who knocked it past Bulldog keeper Kim Rekart (Ellict City, Md.). Merrimack added an insurance goal just before halftime when McCarthy took a cross from senior defender Kara Alexander (Kaysville, Utah) and rolled it past Rekart in the 42nd minute. The goal was McCarthy's ninth of the season, and it gave her 24 points through eight matches this year (9-6-24).

Skoglund needed to make just three saves to register the shutout but was particularly impressive in the first half, as she turned aside Bryant's Christine Kalikewicz (Littleton, Mass.) on a one-on-one break late in the period.
