A Night of Awards

by Le Tien
Associate Editor

Over 300 Bryant students, faculty and administrators came together to honor the work of this year’s clubs, organizations and student leaders in the 9th Annual Leadership Banquet.

The event, sponsored by the Office of Student Activities, opened the night with a few words from President of Student Affairs, Tom Eckles, congratulating the student leaders for a job well done.

Following dinner, the students who participated in this year’s Leadership Track were honored with an award. A short video presentation by the Alpha Class—the first graduating class from the Leadership Track—was the next item on the schedule. The video was well made, however, the sound did not come through because of a slight technical error.

The night reached its high points with the presentation of this year’s awards. The first award was given to the Student Leader of the Year Award to Senior Harold Peacock. After realizing he had won, Peacock finally took the stage to a standing ovation. Winning the award also meant Peacock took home the Bryant Rocking Chair, the annual gift to the Student Leader of the Year.

Spring Weekend Events Scheduled

The annual Bryant College Spring Weekend begins on Thursday night, April 23 and concludes Sunday, April 26. All Bryant College students can participate in all but three events for free. Bryant College students are allowed to have only one guest on campus. That guest must have a wristband. Wristbands can be purchased for $8 at the Student Programming Board Office. Ticket Window on the third floor of the Bryant Center. Wristbands went on sale April 13th and will be on sale until April 24th. One can purchase a wristband from 12-7pm and 8-11pm at the Ticket Window.

Spring Weekend '98 T-shirts will be on sale at the Ticket Window and all during the Spring Weekend events. The purchase of a Spring Weekend shirt will be $8.

As a part of the weekend, the Student Programming Board will have a BBQ, Beer Garden, and there will be vendors around. For the evening starting at 6pm, GAMMA sponsors Bryant's Best for $1 admission in Papitto Dining Hall. There will be pizza from all of the pizza places around the campus area and the Bryant students get to vote on the best pizza, and it will be known as Bryant's Best. At 8pm, the Student Programming Board is hosting the movie "As Good as it Gets," starring Jack Nicholson and Helen Hunt. There is $1 admission for the movie in Jenkins Auditorium. At 9pm, BACCHUS is hosting a Pasta Pigout for $1 admission in Salmanson Dining Hall. Finally, to conclude the evening from 10pm-1am there will be a Foam Dance Party on the Bryant Center Patio. It will consist of a self-contained "puf foam" Dance Party that resembles some foam parties at Spring Break areas.

Spring Weekend should be a fun and eventful weekend. Melissa Frank, the Major Events Chair and John Harwell, the Concerts and Mixers Chair of SPB worked hard along with all of the other members of SPB and the following organizations that helped sponsor Spring Weekend: SPM, Senate, ISOM, ISD, WJMF, MSU, Commuter Connection, The Archway, The Ledger, Greek Life, BACCHUS, GAMMA, and the Sports Clubs.

Volunteers are still needed for the weekend. Please contact Steven Lazarus, the President of SPB at x6118 at the SPB office. You can also contact the SPB office with any other questions regarding Spring Weekend.

The voting process needs to be changed

Editorial

Let's get to the point. The voting process for Student Senate at Bryant College is inadequate. Over the past few weeks, many of us have garnered through the Unstructure, the Bryant Center, and the residence halls, we have been bombarded with signs and posters urging us to vote someone into the Student Senate. While there is no problem with publicity or advertising, the problem is how many of us really know any of these candidates.

The voting process has turned into a popularity contest. The issues take a backseat to whoever is the most popular person. More than likely the people who will be voted in are those who know the most people and have the most friends. In all of this what has become lost are the issues.

Many of the candidates write their platforms on weak issues or on issues that they have no ability to solve. Issues such as Flat-rate tuition for all four years are something that is way over the head of the candidates. However, I do admire the attempt at such a high goal. It is so much better than the usual "I want to get everyone in my class involved in activism" or the world famous "Let me be your voice". Someone needs to talk about the issues that they can handle and not hide behind catchy slogans or far-fetched goals. The fact that one can rhyme does not mean one can lead.

The process frustrates even some of the candidates. One candidate has said that an open debate would be the best way to determine the best person for the job. The candidate too cites the fact that no issues are being tackled. If the candidates are frustrated, shouldn't there be a change?

The executive board of the Senate was also voted this way. While there was no race for the presidency, the office of vice-president had three candidates. If Senate is to be responsible for the welfare of the students, the students should have the right to determine who is the best choice.

What is needed to remedy the situation would be a debate where all the candidates can discuss their goals and views openly to the students. Trying to decide whom to vote for by reading their platforms on a board right before casting your ballot is inappropriate. Remember that people can lie about what they want to do just to get into Senate. While I hope this does not occur, it would be better to be able to ask questions to the candidate in person. This way we may be able to past the slogans and see if this person is worthy.

Since the election process takes over a month to complete there is ample time for a debate. An open debate would be the perfect place to gather students for such a forum. Not only should the candidates be able to voice their thoughts, but they should also have a chance to listen to the students they represent.

One student's concern may not be the concern of another. The only way to equally represent a class is to hear from everyone in the class.

I have been approached only once about what I feel Bryant needs to work on. How can a candidate thinks that he or she can represent a class by listening to the certain clique they hang out with. Perhaps that is why a very low number of students voted this year. Around 25% of the juniors voted, sophomores more about the same, and only 16% of freshmen voted. Although it is disappointing, it is expected when the candidates do not make an effort to change voter attitudes.

MAKE A WISH**

Dear Editor,

Each year, the Student President's Advisory Council, also known as SPAC, consisting of presidents of all Bryant student organizations, comes together to sponsor a child in the "Make A Wish" campaign. This year it was Kasey, a 4-year old girl who suffers from retino blastoma, and her wish was to be able to visit Disney World with her parents and brother. In order for us to help make this wish become a reality, we initiated the "Wish Upon A Star" Campaign in which donations amounting to $235 were collected from students, faculty, and staff.

In addition, the Third Annual Pie Auction was held in the Rotunda on Wednesday, April 16. This event was sponsored by the Student Presidents Advisory Council, the Office of Student Activities, and the Office of Residence Life. Over 25 brave individuals generously volunteered to have pies thrown in their faces for a great cause. Highlights of the event included Ken Turkett from the Office of Admissions, who raised $80, Mary Alice Conlon from the Development office who received $85 in donations, Professor Doug Levin, who brought in $90, and President Ronald K. Machlell, who raised an overwhelming $185!

SPAC would like to acknowledge and thank Paula Iacono, Bryant's representative to "Make A Wish" of Rhode Island, Darrell Calhoun, our enthusiastic auctioneer, Lori Harrison from the Office of Residence Life for helping to coordinate the event, Bill Petti of ARArnark for his donation of the pies, and to Physical Plant for their help in the set-up and clean up efforts. We were overwhelmed with the success of this year's record-breaking Pie Auction and the overall campaign, and are grateful to all of you for opening up your hearts and contributing to this young girl's special dream.

At the Recognition '98 Banquet, we had the honor of presenting Alicia Cipriano, Chapter Coordinator of "Make A Wish" of Rhode Island, with Bryant College's check in the amount of $1,500. Our special thanks go out to the following Pie Auction participants:

Recognizing the Invisible

Awards, awards! For some people, why they work so hard, and for others, it is just a piece of paper. However, the importance of awards can go unrecognized, for there are several dangers that could turn out to be troublesome for the organization and individuals alike. First and foremost, as a leader, I have come to realize that recognizing your co-workers and the people under you can build morale for your company. A little “thank you” here and there goes a long way into building the relationships that will produce an effective and productive atmosphere.

When it came time to recognize those individuals who have worked hard, and have gone beyond in last Thursday Leadership Banquet, there were a few people that were unfortunately left out. As far as those who received awards and honors, it was well deserved. And like all award banquets, not everyone can win. I realize that, however, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize an individual and an organization, which, in my opinion, did an absolutely wonderful job this year.

Darrel Claiborne

As the advisor to the media group (The Archway, The Ledger and WIMP), Darrel did more than what was necessary. In these groups. Granted, I do not the detailed information from the other two, but as Editor of this paper, I realized what an effective advisor he is. One example of his excellence occurred during the "printing crisis" of the paper. During the March 6th issue, The Archway published a paper without our own computer. Therefore, we had to work out of room 368 and Koffler. However, we were unable to print from Koffler because the printing there could not print 11 x 17 inch paper. That put us in a bind as members of the paper worked an extra four hours to resolve the problem with Darrel by our side. That night, Darrel and several members stayed until 10:00 p.m. to put the paper together by blowing up an 8.5 by 11 inch copy to the proper size.

Without Darrel, there would have been no paper for the campus that week. This something that many people are unaware of, but it is something that I cannot truly thank him for enough.

This year, the paper went through major changes, and Darrel was always there to help out. In fact, it seems like on several occasions, Darrel was our only supporter. Not only has Darrel shown his devotion to his students, but his advising style has provided an environment of growth and learning.

It is unfortunate that only one winner can win an award, because there are so many qualified advisors. But in our eyes, we would like to thank Darrel Claiborne for his devotion to the paper. He is our Adviser of the Year.

The Archway

Hate us as you may, but we do provide a service for the campus. Granted that news coverage is not a top priority on this campus, The Archway raised itself to a higher level this year. Through all the editors, The Archway did accomplish one of its goals, which was a higher level of readership. And though we may not be an important organization in the eyes of many, we are one of the most powerful sources of information, and opinions. Do not underestimate the value of the FORUM in the paper, because it gives the community the opportunity to express their feelings. Remember when The Archway did not print for three straight weeks, the college suffered in terms of getting information to students, but most importantly, in terms of being a voice for students.

We at The Archway deserve credit. This staff has worked tremendous hard this year. What other organization would still work without proper equipment in their office? The Archway is still publishing its paper without our own computers. We did 4 issues in Koffler, which limited the look of the paper. As must have already noticed, the paper is not as cut clean as it should be, and this is because we have to blow up the paper. Name an other organization that is devoted to its job and the campus as The Archway is. Without our news coverage, feature stories, editorials, Bryant would be dull and information would have a much harder time of being transferred.

Without the paper, the campus would not hear about Athletics in our interviews. The campus would not know about the works of Tom Chandlar or the humbleness of Student Leader of the Year, Harold Peacock.

We have accomplished a great deal this year, and our future looks extremely bright, as the new Editor stated in last issue’s editorial. This is all due in part to the hard of our staff and for that they should be recognized.

Chaplin’s Corner

By Rev. Thomas Trepanier
Catholic Chaplain

On Monday, March 16, in a strongly worded ten-page statement entitled, “We Remember: A Reflection on the Shoah,” the Catholic Church’s Commission for Religious Relations with the Jews, brought forward to a new level the thirty-five year correspondence with Judaism. Although not satisfactory to everyone involved in the dialogue, it represents progress.

The issue under consideration is crucial. The Holocaust, the Shoah, the calamity of all calamities. Jewish expectations for an official statement on this topic had been very high ever since Pope John Paul II, during a visit to Miami, Florida in 1987, promised to issue one. This latest document, along with the Pope’s cover letter, is the result of an eleven-year wait.

On the positive side, the Commission’s statement expresses the Church’s feeling of horror and deepest sorrow for the Holocaust. It affirms unambiguously “the errors and failures” of Christians who, for whatever reasons, stood by and said nothing while millions were beaten, starved, murdered, and gassed. Yes, there was some resistance and protest by individuals. Nonetheless, the statement goes on, “this heavy burden of conscience... must be a call to repentance.” Responsibility is also directed to governments in North and South America who refused to open their international borders to Jewish refugees. In other words, there is a lot more to come and to be said.

One particularly important sentence, however, must be noted. Quoting from a speech of Pope John Paul, the Catholic Church is issuing much more than a mere apology to the Jewish people; the Pope, as head of the Catholic Church and in its name, is rendering a heartfelt plea: “We ask our Jewish friends, whose terrible fate has become a symbol of the aberrations of which man is capable when he turns against God, to hear us with open hearts.”

With such powerful words and sentiments, there can be no turning back the clock insofar as respectful dialogue is concerned. And should anyone dare think of minimizing or denying the Holocaust, they will have to confront the Pope himself. Admittedly, it is not the complete and full statement many would have preferred, the writer included, but it is a solid foundation upon which to build a better future. (Father Trepanier is director of the Catholic-Jewish dialogue for the Diocese of Providence.)

BENTLEY THINK AHEAD. STAY AHEAD.
Greek Life - What the Future Entails and how we will get there

by Damian Turco

Welcome to Spring Greek Week and I hope everyone is having a good time. The reason I am writing this article is basically to let you know where we were when we took our IFC and Panhellenic positions, where we are now, and where we are headed in the fall semester.

When IFC and PC took our positions in the beginning of this semester, nobody really knew what it meant for Greek life. We all had ideas to make things better but I don't think anyone expected the progress that is very in our reach now. In early February, we were sworn in to office and we started running the meetings every Tuesday. At that time we didn't have much vision as to what the future entailed. Several things have caused that to change. We did have innovative ideas such as the horse shoe pits behind dorm one, the Greek Web page, and the Greek Archway section which you are reading from right now. The real change in thought is a result of the Greek Summit and our attendance of the Western Regional Greek Conference in San Francisco the first weekend of this month.

Although many students did not feel the Greek summit got into the issues quick enough, it did eventually. Many strong opinions got out in the open that would have otherwise never been said. We talked about 11 major issues including: Public Relations, Faculty/Staff Relations, New Member Grades, Alcohol/Risk Management, All Greek Programming, Inter-Greek Unity, Our Living Conditions, Non-Greek Relations, and Personal Accountability within Chapters.

The Greek Summit was a necessary step in solving the problems in our community and I thank everyone who attended the whole event. Since the summit we have created the Committee on Fraternities and Sororities, which is made up of Student Life and Student Activities administration along with Greek and non-Greek students and alumni. Throughout the next month and into next year, the committee will tackle the problems we have brought up. To get ideas of how to improve the above stated issues, our IFC and PC executive board members along with Tanya McGinn, our Greek advisor, attended the Western Regional Greek Conference. This was a very valuable experience for us to be a part of. The conference offered 10 workshops four times a day for two days. The workshops varied and there were student leaders everywhere. It was interesting to see Greek life outside the confines of a business school. In a resume building workshop we went around the room saying what we planned on doing for a career. I couldn't believe what I heard. There were kids in that room that planned on running the world. One kid planned on being on the President's Advisory Council and another planned to design groundbreaking new technology in California's Silicon Valley. It reminded me of how Greeks make such good leaders, something which is easy to forget when every Greek you know is either majoring in Marketing, Management, Finance, or Accounting. It is only natural to feel like we are in a very different Greek community, because we only hear about other schools by word of mouth from our friends at home. I think that because of this we have a tendency to think that the problems we face are only found at Bryant College. I thought this was a pretty accurate statement until I went to the conference. Most Greek systems have the same issues to deal with. The issues are obviously at different levels of importance at different schools, but there are common solutions that can apply to all of them. I went to workshops on a variety of things including risk management, recruitment, public relations, inter-Greek unity, Greek Programming, and resume building. I concentrated on ways of improving our image and I was surprised to see that our plans for next semester are on track. The ideas of a major Greek insert in the school newspaper for Rush purposes and the development of an all Greek Web Page were commonly raised. On the idea of inter-Greek unity, a common idea was to not only have events such as Greek Week where we all participate together for a few days, but also have regular events at which Greeks from different chapters get to know each other on a daily basis. I felt that this was very characteristic of the new horse shoe pits. Every day and night since the pits have been put in by Physical Plant, chapters have been playing together, weather permitting. This is a great way for us to get to know each other and to improve inter-chapter relations. I would also like to thank Physical Plant and Bob Lawton, the Superintendent of Grounds, for making the horse shoe pits a success. If you don't see inter-chapter relations as a very important aspect of Greek life, you need to rethink that a little. Look at the picture at the top of the first page. That's us. It's not Beta or TKE or Phi Kapp and it's not Theta or DZ. It's the Greek Community, for the most part. We make up 14% of the student population at Bryant, making us the largest organization in terms of number of students. Sometimes chapters tend to isolate themselves and think that they are nothing like the others. I know this is true because when I was a freshman no brother did anything outside our floor besides go to class once in a while. It is understandable to feel unique, we all are. We all have nationals and most of our chapters originate as locals. We all have alumni that shaped our chapters into the way they were when we took over. But we are not really that different if we compare each other. We all install the importance of pride and respect of one another. If you want to see a big difference, compare your chapter to other clubs and organizations such as SPB, the Marketing Association, or the Socialists Club. No matter what club or organization we look at, we are most like each other and share most of the same values with fellow Greeks. That is why someone blew us all together and called us the Greek community years ago.

The Fall semester approaching will not be as easy one for Rush and recruitment. Over the past year, alcohol related deaths at Fraternity houses across the country have given Greeks a very bad image and consequently, have lead to many National Fraternities to go dry. This is not the case, nor the intention of administration at Bryant. This does not mean that we shouldn't focus our attention on alcohol/ risk management. Most chapters have already taken steps in developing policies on the subject. A concept that I gathered information on at the conference is having a Greek Judicial board. The idea has never had very much popularity among the Greek community at Bryant and I brought that up in a workshop of all IFC Presidents in the Western Conference. I thought that it would be a normal thing for a campus to let administration deal with all disciplinary sanctions concerning Greeks, but I was wrong. There were about forty other schools represented in that meeting and Bryant along with one other school were the only ones without a Greek Judicial board in place. The main reason that a JBoard hasn't worked here is because students generally do not want to be responsible for punishing their peers. When I posed this predicament to the other Presidents they basically asked me the question, "Would we rather punish ourselves or leave it in the hands of administration who may not always understand the situations and environments that we are faced with?" Well, that's just something to think about. We aren't planning on making any advances in the J-Board area for a while. After this week, Greek Life's next major time period will be Fall recruitment. IFC and PC have major plans to get as many numbers as we possibly can. We obviously have to counteract the growing stereotype that we are nothing more than a bunch of alcoholics. We will have a major insert in the Archway the first month back to school. The insert will highlight all the good that we do for the community. We are figuring out the best ways to get the numbers up. Until then you can voice your opinions or support at IFC/PC round table meetings or in the Greek Life office which is located on the third floor of the Bryant Center, x6199. The next roundtable meeting will be on Tuesday, April 28.
Greek Summit “Planning Today for Tomorrow’s Success”

Almost hypnotic, isn’t it?

by Michael Eaton
President Order of Omega
The Order of Omega is a national leadership honor society which recognizes members of Greek organizations which have excelled academically, as well as, shown leadership in their individual chapters and at Bryant College. We began the spring semester by initiating six new members into the Order. These members are Matthew Condos, Michael Eaton, Casandra Grenier, Karen Henderson, Rebecca Robertson, and Vice-President of Greek Life brought together nearly one hundred faculty, staff, administration, alumni, and students for the purpose of evaluating all the Greek community at Bryant. Although the participants sacrificed a beautiful Saturday, they all found that the event was productive and meaningful toward developing a vision for the Greek system. The Greek Summit was facilitated by two outside consultants, Karyn Nishimura Sneath and Ron Richard, from the consulting firm like minded people. Karyn and Ron spent the weekend with the members of the Summit in order to fully understand our individual system. They came to us with energy, enthusiasm, respect, and encouragement which lead the weekend to some interesting outcomes.

The day began with some opening remarks from the Greek Advisor, Tanya McGinn and the Vice-President of Student Affairs, Dr. Tom Eakin, who spoke on behalf of President Ron Machlcy. Dr. Eakin shared with the group his background and his involvement in the Greek system in the past, both in his undergraduate years and positions involving Greeks at other colleges and universities. The expectations for the Greek Summit were high and the facilitators where not disappointed. The Greek community showed to all who attended that they are committed to finding the best approaches and will work to achieve continuing success in their daily lives. Karyn and Ron constructed an agenda which was focused around getting to know each other as individuals, as a community, and then looking toward what we want to be. Some issues which were prominent in the discussions were improving relations with faculty and staff, working to initiate more Greek programming, respecting our living conditions, and investigating risk management policies within the chapters. These issues were not only discussed but concrete solutions and actions toward improvement were established. For example, the participants are dedicated to finding faculty advisors for all chapters. This hopefully will allow for more involvement by the faculty and also, additional regulation for the chapter. Although participants had many issues to discuss, the Summit was an excellent outlet toward improvement. Additionally, the chapters demonstrated a commitment by attending the Summit that they are committed to finding solutions and acting on them.

The Summit concluded with some very positive remarks from the facilitators who emphasized that the Greeks at Bryant have enormous possibilities. They concluded that the community is already accomplishing great things but the issues that were discussed need to be addressed. Some of the most positive aspects of the Greek community at Bryant, that the participants identified, are the Safe Ride Shuttle, the many philanthropy projects, Sports Olympics, community service, Campus Clean-ups, Blood Drives, spirit, leadership opportunities, the family environment, and Monte Carlo Night. The major asset they felt our system possessed was the Greek President’s Roundtable meetings which are held every other Tuesday at 5:15pm in Papitto. These meetings are a time where all chapter presidents and delegates congregate to discuss upcoming events and issues. One of the major goals which was established at the Summit was to initiate more in depth discussion of the issues at every Roundtable meeting. This will enable more communication within chapters and aid us in improving the system overall. The Greek Summit was the first step in a long process for the Greeks to improve at Bryant College. The vision of the Summit was to create a community that is free of negativity and promotes a positive living environment for all students at Bryant. With the participation and dedication of all the great leaders who attended the Summit, that vision is closely at hand for the Greek Community.

Gamma hosts Monte Carlo

by Carolyn E. Schiefer
In 1986, GAMMA (Greeks Advocating the Mature Management of Alcohol) a spin-off of BACCHUS, was established as a means of promoting "responsible decision-making concerning alcohol education and abuse prevention" for the Greek community. The idea of GAMMA is to help develop greater individual and chapter responsibility where alcohol is concerned. In so doing, it is hoped that each fraternity and sorority chapter on campus comes to have a more fulfilling Greek experience. This year more than ever, GAMMA is taking a more active role in the Greek community at Bryant. GAMMA is open to all interested Greeks on campus, those that commute as well as those that live on campus. As a member, one will have many leadership opportunities within the organization. One goal that GAMMA has is to provide activities on campus that are open to the entire community, non-Greek as well as Greek. One such event is Monte Carlo Night. Monte Carlo night held on Thursday March 26 between 9:00 and 11:30 at night is a fundraising event for GAMMA. Held in the Lambda, students as well as faculty paid $5 admission and were handed a raffle ticket as well as $200 in gambling chips. Students and faculty than had the option to play many different casino-type games, such as blackjack, roulette, fortune wheel, etc. As well, as the games prizes were raffled off throughout the night, such as, e.d.'s, gift certificates, a television, and David Letterman tickets. Everyone had a good time, and in all, it was a very successful night, one that will most likely be repeated next year.

The next event we will be sponsoring will be "Bryants Best," it will take place Saturday April 25, in the late afternoon. Held in Papitto, students on there way in from the fields will pay $1 and be able to eat pizza from all our favorite local pizza shops, then vote on which they like the best. The last project we will be sponsoring this year will be a Risk Management Award. This award will be open to all Greek organizations and the organization with the best risk management procedures will win. As previously stated, GAMMA is open to all interested Greeks, new members and new ideas are always welcomed. As more chapters become involved, the Greek community cannot help but become even stronger. Meetings take place every other Tuesday or as needed, at 6:30 p.m. in room 1 of the Bryant Center.

We have two major events coming up in the next couple of weeks. The first will be on Wednesday April 22 in Room 243 in the Unistructure at 4 PM. The topic is Gay Libera­tion. It has been a very big issue in recent years and how we hope that this informative talk will inspire creative discussion. This event will be sponsored by Bryant. This will be our last Bryant meeting of the year so we hope to see you there.

Our other major event coming up is May Day. It will be held in Providence on Saturday, May 2 at 2 PM. May Day is an event that has been celebrated for over 100 years around the world. It commemorates labor struggles and how labor solidarity is the best way to win. A recent example of this May Day celebration will be shown by Bryant's Physical Plant workers back in March. It is celebrated by socialists and laborers all over the world. In some countries May Day is observed over Labor Day as the official labor holiday. If you would like more information on any of these upcoming events feel free to call myself at x4203 or Matt at x8210.

The Union is saved! Huzzah! Lee's army has been driven back to its lair below the Mason-Dixon Line. The North is safe once more from the clutches of the Rebellion. During the first week of April in December, the senior of the Patriot Battalion journeyed to Gettysburg, PA to see the famous battlefield. The tour was conducted in the form of a staff ride in which the cadets took part. General commanders, explaining as they went their decisions, actions, and results. So there we were with "Crown" Charing explaining how his veteran Iron Brigade initially stopped the Confederate advance. Tony "Groove" Groover explained his division's successful attack which drove the Union forces back through the town. Jennifer "Old Pete Longstreet"
MacDonald described the Rebel corps attack against the Union left that finally came to grief against the Maine men of Eric "Elmire" Centenera's Chateauroux at Fortin at Little Round Top. Along for the ride to cheer success and commiserate with failure were Professor Larry and Dana Lowe. We greatly appreciated their participation and stayed and listened to them.

On Saturday, April 18th the Bryant woods will ring with the sounds of battle as the Patriot Bruinies take on the MHC Rams in platoon tactics. On the following weekend we will travel to Stoneh Ranch in Connecticut for a 3-day field training exercise, going to the range to fire M-16s with live ammo, and conducting patrols and attacks by day and night.

Puff Daddy wearing himself too thin to be a football agent

Sooner or later it was bound to happen. Sean “Puffy” Combs is now a sports agent. Combs was just certified by the NFL to be a sports agent. Whether it is a good thing or bad thing is yet to be established, but let me throw my two cents into the ring. Combs, although it is not official yet, will be the agent for Heisman Trophy winner Charles Woodson. Puffy will be teaming up with Johnnie Cochran as well. That right there should tell anyone that this is not going to work out for the good of the game. But what I am more concerned about is what Puffy will do. I have no doubt that he can make music. My doubts is if he can make music, be on tour, produce albums, run Bad Boy Entertainment (he’s president), appear in countless videos, and still have time to worry about Woodson. With such a heavy workload Woodson might be left out in the cold. A few years ago, Spike Lee decided that he wanted to become an agent. While he was successful at it for a time he soon became bored and walked away from his clients. Will that happen to Woodson if Combs gets bored? Who knows? Maybe Combs won’t get bored and maybe he will stick with the agent thing. But the chances of that happening are as good as Combs doing a remix of New Kids on the Block. I worry for Woodson. He has the potential for an enormous amount of money on and off the field. The endorsements he could ring up could be big. But if Puffy doesn’t know how to handle himself in negotiating Woodson maybe it’ll pay off. Assume that Woodson is in talks with Nike for a shoe deal. If Puffy cannot pull off the deal because of his lack of experience Woodson may be out millions of dollars.

"Lost In Space"
A Thrill Ride

* out of five
by Le Tien
Associate Editor

"Lost In Space", the much awaited action epic, charts its course into the unknown universe with a smashing performance in the movie theatres. The movie, which is based from the 1960’s television series, has state-of-the-art special effects, a good movie line, and a whole lot of action.

Granted that "Lost In Space" is not your Oscar contending film for 1999, the movie did make a good impression on the audience. The movie uses its special effects to give the audience a thrill, which is perfectly fine for this type of film. The acting was average enough, although Gary Oldman’s Dr. Smith character did give some life to the film. "Lost In Space" stars "Friends" sitcom Matt LeBlanc as Major Don West, who added a little humor to the film. The rest of the cast played important roles, but no one clearly stood out.

The plot behind the film takes place in the year 2058 with Earth slowly icing due to the massive population of the 20th and early 21st centuries. Piloted by Major West, the Robinson family takes off in their ship the "Jupiter II" to the only other habitable planet in the galaxy, Alpha Prime. En route, their ship is sabotaged by the villainous Dr. Smith, who is intent on spoiling their plans of reaching and colonizing Alpha Prime. When the Robinson family and "Jupiter II" strays off-course, they are faced with unimaginable dangers (such as space spiders) as they try to find their way home. However, getting home is never that easy, and the Robinson family will have to band together to use their unique individual skills in order to survive.

The film does have its weak points in that the middle of the movie did become boring. After the space spiders, the Robinson family deals with their own family problems, such as John Robinson’s (the father) in ability to listen to his son, Will. However, the fact that John did not listen comes back into play later on in the movie when he and his son are faced with a particular situation. Will, not having a true father, becomes disillusioned into believing that Dr. Smith could sub and be his father. After designing a time machine to save his family, Will is faced with a decision about his father ends up making the right choice and save the Robinson family. The film did end with a message to all fathers: "Listen to what your sons have to same even if their son speaks about "flights of fancy."

Top Ten Movies for the Easter Weekend

Weekend Summary: LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lovesick angel marooned "Lost in Space" in second place at the box office and sent "Titanic" plunging another notch on the chart, according to industry figures Monday.

"City of Angels" debuted with $15.4 million in ticket sales to top the Easter holiday box office. The remake of "William Shatner’s "Wings of Desire" stars Nicolas Cage as an angel who must choose between immortality and his love for a heart surgeon played by Meg Ryan.

"Lost In Space", a spouped-up movie version of the campy 60’s TV show, fell to No. 2 at the North American box office with a $11.4 million gross. The film about a family -- you got it -- lost in space had seemed a danger to "Titanic" a week earlier when its premiere dislodged the disaster epic after 15 weeks at No. 1. But the Leonardo DiCaprio-Kate Winslet romance with the unhappy ending (the ship sinks) still captivated viewers. It earned $5.6 million to place No. 3 but its audience was off only 26 percent. That’s considered good for films heading into their second weekend. "Titanic" is 17 weeks old.

Four other new films also made the top 10. "Species 2" was fourth with $7.3 million, followed by "The Players Club" with $5.9 million. "Neil Simon’s Odd Couple II" was at No. 7 with $4.8 million, ahead of "My Giant," which grossed $3.1 million. "Grease" slipped. The reissue of the 1970s John Travolta-Olivia Newton-John musical made $2.5 million for ninth place but its take was off 54 percent in its third week.
