"Just dream-if you dream it you can become it." This was mentioned over and over again by Earvin "Magic" Johnson on Tuesday, February 10, 1998 as he spoke to a crowd of over 700 Bryant students, administrators, business leaders, and guests. As a Trustee speaker, "Magic" Johnson agreed to speak at Bryant College because he felt his message would reach students of business much more effectively.

At the press conference, prior to his motivational speech, Magic shared the fact that he had done research on Bryant College and stated, "When I saw what a great institution this is, I just had to choose Bryant." He noticed how inspired students here are to become great business leaders. "Magic" said that he is not far away from age that he can relate to each of us here and tell us the up and downs he had to go through in becoming a successful business man.

As he said, "When there are down times, I just blink and keep going." This is something everyone should remember and think about. In business, you just have to keep going in order to be successful.

At 7:00 PM, the MAC was overflowing with the Bryant community and other guests awaiting the arrival of Earvin "Magic" Johnson. Heads were being turned toward the door frequently in anticipation for the legend to come through them.

Finally, he came around the corner, and his face was seen. The audience was excited and everyone was cheering. The entire crowd was on their feet clapping and cheering "Magic" Johnson. Taking pictures.

President Machtley introduced Magic Johnson to the crowd in the MAC on Tuesday evening. Magic was the first in a series of speakers sponsored by the Board of Trustees.
Magic's Head Start

The Magic Johnson speech certainly motivated a crowd of young aspiring business students Tuesday night. His message was simply to dream the dream and then become it. Magic electrified the audience with his thoughts and feeling of what he felt was necessary to succeed in the business world. He urged the crowd to work hard and listen to be successful. "Know who you are dealing with," he said. "Do your research, and listen."

That's the mark of a good business person. Just listen and steal the knowledge from the professors and anyone who knows more than you. Magic's message was simple, and easily understood by all who attended. But why does it take a former basketball star to get our attention? Did we not know about these secrets to success? Do we know how to work hard and dream the dream? Of course we all do, but it takes a superstar to tell it to us. If it takes Magic to motivate you then you're already in trouble.

We all want to make lots of money, but how do we get there. Most of us at Bryant do not have a savings account the size of Magic Johnson to begin our business endeavors. Magic Johnson had a head start in terms of building his capital because of his basketball playing days. We are not in the same boat. Sure I admire his talents on the basketball courts, but as a businessman, I have yet to make him my hero or role model. Magic succeed in his deals because he already had the capital to begin from. Magic came from a family of ten, and made his riches through basketball. He was smart enough to manage his money and now his corporation will be building new shops and stores in the "underserved" communities. For this, I admire him, because he is giving back, or so he says, to the community.

There are certain qualities that one has to admire in Magic Johnson, but is he the role model of the true successful business person. Bryant College graduates for the most part will not have the capital that Magic had to start with. We will have to work hard for our dollars. When we're making $45,000 a year and working 60 hour weeks, we will come to realize that not everyone will be millionaires. Maybe that was what was missing at the speech on Tuesday. Magic did not touch upon what strategies to take when one has little to start with. His basketball salaries made it easier for him to succeed in the business world. It will be our education and personal skills that will make most of us somewhere in the neighborhood of $40,000 our first year out of college.

In that case, are we successful? No, if one measures by dollar figures. So for everyone who was there, Magic had many valid things to say, but remember we're not in the same boat that he is in.

On a final note, it was unfortunate that many faculty members did not attend. However, I do support their position in believing that Bryant would better served if a speaker who made millions with very little to begin with spoke. Let's be honest, very few people will have the capital that Magic had to start his businesses. He got his big bucks through basketball, something that I will say, 99.99% of Bryant students will never do. Next time, know where "successful" people started with and then one can judge their success stories without celebrity influence.

An issue of good intentions

Dear Editor:

My name is Nick Brown and I am the General Manager of your campus radio station, 88.7 WJMF. Browsing through the rolls at the beginning of the semester, I caught a side discussion on the current conditions of the radio station. I read, it is true that we are moving, although why is not clear to me, it is urged the crow to hold on tight because you will be riding the "stronge wave of the future! Make no mistake about it all 100 people will be millionaires. Maybe that was what was missing at the speech on Tuesday. Magic did not point this out, he said, "Do your research, and listen."

Vandalism

2/1998 - Please do NPS officers dispatched to the townhouse in response to a complaint concerning vandalism to a rear unit window which had been smashed with a beer bottle. The rear sliding glass pane window was smashed. HVAC responded and made temporary repairs to the glass. An investigation will continue.

Crime Prevention/Safety Tips

Always lock your door when leaving your room, suite or townhouse. If you reside on either the first or second floor of your building, be sure to lock your window as well. An unlocked window will compromise your defense to those who wish to entry. Please do make identification with your neighbors and feel free to make suggestions to the house supervisor as to how these channels magically evaporated and were replaced with others, please fill me in. Otherwise, please let the students provide some input as to what they would like to watch.

Yellowmen Supported

Dear Editor-in-Chief

As a senior at Bryant I have been an observer to the laboring efforts of the Yellowmen for four years. These individuals work long, hard hours to provide students with a clean, home-like environment. I recall my freshman year when our bathroom would be beyond disgusting by a Monday morning. On occasion there was vomit in the stalls and clogged shower heads. Yet, by Monday afternoon the bathroom would look immaculate. In the suites I recall sticky and contaminated stairwells from leaking garbage bags or split beer cans. Somehow, the Yellowmen consistently perform miracles on the campus and provide clean buildings and prom promised landscape. Although many of their efforts are unnoticed and unappreciated, they keep a positive attitude. Without their services an event such as Magic Johnson would not be possible. They are the ones who organize the chains and back ground and take down setting. As negotiations continue I hope that the board recognizes the importance of the Yellowmen to Bryant and its community. Many students do appreciate them and recognize their necessity on the campus.

Thank You

To the Bryant Community:

Thank you just doesn't seem enough for all your prayers, cards, well-wishes and support during my recent illness. I have made my days brighter and a difficult time much easier. Hope you see soon.

Penn State administrator named Vice President for Student Affairs

J. Thomas Eakin, Ph.D., a longtime student affairs administrator, has been named vice president for student affairs. He comes to Bryant from Pennsylvania State University, where he served in numerous capacities since 1970, most recently as assistant vice president for student affairs/student development. From 1992 to 1997, Eakin served as senior student affairs administrator for the Commonwealth Educational System with responsibilities for student affairs leadership at 17 two-year campuses in the Pennsylvania higher education system.

"I am very pleased to announce Dr. Eakin's appointment," said President Ron Machten. "This is a very important leadership position at Bryant College, and we are fortunate to have someone of his leadership ability, distinction, and experience join us. I am confident that he is the person who can help lead us into the next century and achieve our mission.

As vice president, Eakin will be responsible for career services, counseling services, health services, multicultural students services, residence life, and student activities.

"My first priority," says Eakin, "is to learn more about Bryant by meeting with students, faculty and staff. Along with the directors of student affairs units, I will seek ways to support the college's strategic plan and make stronger contributions to the undergraduate experience."

Eakin received his bachelor's degree from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and his master of education and doctorate in counseling education/student personnel from Penn State. He has done post-doctoral study at Harvard University and the National Association of Student Affairs Administrators. He has received numerous awards during his professional career, including the 1995 Penn State Outstanding Service to the Campus Award.

Eakin and his wife, Marj, both native Pennsylvanians, have two college-aged children. "We've never lived in an area like Rhode Island, but we're really looking forward to being near the coast and in a central location to explore New England," says Eakin.

The Black Inventions Exhibit

On Tuesday, February 10, Bryant College was the host of The Black Inventions Exhibit. This is a traveling exhibition with the theme "What They Never Taught You in History Class." It is a visual display with an imaginative collection of nearly 100 real inventions. It's intentions are to enlighten people of all nationalities about the achievements of African Americans within the areas of science and technology.

James Ince, the curator of The Black Inventions Exhibit, was on hand to explain the exhibit and talk about the inventions that are not often spoken about. Among them were numerous patent designs and authentic inventions. The most recent acquisition is Dr. Jim Parker's "Target HIV-1 and HIV-2" home testing kit. This development is an important medical breakthrough in early detection and prevention of AIDS in our community.

The Black Inventions Exhibit has captured the attention of major media markets and appeared in many local and university newspapers. The exhibit will continue to tour throughout the east coast and plans are in the works for setting up a permanent museum in Massachusetts.

RA Appreciation Day

The Office of Residence Life would like to thank the RAs for their hard work and dedication this year. The position is one that requires skillful time management, and personal skills. These RAs are leaders, and February 13th is their day. So here's a salute to the RAs on their day from the Office of Residence Life and The Archway.

The Wonders of Winter A Weekend to be Remembered

by Jamie Calantropio
Contributing Writer

It's that time again! The Student Programming Board has been hard at work planning for this year's Winter Weekend. The weekend will be kicked off with "Comedy Night at Salmonson" on February 20th. Comedians Paul Narduzzi and Rich Ciesler will be performing for the Bryant Community at 8:00 p.m., in Salmonson Dining Hall. Admission is free so be sure to get there early for a good seat.

The long anticipated winter weekend will be held in the Ballroom at the Biltmore Hotel on February 21st. Lunch will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and Dancing will run midnight to 6:00 a.m. with DJ’s to make sure you get your tickets soon! Semi-formal tickets are available for $30 each.

Dinner choices will include with herb sauce, New England style baked scrod, and vegetable primerava. A photographer will also be present to take pictures of all those interested in preserving their memories. Rooms will also be available at the Providence Biltmore Hotel for a special Bryant discount rate of $119 per room.

Tickets seem to be going fast, according to Melissa Frank SBP's Major Weekends Chair. "Only 320 tickets are available so make sure you get your tickets soon!" Semi-formal tickets can be purchased, in cash only, at the Info Desk for $30 each.

The weekend will come to a close on Sunday, February 22nd with the final movie of the Indiana Jones Trilogy, Indiana Jones: The Last Crusade. The final movie will be shown at 6:30 and 9:15 pm in Janikies Auditorium.

So break out those dancing shoes and make sure to take advantage of Winter Weekend's big events!

Internship Spotlight

Northwestern Mutual Life

By Jessica Mijares

Last summer I became a College Agent Intern with The Northwestern Mutual Life Company. I was allotted with such much satisfaction and nervousness. Knowing was a starting point for my first day being a part of “One of the Top Ten Internships in the Country.” Little did I know how successful I would be today or that my career path would be set before I graduated this May. From the beginning, NML has treated me with respect and as a part of the team. It is all about real life work experience-experience that an internship can provide.

What is a College Agent? A College Agent is comparable to a full-time professional agent. You are a self-employed registered representative of Northwestern. Being self-employed, you are in complete control of your own success. Through an extensive training program, I was taught the entire sales cycle, from building my own client base to the actual close of a sale. All the tools I needed to be successful were given to me. Through hands-on experience, I utilized those tools as I worked with individuals and families to recommend a financial plan that would suit their needs - something for future. The highlight of this position is the ability to help people who are not aware of the financial products that will assist them in realizing dreams they have. I have lots of examples!

Going beyond the “How to/Of Insurance”, NML has allowed me to develop leadership, organization and communication skills. This experience has complemented my work in the classroom and the community services I participate in as a member of Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority. Have gained tremendous support from the professional staff and NML. The experience I have gained will remain with me wherever I go. The self-confidence I have developed as an intern has energized and motivated me for the future. I highly recommend the College Agent Internship program to a student who is seeking a challenge, incentives, flexibility and FUN. You can call 232-8284 if you would like to know more about my experiences. I would be happy to share them with you.

Check the marketing or finance listings for The College Agent Intern Program at Northwestern Mutual Life for a complete description after March 15

Tackling Those Taxes.

"Off the Shelf" by Colleen Anderson Reference Librarian

In a 1974 speech to the House of Commons Edmund Burke said “to tax and to please, no more than to love and to be wise, is not given to men.” Unfortunately true that we are rarely pleased with whose job it is to take away part of the hard-earned fruits of our labor. Our disdain towards the IRS can get particularly strong when in addition to having to send them a check we have to go through the pain and suffering of trying to figure out how much it is they get to take from us. It is any surprise that those who work for the IRS have been portrayed as (at best) insensate bullies in everything from popular radio talk shows to prominent books.

Now, as a means of assisting filers and perhaps an effort to improve their image, our Internal Revenue Service has come out with an impressive web page made to please. Type in http://www.irs.gov and you will be greeted with a mailbox inviting you to open up into the “Digital Daily”, an informative news source with up-to-date information on your taxes. Today’s issue contains employment opportunities, the Tax Calendar for 1998, an article describing the purpose and date of the next IRS Tax Problem Solving Day, “A Tax Pro’s Corner” with news for the tax professional, highlights of the tax provisions contained in the Balanced Budget Legislation, and information on the Tax Fix service. Arrow to the end of the Digital Daily and you will find numerous options to tap into a variety of tax information for individuals and small businesses. 1997 tax forms and instructions can be searched by keyword of form number and then downloaded and printed. Prior years forms are available for 1992-1996 and there is also a link to state tax forms.

I found the “Tax Info for You” section of the page a valuable access point for an assortment of general information on current changes and “whats new” in tax legislation. Here a taxpayer can access the Internal Revenue Bulletins, important changes that took place in 1997, a copy of Publication 17 which contains complete directions for personal tax filings and features example tax returns and worksheets, 1997 tax tables and tax rate schedules and much more. Overall, this new IRS page is easy to use and informative and should be a help to improving this much-maligned organization’s promised image.

In addition to the IRS homepage there also is a proliferation of books published every year at this time aimed at helping the taxpayer ease the process of filing and/or save money on his or her taxes. This year the new tax legislation has been written about extensively. For a comprehensive overview of the Taxpayer Relief Act see one of the following: RIA’s Complete Analysis of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 (REF KF6275.Z 1997 R52) or CCH’s Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997: Law and Explanation (REF KF6275.Z1997 TR39). Both publications can be found in the Reference Tax Aisle of the library. Some other books you might want to look at for help include The Ernst & Young Tax Saver’s Guide 1998 (KF6094.A15), 101 Tax loopholes for the Middle Class (KF6297.Z9 S577 1998), and Taxes for Busy People (KF3696.6 C62 1998).

Every year the Hodgson Memorial Library receives resident and non-resident state tax forms for Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The library also receives multiple copies of federal tax forms (1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, etc.) as well as the white binder with many of the other federal forms which can be reproduced and used for filing. The tax forms can all be found on the tax aisle which is the last stack of the reference collection. If you have any questions about whether the library carries a form, call the reference desk at ext. 6299 and a reference librarian will look and see if we have a copy of the form you need. We can also supply you with phone numbers where you can get help if you have any questions about what form you need and how to file.

Chaplain’s Corner

by Rev. Thomas Trepapian Catholic Chaplain

Here are some events on the horizon aimed to serve the Catholic community at Bryant. Further information may be obtained from Mr. Menezes at the Campus Ministry Office (Ext. 6040) or from Father Trepapian.

Immediate attention should be given to the Inter-Collegiate Retreat Weekend to be held at the Dominion Savio Youth Center in Peaceland, RI, during the weekend of February 20-22. The theme chosen is in keeping with this year’s millennium theme, “The Holy Spirit.” The cost is $20, which includes room and board—a real deal. Some financial help is available in case of need. This weekend will provide a great opportunity to meet other students, relax and unwind, share faith and pray.

Of utmost importance is the opening of the Lenten season on Ash Wednesday, February 25. This is the most sacred season for all Christians. For forty days it commemorates the forty days Jesus spent in the desert in preparation for his public ministry of teaching and healing, which culminated in his death and resurrection celebrated on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. On Ash Wednesday itself, two celebrations will take place—along with the imposition of ashes—will be held in the auditorium at noon and at 4 p.m.

Plans are also being made for a brunch on Sunday, March 1, for members of our Newman Club. More details will follow. In this regard, members of the Newman Club meet at 7 p.m. on Sunday evenings right before the Mass at 8 p.m.

Finally, the Newman Club extends a sincere thank you to those who participated in our first Annual Giving Tree event. It sponsored a non-profit organization called “Project Hope” in Central Falls, R.I. Each member of nine families received Christmas gifts donated by Bryant students. Special praise goes to Tracey Murnane, Megan Mironovich, Jennifer Paiva, Laura Corsini, and Nata Praysecki.

Valentine’s Day
Ideal gifts for the college student

By Jennifer McDermott
Features Writer

To several people, the story of St. Valentine remains a mystery. Many don’t realize that he is credited with helping Christians during their persecution by Claudius II, the Roman Emperor, in the third century. The Romans at that time made excuses to provide aid and comfort to Christians.

According to history, Valentine (the Latin form) was thrown into a dungeon. His jailer, Asterius, was not overly harsh, but the priest had only the barest necessities of life. In one comfortable in prison was his friendship with Asterius’ blind daughter. She befriended the kindly priest, bringing him food and delivering messages. After a year in jail, Valentine was summoned to appear before Claudius II. The emperor was so impressed by the young priest’s dignity that Claudianus attempted to convert him to worshiping Roman gods to save him from execution. Valentine, however, refused to renounce Christianity and attempted to convert the emperor to Christianity. Claudius became furious and ordered that St. Valentine be beaten with clubs, stoned and executed.

In the last days of his life, Valentine, through his faith, restored the sight of the jailer’s daughter. He also converted Asterius and the girl to Christianity, an act that resulted in their execution by Claudius. On the eve of his execution the priest wrote a farewell message to the girl and signed it “From Your Valentine.” His execution was carried out on Feb. 14, 269 A.D., outside the Flaminian Gate in Rome. According to legend, a pink almond tree, a symbol of abiding love, blossomed near his grave. The Valentine has become the universal symbol of friendship and affection shared each anniversary of the priest’s execution — Valentine’s Day.

Valentine’s Day means different things to different people.

What’s the first thing that comes to your mind? Love? Romance? Relationships? Flowers? Candy? Pizza? Cupid? When I asked this question to a Bryan student, who wishes to remain anonymous for his girlfriend’s sake, he said “money.” “Or lack of, by the end of the day,” he continued, “this is the one day of the year that he feels like he’s broke.”

Mark your love songs and favorite movies with a signature.

“I love you” messages on your love’s answering machine.

Call a radio station and request a special dedication for your significant other. Be sure the two of you are together when your request is played.

Make your love hunt for a gift. Leave a series of clues that will lead him/her on a wild goose chase around campus.

Create a jar filled with “Love Coupons.” Make the coupons redeemable for hugs, kisses, back rubs or any number of special favors.

Write a poem or letter...or just a single rose the morning in the mailbox.

Here is a list of meaningful things that cost next to nothing:

The new Bryant channels have been on the air now for a week, and a survey was passed out concerning the student’s views on the new stations that were either added or dropped on Bryan cable TV. I created a simple survey that was not passed out to the members of SPB, so it wasn’t from a large population. The survey consisted of scientific research, but not the majority of the students that the students claimed as the ones that they view all the time.

Many students filled out the comments part of the survey stating that Sen. Bob Fresolla did an excellent job with what he had to do concerning the Bryant cable station. Students felt that the stations that were added and dropped were fair due to the fact that Bob Fresolla distributed hundreds of surveys across campus asking students their opinions on this situation.

Some of the students felt that the survey was biased against the Senate and the new cable channels. The survey was not intended to be biased or to put blame on Senate.

Many students filled out the comments part of the survey stating that Sen. Bob Fresolla did an excellent job with what he had to do concerning the Bryant cable station. Students felt that the stations that were added and dropped were fair due to the fact that Bob Fresolla distributed hundreds of surveys across campus asking students their opinions on this situation.

Some of the students felt that the survey was biased against the Senate and the new cable channels. The survey was not intended to be biased or to put blame on Senate.

If you would like to take that extra step, there is a list of items for under $20.00:

Schlepp, the Grand bear from Hallmark

“I Love You” Elmo doll from Kmart

Heart-shaped trinket box or picture frame

Valentine boxes, ties, or socks

A half-dozen roses

A box of chocolates

Go see “Titanic” or “Great Expectations”

Renta a movie like “Romeo and Juliet” or “Sleepless in Seattle”

Whatever the money situation may be, here are just a few ideas to start you all off. Good Luck and have a Happy Valentine’s Day!”

Ten options for an interesting yet dateless, Valentine’s

by Gayle Zahohe
Senior Columnist

1) Read Men are from Mars and Women are from Venus. We all need help sometimes on dating, so pick up a copy and have fun while in pri on.

2) Boycott the holiday. Pick your choice of Lincoln or Edgar Allan Poe.

3) Buy a pair of Ben & Jerry’s and indulge. Most convenience stores and supermarkets have these tasty delights.

4) Go for a drive. Alone or with a friend you can travel anywhere and do anything. After a long drive, you could take off with no destination in mind and discover yourself in Canada. New York State? Can’t go. My recommendation is that you at least bring a map because you may need to find your way back.

5) Play videogames. Although video games have little value, they are definitely a good way to dispose of an evening. Games such as Age of Empires, Superstore, or Tetris will keep you entertained for hours. Before you know it your night will be spent, eyes tired, and fingers sore.

6) Set up an advice booth at the Bryant Center. Valentine’s Day tends to bring out the yearly epidemic of “Love Sick.” Everyone looks for ways to cope with the holiday. You could charge a dollar for your services and help the needy. If it goes well, you may one day become rich and start your own money and create a new part-time job.

7) Work on your pick-up lines. If you are not already familiar with classic lines such as “Hey baby, what’s your sign?” or “You must be tired because you have been running through my mind all day,” you need serious help. Take time to write out some new tactics and if you can’t think of any seek professional advice. Maybe you could visit our new love expert in the Bryant Center.

8) Surf the net. Much like playing video games, the hours will fly by and before you know it Valentine’s Day will be over. There are chat rooms and plenty of possibilities for meeting people. Take extra precautions though, because some strange people may be searching for their “Bloody Valentine.”

9) Exchange kisses for dollar donations. Go house to house and request a dollar for a kiss—who could resist? This newfound revenue can benefit your favorite charity or be used for personal use. You may get a few jilted for the day and also cheer others with your innovation. Discretion is key.

10) Go out on the town with friends. This is my personal favorite for a fun-filled Valentine’s Day. Bryan single the best time to meet other people going solo is on February 14th when you know all of the couples will be with their significant other. Grab a friend, pick a favorite place, and have a terrific Valentine’s Day.

The Bryant College Small Business Development Center is offering Bryant College students the opportunity to attend the SBDC’s successful Business Planning Series. These four-part, 2-hour per session seminars, are being offered in Rhode Island throughout the year. Attendees at these seminars learn how to write a business plan that is critical for managing a business, and a necessary part of a loan application. For Bryant students, this is an opportunity to attend a seminar where the participants vary from start-ups to those who have been in business many years. Experience first-hand, in a relaxed roundtable setting, what small business owners go through in writing a business plan. This is a great opportunity for students who think that someday they may want to own or manage a business.

The 1998 dates are:
March 3, 5, 10, 12
May 12, 14, 19, 21
June 9, 11, 16, 18
Sept. 22, 24, 29, Oct. 1
Oct. 19, 21, 26, 28
Nov. 2, 5, 9, 12

All sessions run from 6 pm-8 pm and have limited seating availability. The reduced student fee is $25, and includes a Business Planning guide. Please call 401-232-6111 to register, or drop by the RI Small Business Development Center, Hall 6, 4th floor.

NOMINATION FOR WHO'S WHO

The Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges has, for more than 60 years, been an important annual publication for recognizing student achievement. Bryant junior and senior students are selected to the Who’s Who list based upon the students’ accomplishments in one or more of the following areas:

- Scholarship ability
- Participation in leadership in academics
- Participation in leadership in extra curricular activities
- Citizenship and service to Bryant College
- Potential for future achievement

Nominations are now being accepted for the Who’s Who publication for 1998. If you would like to nominate a Bryant student for this honor, please fill out a nomination form available at the following four locations and return the completed form to one of the locations listed:

- Dean of Students Office
- Graduate Office
- Residence Life Office
- Office of Student Activities

DEADLINE: Wednesday February 25, 1998 BY 3 PM
What did you think of Magic Johnson?

"Magic was really inspiring and professional. He came to Bryant to talk about business and that's what he did." - Rei Almeida '98

"It was great how he talked to us about his business, sports, as well as his dreams." - Brandon Ruotolo, Diane Ruotolo, Robbie Mandeville

"The speech was good, but I was embarrassed because he kept picking on me." - Phil Clinton 2000

"Magic was great and is an inspiring role model." - Fred Wande '99

"He's a good businessman. He made us think about the opportunities available to us after Bryant." - Steve Lazarus '99

BACCHUS

With the new e-board members settling into their positions, BACCHUS is starting this semester off with a take-charge pace. Under new leadership, BACCHUS members have already started to address serious issues that face the members of the Bryant community. Our first project is participation in February’s Love Carefully Month. You may have noticed the information table set up outside of Salamons this week. Please take a minute to stop and see what you can learn. You may be surprised by what you find out. There is an opportunity to win free movie tickets, so be sure to stop by. BACCHUS will be sponsoring Sassy Japandroid on Tuesday, February 17, at 7:30 p.m. in Hall 1. If you think you can be there, please come on down! The committee is open, so if you just want to help, please join us.

International Socialist Club

For those who are reading this and going “What the?”, we are a new organization on campus. Our basic mission is to reach a Marxist ideology and to offer a socialist alternative. Although we are just starting out, we have plenty of things going on.

Our meetings will be held on Tuesdays at 4:30 p.m. in Room 244. Every week a member of our organization will be giving a talk on a particular problem, be it local or international, and offer a socialist alternative. We will also be fielding questions at each meeting for those who disagree or disagree with our ways of achieving a harmonious society.

This upcoming week the topic will be: Solidarity for Bryant Students. For those who haven’t heard yet, the contract for Physical Plant workers ends on February 28. We want to begin organizing in support of these hard workers so that they can get a fair contract. If any other campus organization is interested in finding their support please contact myself at x.4203 or Matt at x.8320.

Several members of our organization will also be attending the East Coast Socialist Conference, which will be held at Hunter College in New York City on February 28th. If you would like to attend this conference or want more information please contact one of the above two numbers to find out more.

As this is our first article of the semester, we would like to welcome everyone back. We hope everyone had a good break. We would like to thank DX, TEP, Rugby, and Beta for a great time in the last two weeks. Happy Birthday goes out to Meridian who is 22 this week. Thanks to those seniors who came up this weekend Harley, Murphy, Jaggar, Mel, Marissa, Pierce, and Slater.

Silva: you can buy Precise the yellow Mega Man. Jericho and Tristan- I had a great time in the Rumpus Room on Thursday night- Hunter. Hey seniors-The countdown is on! 93 days left! And only 26 until christmas! Darbi and Hunter would like to thank Nikali for the joy ride in her car! Thanks to Ryan who doctored up my hand after I decided to slide down a hill—Nikali. Welcome back Koral I am glad you are feeling better I missed my other half—Tristan. To all that braved the ice then went to Fatima to get Arista with the injured elbow Bailey says thanks for the company better food next time. We are happy to report that all DZ sisters are back to being in perfect health. Watch out Apollo- Don’t fall in the hole you burned in the ice. Hunter knows how to handle the ice, just slide down baby—Jericho. Lunch- We would like to tell you that you are ALWAYS welcome on the floor.

Signs shows all a whole new meaning for the phrase “second round”. Meridian next time I will bring a sign to McDonalds at 8:00 AM. Thanks to Val and Ann who stuck by my side—I love you guys-Silva. Thanks to Jericho for being a great friend this weekend— I couldn’t have survived without your Love Nikali.

Welcome everyone! Hope your weekend was better than ours! Tommy was so sick that he couldn’t pick up the phone! Brothers are thanking him for an unbelievable weekend.... Unbelievably BORING...

In other happenings, Foley stayed in the cave, Rosano got yanked by the leash all the way to Union once again, there is a most wanted list out for the Buffalo wing thief... (Senior), and also for those who broke into Trents room, drank his stuff and left a mess. Querrey and Billy had an Italian fight. Chicken param on the head anyone? Tommy and Tully ran into their mentor at Renos’ and went for an adventure from the bar. Queeny is the loser of the week, Foley found the outdoors twice, Reeves will be gone for a while, he’s flying to Chicago for some sunshine. Senior night at the Cornerstone was eventual, although it took forever to get there! We had classes on Friday. Don’t they ever get cancelled? This place was like the hockey rink in Nagano!

We would like to remind everyone once again of the 30 hour family drive at the end of the month and our clothing drive which will take place after Spring Break.

Until next week.Tony the Tiger where are you? KT. They’re great!

Hi all. What can I say, last weekend was action packed as usual. First off, we would like to thank Beta and TKE for a great weekend.

Thursday night we kicked off the weekend early with Beta, where some sisters soon wandered upward. And others, well let’s say they were very graceful walking on Bryant’s new ice arena. Hey Gatsby, Have a nice trip? See you next fall- Colada.

Friday, February 13, 1998
the hospitality guys, but can I still put in money for food? Son, keep those headphones handy. Skivs was distraught when she realized there was no ventilation in an air-tight room. Stephe would like to thank Christie for a great time at the movies.

Cheryl do you have any gum? "Good by Mr. Tree" - Shannon. Cheryl and Shannon will have another debut of their hit song "Blame it on the Rain" next weekend. Sarah, I'm going to die, let's go to Beta!! Sarah Bernier-thanks for the help Friday night. All aboard the Becky Train-foot foot. Wilson, how is your boyfriend Juan Valdez? Jamie would like to ask Dana what the heck she is doing and we want the crowd urging at D-Chi. We cause didn't want it in my during her visit. Everyone else Jua n V aldez? Jamie would like keep trying because her big finger ... keep trying because she was donating to the Bryant College book store. (I am sure John will like it! Congrats Meagan on your 21st.

Well, now that I have some room, let's talk turkey. Hey, Spring Weekend is right around the corner. Who's ready to rock? Well, let's talk about SPB. The way things are going we are going to pull off one heck of a semester. Way to go guys. Honestly, I can't think of a better group of people to be involved with. (I am not just talking about chairs and e-board) I made it abundantly clear that without you, the "voting" members and other members of SPB, we will fall flat on our face. Look, I know you hear it all the time, but thanks for all your help. Keep going to the events.

Now that I said that, this week's movie is Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom. Way to go James for taking the chance! The times are 6:30 and 9:15 p.m. on Sunday, February 15th. There is also a shopping trip scheduled this Sunday to Clinton Crossing Premium Outlets in Connecticut. Call x6118 to make reservations. Kyle, keep rocking! The Phi Alpha cotillion, "Bourbon Street at the Biltmore" tickets are selling "wicked" fast. It will be held on Saturday, February 21st. You can get them at the Infodesk for $30 a piece. Rooms at the Biltmore are $119 per room. Always, great work Melissa! Rich Keisler and Paul Narduzzi will be in Salemman, 8:00 p.m. on Friday, February 20th. Have heard they are really funny comedians, so show up! To the rest of us, in the words of R. M. B., "Keep Making it Happen!"

Student Programming Board

First, let me congratulate Sara J. Hurburt for gaining "voting" member status. "Keep on rocking in the free world!"

Congratulations Lynne Morrison for winning the cute Valentine bear that was donated by the Bryant College book store. (I am sure John will like it! Congrats Meagan on your 21st.

Theta Phi Alpha

Heidi Giblin

Hey Theta! Well, first off I'd like to thank Kenzlie for helping with last week's article, unfortunately I was caught up locating the new office of the Archway. Know since that has been established; let's highlight this week's exciting events. Thanks to everyone who came up on Thursday night; glad to see that everyone had a good time. Nikki, the lucky blue diamonds made all the difference—Marina. I'd like to apologize to Autumn for the eruption of the volcano in our room. Thanks Beta for a great time on Friday. Saturday night was quite the experience. Dasey and Kelsi, there's always the spring formal. The big yellow bus was key, with the exception of its peculiar scents. Dasey should have eaten that bagel —Sadye. Kendall thanks for breaking her foot. Baylla's austin Powers performance rated high on the evening's events. However, Chloie's inner "soul" and dance tactics also provided amusement. Poor Kendall, is still looking for a date that can keep up with her. Autumn seemed to enjoy the D.J. best of all. Kendall used to rip her dress every formal. This year Killian ripped it for her. Another one bits the dust. Saybelle kept a tight leash on her dog all night, and what a frisky dog it was. The Outsiders boned in Mona's room late night. It was good to see Oovic and Frankie. Pepper, Killian, and Autumn enjoyed wrestling in Wrestle Mania on Saturday. Where was I during all the festivities? Steel Magnolias had an interesting time during their game on Monday night. Congratulations to Abbey, for a great performance. Speagle likes to pump up the music. Everyone had their share of laughs. What about the guy on Jerry Springer? All and all, the weekend was far from ordinary. Thanks to TKE and DKE for a good time this past week-end. Why did Barron wear a tax again? All those who participated in the nature walk are happy to have survived, the icy parts. The check points were key. Congratulations to the seniors for making the 96 days till graduation mark. Seattle, Arizona, and Kansas all raid a visit, it sure was great to see them. Hope everyone has a great week. This week's floor trend is braids and facials. Lastly, We are all anxiously anticipating our annual 70's party with TEP. Till then, Iata Theta!!

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Greg Montemurro

After several intense interviews, Pipes has been voted the new man on the scene. Get ready, cause Hulkaamnia is about to run wild. We would first off like to thank the Theta, Phi Sig and Tri Sig sisters for good times over the past week. Many of the brothers have decided to switch up their routines. Jamoulis is now strapped. In case anyone doesn't see C-Bass for the next week or so, he's in hibernation due to the Daytona 500. It's also rumored that his jacket is the official checkerboard flag for this years race. Zzmpo decided to put down his sword on Saturday and pick up the Dentyne cup. Zzmpo told us afterwards that he saved what was left in the cup so he wouldn't have to pay next week. He's always lookin' to save a penny. Since Da's been having the munchies lately, a divider has been put up in the room. Mutt "it's all about my Bemis" Barin

Pointless and random thoughts on the wide world of sports

That NBA All-Star weekend was something wasn't it?
No slam dunk contest, a boring new game called 2-ball, and Michael Jordan's last game.
No does make a downer for a weekend.
Believe me when I tell you that this is Jordan's last season.
What else does he need to do? He has accomplished everything and more.
Plus with Scottie Pippen, Phil Jackson and Dennis Rodman gone next season, Jordan will have nothing to come back too.
He doesn't want to leave this game anywhere, but at the top.
It's tragic to force the game's greatest player out of the game like that.
With Jordan leaving, the task of filling his shoes this has been squarely put on Kobe Bryant. While I am a fan of Bryant, I don't believe that he can replace Jordan. No one can.
On to better matters, the Patriots have stopped playing.
I hope everyone here was glued to the ESPY's like I was.
It was good, but I thought that Mike Tyson got robbed of the Stupidest Athlete of the year.
I didn't think Drew Bledsoe was that stupid. Hey it is what the fans say.
Someone please turn down the volume for Dick Vitale.
Does he get more annoying every time he talks or am I just sick and tired of him?
Now that the first half of the NBA season is over, the real fun begins as teams try to position themselves for the playoffs, or the lottery.
I still think it's going to be Chicago and Seattle.
Anthony Mason has now joined the thumb list.
Big thugs with too much money makes for stupid thugs.
The Olympics are going on right now if anyone is really bored.
Can it please snow over there so we can get it over with.
The scouting combine went on without any real surprises.
You might as well put Peyton Manning's name down as No. 1 because of the way Ryan Leaf blew off his interview with the Colts.
Can Jerry Jones just pick a coach already.
With the salary cap rising about ten million that means teams will now be able to keep some of their free agents.
Although there is one back from Georgia a lot of people are looking at. Don't know his name though.
With hockey on hiatus because of the Olympics, it takes the fun away from the sport. This was the time teams started to turn up the tempo.
But I guess wasting your time in another country, killing your teammates, and not resting at all is good for the game.
The PGA has got to be the most stuck up organization in all of sports.
To not let a disabled man compete in the sport just because he needs a cart is totally insensitive and arrogant.
And many thought with Tiger

NHL Pros Enter Olympics in Nagano

By Dan Sabatello
Sports Writer

Out with the old and in with the new is the way the Olympic hockey program is operating from now on. There will never be the “miracle on ice,” that we saw in Lake Placid in 1980. What we will see is a change in the rules for who qualifies to play on the Olympic teams. Previously, professionals were prohibited to enter into the Olympic games for ice hockey. The team consisted of young prodigies working their way to the top of their sport. They came from either college or various junior hockey teams. Now the rules have changed. Professionals are now allowed to represent their respective nations in the games. This allows for a higher level of competition and skill. The 1998 Olympic teams are looking pretty impressive with the new change.

The United States are a very respectable bunch coming off of a World Cup Victory with the stellar performance of Mike Richter. Their team consists of players like Leetch, Hall, Leclair, Tkachuk, Roenicke, Lafontaine, Chelios and Rhode Island native, Brian Berard.

The Canadian team is made up of an unreal combination of players. They are my overall favorite to win the gold because of their abundance of talent in the defensive and offensive areas of the game. They have Fleury, Kariya, Gretzky, Primeau, Yzerman, Lindros, Bourque, Roy and Brodeur to name a few.

My silver medal favorite is a tie between the United States and Sweden. The Swedes have a young but fast team and have a very experienced international team. We all remember Tommy Sato in the last Olympics on the famous penalty shot in overtime. He and Tommy Soderstrom are very good when playing other international teams. They have Peter Forsberg, Renberg, Sundin, Alfredson, and Ulf Samuelsson. They seem to be the sleeper team in my mind.

The Russians have a strong core but are lacking Fedorov, Konstantinov and many other pro stars that would have been expected to play on the team. In my opinion, they are a bronze contender with the Czech Republic.

The Czech’s have a good team but have a lot of unknown talent. They have the dominator, Dominick Hasek in the net along with Jagr, Beranek, Reichel, Svoboda, Straka, and Hamrlik.

With the Nagano games looking exciting and the Ice Hockey competition being more competitive, it should be very exciting to watch.
Fred Wande, Senior Captain, Men's Basketball

By: Gayle Zabka

Hometown: Boro, New York
High school: Cardinal Spellman High School
Years played basketball: 7
Position: Forward

How have you found the transition from last year to this year? (Last year's team had two prominent seniors while this year there are no seniors.)

Very hard. I have picked up the leadership part of it, but I haven't been able to fill anyone's shoes. I feel that those two seniors were great and I'm striving to be as good as they proved to be.

What role do you play on the team as a captain? I'm pretty much the leader of the team. I don't consider myself better than anyone else, but try to keep everyone together as a team. I try to keep team unity. I try to be the median between coach and player.

How do you consistently give the team an emotional boost? I come to play every day and I encourage my players to play the same way I do—very vocal and energetic.

How did you get involved with basketball growing up? I was a freshman in high school and I got into a lot of trouble. I received a lot of detentions and the basketball coach was the dean of students. He told me if I tried out he would take away my detentions. I hadn't ever played full basketball before that. I tried out and discovered I would get cut every day. I was the worst player there and was only about 5'9" at the time. I made the team and saw it as a favor. So, I really worked at it and tried to get better. That was how it all started.

What is your first basketball game memory? My first shot was a hook shot over the backboard. The first time I got the ball at the post I held it for about five seconds. I thought I got fouled, but it was a three-second call. I was waiting at the free throw line for my foul shot.

Do you like the physical contact involved in the paint? I love it. I feel that it is part of the game. I may look a little weak, but I can dish it out too. It is kind of fun and reminds me of when I played football.

You are the school's record-holder for block shots per game. How do you know when to block without risking a foul? I don't. I'm very competitive if I have a chance to compete I go up and try to block the shot.

What does it feel like to block shots consistently? It is a great feeling because you know that no little guard is going to come inside. You get a sense of respect from others. I also feel that blocking shots is an emotional boost for the team.

Do you have any rituals or superstitions about basketball? Socks. Since the first time I ever played basketball I've always worn high socks. It makes you run a little faster and growing up in New York it posed a distraction for others.

You will be meeting with Magic Johnson during his visit to Bryant. What does that entail? Are you excited? I'm going to be presenting him with a certificate on behalf of Bryant College. I am very excited. I really can't wait to meet him since he has been somewhat of a role model to me.

As Magic represents a business career away from basketball, how do you feel about college basketball related to the "real world"? Does it prepare you for the competition? I feel that it prepares you a lot because in basketball nothing is handed to you and you must compete for everything. It is the same way in the real world. I also feel that playing college basketball, especially as a scholar athlete, is a job. Yes, they pay for your school, but it takes up a good amount of the school year. It takes away from social life and we don't get breaks like winter session, and possibly even spring break.

What is your favorite part about playing basketball at Bryant? I love competition. I feel that competition is everything, life, everything in general. I think basketball is five on five. Everyone competes, no matter what. It is a team thing and everyone is involved.

Do you think the addition of a football team will raise more school spirit and give you more fans? Definitely. I played football and I feel that if kids think of college sports, the first sport to come to mind is football. I also feel that the amount of work they put into the football team helps us as well. All in all it will help us get fans in the gym.

Classical guitarists fire up Bryant

by Joyce Chang

Friday, February 6, marked the premier debut for the President's Cultural Series at Bryant. Performing on campus were the duo-guitarists Sergio and Odair Assad. Hailing from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil the Assad's studied with Minina Tavora and have been performing for audiences worldwide. They are recognized foremost for their uncanny precision of ensemble and their music and stylistic sensitivity. To welcome the Brazilian guitarists, the Bryant community was out in full force Friday night in Janikies Auditorium. In attendance to this sold out event were students, professors, trustees, and administrators. President Machtey gave a welcoming speech as he introduced the new cultural series and its intent to tap into Bryant's appreciation for the arts and humanities.

The Assad's performed classical numbers from composers such as Mauro Giuliani, Ernesto Nazareth, and George Gerzwhin. In addition, they performed their U.S. premiere of a wonderful composition by Terry Riley. The two guitarists complemented each other remarkably and their ability to play in sync was astounding. Their performance brought the audience to a standing ovation.

In all, the debut of the President's Cultural Series was a grand success as it brought the Bryant community together for a wonderful night of music and culture.

Zero Effect

 out of five

by Cheryl Asprelli
Movie Critic

Zero Effect is sort of a detective movie, but not really. This film was definitely a little wierd. Bill Pullman plays private investigator Daryl Zero. He is a mastermind when it comes to figuring out a mystery, but he is also a nutcase. The guy never leaves his house, he has a refrigerator stocked with Tubs, he has a security system at his house that even the CIA couldn't figure out, and he falls asleep while people are talking to him. Steve Arlo (Ben Stiller) is the assistant blessed with dealing with this nut. Steve has to conduct all of Mr. Zero's business with his customers because Mr. Zero doesn't like to be seen by any of his clients. The reason I say this is "sort of a detective movie" is because the case is figured out before the movie is even half over. The rest of the movie is really about the relationships and personal problems of Daryl Zero, Steve Arlo, the client and the suspect. If you like quirky movies then this ones not bad, unless it's something different.
