"It's Spring!"
Faculty Advice Clarified

This week, The ARCHWAY has received the greatest number of Letters to the Editor that we can remember. This is something that we have always encouraged.

Two of these letters pertain to our “Advice on Professors” which we printed in last week’s issue. We would like to make the following clarification for the two who took the time to write and for those who didn’t write; but did, however, comment on the subject.

Very plainly, we had hoped that this feature of The ARCHWAY would be taken in the same light in which it was offered. Apparently, some didn’t see it our way.

We think that it is only fair to mention that the idea was raised several weeks ago (by an ARCHWAY staff member) that a serious and factual guide to instructors be offered by The ARCHWAY to Bryant students. We would like to make this an actuality, and we would like to see it happen.

In order to do this, we need help. If those mentioned above are really concerned about the need for a guide to instructors, then when the time comes to write and publish such a guide, we will hope to hear from them again.

Open Discussion

Non-existent At Bryant

Dear Editor,

There is one characteristic about this campus that disturbs me. In an academic community, there should be open and free vigorous discussions about issues that are important to the College. On this campus, this does not occur often because it seems that many people are afraid to speak their minds.

I was jokingly asked me where I would be teaching next year or about which class I am teaching. I am a counselor, and I say jokily because 55% of the kids can not be dismissed from school for political activities or anything non-academic activity, the courts have repeatedly ruled, the same is true for faculty members.

The courts have ruled that there is no reason to be afraid to speak on issues.

But strange things do happen at this College. I have a contract with the Office of Student Affairs in which the options in the contract are stated as everybody. I have shown the contract to a graduate of this College who is still on campus, and he said that he made a mistake in his letter to me as I assume other things. I have heard that he told someone about a certain individual who is also on campus.

Sincerely,
Dr. Robert Obutelwicz

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Did Your Letter Get Rejected?

Dear Editor,

Pre-registration time is here again bringing tough times and cold facts to those students who work or are enrolled in sports during hours that cut into the school day are given the chance to register early so they can make their schedules coincide. It was required that each applicant for early registration, excuse me, pre-registration, I greatly doubt that schools such as UMass and over 12,000 enrollment force their students to all line up in front of a door to sign up for classes.

I believe a change in registration policies is needed at Bryant and am sure that I am not just a voice crying in the wind. I’m certain others share the same view. Those who do not, probably have never regretted their schedule, places anywhere but have made the best system so far.

Sincerely,
John Orelle

Registration

Chicago Stockyard

Dear Editor,

It’s time to get out the combat boots as Bryant’s pre-registration is soon to be open to us once again, and certainly everyone knows what this means. Unless one is a Dick Butkus or a Mohammed Ali, it is a time of seasons few enjoy.

How foolish and archaic a registration procedure we have as students, we pay a healthy enough sum for which we are deserving of the right to register for courses free of the open-warfare tactics we are required to participate in. In order to have a class, we would hardly think that a college as progressively appearing from the outside could be so looking on the inside.

Other colleges have successfully instituted programs whereby personal advisors were assigned individually to guide students in their course selections, to answer questions, and to eliminate such anticipated pre-registration procedures as are now at Bryant. How ridiculous it is that we are compelled to assemble hours ahead of time to await a stampede of charging students when someone “blows a whistle” that it is time to register, excuse me, pre-registration.

I greatly doubt that schools such as UMass with over 12,000 enrollment force their students to all line up in front of a door to sign up for classes.

I believe a change in registration policies is needed at Bryant and am sure that I am not just a voice crying in the wind. I’m certain others share the same view. Those who do not, probably have never regretted their schedules, courses anywhere but have made the best system so far.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor,

On December 12th I was part of a mass movement of human flesh into the conference room above the auditorium. The official purpose of this progression of poundage was referred to as Bryant Registration. Being destromed of a devoted schedule, I limped myself at what I considered an advantageous position for entrance. I adjusted my position to a relaxed position and checked my official time of arrival at 9:10 a.m. The next three hours passed with little commotion; but as it neared 12:15, the action picked up. As the number of students increased, the ever increasing pressure from the rear caused an influx of about 50 to 100 students into a four foot area.

As I was standing in the middle of this area, I was consequently crushed by the lurid left hip of a 250 lb. accounting major. Like the ebbing tide of the sea, the relentless pressure caused an occasional spool from within the ranks, which was only answered by a surge of pressure from the rear. About this time there had developed a certain “air” about the area which no doubt was the direct result of the evening flesh of the human herd. Finally, as the hour of admittance arrived, the door opened and the crowd trampled in. I could see through the meshed glass the eyeballs of the registrar touching the lens of his glasses. Out of bewilderment I looked closer and realized that he was trapped behind the door with the knob embedded in his stomach. This was just another battle for the Registrar at Bryant or the cowhand at the Chicago stockyards.

Advice Given
In Haphazard Manner

Dear Editor,

As a teacher, social scientist and a member of the Bryant community, I was greatly disturbed by your recent editorial "On Professors" (March 30, 1973).

I am acquainted with the haphazard manner in which the summary statements regarding professional integrity was handled. It was done without regard to personal or professional integrity. As such, it fulfills short of its expected goal of aiding students in their teacher selection. Comments were lodged 'ad hominem' rather than directed at the course: its structure, and presentation. I am appalled by the lack of sophistication on the part of students selected for each evaluation. How was the sample selected? How were the responses analyzed? The "advice" may just have been guesstimated, obtained by asking one person or his/her opinion and accepting that as evidence that the Bryant community does not propose to make the type of claims you made, and it presents its opinions as if the sample size, response rate, and aggregation were not a factor.

Finally, as a member of the Bryant community, I am disgusted by the lack of responsible journalism in the ARCHWAY. The evidence presented regarding the teachers was, at best, hasty and to substantially recite the "red-scare" tactics used by certain "responsible" professors during the McCarthy era, that is, if you hear that someone is a communist then in fact he must be.

I would, however, advocate the use of real faculty evaluations to be distributed to ALL students enrolled and collated and analyzed to give an aggregate analysis. This is, by the way, the procedure that every college with which I have ever been associated.

Until such time as such a procedure is devised and utilized, the best we can hope for is word-of-mouth reports. However, in publishing this "advice" or is far worse; articles published in newspapers maintain the voice of integrity while they accept criticism for the entire field. The media on campus has a responsibility to the community, which, if it is not fulfilled, the media loses all responsibility and legitimacy.

Sincerely,
Michael S. Kimhel

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regards to all the complaints I read in the ARCHWAY regarding the Student Patrol. I am the First to admit that our security organization is far from perfect, and we are working on the inside and I know it has possibilities. I don't think that Mr. Howe's response to write to The Archway seecurity as a bunch of students who like to play cop and would also refer to me as a student. Next year, we'll all be doing it. We may not achieve the heights of a Wike Am, but we will.

If anyone wants to protest against me, do it now. Better yet, enroll under the advice of your students next year. Anyone arriving late will not be admitted and will be asked to return to class. Any student, even 5 will be allowed (as many as the class meets per week). All production will be timed for 20 minutes per day. Zeronite is a grade equal a letter grade of "A." More errors than that will equal an "F." This is true for everyone. This is.

Dear Editor,

As Security Sees It

Dear Editor,

With the increase of letters being submitted to the ARCHWAY discrediting the Student Patrol, I feel it is time to let my view be heard (or at least mentioned).

A recent article published in TIME magazine displayed the problem very well.

1. "The biggest problem (on campus) is the increase in student demonstrations or vandalism, but assaults, armed robberies, and rape, which have increased on campuses across the country by 50% in the past three years.

2. "At Boston's Tufts, some 210 thefts of stereo, radish, wallets, typewriters, jewelry and clothes have been reported so far this year—already 30% higher than last year's. Thefts have increased by more than 200% last year."

3. "While rising student participation in off-campus theft more lucrative, campus police have not been equipped to handle incidents in the off-campus drug culture and more open drug dealing than before.

At Bryant College, reports of theft have proportionally decreased during this semester in comparison to last semester. This is due to increased student concern, as evidenced by checking the reports of theft filed with the Security Office at Bryant.

Granted, several incidents have occurred which were of a more serious nature. Those responsible for these most recent incidents which have been widely publicized, have been investigated by the proper authorities. Relevant information has been disseminated and action has been taken by them. I am not implying that crime is, as Mr. Fuller, do you seriously believe that Security is directly or indirectly responsible for the McGrath era; that is, if you hear that someone is a communist then in fact he must be.

In last week's ARCHWAY, a student wrote a letter suggesting that a Security House be built at the main entrance to the college and each vehicle entering the campus would be individually checked to determine if the operator is the actual owner of the vehicle. Also, all registration numbers would be copied on each vehicle entered, and checked off as the vehicles leave the campus. You must truly think that this is the answer, or even a reasonable one, to the problem. I am certain that the greatest majority of the Bryant College community would be totally outraged if such a plan were put into operation. And Mr. Lockatell, would you yourself be allowed to drive such a vehicle, that is, if you hear that someone is a communist then in fact he must be?

It is impossible to determine the extent to which crime is detered due to the Security Force at Bryant, only one certainty can be claimed—the value and extent of crime on this campus is greatly less than on other campuses across the country. Times such as those mentioned will always occur in this world as they have for centuries. The Security Force at Bryant College works to deter crime on campus. It is incomparable that crime could ever be totally abandoned.

Students and RAs would do their reasonable part, many of the crimes which have been committed on this campus could be eluded to a great degree. You cannot blame the Security Department for your own unwisdom.

Respectfully submitted,
Mark E. Brown

Economics Club Sponsors Field Trip

On April 26th the Economics Club will be sponsoring a trip to the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston (at school expense) as one of its spring activities. We feel that this trip will prove to be invaluable to all students majoring in Finance and Economics. However, we expect that this trip will be especially beneficial to those students planning to take "Money and Banking" in the near future.

It has been the goal of the Economics Club to give interested students the opportunity to broaden their group of economics, as well as introduce you to the aspects of the subject that cannot be covered in class. In the future we plan to have guest speakers and other activities which we hope will be of interest to you. If you plan to make the trip or have any questions about the trip or the club, we urge you to come to our next meeting on April 10th at 12:00 in Room 242.

Use of Public Relations in the Business World

Mr. Will Barbeau, president of Will Barbeau Associates will speak to Bryant students on Thursday, April 12 on the subject of public relations methods and objectives as a tool of business communications.

Mr. Barbeau's firm has executed public relations programs for companies such as Fram, Bausch & Lomb Optical, Grailites, Faithful Bearing and others. His presentation will emphasize the strategies used in the creation of news releases, financial relations programs, speeches, and feature articles in support of company marketing programs.

Mr. Barbeau is a member of the Public Relations Society of America. His presentation will be made in Room 306 at 12 Noon. The public is invited to attend.

Other Planets To be Explored

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn...they all have one thing in common. They'll be visited by American space probes to be launched during the next five years in a new effort to explore the Solar System.

Only the two outermost planets will escape the scrutiny of cameras on robotic spacecraft. Instruments aboard robot spacecraft now on the drawing boards or in extra clean assembly buildings, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto will have to wait until some time in the future.

Jupiter, the almost star-like colossus 480 million miles from the sun, is the first target of the new series of planetary explorers. One little spacecraft is more than halfway there and a twin, Pioneer 11, is scheduled to be launched April 5th.

The job of the two pioneers is to pass by the 7th planet out from the sun and give man his first close-up look at its brilliantly striped atmosphere and its deadly radiation belts.

Pioneer 10, launched a year ago, is due to fly within 87-thousand miles of Jupiter next December. Pioneer 11 should reach the planet on December 5th, 1974. Both will take 10 pictures, even examine its atmosphere and environment with a dozen other experiments.

Jupiter stands at the gateway to the outer planets and will serve as a junction point for future spacecraft enroute to Saturn and the planets beyond. Pioneer-10 improved the outer��对as much for such flights when it passed safely through the debris-filled asteroid belt last month between Mars and Jupiter. None had gone that far before.

The key to the rapidly expanding interests in the planets is the question that has intrigued thinking men for centuries...Is there life on the only place to harbor life? Many scientists think there must be some kind of life somewhere else and they say Mars is the best place to start looking. This idea was buoyed recenty when photographs taken by the Mariner V space probe showed that Mars is a dynamic, evolving planet with what seems to be unmistakable evidence it once had great volumes of water flowing across its surface.

Summer Schedule Correction

The summer supplement has an error under the Tuesday and Thursday evening list. RC152 is properly entitled Comparative Economic Systems and not as listed. The course is properly listed on pages seven and thirteen of the supplement.

Tentative instructor assignments for summer courses are posted on the evening division bulletin boards in the classroom-faculty office area and outside the evening division office. These assignments are very tentative and are contingent upon intercession and day summer session enrollment.

Because of the many curricula changes during the past few years, evening students should give serious thought to having their programs updated by an evening division counselor. Anyone who has not met with a counselor during the past year should avail themselves of this service.

The fall, 1973 evening schedule should be available by April 20. If you will be posted on the bulletin boards and made available at that time to the ARCHWAY for publication.

Loneliness

by JoAnne Goldstein

Loneliness is being locked within one's mind; it is being closed in or out by someone or something.

It is now four o'clock in the morning; and I have been walking alone in the snow for three hours, though it seems as if I have been walking quietly through it all my life. Everything is quiet. The snow covers the grounds, making all it surrounds peaceful and at rest. All the parties have come to an end, yet some of the lights still remain on in the dorms. I walk around the campus and do not see a soul in sight. The pond stands there in front of me frozen and covered with snow. In the snow are little footprints from one lonely field mouse. All the lights are out in the Rotunda with the exception of one. The person in that one room among hundreds of empty rooms must feel as lonely as I am right now.

When I am alone, thoughts run through my mind that if I were with others would run through without my noticing them. I can sit or walk and think about them. This puts my mind to rest with some of my problems. When I am thinking of my problems I have a tendency to block out everything around me and just concentrate on the problem. I see beyond my problems so much and it scares me. I wish that I could talk to someone.

Maintenance APPROVES

Last Thursday, April 3rd, the Maintenance Department met with school officials to vote on a second proposed contract for the next two years. According to Mr. Dan Tita, Director of Budgets and Personnel, the Maintenance Department, members of the Service Employee's International Union, Local 134, ratified the contract by a unanimous vote. This contract states that an average 40-cent increase be in effect from March 1, 1973 - March 1, 1975.

Both Mr. Tita and Local 134 are very pleased with the results.
ECONOMICS CLUB

Pre-registration Counselling for Freshmen

On April 10, the Economics Club will be sponsoring a pre-registration counselling session for freshmen majoring in or wishing to major in Economics. Members of the Economics Department and a number of seniors will be available to assist freshmen with any problems they may have in planning their new schedules.

During this session, Dr. Li, Chairman of the Economics Department, will discuss the new concept of dividing the Economics Curriculum into five major concentrations. A guide listing Economics coursework as well as the Liberal Arts and Professional Electives associated with the major concentrations will be distributed to students desiring help in planning their future path at Bryant.

The program will start at 12:00 Noon on Tuesday, April 10 in Room 242. All interested students are invited to attend.

Father Haas’s Decision

The Rev. William Paull Haas, O.P., member of the Board of Trustees of Bryant College and former Providence College President has requested dispensation from his priestly obligations and permission to marry from Pope Paul VI. It was learned this week that the announcement was made at this time in order to give Father Haas “an opportunity to seek academic employment.” His request for permission to remain at Providence College as a married lay professor has been denied. Also, in the usual Church practice, authorities in Rome have required that he leave Providence College and the Diocese of Providence. “The purpose of this policy is to reestablish the dignity and spiritual value of the permanent commitment of the celibate priesthood for the life of the Church.”

The former Providence College President, who married Miss Pauline G. Burke, former administrative assistant to the Vice President for Student Relations at Providence College, married in May, was a native of Wakefield, Rhode Island, was the national secretary during at least part of his six years as president of the college.

Most Bryant College students were familiar with Father Haas for his announcement in the Koffler Rotunda on behalf of the Board of Trustees concerning the administrative dispute at Bryant in early February. At the present time, Father Haas is a post-doctoral research associate in the Philosophy Department at Boston University.

Jazz Class To Rock Bryant

Did you ever hear of a business college offering a class in Jazz music? Well, Bryant College is! On Thursday afternoon, April 12, The George Mason Five will perform at a jazz music demonstration and concert from 1 to 3 p.m. The program is filled with the greatest hits of various personnel carriers, featuring selections from “2001—A Space Odyssey,” and the blues.

The group is one of the leading jazz combos in Rhode Island. The group’s leader, a professor at the University of Connecticut, is the driving force behind the Galvanized Jazz Band, on trombone. The other members are Art Pielot, a local jazz reveals, on tenor sax; Mike Renzi, a recording artist, composer, and conductor of outstanding orchestras in Toronto, Canada, on piano; Artie Buban will do his thing on drums; and Bob Peruti will swing on bass.

Jazz is a classic form of American music and a basis for a lot of today’s music. So come on down to the Auditorium Thursday afternoon and swing along with the George Mason Five. If you can’t make it at one, come at two-or-intermission. This is a concert that shouldn’t be missed. It’s a unique experience that should be shared by all. So come on down Thursday afternoon and share in a unique and lively experience that shouldn’t be missed!

STRUGGLE AT WOUNDED KNEE

by Walter MacLean

(Wakeen MacLean spent three weeks in Wounded Knee. On the fourth day, federal marshals refused to accept his press credentials and ordered him to leave the town by Richard Wilson, Ogala Sioux tribal leader, and some of his supporters.)

The armed occupation of Wounded Knee by the American Indian Movement (AIM) continued for the second week. The image of the 1906 massacre of Sioux men, women and children that occurred in the same village seems to constantly hover over the struggle here.

There are about 350 AIM supporters in this village of a hundred or so people, and they are well armed with rifles, shotguns and handguns.

Ringing the area, in an attempt to seal off the Indians, are 500 Federal and South Dakota marshals in bluejeans with prominent American flags on their backs. The Indians have taken to calling the marshals “bluecoats.”

There are also many FBI agents, camouflaged marksmen with sniper rifles, and Bureau of Indian Affairs personnel.

The Justice Department admits to having 18 Armed Personal Carrier, but rumors suggest that 80, along with helicopters, are from other government agencies.

In the glare of the threatened violent confrontation, the causes and cargoes of the current conflict have tended to be buried.

The tensions felt by some Indians—police brutality, the “murders” of Val celebrate and Red Heart Bull, discrimination in food relief, etc.—have led to the current situation in Wounded Knee.

The latest trouble was in February in Custer and Rapid City, South Dakota, where Indians held civil rights investigations, demonstrated for the election of Red Heart Bull’s death, and burned the Custer Chamber of Commerce down.

Three Indians were arrested in those occurrences, and the National Guard was called in. Many of 15 other Father Haas the Pine Ridge Reservation were involved.

The struggle at Wounded Knee is both a national and local one.

On one level, it is a standoff between AIM and the federal government, with some 100 “Points” made during the takeover of the BIA building in Washington, D.C., still at issue.

The “200 Points” were drawn up by the Trail of Broken Treaties Caravan, representing Indians from all over the country and seeking the right to participate in BIA policy.

The AIM action at Wounded Knee is a direct response to treaty-making that would have. The Indians have the legal right to interpret treaties, Indian reparation, and consolidation of Indian resources; the abolition of the BIA by 1976; national representation in reservations, and more.

Dennis Banks, an AIM leader, feels that the issues are not limited solely to Indians. “Wounded Knee is not just here—it is in Selma, Kent State, and Watts,” he said.

“He inquired at Wounded Knee is also a symbolic one. Russell Means, another AIM leader, has said, "...we never attempted to claim we could overthrow the U.S. Government militarily.”
On the Lighter Side:

Archway Sings the Blues

by Mark Vincent

Not since Joe Valletta told all about student loans and economic aid has there been so much discussion of sinister individuals so violently opposed the right of criticism and free speech. I speak, of course, in regards to the heavy criticism receiving by campus editors, many members in regard to last week's Archway article entitled, "THE ARCHWAY CROSSWORD PUZZLE: PUZZLING PROFESSORS." Many members of the faculty apparently had a pretty good thing going and the Archway article being published and again they passed the faculty dinging room earlier in the week. Editor Richard Schielbeeth has, within the last week, received crank and obscene phone calls in his dormitory. But Tuesday night someone called his room and when his girlfriend answered she was subjected to the most intense profanity for the next three hours. Commenting on the experience she said, "I never knew people were so profane."

Today our American society dictates that to get a good job we must go to school. But yet this same society dictates policies which prevent those who are poor from making the money to get an education. It takes money to get an education. Some of the things we have in this government. This year through, Mr. Nixon's budget is bringing about the downfall of equal opportunity education.

But present there are three programs by which students can get government aid: Direct Student Loan, Work Study, and the Opportunity Grant, and the Work Study Program. A fourth program is being introduced: The Basic Opportunity Grants (BOG). Where will the cutbacks be if Nixon's budget is passed? Mr. Nixon wants to cut out BOG, (loss of $230 million), work-study by $20 million and cut out Student Loans (loss of $230 million), but he wants to put most of the $859 million he will give into BOG ($222 million.)

But this can not be done by the 1973 Higher Education Act is that BOG, Work Study, and Student Loans be fully funded. They are and also they have BOG. These programs would be a basic grant aid for students. With a limit of $4400 based on need. For example, if your parents can afford $800 for your education, the government might give you $3800 under the BOG. You would then receive money for the BOG, if your family is in the box. The best your parents can make money from student loans at 7% interest. If you stay in school, and if that happens the public schools (colleges) are in trouble. They can't facilitate all those students. So what is the problem? Nixon has threatened to veto any bills for planned budget spending. Congress has already stated it will agree to a $26 billion budget but not the ways to spend it. We are in the middle of a constitutional fight. If Nixon imposes funds, Congress will cut his defense and foreign proposals. If he vetoes, they have to override that veto. The problem is now on our side. The people on Capitol Hill know the problem they learn it first hand. The people in the country hear it from Nixon. Since he talks to them, they believe him. For example, he stated that $30 billion this year is a large sum of money. You can not blame Congress for planned budget spending has Congress already stated it will agree to a $26 billion budget but not the ways to spend it. We are in the middle of a constitutional fight. If Nixon imposes funds, Congress will cut his defense and foreign proposals. If he vetoes, they have to override that veto. The problem is now on our side. The student employment information appearing below is a summary of all part-time jobs paid in the Financial Aid Office and the Placement Office in the last month. This is an effort by the Student Employment coordinator to aid students in finding employment thus the easy accessibility provided by the weekly printing of THE ARCHWAY. Also, the jobs presented herein should be filled quickly providing for a more effective employment service.

371 PUTNAM PIKE (rte.44) SMITHD所属, RI
Accounting Association Meeting

by Bob Newman

The next general meeting of the Bryant College Accounting Association will be held on April 9, 1973, in Room C267. At this meeting, Professor Mickey Perlow will present a lecture on the "Requirements for the C.P.A. Examination."

Also, nominations for officers and Board of Directors will be taken at this meeting. According to the by-laws, students seeking the following offices must have these corresponding classification numbers:

- President: Any Odd No.
- Vice President: 5
- Treasurer: 3
- Secretary: 2
- Member Directors (2)

Since this is the ONLY MEETING where nominations will be accepted, we would like to have all members present. Elections of these officers will take place at the annual meeting on April 30, 1973.

TAX SERVICE

The week of April 9 through 15 is the last week anyone in the Bryant College Community may obtain help in filing their Federal & State Tax Returns. This free tax service is open between 1 and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday in Room 269. If you need help, come in for assistance.

REMINDER

What Does Building Bridges Have To Do With Human Relations?

That is what some of the fifty-one girls thought when they were asked to study a blueprint of a bridge and devise a plan to build it out of cardboard sticks, nuts, and bolts. This humorous experiment proved not so easy as three different groups started the race following their carefully-planned directions. Some groups were all thumbs as nuts and bolts were dropping off, sticks were sliding around, and demands for sticks and coffee breaks were made. A child probably could have done the job easier than these soon-to-graduate secretaries.

One of the three groups surprisingly came through finishing the bridge long before the others were even half done. Their success, without a doubt, was due to their fine method of organization, great teamwork, and superb supervision. Apparently, this type of control is needed to complete any job.

MARKETING IS...

by Thomas Gapienski

A firm without marketing is like a car without wheels.

The New Generation of Marketers

"Young marketers today are better educated, more aggressive, more sophisticated, more demanding, and more impatient for advancement, higher salaries, and more free time to enjoy modern life-styles, according to a recent survey of 110 marketing executives, as reported in "Marketing News."

While old marketers look upon the young marketers as reflecting the rank of modern society that they find themselves in, they are looking for too much too soon. They tend to overlook the need for experience, seasoning, training, and adequate preparation.

Many executives have found that impatience is a characteristic among graduates with advanced degrees. It seems that from most advanced the degree, the expectation is that much more unrealistic. A opinion often cited by executives was that, "They intend to become part of management in two or three years, young people 10 years ago also wanted to become part of management, but expected it to take 10 or 15 years."

The survey has indicated some distinct differences between young and old marketers. Some of the observations listed were that their money expectations were sometimes unreasonable; personal life-style sometimes interferes; the young person's expectations and satisfactions from the firm are at times different from those of the firm; the beginner's intelligence, sophistication, communicativeness, and enthusiasm are a plus.

Recommendations given for postgraduate schools were that they place more emphasis on practical aspects, less on theoretical; give students more skill required in selling; let business executives do some teaching and conducting of seminars; make on-the-job experience an integral part of the MBA course.

The young marketer, in general, has a high growth potential; but as expressed by one executive, "Imagining that potential-harnessing and developing it— is increasingly difficult."

Class Speaker

Herman Eisenberg, President of the Mark Hotel Chain, which is a management corporation of Loew's Sheraton and Howard Johnson's, was a guest speaker in Mr. Sussman's classes yesterday. Mr. Eisenberg's topic was pricing as it applies to hotel promotion. The talks, lasting approximately twenty minutes, were followed by questions from students.
National Broadcasting Company, Inc., to be issued by the President. They will be "Broadcast Journalism and The First Amendment."

This will be a "SUNDAYS ONLY" Luncheon. No other guests are to be invited, with the exception of the President of the college. A personal invitation will be sent to each member of the June graduating class, requesting them to respond that they can, cannot, or plan to attend.

Chairman for this annual event is Ms. Dana Marro, Class of 1969, and Joseph Maceda, Class of 1957.

III. Four hundred alumni are expected to return to the campus on Saturday, April 29, for the Second Alumni Dinner-Dance since the College moved into its new facilities.

Following a reception and cocktail hour at 7 p.m., the festivities will continue with a full-course dinner of choice, followed by a silver dance, and a silent auction.

Continuous music for dancing will be provided by the Tomaso Masao Orchestra and Crazy Face.

Lenten Masses will be held Mon. thru Fri. at 2 p.m. in Saying, our children are forced to attend around and granting of amnesty, and there will never will jurisdiction between the Justice and Interior Departments. The amount to nothing moreintégration disputewill be perfect clear... there never was concessions, but negotiations are impossible. Their representatives point out that the constitution under which Wilson governs was drawn up for the Indians by the government. They say that Wilson, elected by a reported 10 percent of the eligible voters, uses intimidation to control council members. Petitions demanding a new constitution are being circulated.

AIM states that they have the support of 80 percent of the people, regardless of the eight districts comprising the reservation have voted for Wilson's impeachment. They also say that seven council members have resigned and a quorum no longer exists. Wilson replied to this charge by saying he hasn't been able to reach most council members since the confrontation began.

Vern Long, co-chairman of the Civil Rights Organization, said that Wilson totally disregarded petitions in the past and that..., Wilson runs the BIA/Indian Police, the Tribal Council, and his private 'goon' squad of about 30 men. "AIM was asked to come in here after we got tired of hitting a stone wall. Eighty percent of the Indians in Wounded Knee are Oglala Sioux," Long said.

In addition to the conflict with the federal government, Wounded Knee is also a grassroots struggle addressing local problems. The government and Sioux Tribal Chief Richard Wilson have called the AIM action a "tribal power play." They say AIM seeks to take over the large Pine Ridge Reservation as a base of operations and funds. Wilson claims that AIM couldn't win in tribal elections later this year so they have resorted to the occupation. The government claims AIM can't supersede the duly-elected Tribal Council's autonomy.

The tribal "program analyst" estimates unemployment as high as 70%. Others say that of the 11,000 Sioux on the reservation, only 800 have jobs. Poverty, alcoholism, and suicide are said to be rampant on the reservation.

Three Sioux councilmen filed charges against Wilson February 8 for hiring friends and relatives, operating without a budget, misuse of tribal funds, and failure to call the Tribal Council into session.

The three walked out of council impeachment hearings claiming the judge was not impartial. They were followed by 150 people, marching to the BIA where Director Stanley Wyman refused to meet with them.

Wilson was supported by the 20-member Council by a vote of 14-0. This was the fourth attempt at his impeachment since he took office in April.

The Oglala Sioux Civil Rights Organization represents many of the people opposed to Wilson. Their representatives point out that the constitution under which Wilson governs was drawn up for the Indians by the government. They say that Wilson, elected by a reported 10 percent of the eligible voters, uses intimidation to control council members. Petitions demanding a new constitution are being circulated.

Many bitter feelings have been generated on the reservation. Schools have been closed. The BIA has been closed to all but the staff, marshals, and the press; therefore, people can't collect their checks.

Wilson blames AIM, calling them "outside troublemakers" and has urged people to take up arms to oust them. AIM blames Wilson and the federal government. They seem determined to hold out until it wins the case. Yet anything can happen, and this season should be a more interesting one to say the least. In any case, the Archway Sports Staff wishes Coach Drury and his squad the best of luck in the coming season. Notice: The team's first meet of the season is here this Saturday afternoon.

Riley can bolster the attack, his efforts could be in vain.

Overall, Bryant will be fielding pretty much the same team as last season. The Indians will most likely pick up most of the points in the field events. The running events will be a constant headache for Coach Drury, and this weakness will undoubtedly cost Bryant a few meets. Yet anything can happen, and this season should be a more interesting one to say the least. In any case, the Archway Sports Staff wishes Coach Drury and his squad the best of luck in the coming season. Notice: The team's first meet of the season is here this Saturday afternoon.

The Indian's position is that Wilson is the leader at Wounded Knee...Tribal leaders at Wounded Knee are also a local conflict between the Justice and Interior Departments, as a matter of policy and law, will not and cannot interfere with the rights of Indians to govern themselves... said and the position was an internal tribal matter.

A government spokesperson said, "...the Interior Department, as a matter of policy and law, will not and cannot interfere with the rights of Indians to govern themselves..." and said the problem was an internal tribal matter. The term "a complete lie" saying, "...Indian can do anything, anytime, on any reservation they want to."

Government negotiations and police operations have been taken over by the Justice Department, and there seems to have been some apparent feeding over jurisdiction between the Justice and Interior Departments. There has been much shifting around and granting of minor concessions, but negotiations are still at an impasse.

A government spokesperson has said,..."Let us make things perfectly clear...there never was any amnesty, and there never will be any amnesty..." The position we have taken does not represent any departure from the attitude of reasonableness we have maintained...even in the face of terrorism...The position taken by the leaders at Wounded Knee amounts to nothing more than intolerable blackmail."

Means responded to this by saying, "I call it blackmail when our children are forced to attend boarding schools away from home since months a year; when the police jail the drunks but not the bootleggers; when we are forced to deal with white businessmen who dominate our town; when a tribal chief can hire 'poor' squads with federal funds; when the government holds our land in trust. They offer us no choices—jail, trial, death—and to hall with our demands. That's blackmail."

If you think Kodak is just pretty pictures, you ought to have your chest examined.

When a chest x-ray shows that you have a potential killer like TB or cancer, it's not a pretty picture. But it's an important picture because it can help the doctor detect and catch the killer in time.

When doctors are out to catch these potential killers, they want the sharpest, clearest x-ray films they can get. And that's why people at Kodak spend so many hours creating new and better x-ray film equipment. Already, the results include convenience for the patient, economy for the hospital, an even more useful tool for the radiologist—and, most important, reduced radiation exposure.

Researching and creating better x-ray films is good for our business, which is why we went into them in the first place. But it does our society good, too—which isn't a bad feeling. After all, our business depends on our society—so we care what happens to it.

Spring is here, and it is time to usher in another Bryant Spring Track Season. Spring Track is pretty much a carbon copy of last year's squad with a few minor exceptions. For instance, the team has acquired a new coach over the course of the winter. With the resignation of Frederick Reinhardt as BC track mentor, Assistant Athletic Director Leon Drury has become Bryant's new head coach. Even though Mr. Drury is noted mostly for his basketball know-how, his overall athletic expertise may only be bettered by Fred Ludlow's coaching prowess. Ludlow has been a successful track season. Unfortunately, Coach Drury does not have any control over the amount of talent at his disposal. He has managed to lure Bruce Stewart back to the team. Bruce still holds the school's high jump record, and he will undoubtedly add more strength to the Indians' powerful field team. Coach Drury may have been able to coax some of Bryant's former trackmen to return for another season, but he still stands to lose some valuable performances in the javelin, pole vault, hurdles, mile and three mile events. Regardless of these negative points, there should be some exciting individual performances this year.

One of Bryant's top performers, Richie Collard, will again be anchoring a strong weightmen contingent. Last season, this weightman put mark on many occasions, and he is sure to go for some individual titles this year. With his 2,001 performance in the mile this past year, Davis is sure to set the mile record this year. Coach Drury has put Davis in position to win the mile. Davis will need to put Davis in his best form to win the mile.

The coach has set the tone for the Indian's powerful field team by bringing back Bruce Stewart and adding other returning athletes. With Davis's 2,001 performance in the mile, Davis is sure to win the mile. Davis will need to put Davis in his best form to win the mile.

Ed Raky is one of the most successful athletes in the history of the Indian's track team. Raky has broken every school record in his three years at Bryant. With his 2,001 performance in the mile, Davis is sure to go for some individual titles this year. With his 2,001 performance in the mile, Davis is sure to set the mile record this year. Ed Raky WIns State Titles

This past Sunday, Ed Raky, premier table tennis star of New England, won his fifth Rhode Island State Championship in a row. In doing so, he subdued defending champion Jack Devereaux. Ludlow Bally captured men's class "B" and class "A" titles while Ed Raky teamed up with Jack Devereaux and defeated Bruce Stewart and "Doc" Lupien in doubles for the second straight year. Raky's performance, under the excellent direction of "Doc" Lupien, drew 35 participants. Bryant College was well represented by Neil Goldman, Howard Schreiber, Lawrence Selvin, and Dale Speicher.

Thirty-one year old Ed Raky, a member of the collegiate league, played superbly during the seven hour tourney. On his way to the men's single championship, Raky defeated Jack Devereaux, Ed Raky (Ed's brother), and finally Jack Devereaux. In a closely fought battle against Jack Devereaux in the first round, Raky overcame a 2-1 game deficit and won that match. This victory proved to be the boost Raky needed to accomplish perfect 3-0 match victories against his brother and Devereaux. This enabled him to harvest his fifth state title in eight years. Ed's fine sportsmanship complemented his superior performance.

The (Bealle) Bailey, a sensational player from Brown University, displayed his awesome talents in winning both men's "A" and "B" singles championships. Bailey won two titles and deserved determined Jack Devereaux by edging him out 2-1 for class "A" honors. The (Ed) Raky-Devereaux "A" doubles was too powerful for the Leopard Lupien combination. This team of Lemon, Lupien are still looking for their fifth doubles title. After losing the first game in overtime, the team of Raky-Devereaux won the next two games and along with them the state doubles championship.

In the consolation round Sparky James defeated Gay Davidson in two games. The whole tournament was very exciting and interesting to watch. Tomorrow and Sunday, the Providence Open will be held. This tournament will draw many of the nation's top players. Anyone interested in seeing table tennis at its best should see this tournament. It will take place at 74 Westminster St., Providence, between about 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. If anyone needs a ride speak to any member of our table tennis team.

In other field events, the performances of Bruce Hall and Steve Drouss, with points among the most beneficial to the Indian's cause. Hall had an extremely satisfying season in the long jump this season. Like Raulini, Bruce made record breaking a habit. His finest performance of the season came in the 1972 Tri State Track and Field Championships, where he established the existing school long jump mark of 23'6" and placed third in the triple jump. Bruce can avoid the nagging leg injuries of last year, as he increased his weight and changed his running form. He will win more jump titles this year.

Unfortunately, Coach Drury failed to lose one triple jump event. Murray's finest jump came at SMU last season. He topped 20'4", and he certainly hopes to tack on a few more feet this year. Undoubtedly, Coach Drury's main weakness lies in the running events. With the graduation of Roy Lapidus and Dan Brennan, Drury has three empty spots, but Dave Stone, Steve Olson, and Bruce Stewart, together with Rich Collard returning to season, Stone, Bryant's finest Cross Country performer, will be trying to make the transition from the 880 to the mile. Dave was quite successful in the 880 last year with a record 2,001 performance. Dave has the experience to be valuable in the mile. Joining Dave in the mile is Bruce Steward, who will own the present mile record, and
