Making a Difference

Dustin Turco

If you have ever compared your own life to the lives of most people in this world you would have in agreement with the philosophy of McAuley House that there are more important issues in the world than the terrible conditions that people are in. That is why I became a volunteer at McAuley House. I have been volunteering there for two years and have learned a great deal about the people who live there. I have seen firsthand how difficult it is for people to get by. They have to work hard just to make ends meet. It is not easy, but it is worth it. I believe that everyone should do what they can to help others, especially those who are less fortunate. That is why I decided to volunteer at McAuley House.

Arizona State University's crime prevention coordinator has been arrested and charged with burglary, possession of burglar tools and theft, university police Chief Larry Standridge said. A police officer responding to a report of a suspicious person Friday night recognized Michelle leaving a university office building. A later check of the building found several compact discs and some cash was missing. Michelle had some of the missing discs and alleged burglar tools when she was arrested minutes later, Standridge said.

JACKSON, Miss. - The teen-age girl charged with stabbing her mother to death and then setting fire to the family home is being offered to a group of sar-walking friends. In a jail house interview to be broadcast on ABC Wednesday, 16-year-old Luke Woodham apologizes to his victims' families and says his actions were influenced by group leader Granta Bayley. "I used to have to get her acceptance. That's what John E. Bayley did."

After nearly 40 years of mankind space flight, the effects of weightlessness on the brain, spinal cord, peripheral nerves and sensory organs remain largely unknown. But NASA's centrifuge mission, to be launched next April, is designed to tackle the key questions of how the loss of gravity influences the nervous system. "Understanding how space flight affects humans makes it possible to learn to endure longer-term space flight in the future," says a NASA program scientist. "This will be the most complex life sciences mission ever flown."

NEW YORK - ITT shareholders finally get their say on Wednesday. After a succession of financial and legal maneuvers prompted by some activist stockholders, the battle for ITT could be decided by a shareholder vote at ITT's long-delayed annual meeting. The vote will likely determine whether ITT and its leveraged hotel and casino casino chains go to follow Hotel with a $1.3 billion bid to Sunstar Lodging Trust with a $1.2 billion bid.

The following Phi Sigma Kappa brothers gave their time last weekend to benefit McAuley House: Matthew Tatler, Adam Novack, Rob LaBonte, Brian Hughes, Zach Swain, Brian Atherton, Jeff Alberson, Scott Dungr. My professor said that it was nice that Greeks did their part for the community. "I was writing it to show how much we had to be a fraternity or sorority to volunteer. It's true." Everyone should give to the community, but the fact is most people choose not to. I personally had never done anything for the community before I became a brother. I just wasn't given the opportunity. Now that I have thought, just as Greeks, I can say I will contribute for the rest of my life.

In conclusion, I would like to point out that this article is not to try to rush students to make us look better than we are. I am writing it to show how we make a difference. We raise thousands of dollars a year and volunteer countless hours of our time for an array of causes. If you are a victim or know someone who is a victim of one or more of the causes contributed to by the Greek community, I am sure you appreciate what we do. Otherwise, it is a sure that there will be another anonymous article appearing about how we are all wrong. Few Greeks are nothing but a menace to society. There is not much anyone can do about this, though. It is a given that someday you will always be people that think they're not getting what they deserve. Thanks again to all students and faculty that donated to McAuley House. Your help is very much appreciated.

Good Deeds

It has been contended that the editorial column has been somewhat negative this year. Guess this week’s editorial will be breaking that trend. It is important to realize the nature of an editorial—which is to raise topics for discussion on campus. This week’s will mainly be concerning the numerous events that occurred last week.

Black & Gold Night

A round of applause for the athletic department for their wonderful work in organizing and running the event. With over 640 people in attendance, it was definitely a good night for Bryant to get behind this year’s men’s and women’s basketball teams.

Phi Kap

This fraternity spent the night in the weathering cold last Wednesday to raise money for a charity—and annual event that Phi Kap sponsors. This is the type of activities and events that more organizations should get involved in. Phi Kap certainly did a portion of their share last Wednesday.

Email

The decisions by the disciplinary board on the author of those vulgar emails deserve considerable praise. One cannot argue that the author is an immature freshman and did not know what he was doing was wrong. Sure, college is a place to learn and grow, however, there are certain lines that need not be crossed. Unfortunately for that student, he crossed it and is now being sent back home. A good move by the college to curb the needles in a fish bowl that are the minds of freshmen here in this fine institution.

Paula Poundstone

Bryant is moving in the right direction in booking this comedian. The fact that SPB has gone out to bring in top-notch entertainers shows the amount of effort that students are putting in for programming this year. This year’s events has been more entertaining that my previous three years here combined.

The Sign

Not much can be said about the new entrance sign that hasn’t already been said. It is a beautiful piece of work, one that truly encompasses the mission of Bryant. The sign-once lit-up will shine bright as one of Bryant’s defining moments.

A job well done

Dear editor,

I applaud The Archway editors both for publishing the letter about the George Coronado controversy and for their rebuttal to those who condemned them for publishing it. The paper should be as it is, an open make for any and all in this community to express their opinions. We are supposed to be thinking adults and should be able to discern for ourselves whether or not we agree with any given article. Otherwise, the paper runs the risk of being a boring mouthpiece of administration or other interest groups.

Certainly Mr. Coronado has the right to rebut the charges made; why didn’t he respond? I do think, however, that the original writer and people who subsequently responded should have signed their names. Withholding your name makes you sound unsure of yourself and, therefore, less credible.

Likewise, I agree that the editors aren’t supposed to be a public relations firm for the college, but neutral purveyors of the news. In fact, stimulating a little controversy now and then is a good thing, unless of course we are afraid of the truth or consequent questions.

Bryant is a good community, and most of what the Archway prints reflects that, anyway. The college can stand up to necessary criticism when it is needed or otherwise risk the gradual downhill slide towards mediocrity.

The Archway seems to have a little more life to it this year, and I think the changes have been mostly positive. Sometimes last year I thought it was kind of boring.

In so far as debate goes, a newspaper is doing an excellent job when it nurture reasonable controversy because it stimulates thought and does not merely report news.

We’re really good guys

Dear editor,

As a member of the Department of Public Safety, I found it almost necessary to respond to the article published two weeks ago by a “Concerned Bryant Student.” The article in question was nothing more than a one-sided cheap shot at a character assassination on Mr. Coronado. I can tell you all from experience that our department and all of its personnel strives weekly, daily, and hourly to insure that every member of the campus community is safe and secure here at Bryant. I consider myself privileged to work daily with the dedicated professional men and women who make up this department.

Oftentimes, because of the nature of the job itself, we are looked at as the bad guys, but I can tell you, we are not. Any member of our department will go out of their way to help in any way possible. On more that one occasion, I have given students my home number so that they can reach me anytime they are in trouble or need help. As for Mr. Coronado, his moral integrity and character are above question. I tell you from experience that he works hard each and every day for the betterment of our department, the school and the safety and well-being of every member of this community.

Because of the efforts of people like Mr. Coronado and the rest of the Department of Public Safety you all are afforded a safe environment to work, study, and socialize. Despite what you might think, we really are the good guys.

Signed,

One of The Good Guys

A look at registration
Geoffrey Tooth

Registration will always be a problem at many colleges across the country, it is a problem at Bryant. A majority of the students here feel it is unfair because they always seem to get high numbers. The logic to the number system is that once you get a high number, the next time you will receive a low number, thus ensuring that every student at some point will be given a fair chance to register early in the process.

After talking to several students, they feel there is much needed improvement in the registration process. Some students feel it should be done on a first come, first serve basis. The main problem that students were angry about is that they always get shut out of classes and then fall behind. They claim that when they get shut out, they end up taking classes that will have little meaning for them and sometimes have to postpone graduation.

Other students feel that there should be more classes added and that some should be dropped due to lack of enrollment. Several students feel there should be more classes offered during the Wintereession because the classes that are offered appeal little to them. One thing that students would like to see is the faculty in charge of registration work better with students so both parties would be happy and no one would be angry. An idea that some students had is to have a meeting next time before registration so students can voice their opinion about the registration process.

I hope that next spring when we registration for the fall, there will be a meeting where students and faculty can talk about the process. We sometimes forget that if we as a whole community want change, then we can work together and get things done.

10% LIKE IT THE WAY IT IS

Senior Wine and Cheese
Classemates:
We, as seniors, have now enjoyed years with the receipt of growth and development here at Bryant College. Now that we have begun our final year, together, we must identify the tangible legacy that we chose to leave behind as our Class gift. In years past such things have been left. The Challenge by Choice Course, Picnic area between E block and M block, and the naming and contribution to the Cornerstone. There are a couple of suggestions for what the gift should be. We, as a class are going to begin this process with the first Class of "Wine & Cheese". This monumental occasion will take place on Thursday, November 20 at 9 p.m.

This is a time of great growth for both Bryant and us. Let's take this opportunity to give back, and to do so in a manner that is identifiable to future classes. We have all left our mark as individuals, now let us do this as a class. We will have a guest speaker regarding advancement and philanthropy. Your presence is not only asked for but also needed.

Look for more info next week and if you have any questions please contact Sean at x6271. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Sean T. Kesey

The death penalty: No solution
Gary Higgins

Hats off to John Statter (Peabody, MA), who cast the deciding vote that defeated the Massachusetts bill to reinstate the death penalty.

Amidst all the harsh rhetoric and personal attacks on this man, I did not hear even a whisper of a search for solutions to the problems that the death penalty might correct. Perhaps Massachusetts and the nation.

If you screw up, we'll kill you, but don't ask us to foot the bill. Donald Reagan, Sr., in an article in a country that was barely able to force itself last year to raise the minimum wage to $1.85 an hour (could you even subsist on that amount?) I suppose shouldn't be surprised.

Not that I disagree that some people deserve the death penalty. I don't even pique curiosity, unprovoked by a gun. Simply put, capital punishment is old-fashioned and ultimately fails to solve the problem.

It makes some people feel good, though. "Boy, we really taught him a lesson, didn't we?" Unfortunately, it was a lesson we weren't willing to teach him before he got to that point. Much like Charlie Brown writing his pants in a dark suit—a nice warm feeling for a few minutes—but no plausible gain.

Why, I ask you, is the murder rate so much lower in Canada? There's no death penalty there. Straight police control, though. Strong social services, too. In Britain, western Europe, Japan, Australia, etc., it's pretty much the same story. The USA is, to my knowledge, the only industrialized democracy in the world with capital punishment, and curiously we have the highest murder rate. Some deterrent?

Hand in hand, the same proponents of capital punishment start formulating the next bill, when you mention gun control. Wouldn't it dawn on you that a country awash in guns would also top the murder list? So much for the clitch that guns make you safe from crime. If so, we'd be the safest country in the world.

I recall the killing several years ago in Louisiana of a Japanese exchange student. He was dressed in a Halloween costume and was shot to death when he rang a doorbell at the wrong house. His mother later said she didn't hate Americans because of this but felt sorry for us; if we feel so threatened merely by a stranger at our door, we are worse off than we think. What really scared her was how many people told me they thought the Louisiana homeowner did the right thing.

After the recent questionable verdict in the trial of a pair Louis Woodward, perhaps Mr. Slaney thought twice about giving Massachusetts legendary out of touch bureaucracy power over life and death.

We have to look back in history to the executions of Niccolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two immigrant union organizers and anarchists from Brockton, MA. They were framed, never allowed proper defense, and executed in the 1920's during a wave of anti-immigrant hysteria.

Certainly, innocent people have been executed and reidentified after the fact. Unfortunately, they couldn't be there when the charges were dropped.

Karl Kopulski of Peabody, MA, made a good point this weekend when he said, "My sister-in-law is a lawyer and says that if you don't have the money for a good lawyer, you don't stand a shot at a fair trial."

Relating from my own experience, I was arrested and held overnight last year for a fine I had paid three years earlier for driving with an expired license. Case closed, but not in MA. The previous year, my license was suspended for six months, although I was never notified of it, for a stop sign violation ticket I had paid on time. At my hearing, when I produced proof of timely payment, the bureaucrat told me, "You know you paid on time, but we go by the date that we printed it," which was almost a month after I sent it.

How can you win with people like this? Even if you're 100%-right, you're still wrong; and the reverse is true for them.

And you think I believe in giving clowns like this power of life and death? Not in your life!

STUDENT SENATE
Strategic Goals Progress Reports

GOAL 1: Total Evaluation of Food Services (Defense)
If successful: We will have established a long-term plan for Senate to fully evaluate customer satisfaction. We will also establish a complete analysis of present food operations and policies.
Project Mode: Student Senate had Bill Petti, Director of Dining Services, speak at the Student Senate meeting on October 29, 1997. He answered questions and concerns regarding Aramark's food service.

Student Senate conducted a satisfaction survey concerning Aramark's services. From the survey, Senate has established a new goal. It will be the goal of Senate to increase the number of satisfied students by 15%.

3. Student Senate is planning a "round table" meeting with all of the managers of Aramark services.

GOAL 2: Examining the Allocation Process of the Student Activity Fee (Offense)
If successful: Students will feel that the student activity fee is adequate and appropriately allocated.
Project Mode: 1) Research will be completed by next week. Research is being compiled concerning other universities' and colleges' procedures in allocation processes.
2) Survey will be distributed in next few weeks.

GOAL 3: To Develop a Faculty Advising System (Special Teams)
If successful: Starting with the class of 2002, every student will be given a full-time faculty advisor upon choosing a major.
Project Mode: 1) Research has been compiled from other schools and universities.
2) We will be setting up a survey to be distributed to all full-time faculty. Two questions involve faculty mentorship.

ARMY ROTC CORNER

Hello everyone. I hope everybody had a good week. I would like to start by congratulating Captain Michael McNamara on his recent promotion to Major. A brief ceremony was held at Providence College a week ago. The ceremony was a nice one with the members of Major McNamara's family present to witness this milestone in his career, making this event all the more special. Few individuals ever reach the rank of Major. Watching Major McNamara achieve that status was an honor and a privilege.

This past week was a very important week for the Patriot Battalions. Last Tuesday was Veterans Day; as I am sure many of you learned when you didn't receive any mail due to the federal government observing the holiday with a day off. Although it is not recognized with a day off here at Bryant, it is one of our most important national holidays. It celebrates and pays tribute to the millions of men and women of America's armed forces whom ultimately put their lives on the line for you and me. These men and women were called upon by their country to fight for and preserve the freedom that makes this country what it is today, and they did so without question.

Many of them sacrificed their lives. It is because of their sacrifice that we live as we do today and every day.

I hope you joined me last Tuesday and took a second to shake a veteran's hand and say thank you as we continue to live the comfortable and free lives which they have provided for us.

LEADERSHIP PRINCIPLES OF THE WEEK: Ensure the Task is Understood, Supervised, and Accomplished. Your subordinates must understand what you expect from them. They need to know what you want done, what the standard is, and when you want it done. They need to know if you want a task accomplished in a specific way. Supervising lets you know if your subordinates understand your orders; it allows your interest in them and the mission's accomplishment. Oversight supervises the accomplishment. Over-supervision causes resentment, and under-supervision causes frustration.

When subordinates are learning new tasks, tell them what you want done and show how you want it done. Let them try. Watch their performance. Accept performance that meets your standards; reward performance that exceeds your standards; and correct performance that does not meet your standards. Determine the cause of poor performance and take appropriate action. When you hold subordinates accountable to you for their performance, they realize they are responsible for accomplishing missions as individuals and as teams.

On October 28, 1997, the MAC was rocking to the music of “KRY,” a Christian Contemporary Music (C.C.M.) rock and roll group. Sponsored by the Office of Campus Ministry, organized by the Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship under the leadership of Charlene Davis, and made possible through the generous donation of Mark Kieler ‘81, the music of C.C.M., with all the trimmings, was experienced by a group of enthusiastic people of all ages.

A raised stage with professional lights and sound boards, two smoke generators, and free pizza and soft drinks to consume at your pleasure—these elements offered a “backdrop” for three men to “raise the roof” with praise and song. They witnessed to their faith and encouraged others to do the same. Praise singers Mark Machley, Mr. and Mrs. Kieler, and along with the three hundred guests in the MAC enjoyed themselves, gyrating to the music and being swept up into a higher plane of existence for a few minutes. This “KRY” concert was very successful, and I hope that it can happen here again.

Rev. Dev airs some of their music on Wednesdays, 10 a.m. to 12 noon on 88.7 WMFF.

Be safe, take care, and God bless!

Hats off to Black and Gold
Brian Willinsky ’99
Lindsey Haven ’01

This past Thursday at 10 p.m., if you found yourself hanging around in your room, you missed out on a great time. Black and Gold Night is Bryant’s annual celebration of our men’s and women’s basketball teams. This was a chance to come out and show your true Bulldog spirit and support your classmates who work hard to represent Bryant out on the court. And if that wasn’t enough, there were three chances to win a car, ticket giveaways, shirts, and all kinds of other prizes. In addition to that, our cheerleaders and the sisters of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. put on fabulous routines to pump up the crowd... WMF was (and always is) in full force to rouse the President Machlley on hand to initiate Three Point Challenge, year, and was made to bring out of Bryant College... DOG POUND!

This is similar to a man society, where some rowdy fans throw on a T-shirt and face paint and make lots of noise. As students who proudly showed our school spirit, our question to you is this... Where were you? And what is it going to take to get you to come out and support athletics at Bryant? This encompasses ALL athletics at Bryant. Last year, our men’s basketball team posted an excellent record and were runners up for the NE-10 title. Almost every home game we had the chance to attend, Bryant dominated in every aspect of the game and posted impressive victories over its clearly outmatched opponents. And yet, attendance and spirit at these games was usually about average or below. Don’t you remember going to your high school basketball games and making a bunch of noise for your friends out on the court? You should be there to support your college, too. Try it, it’s a great time.

Our hats go off to Coni Fichera, Assistant Director of Athletics. She went above and beyond to plan this night, which was attended by about 650 proud Bryant fans. Coni could be seen anywhere and everywhere on this campus in the past few weeks rallying support for this night. Advertisements were all over the place, and there was even pizza in the Rotunda. Coni did everything but do backflips across the campus to make sure you would all come out. If you were there, thank you, and we hope to see you at many more athletic events. If you were not, please take a moment to think about how much it would mean to our athletes to have a capacity crowd on hand to cheer them on along the road to victory. Please think about it!!! We have a football team on the way....

Help Your Heart Recipes

This recipe is intended to be part of an overall healthful eating plan. Total fat intake should be less than 30 percent of your total calories for a day — not for each food or recipe.

Grilled Chicken Burgers

1 pound ground chicken or turkey, ground without skin
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup plain dry bread crumbs
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons barbecue sauce
2 tablespoons barbecue sauce

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients except vegetable oil spray. Use your hands to mix ingredients thoroughly. Shape mixture into 6 patties.

Grill over medium-hot coals 4 to 5 minutes per side or until no longer pink. Or preheat broiler and lightly spray the rack of an unheated broiler pan with vegetable oil. Place patties on rack. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat for 4 to 5 minutes per side or until no longer pink.

Serves 6; 1 burger per serving. Preparation time: 10 minutes. Cooking time: 8 to 10 minutes.

Hello Brothers; welcome to yet another hilarious edition of the Phi Kappa weekly report. The festivities started off with the weekend forecast, which was broadcasted for the first time in the chapter's history. We are proud to announce that our newly acquired Phi Kappa Beye in the Sky as well as new forecast, our crack team of meteorologists detected a cold front that might have brought some flurries. It turned out they were wrong, but the brothers refused to admit it.

Goldsmith eagerly anticipates his first chance to hit the slopes; we will be making regular skiing trips up north when snow actually hits the ground. If you would like to join us for a slice of this winter’s skiing extravagance, please contact our Alpine Coordinator, Scott Byrne, at 4034.

Enough about the weather, let’s talk Alumni. We would like to thank the alumni who showed up this weekend and showed us what the Old Frat is all about. To Poo Dog and Goldsmith, it wasn’t a surprise. We were all excited to announce that we had sponsored Phi Kappa Beye in the Sky as well as our crack team of meteorologists. Well it is here, FALL WEEKEND! How everyone has purchased his or her tickets for the semianual cruise on Saturday night will be providing transportation for students who are interested, call for times and prices. Ticket sales have gone quite well, and it should be an excellent time. Now we just have to find a date because a lot of people do go solo and have a great time. In my opinion, it is better because you can dance with more than one person. Have you been all the past posters all over the college? We'll kick off the weekend on November 20, 1997, and there will be a stand-up comic, Paula Poundstone, performing in the MAC. Tickets are being sold at the info desk for $10. Tickets will also be available for purchase at the door on Friday evening. We have sold tickets to other colleges in the area, so we should have a great turnout! On Saturday will be the "BIG" semiannual cruise from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. "Face OH," starring Nicholas Cage and John Travolta, will be playing this weekend on Saturday and Sunday. This promises to be a large turnout, so I encourage everyone to get to the Sunday night showing on time.

Bryant should be proud of the Student Programming Board for attending the N.A.C.A. conference. SPB again walked away with three of the most prestigious awards to be given, including "Most Spirited and Enthusiastic Delegation" and "Best Spirit Award." One of the more interesting things that happened to us was a quote from our President, Suwan Lawrans, "I am not wearing any underwear." Too much information, Steve.

Anthony’s Jimmy Buffett song of the week is “One Particular Harbour,” because we will be setting sail on Boston’s harbor for our fall break on the semi on the sea.

For more information on events, please call SPB at X6118. Our meetings every Monday at 4:30 p.m. in Campi, are open to everyone, so come and see what SPB is all about.

Hey everyone, how was your fall break? It was pretty eventful. This weekend was our Alumni weekend, and what a weekend it was. Friday night was T.E.P. night at Renee’s, which was a lot of fun.
Leone, unplugging it next time. Then all the alum came up to the floor to hang out for a little while, which turned out to be a lot of fun. Bill added a new hole to his head. 3-Man, I didn't want the pretzels anyway. Saturday night was a lot of fun, too, and we would like to thank Phi Sig, especially Casey (you pain in the butt), for joining our festivities. That is about it for now. One word of advice: Always check the ashtray.

 Theta Phi Alpha
 Heidi Giblin

Hey Theta! Well, this week we're busy making "Thanksgiving decorations" for the ill children at the Hasbro Children's Hospital. All sororities are participating in a "Jump-Rope-A-Thon" on Friday to benefit the Sojourner House, a shelter for battered women. Please come out and support us. We all extend our deepest sympathy to Shaun Geoghan and his family. Our prayers and hearts are with you and the brothers of Beta Theta Pi during your time of need.

Well, as always, WTH was a memorable experience; glad to see everyone had a good time and that the suite is actually back to normal. The 420's would like to thank all of their dates for showing up on time. Casey and Basyln needed a break after eight minutes. A big thanks to Wilson for once again delivering another precious gift to our floor, but we don't want anymore! Spyder, next time you want to borrow my clothes, just ask... Killian Falta was MIA during senior gifts; what were you doing, anyway?

Pollax thanks Killian for her wake-up call on Saturday. Sacey thanks Vie for Osasco Inferno study sessions. Pearl was the perfect little hostess on Saturday night; we all enjoyed ourselves. Saybelle would like to commend Maritza on her Mr. Ed impersonation. There was a guest appearance of the legendary Jennie gymnast and tickle me Elmo. Well, enough said... it's the weekend! Lata Theta!
DEWEY NAMED TO ALL-NORTHEAST-10 SQUAD

Senior forward Jared Dewey (Sharon, MA/Sharon) has been selected to the Northeast-10 All-Conference Men’s Soccer second team.

This marks the second consecutive season he has earned all-conference accolades. Dewey was an all-NE-10 first-team choice in 1996.

"Jared is an outstanding player, one that we are going to miss," second-year head coach Seamus Parcell said. "His speed and work-ethic made him one of the conference’s most dangerous offensive players. His accomplishments give our younger players something to strive for." Dewey led the Bulldogs (7-7-2) in scoring for the second straight season with 21 points (9g-3a). Last season, Dewey broke the school mark for goals in a season, tallying 16.

In his final collegiate game November 2 (a 4-3 win over American International College) Dewey scored twice in the first 9:30 to become Bryant’s all-time leading goal scorer (35 goals). He later added an assist to finish his career with 79 points, one shy of the school record of 80 points, established by Silverio Araujo in 1986-88.

Dewey also owns the Bryant record for points in game (seven vs. Sacred Heart 10/30/96), and is one of three Bulldogs to score three goals in a game.

VOLLEYBALL: BRYANT SWEEPS

The Bryant College volleyball team swept past Southern Connecticut State University and the University of Massachusetts-Lowell by identical 3-0 scores in a tri-match this afternoon.

Senior Jennifer Carvalho recorded 42 assists and senior Janet Rooney tallied 14 kills in the Bulldogs’ win over Southern Conn. State. Jennifer Rooney tallied 14 kills and 12 digs for the winners.

In the final match of the day, Carvalho led Bryant with 27 assists and nine digs. She is 72 assists of breaking the Northeast-10 Conference single-season assist record of 1,409 she established in 1994. Carvalho currently has 1,338.

It was the final regular season home matches for senior Carvalho, Rooney, Wendy Jackson, and Olga Perez Bonnelly.

In the other match of the day, junior Katie Toomey registered 15 kills and eight digs in the River Hawks’ 3-0 victory over Southern Connecticut State.

Bryant 3, UM-Lowell 0 (15-10, 15-9, 15-11)
UM-Lowell 3, Southern Conn. State 0 (15-2, 15-11, 15-5)
Bryant 3, Southern Conn. State 0 (15-7, 15-3, 15-5)

CROSS COUNTRY:

Junior Matt Roloff was the Bulldogs’ top finisher at the NCAA Division II Cross Country East Region Championship held Saturday in Kings Park, NY. The 1997 first-team All-Northeast-10 Conference selection finished 51st out of 197 runners.

Roloff was followed by senior Shawn Nassaney (70th-3:37:00). The men finished 21st overall.

On the women’s side, junior Jackie Ely was the highest finisher among Bryant women (60th-21:38). Freshman Jennifer Geolinski came in 111th (22:12).

WOMEN’S SOCCER:

HURLY NAMED FIRST-TEAM ALL-NE-10

Andrea Hurley (NORFOLK, MA/ King Phillips) has been named to the Northeast-10 All-Conference women’s soccer first team.

Hurley, a sweeper, is the first Bulldog to make the first team since 1991, when Melissa Robbins earned the honor.

A slow start, Bryant won six of its last seven games to finish 8-9. The Bulldogs were ranked eighth in the Division II New England Regional Poll.

Up Close and Personal: Cross Country’s Junior Matt Roloff

By: Gayle Zahoke, Assistant Sports Editor

Hometown: South Portland, Maine
High School: South Portland High School
Number of Years Ran Cross Country: 7
When did you get interested in cross country and running? Running was something that I did for other sports, like baseball and basketball. Then, once I got into high school, I decided to focus my attention on running.

How do you keep your focus on running when a meet your mind can wander so easily? Once you go into a race, you have a set of goals you want to achieve. You keep your focus on them instead of letting things slip away.

What was your goal for the season? Did you achieve it? Personally, I wanted to make all conference, and I did. For the team, we wanted to be in the top three in the conference and we achieved that as well. We had a good season this year with a lot of young runners. We grew as a team.

What is your favorite aspect of cross country? The competition. In cross country you get to race everyone on the other team. During track, some competitors might be at a different event, but in cross country you compete against everyone.

What type of personality does long distance running require? Dedicated. It is something you have to stay with and you have to be consistent. You can’t just stop for a month here and there. You have to keep with it. Results take time, so you have to invest a lot into the sport to achieve your goals.

How do you mentally prepare for your meets? You are asking yourself why you are doing it. You want to perform at your best, especially since it is a competition. You want to run as well as you can on that day.

Do you consider yourself stubborn at all? What are some of your rituals? I always wear the same shirt to warm up in.

How does an individual convert into a rewarding team role? There is a satisfaction knowing that everyone performed at a certain level. When everyone comes together and does their best, that is when it is the most enjoyable. It makes you work that much harder.

Do you plan on continuing running in the future after college? Yes, I do. It is just something that I will continue to do as part of my daily routine. I don’t have any specific direction with my running after I graduate. A lot will depend on what I am doing for a profession.

How do you foresee the team next year and in the future? I see continuing improvement We are only one senior, Shawn [Nassaney], so we hope to pick up where we left off and do better in the conference and region. Including myself there will be three returning seniors, so we will be able to provide leadership and direction.

Don’t Miss the Tip Off to the 1997-98 Basketball Season: WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19

Women vs. Assumption, 5:30 p.m.
Men vs. Assumption, 7:30 p.m.

One of the best defenders in the conference, Hurley led Bryant to its second-highest win total (eight) in school history. Hurley scored two goals and had an assist this season, scoring her first collegiate goal in a 1-0 win over Le Moyne College October 19.

Movie Review:
Starship Trooper

by Cheryl Asprelli

My boyfriend pretty much summed up this movie when he said, "If I had to choose between a hot poker in the eye or seeing this movie again, I would have to opt for the hot poker." This movie was a combination of four major aspects: big bugs, 90210, female frontal nudity, and gore. Not a good combination, unless perhaps you’re a prepubescent boy or a man with the mentality of a prepubescent boy. This, I think, is the case with the director, Paul Verhoeven. His past movies include Robocop, Total Recall, Basic Instinct, and, of course, Showgirls—all top ranking movies with prepubescent boys nationwide.

Verhoeven apparently feels the need to cram as much nudity, violence, and gore into a film as possible. The movie starts at a high school in the future and focuses on four students who are nearing graduation. These four characters continue to be the main characters as the movie turns away from the high school setting to the action portion of the movie, featuring giant bugs.

The premise of the movie was that a bunch of high school graduates join up with the armed forces, where they go to war to fight giant bugs. Lots of people get killed, lots of people get naked, and lots of people end up covered in bug goo.

I keep mentioning 90210, and perhaps you are wondering why. Well, for starters, the first half of the movie really was like an episode of 90210. Women lusting after taken men, rivalry between guys on the football team over a woman; real cheeseball stuff. And to make it totally like a Spelling production, Verhoeven choose actors and actresses directly from Spelling’s cast list. Casper Van Dien, who plays Starship’s main male character Johnny Rico, used to play Griffen Stone in 1995 on Beverly Hills 90210. Patric Muldoon, who played pilot Zander, appeared from ’95 to ’96 on Melrose Place. Denise Richards, playing Carmen Ibanez, the leading lady in Starship trooper, is known for her appearances in both Melrose Place and 90210. Dina Meyer, another of Starship’s leading ladies, can be identified as the seductive Prof. Lucinda Nickelson from 90210 (1994). Well, you get the idea: lousy actors, no plot, big bugs, gore, nudity; the whole thing basically made me want to vomit.

My advice, if you’re looking to see a movie, is don’t waste the $7.50 to see this one; don’t even waste the $4.00 for a matinee. I would even like to suggest you refrain from renting it when it makes it to video (in about a week and a half). Even if someone offers to pay for you to see this movie, don’t do it. You will walk out feeling like you have been robbed of two hours of your life.
