Bryant Auditorium
Becomes Political Arena

In a hotly contested debate, Senator Claiborne Pell clashed with former Secretary of the Navy, John H. Chafee. Both candidates differed with their political standard bearers and pledged to disclose their financial assets.

The race for this senatorial seat is said to be one of the closest battles for a senate seat in the nation. Some indication of this fact was that the three major networks, ABC, CBS, and NBC, were represented by at the debate, along with the local radio and television stations. Mr. Pell's solution for ending the war in Vietnam was a major item setting the theme for the debate. His stand was swaying, in that he disagreed with Presidential hopeful Senator George McGovern. Mr. Pell said his solution is to "set a date for withdrawal and a complete accounting being given at the same time" of those missing in action being accounted for.

Mr. Chafee differed from Mr. Pell in that he would insist that they (American Prisoners) be returned simultaneously. There was a period of discussion with the prisoners of war being released and those missing in action being accounted for.

Wednesday, Dr. Thomas Manion, Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs at Bryant College, was invited by the White House to be present at the signing of the Revenue Sharing Bill at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, today at 12:00 noon.

Dr. Manion, an economist, is a long-time advocate of revenue sharing, a program in which Federal taxes would be returned to state and local governments so that they could meet the rising costs and tremendous economic growth in their budgets. Under this program every state, city, and town will be given a share of Federal and income tax revenue and annually based upon its population and tax effort. Revenue sharing is a program which is simplicity itself, and is a mere transfer of funds, from Federal to local government with no strings attached. The current trustees Bi Annual Meeting Held

This past Thursday the Bryant College Board of Trustees held their first of two scheduled meetings. The second meeting is planned for the third Thursday in April of 73. The meeting consisted of nineteen Board members and thirteen students who were invited to attend the meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 9:30 a.m. The programs of revenue sharing began in the late 1960's, but the basic concept goes back to the early 19th century. Revenue sharing is needed now, said Dr. Manion, because without extra income, the limited resources now available to states, cities, and towns, will not be able to meet the rising costs of their ever growing needs.

Dr. Manion is a member of the Governor's Council of Economic Advisers, a group which studies the economic condition of the state. Dr. Manion is also the R.I. Chairman of the National Citizens Committee for Revenue Sharing. In his participation in the Revenue Sharing movement, Dr. Manion addressed local R.I. civic groups on the advantages of this program. He also wrote several papers on this concept, including portions of Governor Licht's report to the Senate Subcommittee investigating this issue.

Dr. Hagan was elected by the Mount Saint Joseph College Corporation whose President is Sister Aideen Langan, C.P. His first meeting as a trustee will be on Tuesday, October 24, when the annual meeting of Mount Saint Joseph College is held at 3:00 p.m. in Gaudettsburg College.

Stirred, spaced, and no place to go. Come to Country Comfort which is throwing a special weekend (for all the lonely people). With a little help from our friends at Bryant (the few of us that will be here) the coffee house will be swinging with Rick Drost Friday night and featuring Little Big Horn Saturday night.

Next weekend we are happy to feature once again Gil Hagen, a very fine blues guitarist who is a show in himself. Another upcoming act (Zeiner & Huson which we featured last year from Berkley) will appear November 10 & 11.

THE ARCHWAY is held at Woonasquatucket Conservancy, Department of Economic Opportunity. It is the only time during the semester that meaningful dialogue can take place between the college community and the decision makers. Unfortunately, this year Trustee Day was different. A member of the administration decided that it was unimportant for student leaders to be present with the trustees and be allowed to talk to them about what they feel is important to students. Is it the new policy of the administration to eliminate certain students from these functions because of fear of what they will say? Or was it an arbitrary decision by one man who had no knowledge of the importance of the event. Either way, we must question this decision. If it was accidental, we should see that it doesn't happen again. But if it was deliberate, we MUST be sure that it doesn't happen again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reply:  Tenure Holders

Mr. Jonathan Frede
Editor
The Archway
Bryant College
Dear Mr. Frede,

Your editorial comment regarding the decision in the College vs. McAluflife case requires a response.

First let me say that your premise is without reasonable foundation. The reason is simple...Professor McAluffife was wrong. There is no point in belaboring the merits of the case since that has already been done. Let it suffice to say that many college administrators across the land will laud the prospect of their tenured faculty displaying the brashness or stupidity (take your pick) demonstrated by Professor McAluffife.

While I feel great concern about the dismissal of any colleague for any reason, I am more concerned with what can be done to prevent a reoccurrence of the McAluffife incident.

It will be my recommendation to the Faculty Federation that an ethics committee be established. The role of that committee will be to stand in review of questionable faculty conduct. They would exercise moral suasion, if not legal force, to remedy a potentially damaging situation. In an era that questions the role of faculty from so many viewpoints it is essential that we evidence a desire to thwart those among us who would cast doubt on our collective wish to be ethical.

This is not only our right, but indeed, it is our responsibility.

Therefore, contrary to your implication, I do not see tenure weakened, but rather I see evidence that those who elect to abuse tenure will not be allowed to do so. The issue is this instance was clear cut, I feel, once the facts were known.

I have long maintained that tenure is not an invulnerable shield. That shield can and should be penetrated when efforts to correct a problem meet with failure and the only defense is tenure. The infrequently successful prosecution of tenured faculty members who fail to live up to their responsibilities serves the best interest of the entire academic community. It places enormous responsibility on the shoulders of the Administration to be certain that its case is sound, and it further reminds the faculty of its continuing responsibility under tenure. The net benefit is reaped by the student body because the best reasons for tenure remain intact and the facade behind which some would hide is destroyed.

Tenure is not a perfect system to be sure but it is a good one if all sides work hard to fulfill their responsibilities.

Sincerely,

Wallace Camper
Associate Professor

Envolvement

Dear Students:

The students of Bryant College do not understand why 'their' government is unable to govern 'its' students. Mr. Farber wrote in "The Student Body as Niggle" that students, are allowed to have a toy government of their own. It is a government run by Uncle Toms and concerned principally with trivia. The faculty and administration decide what occurs that will be offered to the students who choose their Homecoming Queen. Occasionally, when student leaders get uppity and rebellious, they're either ignored, put off with trivial concessions, or maneuvered expertly out of position. This is our position today as students.

Our college is 'divided' into three classes of people. First class people are the administrators (these are the S.S. men for the Board of Trustees). The faculty make up the second class (their only concern is tenure rights). We, the students, make up the third class people. With these facts understood our school begins to make sense. If you doubt what I am saying, try to step out of your class and see what happens. Go on up to the faculty dining room and have lunch with one of those Doctors or Professors that 'train us.' Try to discuss with them why the students don't have voting powers on the curriculum committee or the powerful Co-Co committee. Better yet, ask one of our administrators to have lunch with you down in the union for the purpose of discussing school policies.

This year, most of us have the right to vote in the national elections. We have the right to cast our votes in the election of the next President of the United States, but we don't have a single vote on the Board of Trustees, the Co-Co Committee, or the Curriculum Committee, which so much affect our academic and financial lives at school.

It is time, students, that we start acting like real people. We are human beings, not peasants. In the classrooms we must demand respect and knowledge. Our responsibilities are not to hang over our heads like an ax waiting to chop off the chicken's head. We have no responsibilities other than the ones we have to ourselves. In our government we must demand equality and accept NOTHING LESS!!

Like most third class people we far outnumber the other two classes combined. This is the only strength we have. This is our power. We don't have a Board of Trustees to back us up! We don't have a Co-Co Committee or tenure rights to protect us! We only have our numbers. Without us in those classrooms, there is no Bryant College! This is our point of strength. This is why if we stop acting like good little boys and girls, and start DEMANDING like adults, our situation will change and soon. We as students, have the right of equality and the power to gain it! that is, our free choice to attend classes or not to attend classes. This choice is ours.

Thirty-one percent of you voted in the Senate elections. If only thirty-one percent of the student body actively supports the decisions made by the Student Senate, the Bryant College will actually have a student government.

To The Student Body of Bryant College:

I've been playing the market for the past two years with very little success. As a matter of fact, the ten thousand I started with (an inheritance from my grandmother) has shrunk to just over five. My father has recommended that I place the balance in a mutual fund. Do you agree?

Discouraged

Dear Discouraged:

January 1, 1950 would have grown to 94,000 by December 31, 1971, assuming all dividends and capital gains were reinvested. This sounds pretty good, doesn't it? But lets take another look.

Certainly there are Mutual Funds that have shown their record, by and large, is pretty sad over the long term. No one in the brokerage business can guarantee that you won't lose money. As a matter of fact, the ten thousand I would have invested in the Dow Jones Industrial Average (an average of 30 blue chips) on the same date, would have shrunk to just over five. My father has recommended that I re-invest. This sounds pretty good, doesn't it? But lets take another look.

If instead, you had invested the same $10,000 in the Growth Fund, but you'll never be told that you've invested in the wrong thing. The growth fund is, in effect, a portfolio of industrial and utility stocks.

I'm not saying that Mutual Funds are a bad investment tool. They can be very useful. But you need to take a hard look at the numbers before you place your money in one.

Certainly there are Mutual Funds that have shown superior results over the industry average over the years, such as the T. Rowe Price Growth Fund, but you'll never be told about this one by anyone in the brokerage business because he can't make any money selling it to you.

My advice to you is to put your money in the savings bank until you've learned enough about investing, as contrasted to speculation (what you've been doing to date), to take care of yourself and your money.

S.K.

Babbit Responds To THE ARCHWAY Editorial

In last week's issue the editorial, "To Beer or Not To Beer," the ARCHWAY criticized the ARA food services in their operation of the Rathskellar. In its editorial, the ARCHWAY questioned the five cent increase and the 25 cent hike in prices for a glass and a pitcher of beer respectively. We also questioned the destination of the money made from the Rat.

This week, in our continuing search for the answer, we contacted Mr. Peter Babbit, head of ARA food services for his side to the story. Mr. Babbit began by stating that last year, the Rathskellar was set up to provide the students of Bryant College with a place to go, relax, and enjoy the comforts of the local pub right here on campus, on a trial basis. Part of the experiment was the low price of beer set to be in student range at 20 cents a glass and $1.25 a pitcher. ARA found that it lost money rather than make it, and couldn't meet all their expenses. So they decided to boost the prices to 25 cents a glass and $1.50 a pitcher. According to Mr. Babbit, ARA is not in search for the Almighty Buck, but rather had no choice in the matter, for without the increase in price, the Rathskellar wouldn't be able to continue serving Bryant College.

A s k e d a b o u t the advantages of the Rat, Babbit said that it's a private club exclusively for the students of Bryant College. Another advantage is that there is no cover charge or entrance fee to the Rat, unlike other area bars. Babbit also said that the Rathskellar is convenient for Bryant students, and believes that the new price hike is worth every penny.

They must be in the hands of the chairman of the evaluation committee no later than February 9, 1973. Papers received after that date cannot be considered in the competition.

Summer Breeze

by Bob Ireland

When I first heard Seals & Crofts' latest album Summer Breeze, I must admit that I was disappointed. It just seemed to be lacking the feeling of their previous two albums. After several more listenings I realized that I was wrong. Summer Breeze is the best effort released by Seals & Crofts to date. Summer Breeze is a transition from the Seals & Crofts stereotype "folkzy" album of the past. They seem to be growing musically as well as spiritually. Combining the lyrics of Jim Seals with passages from the Bahá'í scriptures works very well. Their involvement in the Bahá'í religion is quite apparent in their choice of album material.

There are several outstanding songs on the album—my personal favorites being the title cut "Summer Breeze" and "Fiddle in the Sky." A Jim Seals masterpiece. Seals and Crofts have finally made it and Summer Breeze is the ultimate proof. Give it a listen—you won't be sorry.

Hope for Mankind

Are we about to succumb to pollution, starvation, overcrowding? Not according to John Maddox, author of THE DOOMSDAY SYNDROME (McGraw-Hill, $6.95). What may become the most talked about, provocative, and original book to date on the subject of ecology and environmental pollution conveys a startling and fresh attitude towards the struggle for survival which faces mankind.

Despite the sounding of alarm by "a throng of sober people, scientists, philosophers and politicians," Maddox contends, the environment can and will be a safe and sane one — if we devote our energies to solving our problems, rather than wasting them away by scaring people to death and convincing ourselves that the human race is doomed.

It is this "doomsday syndrome" that the author fights in well documented, vividly written chapter after chapter. One of England's leading scientists, he discusses new evidence the resilience and self-cleansing properties of the atmosphere, the recent cyclamatic scare, the potentials of reconstructive surgery, and the continuing adequacy of food production.

"The environmentalists are fond of using the eloquent metaphor of spaceship earth but this is not the most important point to make about the way in which living things have managed to survive for 3,000 million years and, so far, to evolve," Maddox writes. "...in the metaphor of spaceship earth, mere housekeeping needs courage. The most serious worry about the doomsday syndrome is that it will undermine our spirit."

Student Body Hires Lawyer Who Can't Defend Them

Dekalb, Ill. (CFS) — The student body of Northern Illinois University has hired a lawyer who may have to tell students to get themselves a lawyer if the need arises.

Attorney Patrick Conboy was hired by the student government of NIU recently, but his contract first had to be approved by the Board of Regents. The regents approved Conboy's contract, but with the contractual agreement that he could not represent a student in court.

John Templin, a legal counsel for NIU, said there were two reasons for the contractual limitation. First, the salary paid to Conboy is considered part of state monies and "should not be used against the state, in effect, to sue the state."

Secondly, Templin questioned whether it was proper to "extend a portion of every student's fee to support the actions of an individual."

Robert Barr, chairman of the Board of Regents, has questioned both the legality of Conboy's right to represent a student, and the practicality of a student body attorney.

Letting Conboy represent a student in court would create a legal and ethical problem, Barr said, because the attorney would be paid by a third party. This, according to Barr, will create "divided loyalties."

"You have a serious question if the lawyer can do anything," Barr said. "If you try to give him worthwhile duties you run into the problem of whether those duties are legal."

According to the Student Association Student Legal Assistance Act, Conboy was hired to advise students involving problems with landlords, merchants, and housing and job discrimination.

Since Conboy is not allowed to directly act as a student's lawyer, the Board of Regents is now asking whether Conboy's present function justifies the $23,620 cost of the attorney's office.

Conboy, who draws a $14,500 salary under the new contract, believes he can aid the students within the provisions of the contract.

"I would consider quitting if the program could not be made effective this way," he said.

Conboy said that he hoped, through participation of other attorneys, to provide adequate representation when necessary.

Leo Carroll Dies At 85

Hollywood—Leo G. Carroll, the British-born actor who played spymaster Mr. Waverly on the "Man From U.N.C.L.E." television series, has died at the age of 85.

He died Monday at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital after a long illness. His wife, Edith, was undergoing exploratory surgery in the same hospital at the time.

Carroll's career began on the stage in London, but he achieved his greatest prominence on American television, first as a suburban banker, Cosmo Topper, in the "Topper" series, and then as the acerbic, no-nonsense head of a super secret organization in the "U.N.C.L.E." series.

He made his stage debut in London in 1911 in "The Prisoner of Zenda," and was wounded serving in the British infantry in World War One.

After the war he came to the United States, where he starred in Broadway classics such as "The Late George Apley," "Angel Street" and "The Druid Circle."

His movie roles included performances in "Rebecca," "Spellbound," "Suspicion" and the original production of "Wuthering Heights."

Nixon campaign committee?

Did Mitchell act as political chief for Nixon even while he was chief prosecutor for the nation? If there was such a fund, what was the money used for? Did any of the money go for political sabotage and spying? Was a young former treasury department lawyer hired to engage in political sabotage and spying on the opposition? Did the former government lawyer recruit and attempt to recruit others for such work, as charged? Where did money for that operation come from? Was money channeled from the fund through third-party sources, including a private attorney for the president? If so, what attorney? Did White House aide, accused of writing the forged letter about Muskie, been put under oath to answer that charge? Has the FBI looked into that matter? Has it checked reports of the 700-thousand-dollar fund, or the reported 700-thousand dollars sent to Nixon campaign headquarters in a bag at night from Texas? Until those questions are answered people will wonder. Or do they? The administration may be refusing to answer to the charges in the belief that the politicians are right and that the voters are just not being stirred up by accusations of corruption. UPI 10-18.
Mind Blowing

by Albert J. McAlonon
Psychology Department

How often have you said, "If only I had the key to the door of my abilities inside me"? Relax; there is a growing body of sound evidence that you do have the power to find your untapped potential.

Where do I start? With your feeling tones. Don't look for mountainous problems, look at your attitudes which have grown out of a person's sensitivity to a situation. Sensitiveness is the key word, since attitudes relate to oneself. Your readiness or inclination to respond to inner or external stimuli compared with an earlier experience represents the dynamics of the self. Habits become so ingrained, attitudes become so centered that we too often do not realize how obnoxious we have become. Most collegians go through a revision or re-orientation of feeling with some turbulence. The latter turmoil can definitely be minimized.

Our Western culture has placed too much emphasis on talking and thinking. We in the West need to learn how to shut up. Or learn how to enjoy ourselves while quiet. Start with relaxation of body tension; learn how to release muscular tension. Reich noted a condition which begins when we are children "body armor" a way of avoiding overwhelming emotions. Babies learn it; older kids use it automatically sometimes with disastrous results or enervating outcomes. This defense against experiencing affects limits behavior and hindrances many of the spontaneous functions of the organism. Observing an example of our reactions against too much talking (by others) thus producing a state of chronic consciousness. Let us seek out sensory awareness that can lead to heightened awareness, contact, and experience. Temporarily, at least, developed sensory awareness allows the person to undergo the intensity of open experience, and to some extent the potentialities which lie within us. This process moves us away from the symbolic or verbal to the actual. We have become so cosmetized, so sanitzed that actual contact with another (especially strangers) becomes either abhorrent or fearful. Too often people think of themselves than feel.

Ignoring primary processes they freeze situations and themselves so that there is no sensory contact with the richness of each event. (Take a leaf from the riot of color surrounding us. Smell it, feel it, taste it. Use it in your books or form a petter in your room, in short, from the actual experience of sensing the leaves build around you a feeling of beauty). Sensory awakening is a method for reestablishing the normal aspects of the organism with the intellect, focusing attention on the simple bodily functions. Some examples are: breathing, listening, movement, touch, relaxation. Use them separately or in combination to bring back a feeling for life, to distribute your attention throughout the body rather than localizing it the person is able to make contact with his muscular tension, to learn how he creates it, and how he release it.

The first step in this process is relaxation. Try this experiment. Close your eyes. Become aware that you are thinking and for a few moments observe your thoughts. Then move out of the realm of conceptualization into the area of sensation to the degree that you can almost feel your thoughts. Allow whatever comes, even if it seems silly. Make no choices. Keep your eyes closed. Stay for nearly a minute. Feel what your feet are resting on without looking at them, experience that chair you are sitting in, bringing your eyeballs down to the bottom of your eye, keep them open at least thirty seconds, and while doing this listen to the noises in the room about you. Become aware of the air surrounding your body particularly in the exposed areas: your hands, your feet, your nose. Finally experience the results of this experiment. This is a beginning; a simple exercise that you can repeat for your own benefit, without taxing your credibility. If you follow such simple directions you will definitely notice results. At this point you will have to believe what others have experienced; if you want to grow and expand your consciousness, first learn to relax. Don't try the complex first; try the simple for it is the simplicity of our methods that will free us from a zombie life style. Next week more helpful examples.

Herb DeSimone Visits Bryant
In His Bid For The Youth Vote

Tuesday morning in a bid to capture the support of the young voters of Rhode Island, Herbert DeSimone, candidate for governor, spoke to the students of Bryant College. In his talk, DeSimone spoke on what he felt were the major issues of this campaign. Stressed were the proposals for an open government, the need for more jobs, and new industry for the state, the state government to the public and press.

The next issue he spoke on was that of the state fiscal condition. DeSimone stressed the need to put a lid on state government spending. This is by consolidating several state boards, agencies, etc., because the two hundred million dollar state over 500 million dollar tax dollars last year alone. “This skyrocketing bureaucracy is unworkable,” DeSimone said. Another economic proposal which will be implemented is zero netting, a review of the appropriation the State spends on the Office of the Budget. Each program and state expenditure will have to be justified, and if no merits before tax dollars are spent for it.

Another major issue of the campaign is the unemployment rate, which DeSimone considers the prime economic issue. He believes that we can and must provide more industry in Rhode Island able to work. He proposed to do this by first bringing more industry into Rhode Island, where incentives would be developed to bring industry into the state and to encourage the growth of the existing Rhode Island industry. He also proposes career education programs to train men for better jobs, and to utilize the technological resources available at our colleges and universities to contribute to business growth.

On education, DeSimone proposed that local communities would receive their local schools, and that the 100 man advisory committees to the board of regents be dropped. Asked if he agreed with his opponent's proposal to increase the membership of that body, he responded, "I don’t think so." DeSimone said that a 24 member board would not be reasonable. He also stated that he was familiar with the problems of high school students and how to direct the students out of their district for purposes of de-segregation. Thus covered, was that of the Drug problem in the state. DeSimone told his audience that we must face the growing drug menace head on. “Almost half of the crimes committed in this state are drug related.” The prosecutor's administration will coordinate the fifty public and private drug abuse agencies and programs in R.I. The administration will be responsible for the drug menace attack on this ever growing problem. “We will insure that these education and treatment are available on a statewide basis, I started this fight on drugs as Attorney General and I am now as governor to give it the highest of priorities.”

Following his speech, DeSimone invited the students of Bryant College, mingling with the students of Bryant College.

Keene State Demands Drinking Rights

Keene, NH (CPJ) — In the age of smoke-filled rooms, there are still college students who feel they should be allowed to drink on campus. The student senate at Keene State recently passed a resolution calling for an on-campus "over 21" club in which alcohol would be served. The proposition is expected to be presented to the president of the college in a month, then be passed on to the college senate and finally to the Board of Trustees.

The sentiment among the trustees is favorable to the proposal, according to a source. The commission in favor of the on-campus clubs.

"They see it as curbing drunken driving of some college students," she said. She also said that the board was concerned about the "non-profit aspect of the club," in the clubs, according to the current proposals, would help fund the student unions of the two schools.

Sources at Keene State College say that the conflict is where the pub will be located, as there is some objection to placing the club traditionally in the "downtown Young Student Union building."

Possibly, this problem will be worked out when the proposition is sent to the Student Union Board prior to its acceptance or rejection. The board is also serving as a liaison between the neighboring towns and the student body.

The Ledger
Let Me Take You Higher
by Plant and the Family Stone

After spending an entire growing season admiring one's plants grow and mature to their full potential, the time comes to pick one's plants and prepare them for the fruits of your nature's labor. Although this stage of growing is usually looked upon as the grand finale, the increasing popularity of "growing your own" has caused much concern among the legal ranks of our society. There have been many reports of these legal nannies-formerly cautious "blue-clad strangers" walking around local hillside and plantations. Unless your plants are now equipped with "Anti-Fed Foolers" (as explained in the May 1st issue of the Text) we suggest you get a padlock on the surrounding area for a few days before attempting to harvest your plants. If your plants are now equipped with patented "Anti-Fed Foolers" then normality is the key to harvesting. By this we mean that "Anti-Fed Foolers" should have been established during the season so you won't look out of place walking around picking out plants by the roots. You should think about bringing a hand-watch,"who knows," a watch box, or a caterpillar census-taker to help in disguising yourself as just another person out for a walk. Naturally it would help if one were familiar with these fields of study as you are questioned by local authorities. By the way, a box of papers is awarded to the Botology Club for their great ad lib job in just such a situation as that. But enough of this bullshit because we could fill a Text on ways of being a human being, and still wouldn't be able to satisfy those who find it in their power to decide what is right and wrong.

Drying of one's plants should be done in an area where ventilation is abundant. If this is not kept in mind you had better stock up on any green left for a good deal of your enjoyment will be lost due to the dampness of your leaves. Your plants should also be cut down in the cold, thus allowing gravity to help the roots flow to the top of the plant. Drying takes anywhere from four to seven days to a week. Separating the leaves from the stalk should be done on a very dry day. This is done to keep the leaves pliable and also cuts down on the harshness. After your leaves have been separated from the stalks it is up to you to decide whether you wish your crop for pleasure or profit.

As an afterthought, however, it is worth mentioning that last year we had a beautiful bonfire with our stalks that our neighbors are still talking about...

Second Arrest
For Joe Cocker
by United Press International

(Melbourne, Australia)—English pop singer Joe Cocker has been arrested following a wild brawl at his downtown hotel in Melbourne, Australia. He was charged on 10 counts early Thursday morning (Australian time).

It was the second arrest in less than a week for Cocker, who last Friday was charged with driving while under the influence along with six other members of his group of 30. The seven later fined a total of $2,880.

Cocker did a concert to a capacity crowd at Festival Hall in Melbourne, the singer swigged champagne, whisky and beer. In Canberra, Immigration Minister Frank Beauchamp announced that the singer and the members of entourage charged with drug possession would be deported. He said the group had to leave the country by Friday or face custody and forcible expulsion.

After the concert, Cocker and his group returned to the Chateau Commodore Hotel where they are staying. The hotel's manager would not let the group leave, but Cocker refused.

Scuffles broke out and police were called. They finally dragged a bare-footed, bare-topped Cocker from the hotel.

Police said the 28-year-old singer was later charged on two counts of resisting arrest--two of assaulting police--two of indecent language--one of assault by kicking--one of offensive behavior--one of refusing to leave licensed premises, and one of common assault.

Golf Team Finishes Season

The Bryant College varsity golf team finished its Fall season with a 12 & 8 record. At the ECAC tournament we finished twelfth out of a total of 28 teams. Our position is notable in that we beat Brown and URI in team score and lost to PC by one stroke. Considering that we are only a college level team, it is quite an accomplishment for us university teams.

Some of the highlights of this season is Larry Ostrower running up 36 consecutive wins. Being still a junior, he could possibly establish some sort of a record. Al Martino also was exceptional this season in that his fine score of 73 qualified him for the ECAC finals—a first for Bryant in any sport.

Our only losses were Central Connecticut by 11-10 and to Salem State 16-5. Both teams finished number one and two in the ECAC tournament. Our other loss was at Peace Valley (4-3) where we were without the services of Al Martino and Larry Ostrower.

Besides Ostrower, Steve Pincince and John Sullivan ran up very impressive dual match records. Coach Boulet is looking forward to an undefeated Spring season because of these men and other members of the team: Wayne Pacheco, Scott

Baseball
Twenty-seven game winner Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies led the September ballot for the National League's Most Valuable Player, and Quarterback Joe Namath was runner up and Boston Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant finished third.

President Nixon has revealed in a letter to Boston Red Sox owner Charles Finley that his baseball team was "a far more difficult task that I anticipated. The letter was published in the Maracibo Daily Newspaper in Venezuela, Nixon said that despite difficulties, "I did come up with a plan for Rob Rudi for his outstanding post season play with five thousand dollars in bonuses. The announcement provoked a meeting of top baseball officials on the legality of Finley's actions.

In the meeting were baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, as well as Presidents Joe Cronin of the American League and Charley Feeney of the National League. Finley disclosed the bonuses to reward Tenace for his two home runs and a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati in the opening series game, and Rudi for his run home and game saving catch in the A's 2-1 victory in the second game. Finley said he has given to players for particular performances and instead point the way for players to negotiate larger salaries with their teams for the following season. Finley previously provoked a dispute on his point when he rewarded Vida Blue in 1971 with the gift of an automobile.

Tennis
Young Chris Evert beat Australia's Kerry Melville in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, to win the singles of the Virginia Slims Tennis Tourney at Boca Raton, Florida. The victory marked Miss Evert's first Tournament title in her budding career. Chris had previously shook up the tennis world with her fine play at Forest Hills and Wimbledon. Because Miss Evert is only twelve years old, a twenty-five thousand dollar first place prize goes back to the coffers of the Virginia Slims Tour. Miss Melville received a check for fifteen thousand dollars for her second place finish, while Françoise Durr of France and Riva Ridge of Canada third place performance in the one hundred thousand dollar event.

Wimbledon Champion Stan Smith gave the U.S. its first straight Davis Cup Title, a feat unprecedented in Post World War II history. The 16-20 year old Ivor Turac, to his opening day conquest of Jim Nastase to clinch the cup for the U.S. over Romania in Bucharest.

Horse Racing
"Trento" a six year old champion of Malaysia and Singapore, has joined the field for the November 11th Philadelphia and U.S. International at Laurel. This development boosts the field of Likely starters to eight, including Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes winner "Riva Ridge" and "Tyepeast," a winner of six stakes races this year. Riva Ridge and Tyepeast will be representing the United States in the race.

Auto Racing
Races in Brazil and Sweden have been added to the 1973 Formula-one auto racing season. Competition begins January 29th in Buenos Aires and concludes with the US Grand Prix next May 7th at Watkins Glen, New York. There will be 15 races in all. Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil is the 1971 World Formula-One Drivers Champion.

George Bignotti has resigned as Charlie Mcnaig's of the Philadelphia Eagles. Bignotti's new team, the Cornell Jones Team members have won three straight driving championships. Bignotti will be replaced by Bill Yeager, who has served as the back co-ordinator of the team.

Larry Smith, Little Caesar, North Carolina, has been named Rookie of the Year on the NASCAR circuit this year. Smith started in twenty-one racing events this year. He finished in the top ten seven times in the top fifteen. Smith has earned his driver of the season award. Smith has entered the 1973 year with seven pins to his belt. Ken Dryden has allowed only three goals in the first four games and has posted a pair of shutouts to lead National Hockey League goalies.

Remember the days when people were guessing how early in the baseball season the New York Yankees would be able to clinch the American League pennant. Recall also how potent the Boston Celtics were assumed to be the rest of the National Basketball Association. What has happened to the constant talk of the future? Has the word dynasty become obsolete?

One major reason why the above statements will not have any powerful dynasties in the near future is because of the fact that expansion has occurred. Several years ago the American Basketball Association was formed. During the first year, a number of excellent stars jumped from the old established league to the new one for the purpose. Again this past summer a new World Hockey League has existed being formed by already many stars including Bobby Hull, Bernie Parent, and Derek Sanderson have left their teams in favor of larger salaries. The game of hockey shows the average sports fan an excellent example as to how a product can be diluted so much that there is no chance left whatsoever of having perseverance that is not waning.

One of the teams hurt most in the recent form of expansion is the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. The Bruins who only last year were the strongest team in hockey not only lost Derek Sanderson, but they also lost Gerry Cheevers, John McKenzie, Ted Green and Ed Westfall to other teams. This new league has done something that no other team in the National Hockey League has done and that is to break up the Bruins. This year instead of the strongest team in the league is going to have to fight exceptionally hard to win another championship.

In this the way professional sports was meant to be. The fans gain evidence that people will go to where the money is, but the pride is being on having the best teams in the world. For instance, instead of playing for championship teams year in and year out Cheever's, Sanderson, and McKenzie have left the number one team in hockey only to wind up on a consistent loser. Where has the spirit gone?

Professional sports were originally formed with the sole intent of showing the best talent available in live action, the only contradiction is that the best is always being broken up. As a result, no team in any sport is able to form a dynasty unless it can acquire quality players through trades or through its own farm system. As much as professional sports has been hurt by expansion, the public has been hurt much more severely. It is the public who has to face rising prices even though the product is being diluted immeasurably. These people find it hard to become really aratic over a team. The fact that some of its players or even the whole team may someday move away is certainly in each sport fans mind.

What can the average sport fan do? He can either watch the entire professional sports product become

First CSC Car Rally
Won By Bryant
Students

by Jeff Doppelt

The first Collegiate Service Club car rally was won by Berj Kassabian and Manoug Barsoumian, both of whom are students at Bryant College. They represented the International Students Organization. Second place went to Peter Vernet (driver), and Robert Degnan (navigator); while third place went to Lee Beauregard (driver), and Elizabeth Bessette (navigator). The car rally was made up of Bryant and RIC students. There were 81 people and 34 cars to be exact, and trophies were awarded for the first three places. Kassabian (driver) and Barsoumian (navigator) drove the 54 mile course in 2 hours and 45 minutes. However, speed was not a factor. They finished with the lowest score as they covered the course in the least number of extra miles while answering the most questions correctly.

During the course of the rally, contestants were to collect certain gimmicks such as bananas, silver dollars, and an October 8 newspaper. These are used as tiebreakers when one or more contestants covered the correct mileage and answered the questions correctly. Some person brought in an October 8, 1884 newspaper. That's being prepared!

Of the 34 cars, 26 finished. At last reporting, one student was seen traveling south of Cranston. If anyone sees a car with large white numbers on the windshield please inform them that the car rally is over.

After a fun filled Sunday afternoon the car rally ended at Gus Red Tavern. The contestants were then served food and beverages while awaiting the results of the rally.

KT (O) vs TKE (O)

- Defense proved to be the key for both teams. As two fledg up defenses stalled every attempt at scoring made by both shaky offensive units. Actually, the offensive units of both TKE and KT never even mounted any type of offensive threat.

- Contributing to the TKE cause on defense were Grave Mc Donald, Gary Cohen, and Sam Greco'sManaged to speak themselves interceptions. Greco'sThird interception coming inside the KT 20 but even the powerful toe of Wes Farrell couldn't put the ball through the goals. Another offensive series had failed.

- On the other side of the line KT also managed to get three interceptions, including the first going to Mike Childs and the next two going to defensive standout Paul Farrell.

- Having watched three previous KT, TKE football games since coming to Bryant, I must say that the game was lack of much the hard hitting and driving of the games in the past. This should not be held against the players but in the tremendous schedule the teams must play. It has taken it's toll.

- Once again the final score was a tie. Kappa Tau 0 and Tau Kappa Epsilon 0.

Fall Sports Reviewed

Art Boulet, Fred Reinhardt, and Gerry Guz all have something in common. Boulet, Reinhardt and Guz are the coaches of Bryant College's golf, cross country, and soccer teams respectively and their common ground is the presence of several outstanding freshman on their teams this fall.

Headlining the list of freshman standout is golfer Al Martinez of East Providence, RI. Not more than two weeks ago Martinez delivered the performance of his brief collegiate career as he qualified for ECAC championships held this past weekend at Copperstown, NY with a second place finish in the regional qualifying tournament at Dartmouth.

Martino and his freshman teammate Steve Pinecone of Cumberland, RI moved right into the spotlight with one and two spots on Boulet's link squad this fall and have led the Indians to an impressive 10-2 record thus far this season. The performances of three other freshmen Bob Cramer, Tim Banning and John Dros have been a pleasant surprise for cors country coach Reinhardt.

Kahmian, a graduate of Classical High In Providence, has been the fourth man in the first three seasons of the meet, in which the Indians compiled a three and three duel record. In addition Dros and Banning have earned the sixth and seventh spots on the 13 man team on the strength of their performances in those meets.

Meanwhile the Indians soccer forces are on the way to their best season in history. Two freshmen, Steve Luceh of Woonsocket, RI and Dale Specchier of Cranston, RI have been instrumental in coach Guz's attack as the Indians registered three in one of their first five matches of the season.
