MAYVILLE, N.Y. - A man accused of infecting at least nine young women with the AIDS virus was "some sort of scorekeeper" who kept lists of the names of dozens of females he had sex with, authorities said Tuesday. Nassau County Medical Examiner's officials have a list of 50 to 75 names of women with whom he's had sexual contact, said Dr. Barbara DeBuono, State Health Commissioner.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. - Jurors in the case of a British air pair accused of fatally shaking an 8-month-old infant in her care ended deliberations Tuesday night after five hours.

They'll continue their work Wednesday. Louise Woodward, 19, is charged with killing Matthew Eappen, purportedly in frustration over the child's crying and the demands of her job. Defense lawyer Marty Schekow said the prosecution was "not even close" in proving that Woodward killed the child. But prosecutor Gerard Leon Jr. characterized the defense as a "high-priced theatrical production."

WASHINGTON - Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan says recent gyrations in the stock market could have long-term benefits for the U.S. economy by slowing growth to a more sustainable level. In congressional testimony Wednesday, Greenspan said even with the rebound in markets, consumers feel less wealthy, which will tend to dampen economic activity. That, he said, "should help to prolong our 1½-year business expansion."

Hillary Rodham Clinton misses college freshman Chelsea's "desperately" says, but admires it's "kind of fun to have a little time to yourself." Tuesday on Oprah Winfrey's TV show, the first lady, 50 on Sunday, chatted with Winfrey, 43, about aging. "One day you're reading along and then the next day you can't see what you could see before," Clinton said. "You think about a lot of that." She added, "a lot of women who are my friends really feel this burst of energy in their late 40s and early 50s. I've had more women come up to me kind of in a confidential way and say, 'It's really great. You're going to have being 50.' ""Don't you think you look better than ever?" Winfrey exclaimed. "Well," Clinton said carefully, "some days I look OK." "Really, I think you've found your place," Winfrey insisted, to audience applause. "I think the hair, it's there. It's there."

WASHINGTON - President Clinton quietly welcomed Chinese President Jiang Zemin to the White House Tuesday night as Washington and Beijing sought to end 8 years of diplomatic estrangement. The leaders met to review the agenda for Wednesday's summit and are expected to announce an agreement by which China will replace its exports of dangerous nuclear expertise. Jiang arrived amidst calls from protesters about Tibet and human rights, but he refused to answer the crowd's questions.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - The woman suing President Clinton for alleged sexual harassment wants to drop her claim that a state trooper's depiction of her as an eager mistress tarnished her reputation. Paula Jones filed a motion to amend her lawsuit Tuesday, less than two weeks after lawyers for trooper Danny Ferguson began questioning potential witnesses about her case. Ferguson allegedly set up a hotel room meeting in Little Rock between Jones and then-Gov. Clinton in May 1991, in which Clinton allegedly exposed himself and asked her for oral sex.

Market downturn not over yet

The yo-yo world of the stock market showed itself during the last few days.

On Monday, the Dow took its largest one-day plunge ever by dropping 554 points. The rapid decline of the market was devastating enough to have the market shut down some 20 minutes early. The 554 points lost on Monday accounted for a loss of 7.1% or $129 billion dollars in value.

On Tuesday, the market rebounded by skyrocketing up 337 points. The surge recovered 4.7% of 7.1% loss on Monday or $103 of the $129 billion.

The rollercoaster ride broke both upward and downward records, proving stocks are becoming more and more volatile according to David Jones, chief economist of a New York investment firm.

As first analyst and investors alike thought the drop was a long-overdue correction by the market. However, as David Nadji, a financial planner said, "how can you call it a correction when it corrects one day and goes up again? It's very bad news."

Yet, not everyone agrees with Mr. Nadji's statement. According to Abby Cohen of Goldman Sachs & Co., prices have fallen so far that people should start buying instead of selling. Her comments along with several other key players helped the market rebound on Tuesday.

Doug Cliggott of JP Morgan agrees with Cohen stating the economic environment is still favorable. Growth is good and inflation is low, meaning Monday's sell-off of stocks are a good buy for investors.

However, key players such as Oppenheimer and Merrill Lynch are stressing that stocks are headed for a downturn. According to Chuck Clough, chief investment strategist at Merrill Lynch, he views bonds to be more attractive than stocks because of its volatility.

Clearly, not everyone agrees on a single strategy. Whether the market is still bullish will be determined in the following weeks as small investors contemplate whether to buy or sell.

300 families well over 1000 people attended. "Family Traditions", this year's Parents and Family Weekend Celebration. The event was held last weekend.
Email, Wintersession, and Parent's Weekend

Before I began, let me say that this week's editorial is not designed to stop anyone's First Amendment Right of Free Speech. However, it is written to illustrate the senseless behavior that some Bryant students exhibited through email.

Isn't technology great? At any moment, I can write to the entire campus and use my brilliant understanding of the English language (especially in the vulgarity aspect) to illustrate my maturity level. And why not, everyone on campus has a right to know that the mastering of vulgarity makes me special-kind of like a genius. And with those anonymous emails, I must be a real computer whiz-a hacker so to speak. Wouldn't my parents be proud to know what I have accomplished this year.

To be quite frank, the emails that were sent to the entire campus last week was disrespectful, disgraceful and completely inappropriate. The lack of maturity shown in those emails is extremely disturbing. If the writers of those emails think you are brilliant with your mastery of the language, think again. What was illustrated through those messages are the fact that maybe you do not belong at this college. Just because you can send anonymous emails and abuse the system does not make you hackers, but merely meek cowards. Cowards who cannot appropriately address their concerns about what is wrong with Bryant in a mature manner. No, cowards like that, hide behind a mask for fear that they might be exposed for what they really are. By the way, for all of you smart geniuses out there who replied to the messages—guess what? We have your email accounts so quickly you would be packing your bags right now.

This is the type of unintelligent people Bryant needs to get rid of. Or better yet, stay away from when recruiting and accepting new students into this fine institution. Do not accept just to increase enrollment. (i.e. 100 conditionally admitted students)

What happened to all of the wintersession courses this year? Seems that Bryant has decided against offering its students the opportunity to take courses over the winter, which is a bad move on the administration's part. Hopefully, everything will be worked out so that seniors and juniors have the opportunity to take a 300 or 400 level course that they need.

Student Senate did a wonderful job of organizing and running this year's Parent's Weekend. It is unfortunate that the weather did not cooperate. However, it was good to see that over 300 families were registered for the events last weekend. The UN Festival and the Craft Fair were among the attractions this weekend. The two events ran smoothly thanks to ISC (International Students Organization) and WIMF. Praises go out to all of the organizations that helped out in this years Parent's Weekend.

Concerned

Dear Editor,

This letter is written with the intention of informing the students and administration of the problems involving the department of public safety and the safety and security of the students.

Around the month of June, 1997, a set of master keys to hall 16 was found to be missing from the MASTER KEY BOX located in the Department of Public Safety. These keys will open every door in halls 14, 15, and 16. This includes all student rooms. The keys have not been found as of this time.

Mr. George Coronado, Director of Public Safety, was made aware of this serious security issue as soon as the keys were withheld. He initiated an investigation but had no success in finding the keys. He kept this information within the department and did not inform anyone, including his superiors. Mr. Joe Michelson was informed of this problem just a few weeks ago.

Mr. Coronado kept this information to himself, disregarding the security and safety of the entire Bryant community, in which he was hired to protect. He may tell you the locks were changed, but they were not rotated. This means the same master keys will still operate every door in halls 14, 15 and 16. No one knows who has the keys or where they are. Mr. Coronado allowed the students (men and freshmen only) to move into Bryant for classes knowing their safety and security were at risk. The person who has the keys can enter any room at anytime. While you are away or even in the worst case (while you think you are secure in your locked room)—while you are sleeping. This disarms me especially for the female students who may not have the strength to defend themselves from a violent attack.

There were incidents of theft of the small change items and money over the summer after the keys were noticed missing. Mr. Coronado knew of these thefts and still did not make any effort to inform anyone of the thefts. These thefts were taking place while the summer conferences were going on. The guests' safety and security were also at risk, and he did nothing about it.

The students must be made aware of the serious breach of duty and take measures to protect themselves. The Trustees must be informed of this, too.

This is just one incident that is being let out. There are other areas of concern to the students about the campus and himself. He just sweeps them under the carpet and struts around campus putting on a poker face and duping the Bryant community into thinking he is concerned about the safety and security of the campus.

If Mr. Coronado is concerned, I am sure he would like to explain why this incident was kept to himself for such a long time. He may tell you that a former Bryant DPS officer was recently arrested and was released from some of the same cases.

This, in part, may be true. However, the former employee did have access to the lock shop and probably made master keys while employed there. The master keys were kept in hall 16. Both are still missing. They may have been replaced, but nevertheless, the other keys are still out there.

You may also want to know that student workers who work for DPS have access to sensitive and confidential information regarding students and operating procedures of Bryant. They can retrieve information on any student and what happens, such as rape, theft, public drunkenness, and any other activity that happens. This incident that happened. This is information that is confidential. Again, Mr. Coronado will tell you that the student have access to the department and did not inform anyone, including his superiors. Mr. Coronado would not dare go to the President of Bryant and tell him how in effect he is. He will do everything in his powers to cover this up. I could go on but I will stop here and sign off as:

PUBLIC SAFETY

By Lauren Gular
Students For A-Safer Campus

Towed Vehicle
10/20/97 - While a DPS Officer was patrolling the Campus, the Officer spotted a car illegally parked on the roof over the door to one of the Residence Halls. DPS officers arrived on the scene and found a car that was smoking from a cigarette butt. The fire was extinguished.

A student phoned Center Conference Room #1 to attend the next Senate meeting. That Wednesday at the Senate meeting I asked if the other chapters would be interested in helping them sponsor their shuttle service that runs from Bryant to Parent’s and Touch of Class on Thursday nights. As one of the Senate liaisons to round table discussion (Tim Bertrand being the other) I informed them that not everyone on this campus agreed with their philosophy that transporting students to those establishments on a school night was a good one, and went on to say that I would bring this issue up at the next Senate meeting. That Wednesday at the Senate meeting I asked for my colleagues support on this issue and I passed a motion that read more or less as follows: The Bryant College Student Senate supports the shuttle service currently sponsored by the Greek community and will show our support via The Archway. Basically this means the Student Senate supports this endeavor.

Vandalism
10/27/97 - The attendant reported that the glass on the front door to one of the Residence Halls had been broken. DPS is further investigating this matter.

Vandalism
10/24/97 - Several students called DPS to inform them of damage that had been done to the window of their room. Upon arrival the Officer noticed that the screen had been maliciously torn and that the subject was attempting to break in through the window. DPS is further investigating this matter.

Drug Violation
10/25/97 - A student phoned the Bryant Center for a report of a theft. The attendant reports that a suspect took two packs of cigarettes off the counter and left without paying. The student was identified and DPS is investigating.

Drug Violation
10/27/97 - DPS officers were called to the information center at the Bryant Center for a report of a theft. The attendant reports that a suspect took two packs of cigarettes off the counter and left without paying. The student was identified and DPS is investigating.

The Public Safety Beat is sponsored in part by DPS and Students for A-Safer Campus, in order to comply with the Federal Students Rights-To-Know and Campus Security Act.

DPS encourages the use of their escort service which is available 24 hours a day to anyone upon request. Call 232-6001.

Persons who provide information leading to the apprehension of someone who has maliciously initiated a fire alarm or has misused fire equipment are eligible to receive a $100 reward. It is a felony to misuse fire equipment and the College will prosecute offenders.

Please do not park or operate vehicles on sidewalks or grass.

Motor Vehicle Accident
10/23/97 - A minor Motor Vehicle accident was reported to DPS, the subject sustained no injuries. The result was just some minor property damage.

Harassing phone calls
10/23/97 - A student called to report receiving harassing phone calls. The student was given a phone log to record any more calls that they receive. DPS is investigating this matter further.

Added Course History of Africa

The course begins with a study of Africa and African culture in the present, and includes an examination of current political, economic, and social trends, as well as current events. Then the historical context is examined. Topics studied include human origins, ancient civilizations and cultures, the slave trade, colonialism, and African nationalism. Films and guest speakers will be utilized.

This course counts as a Humanities of a General Liberal Arts elective for upperclassmen. For sophomores and freshmen, it counts as a course in either the Historical or Cultural Mode of Thought. The Africa course is normally given every other year; therefore, it will not be available again until the spring of 2000.

DPS CRIME PREVENTION TIPS

by Ginnie Bowry
Department of Public Safety (DPS)

WATCH THOSE HANDBAGS, BRIEFCASES. AND KEYS

- Never leave your handbag, briefcase, suitcase or other valuables unattended in common areas.
- Never carry large amounts of cash. If you must, do not let it be known.
- Always carry your purse clutched tightly in your hand or under arm.
- Never leave your purse on a counter while writing a check or performing other tasks. If your purse has large shoulder straps, don’t let it swing around so it is actually carried on your back. Remember that a large purse is a large target for a purse snatcher. The smaller the purse the better.
- Lock valuables and cash in desks or other secure locations.
- Never leave an identification tag on your key ring.
- If your keys are lost or stolen, you could help a thief find your car and burglarize your office and/or home.

- If you need to drop your vehicle off for repairs, don’t leave your house key, apartment key or office key with the car key.

Call Ginnie Bowry, DPS crime prevention specialist, 232-6001, if you wish to borrow books, brochures, or videos on security or personal safety for men and women, or ask to have DPS give a safety crime prevention presentation for you and your fellow students/faculty/staff.

Senate Supports Shuttles

Dear Editor,

Over the past few weeks I have seen several articles in The Archway questioning the Greek organization need the Senate’s support for a group of students who seem like they are constantly rubbing us the wrong way. Some articles have had stories where Greeks do more than their fair share on campus, while others have said they should be banned. This letter is not intended to take a side, rather to shed light on an activity that they currently sponsor. During a recent round table meeting, the sisters of Delta Zeta asked if the other chapters would be interested in helping them sponsor their shuttle service that runs from Bryant to Parent’s and Touch of Class on Thursday nights. As one of the Senate liaisons to round table discussions (Tim Bertrand being the other) I informed them that not everyone on this campus agreed with their philosophy that transporting students to those establishments on a school night was a good one, and went on to say that I would bring this issue up at the next Senate meeting. That Wednesday at the Senate meeting I asked for my colleagues support on this issue and I passed a motion that read more or less as follows: The Bryant College Student Senate supports the shuttle service currently sponsored by the Greek community and will show our support via The Archway. Basically this means the Student Senate supports this endeavor.

This letter was not to imply that organizations need the Senate’s support for everything that they might want to do, rather it meant as a means of support for a group of students who seem like they are constantly bashed in The Archway.

Thank you for taking the time to communicate your problems with the Senate. If more organizations would communicate not only with the Senate, but with each other, I think this campus would be more productive.

Sincerely,
Bob Fresiolo, Sophomore Senator & The Bryant College Student Senate

If your or your group has an issue/problem on campus please do not hesitate to come to our meetings. 4 o’clock in Patten every Wednesday.

Congratulations!

This is to congratulate the International Student Organization (ISO) for organizing the United Nations Festival this past weekend. The informative booths range from Australia’s wood carving display to India’s colorful textiles. And the stage-based entertainment contributed further to the cheerful atmosphere. But most impressive was the courtesy and friendliness of the international students who hosted this event. The students not only served as ambassadors to their native counties but also to Bryant as a global community.

As a foreigner myself, I am pleased as punch that Bryant College is now to so many cultures and ethnic backgrounds, and I must extend a word of thanks to the ISO’s Executive Board and the various sponsors who made this event possible.

Sincerely, Dr. Joseph Bonnici

Many students have approached me lately and to inquire about what ROTC can do for them. Army ROTC is an instructional development program that prepares young men and women to become commissioned officers in the Army Reserve, Army National Guard, or the Active Army. Army ROTC at Bryant College offers one of the most professional and challenging officer development programs in the country. Young men and women take the role of an experienced Army leader. Corporate experiences in Leadership, Management, Confidenc, and Physical Fitness are instilled and developed in each of our dates that are more attractive to potential students. Additionally, you may qualify for a $5,000 scholarship to help with tuition and supplies, and $150 per month of room and board. This year, we also have a 2-year ROTC scholarship.

Not everyone is cut out to be an Army officer, but if you are considering ROTC, contact LTC (Ret) Mather at 232-6276, or stop by room 370 in the Administration Building to speak with us. Keep your subordinates informed. Subordinates do not have to know or tell you what they are doing something. UNITED NATIONS FESTIVAL
Geoffrey Toff
Archway Staff Writer

Despite all the bad weather this weekend, Parents Weekend was a still a great success. There were many activities for our parents to attend that were very informing, educating and entertaining. From 10 till 4 on Saturday in the gym UN Day was held. It was like one big Unity day in one.

Our gym was filled with several countries showing their culture and heritage. Also some clubs were in attendance. One particular club was Amnesty International, which showed our parents and guests what they stand for and promote. Some of the countries that were represented were: Australia, Spain, Sweden, Korea, Lebanon, China, Malaysia, India and Japan.

Our students, who did an excellent job, in presenting their heritage, ran these countries. The tables were alive with all kinds of information about their culture and country. This was an excellent opportunity for our parents and parents to learn something about a culture that they probably knew little about. All throughout the day there were skits performed by the various countries. One skit that was very impressive to the audience was the Russian dancer, who made the gym come alive with their dances and music. These skits were not performed by our students but by children from the area. These children were very proud to represent their country and to show people how they will not forget their heritage.

While you were watching the show and walking around the tables, you could have tasted on some different ethnic foods from the various countries. The buffet added flavor to the day and added to the delight of being in the gym.

UN day had a positive impact on the weekend in general. Everyone who attended the event was extremely impressed. They thought the event brought new meaning to the word culture and heritage. Our guests were glad to see all our different cultures in our community come together as one. This added to a new theme or idea that has been popping up everywhere on campus which is to promote Diversity among our community.

If you missed UN Day, you really missed out on lot of fun and entertainment. Hopefully next year there will be another UN day and it will be even larger. Next year maybe even more countries will be represented.

The Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics at Bryant College

Last year on May 3, 1997, Bryant’s campus was transformed into a place where dreams could come true for six hundred athletes, their families, coaches, and our volunteers. The track and surrounding fields were filled with the sounds of excitement in anticipation for the Games Day to begin. President MacIntyre began the day with an inspirational speech about reaching for your goals. The athletes warmed up by dancing with our volunteers, and the torch was run by an energetic athlete being supported by the Men’s Rugby Team. Everyone looked to the sky in awe to watch a fellow Bryant student jump out of a plane and land on the center of the track.

On behalf of the Games Management Team, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the members of the Bryant Community who helped make the 1997 Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics a success.

It was a day to demonstrate all the hard work, time, and effort that was spent preparing for the games. The Games Management Team is proud to be able to give the athletes a day filled with entertainment, athleticism, and inspiration. An event of this caliber takes many months of planning, organizing and dedication. I thank, in particular, the Student Senate, Dr. Larry Lowe, Dr. Keith Murray, Dr. Richard Smith, Mrs. Susan Delrio, Parente’s Restaurant, the Men’s Rugby Team, the Men and Women’s Basketball Teams, the Karate Club, and the Volleyball Team.

I thank everyone who volunteered their efforts to help make this day a success. I look forward to seeing the Bryant Community work together once again to help make an even better Games Day for our athletes.

Sincerely,
Lauren Gular

"Acoustic Soul Music"

Tuesday, November 4th
Janikies Auditorium @
8:00 PM
FREE Admission

Tony plays what he calls "Acoustic Soul Music," a unique blend of funk, blues, and folk that adds up to a soulful, intelligent, sensitive and inspirational sound. At one of his shows, you might hear anything from Tony’s powerful originals to covers of Bob Marley, Seal, Smashing Pumpkins or even a funkified version of the disco classic 'Ladies Night.' His strong voice, ace string-bending and powerful stage presence have the press struggling to compare this unique artist to everyone from John Hiatt to Taj Mahal: "Mixing the passion and sweet voice of Babyface with the early musical genius of Prince." He has also been called a "master song writer" and is noted for his "wit, warmth, and catchy melodies." Jarvis is currently being courted by several major labels, including a deal with mega-label Capital Records. Isn't that reason enough to come and check out the show? Thought so.
Question of the Week: How did you feel about Parents Weekend?

Back again! Sorry about last week to all my fans. But hey, now that I’ve staggered in from the weekend it’s once again to get started. First off, congratulations to all of our new pledges: Brad, Drew, Andy, Al Aaron, Nate, Brett, C.J., Greg, Andrew, and Ben. In sports, “A” football is doing... well... thank God it’s almost over anyway. Enough said. In other news, the Dutch soccer team held behind Knuckles had a good time over the weekend. Thanks to Mattie and Kennedy for the present Saturday night. Kennedy, your cable is already on its way. Spizzle got divorce papers. Hannah and I both got a trip to Arizona State. Scrapy got a visit from Freddy over the weekend. While UM’s Joella converted religions. Goose has a new wrestling move. “The flying Buddha, Scooter is now taking applications for one on one “Mad Cobra” night classes. His resume already consists of at least one known graduate. A second graduate has not yet been confirmed, but I don’t think it’s mere coincidence that Will’s favorite hand is White Snake.

Tip of the Week: Make sure you are one of the first 16 to stop by the weekend.

Hello! Hope everyone had a groovy parent’s weekend. Vegas entertained while I made a fool of myself!! Friday night was a scream for Mattie, Kenedy, Reece, Pepper, Monroe, Darby, and Mercedes. Member to check your trunk-Billy Blue might get you thanks! Thanks to everyone (especially Kenedy) who entertained my sister and I last weekend! Nikali Meridian would like to say sorry for the furniture outbreak on Saturday. Sorry if I scared you all. Silvia would like to thank Nicole for the Buddy System, so don’t have to wear snowsuits to the pool!! Kenedy, Thanks for staying the weekend! See what a good time it is! We had a happy birthday go out to Nikali and one more going out to Kenedy. Trick or treat for a good weekend! If you are interested in joining us and seeing the fun, you are more than welcomed! Thank you for making Spanish Unity Day and the Halloween Party a success. Our upcoming events in the next couple of weeks are European Unity Day and the Ki 106 Party. If you are interested in helping out or seeing what MSU is about the meetings are held in room 252 from 5 to 6 every Tuesday. We need help with the food, decorations, and with the party. If you are interested you can submit poetry, articles, essays, pictures, and editorials to Cultural Flavor which is a monthly magazine put out by the Archway.

The Bryant Players
by Kelli Young

Hello Everyone! To start, let us all take the time to do a dance of joy...the play is over! Hooray! Now that we got that out of our system...the play was a big success. We had large audiences with a lot of pep (that always helps!) I think, by far, our best performance and most comical was the Saturday afternoon. We had them rolling in the aisles! I however refrained from doing any ad-libbbing (for those of you who remember M*A*S*H, you remember the whole “S for...incident”), but those of you who did, it was like butter. In my book, Tamir gets the ad-libbing award. Well, just when you think it’s over, it starts up again. Auditions are next week for the Dessert Theater play (we don’t exactly know what plays we’re doing, but we do know auditions are next week) Directors will be Jen Warren and Ken Blankenstein. I would like now to take this time to thank all the alumni for coming to the play this weekend. It was a very nice seeing all of them, even though we will never be welcome to be a cast party ever again. It looks like the guys in Dorm 6 will be going without shaving for a while, at least until one of them can get to a store to buy some shaving cream. Hey, do you think we can convince Emie to try out for the next play? We’d love to have her!! And on that note, I leave you...Overture! It was supposed to be recording something??

“ You were drooling, weren’t you?”

“Lieutenant, be nice.”

Thanks to all who came out to support our Demo on Saturday. It was a great success! We hope you enjoyed the time you spent with your family.

We will be having a beginners class for those who are interested in joining the club on Tuesday November 4th from 6:00 p.m. in the aerobics room at the Jarvis. The beginners class will be an informational class. We meet Monday, Tuesday and Thursdays from 6-7:00 p.m. Come and check it out! NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY!

Everyone should start to prepare for the upcoming belt test. We are going to be testing for the end of November. Please see the advanced members if you have any questions about what you need to know for the test. Try to make as many classes as possible so you will be prepared for testing.

I hope everyone had an enjoyable Parents and Family Weekend. SAA held our First Cow Chip Raffle, which proved very successful. The money that was raised is being donated to the Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics. Congratulations to everyone on this committee for making this event possible.

Survival Kit flyers went out last week; so hopefully we will get another good response. Candy and decorations for Halloween are now on sale, so look out for tables in the Bryant Center and at Salmanson. The Festival of Lights, Adopt-A-Highway, Toy Drive and New Eyeglasses for the Needy committees are working exceptionally hard. If anyone is interested in assisting them, your contributions will be greatly appreciated.

The Leadership Retreat is this weekend. This event is a great opportunity to enhance your leadership skills and meet many new people. I hope to see everyone there.

Enjoy your weekend.

Get out of the fog and into SPB! This was the theme at our Hallowe'en meeting on Monday. For those who did not attend, we filled the room with fog and had Halloween decorations everywhere. Of course with Halloween, comes candy and it found its way into a piñata. Poor Steve, he must of wore himself out trying to break it. What was inside? twenty swings Steve? We would like to thank President Machley for attending our meeting and speaking about the Mighty Bottosone Concert. This concert was probably the biggest event we have ever had on this campus, now that is something to be proud about. Congratulations to our new voting members Michelle, John, Christine, Kimberly, and Donna. Another congratulations goes out Kyle T. Kadish, who recently became our new Trips and Attractions Co-Chair.

Look for another big event coming November 14. Kicking off Fall Weekend will be Paula Poundstone performing in the MSU’s. If for those who do not recognize the name, she is a stand up comic on HBO. General Admission for this event will be $10.

Don’t forget to buy your tickets for the Fall Weekend Semi-Formal “Enchantment on the Sea”. The Semi-Formal Cruise will be from 10 p.m. -2 a.m. on November 15.

Hi everyone! I hope you all had a great Parent’s Weekend! I think this past one was our most successful one yet. We all had a great time! Especially when we broke out the racy cop games. Mel, my father will not rest until he beats your father. He blames me but I both know it was him. Wright’s Chicken Farm and Parente’s will never be the same. Christie and I were fearing for our lives a bit. Those of who you know what happened at Parente’s might agree with the old saying, “the apple doesn’t fall far from the tree”. I even’ve never been that there through. I know we’re not the most coordinated sorority but I thinking having three sisters on crutches at the same time is a bit much. I might have to take responsibility for a couple of those things due to my purchases for Friday night. Thanks KT for a good time by the way. The boxes were a good idea just not the way in which we consumed them. Janie and Karen, Dana and I still say it’s 7 to 0! I’m pretty upset I was the first to get up Thursday. Russell, don’t think we forgot about what you have hiding in your room, it’s not time for the random notes taken over the duration of the weekend. Hey guys, I’m out like the wind and I’ll see you sometime! Hey Houdini! Christine, let’s make a trip to the goody cabinet. Wilson, you owe me $10 - Ann! Ang, I think Ericka scalping you, Ericka’s mom is now an honorary Sigma Sigma Sigma.

It looks like the real world. It feels like the real world. It pays like the real world. It’s an internship. Unreal.

sister! Michelle, do you have to wear Adidas sandals to be in a sorority? Angela was being socially responsible. Christie, "oh, you won't like him, it's those teenvails." Longo, Christie is sorry about dragging you to G-block but it would have been a long walk back without you. Steph and Skvis were being anti-social listening to "old School." Christie, did the room spin or was it me? Gina, what's the real story with the Poison Ivy o? we have to go back to Cassarinos! Nader, what were we talking about, things are getting a bit too comfortable Jk.

Well we are all looking forward to a great weekend! I expect to see some good costumes! I hope everyone gets into the spirit and has a great time! Quote of the week, "The scarf is key!" Have a good one! Check ya later Ivy May, AKA Ivy Kooler!

WJMF

You know what I have never been able to figure out, how come during Halloween whenever kids yell out "Trick or Treat!" they always get a treat, but never tricked? Other than the time some lady slipped a pencil instead of a candy bar into my loot bag when I was a kid, I have never been tricked, I have always gotten a treat. I think I still have that pencil.

Well, at WJMF, where the trick is always to give listeners the treat only if they beg first, plenty has happened in the past week. In last week's Archway, the WJMF show schedules were on display. If you haven't thrown it away yet, at least cut out the schedules so you know what we will be playing. Guess what time I'm on? Check out the schedule to see if Hooked-on-Phonics has worked for you. If you have already thrown the last issue away, here it is again by day and musical genre (time in parentheses):

- Sunday - Gospel (A.M.), Techno (4-2 P.M.), Country (8-2 A.M.)
- Monday - Alternative (A.M.), Alternative/Metal (P.M.), Punk/Ska all evening
- Tuesday - Talk (A.M.), Techno (12-4 P.M.), County (4-8 P.M.), Folk (8-2 A.M.)
- Wednesday - Classic Rock (A.M.), Hip-Hop rest of day
- Thursday - All Metal
- Friday - All Hip-Hop
- Saturday - Suicide Saturday (all hip-hop)

The other big happening for WJMF was the Craft Fair. As usual it was a big success, so successful we ran it until 5 PM instead of 4 (who says Daylight Savings Time begins at 2 AM). Next year we might make it the Puff Daddy Fair, it will be a Puff Daddy themed...oops, that was a private joke shared between a few members of WJMF. I almost named this week's Campus Scene article into what 75% of the other organizations write, jokes that only a "clique" of people will understand. Sorry about that. But thanks to all that participated and bought stuff at the Craft Fair.

Although the Craft Fair was a hit, not everything went well for us this past week. Last Sunday Saturday, we had to go off the air for an hour due to some equipment problems that needed to be fixed. It wasn't exactly fixed, but we are broadcasting anyway. If you hear several seconds of dead air, chances are something else within the station broke. We apologize for any discomfort this may cause.

Anyways, that will be all for this week. There is probably more stuff to mention but my crack dealer will be here at any minute. So keep it locked to 88.7 WJMF, where the hits pack more Spice than the Girls.

Hey Rugfers! We hope everyone is having a great week. Thanks to those who ventured out on Parent's Weekend to see our game in the horrible weather. Despite the weather, we totally dominated the game and won 30-0. Wait 'til Thursday Central CT! We can't wait to see your new teams. Congratulations to those who scored tros, especially the new muffin women. We would also like to congratulate the guys again for an awesome game on Saturday afternoon.

Nice job boys!

* We would like to thank Ki for a good time on Saturday night. Everyone had fun getting down to the old school tunes. Dancing boys got held of the booth this time. Good job, we're impressed! Mary- we know you are going to find Juan and show him a thing or two.

That's all for this week, but we leave you with a question to ponder: "Same butcher, exactly the wrong hair?" Sorry that you were the one to find out.

To work with head coach Del Harris? Will Shaqueille O'Neal learn to play that way? The pain? This team will only go as far as those two take them.

Seattle Supersonics—So they lost Shawn Kemp, who cared? Kemp is not what made this team. The Sonics were built on intense defense and that is what they will bring to the table this year. Add Alonzo Mourning to the mix and the Sonics should make another run at the finals.

Miami Heat—The Heat's game is built around solid physical play that punishes teams. Although they did not pick up anyone over the summer, the Heat still has All-NBA guard Tim Hardaway leading the charge. And when Alonzo Mourning comes back the Heat will challenge.

Utah Jazz—The Jazz are getting old and this may be their last run. Karl Malone has to play like a MVP again if the Jazz are to have a chance. And that may be hard considering John Stockton is injured. Howard Eisley will be a suitable replacement. However, the Jazz needs Stockton back ready for the playoffs though.

New Jersey Nets—The Nets are still a very good team except for the injury bug. They went out and added David Wesley at point guard and that should give many teams a shock this season.

Detroit Pistons—The Pistons are one of those teams that cannot be overlooked this season. This team has looked very bad and slow during the preseason. Unless Allan Houston or Chris Childs steps up, the Knicks might not make it pass the second round of the playoffs.

Charlotte Hornets—The Hornets were a surprise last year and should not be overlooked this season. They went out and added David Wesley at point guard and should give many teams a shock this season.

Phoenix Suns—The Suns are going to be the scariest team in the league this year. Not only will they be playing with teams with Jason Kidd and Kevin Johnson in the backcourt; the Suns will also have Anthony McClydey and Cliff Robinson available to terrorize opponents. Not to mention Danny Manning coming off the bench. A lack of a big man may hurt the Suns though.

Atlanta Hawks—This team went through very little changes in the off-season and so expect them to finish where they were last season. Mookie Blaylock is one of the most underrated point guards in the game and Christian Laettner has finally started to earn his paycheck, so the Hawks should be good enough to return to the playoffs.

Portland Trailblazers—The Blazers should also be one of the scarier teams in the league this season. A lineup of Rasheed Wallace, JR Rider, and Kenny Anderson should force teams into bad situations. The only problems is if the Blazers can stay out of jail long enough to get to the games.

Washington Wizards—The Wizards, formerly known as the Bullets, have all the tools to be a very good team except experience. A front line of Jawad Howard and Chris Webber coupled with Rod Strickland at point should be a force. The Wizards should be strong if the injury bug does not get to them.

Milwaukee Bucks—The Bucks may have lost Vin Baker, but they also lost the Black Hole Of fense as well. The addition of Terrell Brandon should help Ray Allen's game. Glenn Robinson will give you the usual point and Ervin Johnson is a suitable center.

Los Angeles Clippers—The Clippers have a lot of strong players that no one has heard of. That is the problem. This team doesn't have a go to guy in crunch time and it will show when they are sitting at home during the playoffs.

Toronto Raptors—The one thing this team doesn't lack in confidence. A playoff visit in not out of the question, but they will need solid performances from Marcus Camby and Damon Stoudamore every night to win.

Denver Nuggets—The Nuggets will be one of the youngest teams in the league and it will show early on. However this team is loaded with talent at both forward positions and a return to the running game should help the Nuggets pull off some wins at home.

Washington Wizards—They got Shawn Kemp, but they may have only one every in their starting lineup from last season. Only an inconsistent Bob Sura returns to help Kemp and that is not much.

Boston Celtics—The Celtics will not be the worst team this year, but they will be close unless they can shoot the ball a little better. The defense has looked good, but the offense is horrible. Look for Antoine Walker to have a break through season though.

Philadelphia 76ers—The Sixers have talent, but no chemistry. If Allen Iverson learns to pass the ball to teammates the Sixers will have a chance. But if Tim Thomas and Jerry Stackhouse do not touch the ball, then the Sixers will lose a lot.

Vancouver Grizzlies—The Grizzlies have a good core team that will keep them from the cellar, but not far from it. Antonio Daniels will have a lot of pressure as the new point guard, but do not expect Bryant Reeves to do much to help.

Golden State Warriors—A change in uniform will do no good for this team. Joe Smith has yet to mature to the superstar he was expected to be. The addition of Brian Shaw, will help a little, but this team should be getting ready for the lottery.

Sacramento Kings—The Kings will only go as far as Mitch Richmond wants them to. One of the best players in the league, Richmond wants out of the Sacramento and will not play very well this year.

Dallas Mavericks—The Mavs should be use to this by now. Not only does this team have no talent up front but they also need anywhere. With a long season for the Mavs as they spend most of it at the bottom.

Athlete's Corner: Women's Volleyball, Senior Co-Captain Jennifer Carvalho
Gayle Zahnoke
Assistant Sports Editor

Hometown: East Providence, Rhode Island
High School: E.P. High School
Number of Years Played Volleyball: 14
Position: Setter

Can you explain the challenges of being a setter?
I've never played a different position than setter. It is like being the quarterback of the team and setting the momentum of the game. The setter is the leader. I need to know where the defense is on the other side of the net and use my best offensive option based on that. You need to be versatile and able to make adjustments on the fly. It's all about being creative and thinking on your feet. I try to read the defense and anticipate their movements to give my team the best possible opportunity to score. It's a challenge to constantly adjust and adapt to the opposing team's strategy. My job is to think ahead and be one step ahead of the defense. I try to hold my ground and give my teammates confidence. In order to get there, we need to start calling the plays, and that takes mental preparation. You earn a set or a chance to hit the ball because there are three hitters. How have you maintained such consistent excellence over your four-year career at Bryant when you have anywhere from thirty to sixty assists in a match?
I don't stop demanding of myself. Sometimes I will have what I consider an off day, and other times I will play all day that I am having a good day. It is all about my performance on my own standards, as my father taught me to do. At the end of every practice and game, I think, 'I did well but know I can do better. Both the team and I benefit from it.'

What will it take to get you to the NCAA tournament?
We will have to play the way we played New Haven in order to get to the NCAAAs. That was the most united I have ever seen us play. Everything just gelled. It just has to be like that in the NCAAAs during your freshman year?
It doesn't seem like it was real. It was awesome. That was the highest team achievement I have had my entire life with volleyball. Really, nothing can touch it.

Has it been a driving force the past few years to get back, especially because of your team accomplishment four years ago?
When I came in my freshman year and we went to the NCAAAs, in my mind that was where we were going to start from every year. We worked our way up from the NCAAAs. Each year, that was the minimum I expected from the team. Plus, I want the rest of the girls on the team who weren't there to experience it, too. I want to go out the way I came in.

What kind of discipline does it take to be a volleyball player, particularly a setter?
Mental toughness. I'm not the one on the court allowed to have a breakdown. I have to stay focused and try to keep everything as smooth as possible. Physically, I just have to play through injuries and everything like that. I have to hustle all the time, try to keep the intensity of the team, and be a leader. There is no time for me to fold on the court. I have to be as positive as possible and encourage the girls.
How big of a role does volleyball play in your life?
Sometimes I help my Dad's team as far as the setters go. I talk to them and teach them about the mentality and what has to be going on in your head during a game. I also help with his volleyball camp during the summer, since most of the campers are from our high school. It is one of those occasions when you actually get to give back, like you always want to but usually don't. It is also nice to give something back to volleyball as a sport. Volleyball is my life. It is the center of everything—the mainstay of my personality—and the way I handle problems. It helps me relate stress and stay in shape. It is a confidence builder and makes me feel good. It is my world; it is the sport.

What are your personal goals for the season? I image you have many of these already this year, since you've met the 4,000 career assists honor.
I've never had personal goals when it comes to volleyball. I just play. I've never looked at stats and only know what people tell me or what the newspapers say. Actually, my grandfather calls me occasionally and tells me how I'm doing. Usually, any goals I do have are related to people on the team. I always want to instill more focus and get everyone back. I'm going to put it in the best position I can for them. When it is crunch time, I want them to count on me and feel that I'm reliable. I think that they all know that I am always trying my best out there. As far as the hitters are concerned, I try so hard every time to give them the most perfect set each and every time. It is always about me and somebody else. Defensively, I try to hold my ground and get respect as a defensive player as well.

What is the most memorable part about playing volleyball?
The hurdles. That is my chance to say something inspiring with those two girls at the back. I look at me to motivate them, and let them pumped and think, "Here goes nothing." So what I do is cut up the other team and make them laugh a little bit and remind them of how nasty we are so they don't forget. Then, just how a fool and set it off on the court.

Pointless and random thoughts on the wide world of sports
By Duc Tran

Before I start into this column let me just say that I'm glad getting my sense of humor from somewhere else now because the radio station just isn't funny anymore.

And I used to look up to those guys. Game Seven, extra innings in the World Series. It just doesn't get any better than that.

Both teams played an excellent series but it was Florida's time.

More specifically, it was Jim Leyland's time to shine. The Indians deserve credit for coming back and forcing a seventh game, but their drought looks like it will go 50 years.

With Florida's expensive payroll, it was a surprise no guy like Craig Counsell score the winning run.

It has to feel good to see a guy like Livan Hernandez win the MVP with his mother three watching.

I do feel bad for Sandy Alomar Jr. He put up great numbers in a losing effort.
Not to mention Chad Ochocinco.

It just shows that because you are the best in the regular season it means nothing come playoff time.

If anyone has ever questioned the Power Broccoli Kevin Kragen, I gave this year they should have sat back and watched them play Buffalo.

Sure the Bills came back, but when the Broncos had to, they showed the Bills around.

Not had for a team that got to Buffalo about four hours before game time because of the four feet of snow dumping on Colorado.

Terrell Davis has got to be the leading candidate for the MVP after carrying the Broncos with his second 200-yard game of the year while John Elway had a horrible game.

How many does Curt Martin have?
And can he carry the Pats if Drew Bledsoe sticks?

I guess he can't because the Patriots lost again while playing a good team.

How can a team that has supposedly great players like Martin, Bledsoe, and Ben Coates not be able to score a touchdown? Game Seven, extra inning in the Elway rushing back and forcing a seventh game, Ben Coates not be able to score a touchdown. Against Miami no one looked at tats and only knew what people tell mlj orwhallhe new papers

One thing I've never had personal goals when it comes to volleyball. I just play. I've never looked at stats and only know what people tell me or what the newspapers say. Actually, my grandfather calls me occasionally and tells me how I'm doing. Usually, any goals I do have are related to people on the team. I always want to instill more focus and get everyone y outside the Patriots. The Indians deserve credit for coming back and forcing a seventh game, but the Indians are going to have a hard time.

I have to say something about the Bucs. They lost three in a roll. Good job boys. Oh, that was something the radio station would have said. I am sorry, let me take that back.

The DC United won the MLS soccer championship over Cinderella Colorado.

Does anyone care?
NBA basketball starts this week with so watch it while you can because come this summer the players may be locked out.

But if you're not a Boston Celtic fan you better hope that they learn to shoot because if not you might as well hope they got locked out.

They might not win 15 games this year.

This column has been totally written without the help of those funny people from WJMF.

Just so you know what I'm thinking...

BLACK AND GOLD NIGHT IS COMING TOWARDS THE 6TH

Steve Keller

Junior Steve Keller was named to the All-NEIGA First Team. He was the top Division II individual golfer in the tournament, finishing fifth overall with a 74-70-144. He is also a 1997 Northeast-10 All-Conference choice.

Congratulations Steve!
Meet the Press

by G. Higgins

It is something we so often take for granted—the availability of a newspaper.
"You read the Call today?" "Nah, not yet." Meanwhile the man next door if frantically phoning the circulation department to complain that his paper still has not arrived.

For me the newspaper has been a daily part of my life since grade school in the late 1950's. Always two a day—the Brockton Enterprise, a local paper, and the former "Daily Record," a Boston paper. Meanwhile we watched the news at suppertime and discussed the day's news.

I sincerely want to thank the Archway Staff for giving me the chance to contribute to this paper, dealing with my often tedious, handwritten material. It means a lot to me that they find the time and patience to do it. So meanwhile, me, the janitor from the hall, sitting at lunch break in my yellow shirt can temporarily lay aside my window spray and flush mop, can pick up my pen and share my gripes with the world, or at least the Bryant community.

Remember, what is one of the first things authoritarian, underhanded governments of? Almost invariably they clamp down on the press.

Yes, information is power. The tracts and pamphlets distributed in the late 1700's helped stoke the flame of the American Revolution. Likewise with the Civil War. They sometimes used to credit Harriet Beecher Stowe with starting the Civil War, when she wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This feisty little woman armed only with a pen, ardently supporting the abolition movement certainly affected millions. Later in the 1800's media and press both disseminated pro labor ideas, and other factions railed against it when the unions were formed and the struggle for the eight hour work day was in full swing. Ditto for Civil Rights, the controversy over the Vietnam War and dozens more issues.

Of course not all in the press deals with hassles and issues. My daily Boston Globe and Providence Journal have truly given me an education in a wide variety of subjects that I was never able to get otherwise because I did not go to college. My daily newspapers have the power to elate and mystify, anger and frustrate me, stimulate my curiosity, occasionally make me slam my fists with indignation with editorialists I take exception to—but no matter what they always get a reaction. The Health and Science Section, The Travel Section, touching stories of other peoples personal struggles. I think for fifty cents it is a bargain having the world brought daily into our lives by our major papers from Boston and Providence. I probably should have gone into sales for them, I know after that pitch, but it wouldn't be as much fun!

Yes, general knowledge is important. Current events, local, regional, and international are vital to us all if we are to make intelligent decisions as an electorate or even making intelligently career choices in today's job market. I feel the the unfolding financial disaster in South East Asia and this weeks' collapse of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange could have far-reaching ramifications for all of us.

The Journal's recent spotlight series, "Teaching Matters," is a wake up call for all Rhode Islanders about the public schools. Not only criticisms were aired but sensible suggestions how to improve the situation. You might find the editorial pages boring but much direction for public policy is initiated and perspective formed by the editors and their colleagues in business and politics.

Moreover, being well informed is a first step to participation in the democracy of this complex society of ours.

Best and Worst of the Week

By Duc Tien

Best Performers

Trevor Davis (Denver Broncos)- Put up his second 200 yard rushing game of the year.
Vince Turgeon (Pittsburgh Steelers)- His 11 catches and 196 helped the Steelers beat the Jaguars.
Warren Moore (Seattle Seahawks)- Tore for over 400 yards and five TDs as the old man beat the Raiders.
Jay Goedert (Spokane Seahawks)- Caught seven passes including three scores for the old man Moon.
Steve McNair (Timonose Oilers)- Emerging star threw for two scores and ran for two as well.
Liam Hernandez (Florida Marlins)- Pitched the Marlins to the World Championship.
Terry Glenn (New England Patriots)- She came to play, too bad no one else from New England did.
Brent Favre (Green Bay Packers)- Favre came to play throwing three TDs and leading his team on three long drives.
Green Bay defense (Football)- Much maligned this year, the Packers defense stepped up and stop the Pats from scoring.
Chad Ogea (Cleveland Indians)- Gave the Indians a shot with his arm and his bat.
Sandy Alomar (Cleveland Indians)- Put up MVP caliber numbers in defeat.
Tennis Swimmer (Australian Mighty Ducks)- Is doing pretty well without Paul by his side.
Wayne Gretsky (New York Rangers)- He now has more assists than anyone has points, but the Rangers still can't win, just tie.

Florida Marlins (Baseball)- What other reason could it be?

Worst Performers

Joe Thornton (Boston Bruins)- I think it is time for the rookie to go down to the minors.
Tony Fernandez (Cleveland Indians)- He might as well have his things sent to him because he is not coming back to Cleveland.
New Orleans Saints (Football)- Got blown out for two straight weeks. That is bad.
Todd Collins (Buffalo Bills)- This guy is not a quarterback: he's more like a doorman or bellhop.
John Elway (Denver Broncos)- Played horrible, but at least Davis picked up the slack.
Drew Bledsoe (New England Patriots)- Must have been colorblind Monday because he kept throwing the ball to the wrong team.

Indianapolis Colts (Football)- They might be here for a long time.

Dallas Cowboys (Football)- When did staying away from the end zone become the fashionable thing to do.

Chicago Bears (Football)- Same as the Colts so sit back and watch the losses pile on.
