Koffler Rotunda Gets Final Mark Of Approval

Bryant College honored Mr. Sol Koffler, President of American Luggage Works, last Tuesday for his gift that was close to the equivalent cost of the Rotunda. This is why the Rotunda was named in Mr. Koffler's honor.

The dedication on Tuesday started at 5:00 p.m. with a welcome by Mr. Joseph Hagan to all in attendance. Rabbi El A. Bohmen gave the invocation which was followed by Mr. Hagan introducing President Evarts.

President Evarts gave remarks of appreciation to the individual groups who had come to pay tribute to Mr. Sol Koffler.

Then Mr. Gifford, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, expressed pleasure in seeing such a happy combination of images, that of the business figures and top-class institution of higher education for business leadership.

Mr. Koffler then expressed appreciation to Bryant College for his tribute and dedicatory honor from Mr. Gifford. He then remarked about his personal impressions of Bryant and to students, values of sound education and why Bryant appeared to be a "worthwhile investment" of his money.

The ceremony concluded with Mr. Koffler inviting the guests to meet in the Faculty and Staff Dining Room to meet with Mr. Koffler.

Mr. Koffler was born

December 24, 1907 in Zborow, which was part of Austria, but now part of Russia. When he was 13, his sister, parents, and himself came to the United States to seek out the area which was assessed to be a land of plenty. His father had operated a farm and brick factory before the war, but it was destroyed by the war. His home town was a border town in WWI front lines and the German and Russians were constantly in and out of his house. He had to learn to deal with the constant fighting and death all around him.

This is now behind Sol Koffler and his eyes are geared to the future, the future of his company. In the United States, Mr. Koffler went to school and worked afterwards at his brother's factory making steam trunks. In fact, most of his family did. Later on he worked both in the trunk factory and then in a pocketbook factory. Back then it was manual labor and no assembly lines.

Soon he took the job of regional salesman for Samsonite Corp. which ranks as his top competition. Being on the road constantly, he went back to factory work and then got married. The factory was evasive about him returning to work after his honeymoon and it was in 1933 that he then decided to make it on his own.

The line he produced was suitcases which looked as though it was going to be the up and coming product and he would not have to compete with his brothers.

Symposium for Women to be held Oct. 11

Bryant College is drawing a bead on expanding executive opportunities for women in business, particularly management. For years this College (since 1863) has prided itself on its record of "educating women as well as men for business leadership" but not until now has business shown much interest in having women join the management team. Today virtually all corporations are focusing increased attention on the expanding role of women in the world of business. The women's rights movement and the federal government's Affirmative Action programs to stop sex discrimination in accordance with Revised Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act (April 2, 1972) have alerted companies to the importance of employing women in the higher echelons.

To meet these needs, Bryant College has designed this ONE-DAY SYMPOSIUM TO INVITE WOMEN STUDENTS WHO ARE SENIORS ON THE HIGH SCHOOL SECONDARY LEVEL, WHERE CAREER CHOICES ARE MADE. It is at this critical juncture in their lives that young women must be made aware of the opportunities and special kinds of education demanded for positions in management. And because GUIDANCE COUNSELORS play such an important part in these vital career decisions, they too will be invited to this Symposium. Five-hundred of these high-school women and their advisors (three selected seniors and one guidance counselor) from 100 secondary schools in R.I., Connecticut and Massachusetts have been invited to attend this Symposium.

The College has also invited business corporations to sponsor this event. Business Organizations were given the opportunity to sponsor a group of three high school students and their guidance counselors. Each corporation will have a stipulated scholarship. It was stressed that such companies could reap rich rewards in human resources from this landmark event, an occasion planned to underscore the important contribution that academically-prepared women can make. A mere trickle of women have hitherto been encouraged to go on to higher education in business.

OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS AND PANELISTS ARE DRAWN FROM THE TOP ECHELONS OF MANAGEMENT, IN BUSINESS, THE PROFESSIONS, AND EDUCATION. Some are Bryant graduates. See attached Program.

Professor Joan Marsella, a social scientist on the Bryant Faculty, is Chairperson for the event. An ardent feminist, wife and mother of three children, long active in community and political circles, who has assembled a stimulating program of leaders, both men and women. She cannot only contribute to the encouragement of women in pursuit of executive positions, but also serve as role models for these young high school women.

ARCHWAY Moves Ahead

In an effort to improve and increase the amount of weekly material used for the ARCHWAY, the editors recently decided to contract for the services of United Press International. The service will provide up-to-the-minute news and sports, in addition to news and entertainment features.

This service is in operation for 24 hours a day, and the ARCHWAY staff will be editing out a great deal of material, which will be of particular interest to the students of Bryant. Also, in the very near future, THE ARCHWAY will be using the UPI Display Service, which will include national and international newswatches as well as sports pictures.

The UPI machine is located in the ARCHWAY office, facing out into the Rotunda. The machine is available to anyone who is looking for a particular news story or sports score by simply looking through the front office window.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Farewell To A Brother

Dear "Brother Kurtz."

The brothers and sisters of Wanta Wazuri (new and old) wish to express our deepest regrets that you are leaving us today. It seems as though you have been here a long time, then again, it doesn't. The time went by mighty fast. In any case, it doesn't seem like you have been here long enough.

We don't feel that you are deserting us, because leaving is something you must do. There is no doubt that we will miss you (especially older members) because you were like a father, a brother, and a friend dealing with each of us and for each of us in whatever way was necessary.

Sometimes you were harder on us then “the man,” but in ways which would make us more able to cope with situations and circumstances that might arise; and that we would have to handle as individuals.

Our greatest appreciation is to the fact that you weren't and didn't become a brother for the man, which would have been a hassle for us, among others we automatically encountered.

The testimonial dinner that we are having in your honor tonight is only a small token of our appreciation (Ha-Ha) for all the help, time, and patience you gave and showed us.

Right-On-Brother Man
Yours in the Rev

The Night Before Dentist

Dear Editor,

This poem is in response to an amusing incident that happened in my suite last week. I thought your readers might be interested in sharing this experience with me.

I write this with apologies to the guy who first wrote this thing!!!

TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE DENTIST...

Twas the night before dentist, and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, except a drunk mouse!

The bottles were stacked on the bookshelves with care, with the hope that the pain would soon not be there.

Three automates were sleeping all snug in their bed, while the fourth one was drinking and holding her head.

While HE and SHE lay drunk on the floor, She picked up her glass, and said, “Give me more!”

It was getting so late and I heard not a clatter, I opened the room door to see what was the matter.

I threw off my covers and ran out to the suite, to see HE and SHE swept right off their feet!

And what to my wondering eyes should appear, but the faces of both of them grinning from ear to ear. The bottle was empty and dry as a bone, I'll tell you all one thing, I'm glad she was home!

WBCS One Small Step

Dear Editor,

Dr. Fullerton has told me that the FM Frequency search was successful and that he and the Engineer were filling out the FCC Forms now.

Very soon these papers will be on their way to Washington, D.C. And where does that leave us? In the words of Dr. Fullerton “I'll try and get WBCS the necessary money for an adequate station; I just don't know where I am going to get it—but, I'll get it from somewhere.”

A reliable source today “rumored” that there was adequate money for the station. If I was a pessimist I would be very alarmed at the conclusion I could come to from these two “stories.” Being the optimist that I am, these statements must be parts of the same story. As a junior with eight years of business and administrative experience, what do I know? When upper establishments can't make a logical business decision they should be playing political football and not, A MAN IS HIS WORD—business administration.

One angry student said to me—“How many speeches does it take to make them believe in what they say?”

WBCS Board of Directors and interested members, training sessions and station programs will be developing in the coming weeks. Be at out meetings every Tuesday at 3:00 in the radio room—C352.

I Ate Milk

Dear Editor, by Gilles A. Godin

To fulfill my breakfast needs I ordered a grilled cheese
"Sorry-the-grill-man-is-not-in-today" she told me

From this I reasoned that the four standing around couldn't cook this rare delicacy
So, I ate milk
Total 20 cents

Another day I tried again all I wanted was an English muffin
"Sorry-the-grill-is-dirty" Not wanting to wait until they got a new grill and they never considering to clean the one they had
So, I ate milk
Total 20 cents

Miracle! Miracle! a guy I've never seen but the grill man "A grill cheese, please" I asked
"Sorry-we-don't-have-any" It was true they didn't Behind him there were 3 loaves of bread and a stack of cheese 12 inches high But no grill cheese So, I ate milk Total 20 cents

I'm older and wiser now What I ordered I get Like this morning I walked into the snack bar knowing what I wanted I left happy for I got what I wanted I ate milk Total 20 cents

Dear Ecologist,

Are you getting tired of sitting back while beer cans and newspapers pile up in the kitchen of the dorm? On your way to school in the morning do you pass one of many illegal dumping areas in this city and wonder what you can do about it? If either one of these circumstances reflects your feelings or something else bothers you so much that you're willing to do something about it, then read on.

Youth Guidance Invites Students to help Little Children

Pity and apathy aid no one. Words of sorrow only add to one's grievances. The Bryant College Youth Guidance Program does not extend words of sorrow, nor does it show pity or apathy. Instead, its members express their feelings by sacrificing time, effort, and personal attention to the children of the Morin Heights area in Woonsocket. Under the aid of the Youth Guidance officers, Social Progress Action Committee, and Morin Heights Neighborhood Council, the Youth Guidance Program has been successful in acquiring over 80 members who show a sincere desire to serve as Big Brothers and Sisters. These students do not receive any tangible reward; however, they will appreciate and cherish the heart-warming feeling of having extended their ability and love to children who appreciate it. Even with 80 members, we have more children than students. The Youth Guidance principle is one to experience—one big brother to one little brother. We need more students who can donate four to five hours a week to a little brother or sister. If you are interested in Youth Guidance, please contact Jim Newbury, Steve Michaelczyk, Ken Koppeit, or Monica Luce. Although the world will always have some poverty-stricken children, without an organized effort there will not be a future outside their poverty area. PLEASE HELP!

Campus Standard Review Committee to be formed

Yesterday Dr. Barry Fullerton, the Vice President of Student Affairs, expressed his wish to form a Campus Review Committee which would examine all non-academic rules, regulations, and policies of student life. The committee will be comprised of students and members of the faculty. All interested candidates are asked to leave their name and stated reason for wanting to serve on the committee at the Student Affairs Office. From these candidates, the committee will be chosen. Dr. Fullerton hopes to keep the membership of this committee at a relatively small number, although no set number has yet been established.

The purpose of this committee, said Dr. Fullerton is to review the existing rules, regulations, and policies of student life, in reviewing these policies, the committee will suggest changes of policies, and revisions of rules and regulations. Hopefully the committee will also come up with new rules, more applicable to our new campus. The committee's suggestions will be submitted to Dr. Fullerton, who together with other College administrators will examine these suggestions and revise them accordingly. It is the ambition of this project to replace the existing conglomerate of regulations with a simplified Code of Campus Standards.

Dr. Fullerton also expressed his desire for the eventual formation of some type of student-run judicial system, whose function would be to enforce the new code.

"Those who have had a chance for four years and could not produce peace, should not be given another chance."

The three American pilots freed by North Vietnam say they will report promptly to military authorities that they return to the United States.

Gartley said, however, it becomes "an endless chain of nothing."

Gartley said that during his four years of captivity he asked himself why Americans were involved in Vietnam. And, said Gartley—quoting now—"I'm still asking myself the question."

The three pilots, two of their relatives, and their four escorts from the anti-war movement, boarded a Scandinavian Airlines System plane for New York. The plane was scheduled to arrive in New York at 7:45 p.m. (EDT).

While the three pilots headed for home, officials in Washington expressed concern that the return of almost any word about 800 other Americans in Southeast Asia. They are the "missing in action" and officials say they are the "forgotten men of the Indochina War."

The Dream

by Richard S. Woolf

A cold and restless body position itself uneasily in a bed of indecision last evening before twilight illuminated an otherwise dark room. Physically worn from a day of mind labor, thoughts of how I would like things to be crowded out. Time, it has been said, will heal all wounds; but fears of a land torn by mistrust, anger, suspicion, and fear will not let this body rest.

Inevitably, I have slipped into the land of the half-dead, or semi-wakeful lips will tell you, for they feel that during sleep, the body functions slow to a snail's pace.

Yet, I am alive, renewed through my dream. Able to release unanswered hurts and hostilities. I am walking down Main St. Pittsburg, U.S.A., but this street, once so familiar to me in my reality, is friendly; but foreign in the world of a dream. A man and a woman walk before me: the man black, the woman white. As people pass us, they do not scoff, rather, they send me off with genuinely friendly greetings. In such a land, God must truly be revered. Yes, I spoke not too soon; for there before me stood a unique structure. Housed within this multi-faceted building were representatives of all that tugged at my psyche. There were announcements of advances in medical sciences and news of meetings of world leaders which spoke only of peaceful relations.

It was then that a staff nurse blotted the secretion from my snowy brow. Yes, I had been dreaming a dream which brought me back to a tiny hamlet called Rainbow Ridge; and a desk job in a textile firm. However, now I was back. I had slugged it out with a V.C. that day and had a taste of his icy cold steel. With the bleeding stopped, I regained consciousness. War is hell; and once they patch me up, I will visit Dante's inferno again. The girations of the helicopter will rock me to sleep. But the land I will visit will be no stranger to me, for I have gone down that road before.

Arabs Terrorize Bonn W. Germany

Bonn, the West German capital, is a city of fear. Security officials say that Black September, the Palestine guerrilla organization that claimed responsibility for the slaying of 11 Israeli athletes in Munich, has threatened nearly the entire government cabinet with revenge for the death of one of its five members at the Faerstenfeldbruck Air Base.

Security authorities have requested the Bonn Press Corps to "use restraint" in describing the security precautions taken to protect West German politicians.

The request came after the weekly news magazine DER SPIEGEL spelled out some of those precautions in its latest issue. It said that Franz-Josef Strauss, a Buddha-like figure who heads the Bavarian Christian Socialist Party, is afraid to walk the streets without a holstered pistol.

Chancellor Minister Horst Ehmke, Chief of the Federal Intelligence Agency, similar to the CIA, goes nowhere without a squad of armed guards. DER SPIEGEL said Interior Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, the creator of the new counter-terrorist police force and head of Internal Security, is chauffeured about in an armor-plated Mercedes with changeable license plates.

Chancellor Willy Brandt, too, the first Social Democrat Chancellor in the history of the Federal Republic, rides in an armored Mercedes and is surrounded by security agents.

According to DER SPIEGEL, nearly all members of the Bonn Cabinet received mimeographed threats last week from the Black September organization.

The letters threatened the ministers and their families with kidnapping and death.

The messages of doom were postmarked from Frankfurt, scene of this week's Frankfurt International Book Fair. Frankfurt police and Hessen State Security sources told UPI that Arab guerrillas have planned attacks against Israeli publishers and that the Israelis had requested special and personal protection during the course of the Fair which opens Wednesday night.

Frankfurt Police declined to confirm or deny they had received such a request, but a police spokesman said, "We have arranged all possible security measures for the Book Fair."

A U.S. Consulate spokesman in Frankfurt told UPI, "We can't say whether it is safe for American publishers to go there." 9/20

Theater Review

"Endgame"

by david t. panozzi

Another opening, another show! Trinity Square Repertory Company opens their 9th Season with Samuel Beckett's "Endgame." The play is performed by the Manhattan Project, a visiting theatre company from New York under the direction of Andre Gregory. This special three-week engagement of "Endgame" at Trinity Square is sponsored by the "Mutual Benefit Exchange Program" among regional theatres of the United States. Adrian Hall, director of the repertory company, feels that engagements such as this will bring about the birth of a national theatre.

If one were to categorize "Endgame," it would have to be placed among those plays which make up the "theatre of the absurd." The main character, Clov, as he moves about the stage and performs, in silence, various tasks while managing to get a chuckle from the audience. The other main character, Hamm, meanwhile, is sitting quietly in a wheelchair with a sheet covering him. The only sound he utters while under the sheet is a cough and a splitting noise. These two strange and desperate souls are caught in what seems to be a catastrophe. The end of the world. Hamm and Clov are prisoners of each other. As Hamm, an invalid and doomed to his wheelchair, constantly gives orders to Clov, one sees a master and servant relationship evident. Hamm can not stand and oddly enough, Clov cannot sit. Hamm has control of the only food supply and Clov is the only person able to wait on Hamm. The main question of the play is why Clov takes all this abuse and does not leave.

Not completely along in their shoddy interior, Hamm's parents, Nell and Nag, are "bottled up" in their canvas hampers without legs to stand on. They only emerge to reminisce about their lives and to receive dog biscuits from Hamm, their ungrateful offspring. The play is presented in accordance with Beckett's original script, but Mr. Gregory said in his address to the audience before the play began, that it is still in progress, or undergoing constant change until they find the best or preferred style of presenting the play. For a person to view this play without previous knowledge of its content should prove to be uninteresting and boring. This was very evident in the theatre Tuesday evening when many people got up to leave the performance. A careful study of Samuel Beckett's play will enhance the enjoyment of this type of theatre. No conventional theatre patron could appreciate this play without first looking into a symbolic and detailed explanation of "Endgame." Then the audience is sure to have a better understanding and thought-provoking evening of theatre. Fortunately, in the program, there is a list of times and places where any interested person can attend a group discussion of Beckett's work.

"Endgame" will be at Trinity until Saturday, October 14. The next play will be presented by "Trinity Square." It is Harold Finzer's new play "Old Times," which recently played on Broadway and begins here on October 19 for a period of four weeks.

Just Doesn't Make It

by Peter McCabe and Robert D. Schoenfeld
Pocket Books, $5.95

"I don't care too much for money/Money can't buy me love!" sang the Beatles in 1964.

But as everyone now knows, the Beatles became big stars and earned a lot of money. They packaged a series of record albums that have caused enthusiasts to compare them with Shakespeare and Dante, then started their own business and soon broke up.

The authors of a new paperback entitled APPLE TO THE CORE seem to think it vital that the inside facts of this story be known. Their book, therefore, the tale of how Apple went rotten, is a drama of emotions and frustrations, with the almighty dollar as the tragic flaw.

Peter McCabe, native Livepudlian and a former contributing editor of ROLLING STONE, provides the insight into Liverpool's dull grey atmosphere and show how the Beatles, four shabby leather boys who could make music brightened things up. They enlivened a provincial English city, only to be won away for the whole world's consumption by Brian Epstein, who "cleaned" the boys up, negotiated their deals, and kept them together despite the crushing pressures of the big-time.

Most of this has already been documented in two previous biographies of the Beatles. The more recent were written by solving Albert Lord (the all-business manager who took over the Beatles and Apple) and are related with much "inside" dope on the boring and interminable litigation between John Lennon and Paul McCartney. Co-author Robert Schoenfeld is a student of business administration, has contributed his knowledge of business relations to this section, citing all the statistics to bring home the naked truth about where everyone's heads ended up.

The book abounds with references to the Beatles' materialism—even George "Beware of Maya" Harrison's fondness for psychedelic mansions—and Allen Klein comes across as just that, most obtusely scheming, wheeling-and-dealing manager since P.T. Barnum.

All right, suppose the book tells the truth about all this. What purpose does it serve beyond all that?

Every so often, a book or article is written that attempts to "expose" the pop music industry for the money-making machine that it is. Yet such writing is often hostile to the music itself while barely scratching the surface of the existing some of the Beatles' lives.

What happened to the Beatles, as described in APPLE TO THE CORE, is happening to all the performers we know and love—yet you won't learn that from this book. McCabe and Schoenfeld "expose" the history of corruption in Sergeant Pepper's Land without much comment on the more general problems of show business or the broader characteristics of the rock subculture.

In APPLES TO THE CORE, we learn that the Beatles may have been unleashed on America at an opportune time: the recent assassination of John F. Kennedy, the idol of idealistic youth, left open a gap that almost any new idol could have filled. We learn also that the Beatles were unglamorous and rough in their Cavern days, that Linda Eastman was a society girl who became a groupie, that Yoko Ono "turned on" John Lennon like acid all over again.

Somewhat these facts seem more instructive, overall, than Schoenfeld's statistics and summations of maneuvers in court.

Money itself is hardly the only problem affecting rock (or society at a whole). The most obvious is to break up and Fillmores to close and rock festivals to become riots and loud unoriginal groups to flourish and more and more fans to get high on the wrong kinds of drugs stem from political and social conditions as much as they do from the influence of money alone.

A prominent film critic, after seeing GIMME SHELTER, remarked that to refer to the Altamont disaster as "the Pearl Harbor of Woodstock Nation" was out of place, since he pointed out, is not born and destroyed within four months. Woodstock and Altamont should be looked at as two events during a period of time in which it was possible for the same event to be either good and bad. The book that the people who made Woodstock good were around before and would still be around afterwards, and of course the same could be said of the bad.

Keeping this in mind, APPLE TO THE CORE can be read to find out how money can be a problem in the lives of any dedicated artists—but don't get lost in those facts and forget about racism, sexism, hedonism and nihilism, those demons that are feeding on the world as a whole.

Lynne Bronstein (AFS)
Mike Hooper's review of "Slaughterhouse-Five":

"Slaughterhouse-Five," winner of the Cannes Film Festival Jury Prize Award, a George Royhill-Paul Monash production in Technicolor, is based on the Kurt Vonnegut best-selling novel, "Slaughterhouse-Five."

It's the story of an extraordinary man, Billy Pilgrim (Michael Sacks), an upper-middle class American, who appears to be like you and me except that he is a psychotic G.I. unstruck in time, travelling to the past, present, and future—often simultaneously, abandoning social concern for the events he experiences. Billy lives in a mosaic of moments strung together in random sequence jumping back and forth in life uncontrollably. We see him in Belgium and Germany during WW II, in Illinois, NY as an Optometrist living a suburbanite life with his wife and two children, and on Tralfamadore, a futuristic planet, with motion-picture starlet, Montana Wildhaek.

Each incident he experiences triggers another. While flying on a chartered plane en route to an Optometrists' Convention, Billy foresees a crash from which he is the only survivor. This triggers a flashback to Dresden, Germany; where he survived the firebombing and incineration of 135,000 civilians (an atrocity of greater magnitude than Hiroshima). During an imprisonment as a POW, he is photographed by a German newsmen for publicity, but unstruck-in-time-Billy experiences himself simultaneously in a future--often simultaneously, abandoning social concern for the events he experiences. Billy lives in a mosaic of moments strung together in random sequence jumping back and forth in life uncontrollably. We see him in Belgium and Germany during WW II, in Illinois, NY as an Optometrist living a suburbanite life with his wife and two children, and on Tralfamadore, a futuristic planet, with motion-picture starlet, Montana Wildhaek.

Don't miss the film, now playing at the Avon Theater, on Thayer Street, in Providence.

Why Toothpaste And Mouthwash?

As a result of a survey of more than 500 commercial tooth pastes, powders, and mouthwashes, the American Dental Association (ADA) has concluded that for the average person the most suitable inexpensive dentifrice is probably baking soda (sodium bicarbonate), and the most suitable mouthwash is water with a little baking soda in it.

A few dentifrices contain sugar, the ADA says, and many contain phosphates. If stains accumulate on the teeth despite the use of baking soda, a commercial dentifrice can be used occasionally.

The ADA rated 21 popular dentifrices on the basis of their abrasiveness in wearing away tooth enamel. Flus White and Wave were among the worst offenders, Listerine and Pepsodent among the safest.

As to mouthwashes, it said it "does not presently recognize any substantial contribution to oral health in the unsupervised use of medicated mouthwashes by the general public. Even claims that mouthwashes overcome mouth odors should be viewed with some reserve. Breath odors may result from poor oral hygiene, or oral or systemic disease which may be of serious concern." be viewed with some reserve. My last two columns have dealt with topics such as the snack bar, parking lot, and various adventures in driving. Having exhausted these subjects, I find myself at somewhat of a loss for subject matter. Maybe it’s because very little else here at Bryant is of interest to the majority of commuters. I can sympathize to some extent. But how many commuters have attended a club meeting or two, or have attempted to foster an interest in any activity, (other than lunch), here at Bryant? I’d venture to guess that it’s the same number who bothered to vote in last year’s Student Senate elections: less than five percent. Now, this is sad. Okay, so you’ve tried a club and didn’t like it. So try another one. This year, Bryant has a Cycle Club, (peddle-type cycle), an Ecology Organization, an International Students’ Organization open to all interested, the Servitium Club, Veterans’ Club, various professional organizations, (Accounting and Marketing), and a multitude of other groups covering a wide range of interests of which some should be of interest to you. Are you athletically inclined? In addition to varsity sports, the intramural program at Bryant is larger than you might realize. What’s wrong with a commuter football team (or three)?

Now that I’ve mentioned all of these groups which may demand an hour of your time a week, you say that you work after school. Have you tried the coffee house on a Friday or Saturday night? How about the Rathskeller? Immediate reaction might be, “I tried them last semester and I didn’t like such and so.” Well, that was last semester. Anything can change, you know. The Student Senate and the Greeks are sponsoring a number of concerts and events open to everyone. Do you plan to attend any of them? On October 14 is a Saturday. By the way. You can drop in at the Oktoberfest. After school. Have you tried to exist? Remind you that any situation exists because it is allowed. Everyone. Do you plan to attend any of them? October 14 is a Saturday, by the way. You can drop in at the Oktoberfest and see what’s going on. Flus White and Wave were among the worst offenders, Listerine and Pepsodent among the safest.

Mothers And Other Strangers

Like nearly every other mother in the world, my Mother told me, "You can talk to strangers. As a child I kept my mouth shut in public places, trains, restaurants and restrooms. I went through the formative years pointing a lot. Everyday before I would walk to school, alone, my Mother would tell me, "Don’t be sure not to talk to strangers, or you will be sorry."

And Chairman Mom is a real pro at her own teachings. She leaves notes for the milkman, turns away the Avon lady, and doesn’t use a mouthwash, “just so people won’t be tempted to talk to me.”

"Me, she talks to,” my Father lamented. “How did I ever get so lucky?”

Recently, my 14-year old brother, Barry, and I got together when nobody was looking. He told me that his teacher, Mr. Emm, sent home a note to my mother. "Barry is uncommunicative and does not participate in classroom discussion. Please come in to see me.”

So my Mother dragged in and sat in conference in Mr. Emm’s office.

"Why is it that Barry won’t talk in class?” he asked. “He won’t talk to his peers.”

"Peers, at home,” my Mother told him. “I told the boy not to talk to strangers.”

"But I don’t understand,” Barry said.

"You will never understand, Mr. Emm, until you’ve been a mother.”

Last week, she called me up to see if everything was going well.

"So listen,” she said. “Now that you live away from home, you don’t talk to anyone, do you?”

"Of course not.”

"Doesn’t everyone talk to anyone? How are you ever going to meet anyone if you don’t talk to anyone?”

"But you told me not to talk to strangers.”

"...or you will be sorry. Remember that.”

"Well, at what point does a stranger become someone you can talk to?”

"When he becomes your mother.”

"Mom, didn’t you ever talk to a stranger?”

"Yes, once. And look what happened to me.”

"What happened?”

"I married your father.”

My Mother also applies her philosophy to strangers – like the President of the United States.

"You see,” she said, “if that man had listened to his mother and not talked to strangers, we would be getting along with other countries now.”

She looked up startled. “You’re going to argue with a mother?"

And history is not exempt from Mother’s adage.

"If that girl Juliet had listened to her mother and not talked to strangers, she would be alive today.”

I visited a friend in New York last month and spent half the day finding someone who would stop long enough to give me directions.

"I don’t understand it,” I told my friend. “No one will talk to me in this city. What is it with these people?”

"What can I tell you?” my friend told me. “Everyone in the city of New York has a mother who told him not to talk to strangers. In fact, if my Mom knew I was talking to you right now, she would murder me.”

Recently, I called my parents that I would be coming home that weekend for a visit. When I called, I talked to my Father because my Mother was out at bridge – “Either playing or jumping off, I’m not sure which,” he said.

An hour later my Mother called.

"I’m hurt,” she said.

"Why?”

"Because you didn’t tell me you were coming home this weekend.”

"But I told Dad to tell you.”

"Sure,” she sighed. “I had to hear it from a stranger.”

Airlines Cut McGovern's Credit

American Airlines has cut off air travel credit to the Democratic National Committee for failure to pay more than $6,000 in overdue bills.

Under Civil Aeronautics Board regulations, the move prevents any other airline from extending the Committee credit until it pays American. The Democrats still owe American $980,000 from the 1968 campaigns.

In a telegram sent to the National Committee, American said, "We regret that such action has become necessary, but your failure to pay according to the terms of the Air Travel Plan leaves no alternative."

The Committee owed the airline $11,657.79 in current campaign debts "of which $6,226.79 is now past due."

The Democratic National Committee had no immediate comment on the airline's action, which became effective Monday.

In conformance with the recently-passed Federal Election Law, the CAB adopted a regulation on May 6 which prohibits any other airline from extending credit to the Committee until it pays its bill.

The Fabulous Rhinestones

by Bob Ireland

When I first saw the Fabulous Rhinestones last spring at Brown, I said to a friend, "they're a fine group, but they'll probably never make it. They're just not commercial enough." In these sad music days of T Rex, Black Sabbath, and Grand Bunk, we're all fortunate that my prediction was wrong.

The Rhinestones have recently released their first album on Just Sunshine Records entitled simply, The Fabulous Rhinestones. The album, which was over a year in the making, is an almost faultless collection of highly listenable music. The group's hard work in the studio paid off-there's not one bad cut on the entire record.

The upstate New York-based Rhinestones have definite supergroup possibilities. Led by former Illinois Speed Press founder, Ken Davis, the band boasts an impressive line-up. David plays lead and does most of the vocal work-handling bass chores is Harvey Brooks, former Electric Flag member.

Besides his work with the now defunct Flag, Harvey has played on numerous albums, including Super-Session. Acknowledged by many as the finest bassist in the U.S. today, Brooks lays down some heavy bass lines for the other members of the band to expand upon.

 Marty Gold's doing an outstanding job on keyboards, vocals, and sax. The group's drumming work is left up to Greg Thomas and conga-player, "Dino" Andino.

The more I listen to the album, the more I look forward to seeing them Saturday night. Take my word for it, the $2 admission price is definitely a bargain. Tickets for the Fabulous Rhinestones' concert are available in the Rotunda or from any Delta Sig brother.

COMING UP-The Bryant Fall Weekend, which will take place October 13-15, will be an orgy of music. Groups already signed are McKendree Spring, Canned Heat, N.R.B.Q., and Elf. Tickets will be on sale next week.

Weekly Volleyball Scores

On Wednesday, September 20, SIX played against the Crusaders. SIX won 11-0 and 15-1. They continued to show the strength and skill which they have always had. The Crusader team did not look too good on that day.

The next game was played between SLT and GDI. GDI won the first game as well as the second. Theta set up a strong struggle and seemed to be more improved than last year.

The third game consisted of the teams Independent Berk and Independent 9. Independent 9 won two out of three games. Because of a time limit, neither team won any game with 15 points.

On Thursday, September 21, SIX played against AKF and BSO. BSO won the first game 15-9, but only after they pulled ahead of AKF, which was in the lead. BSO also won the second game 15-7. They lead all the way through.

SIX and Independent Berk played the second. SIX won both games with scores of 15-6 and 15-2. SIX looked really strong.

On Monday, September 21, Independent 9; SLT won the first game 15-10, their first win in two years. The Independent 9 team won the other two games 15-7 and 12-10.

SIX and GDI played the second game with SIX winning both games convincingly. Ann Adams won the games on serves.

The first game played on Tuesday, September 21 was between SLT and Delvaros. SLT won the first two games 15-6 and 13-11. Barbara Massi did a fine job for SLT in her debut on the volleyball court. Again, Paula Fisher looked real strong for the Delvaros team.

The first game played on Wednesday was between SLT and Delvaros. SLT won the first two games 15-6 and 13-11. Barbara Massi did a fine job for SLT in her debut on the volleyball court. Again, Paula Fisher looked good for SLT.

Independent Berk and GDI played the second game. GDI won 15-12 in the first match. Independent Berk won the next two games of the match with scores of 11-0 and 15-11. Either Faiman did a great job in serving the shut-out for Independent Berk. Pam Cross also did a real nice job for that team. Sue Burke and Sherry Furbush did real well for GDI.

SIX lost to GDI 15-3 and 15-6 in the third game. Moose looked good for SIX and Lynn Kemp and Eileen Nugent played a good game for the GDI's.
The weather was perfect and the Indians Scare squad was anxiously waiting to avenge the loss they suffered last season against Roger Williams. After last week's punishment against Sam, the squad was not ready to pack its bags. They roared back like hungry animals and drew blood after only 2:26 had elapsed in the first half. Bruce Loston to a good season ripped the nets with another close shot which proved to be the only score needed. In the second period Bill Flanagan talked for the first of his two trips to assist from Loston. At the end of the first half, Bryant led 2:0 and the ball was never to enter the nets.

Two Roger Williams players move the ball for a hopeful score, guarded by goalie Tom Catto for the remainder of the game. Catto was very impressive in protecting the last shutout of the young season.

The second half began and was exciting and very fast-moving. Bill Flanagan erased any hopes of a Roger Williams comeback when he scored again on a pass from Dave Sutherland. Finally in the last minutes of the game Mark Shobam rallied on a fine bit of footwork. The Indians take on Gordon away and then return home against Stonehill on October 4th. Outstanding play by Jim Telford and Tom Kowal now, Bob Bauer, and Dale Scheper to mention a few should keep the Indians rolling. Hank Schlosser, Mike Forest, and Ken Nigo, and John Warren record is now 2-1.

Bryant takes off for the offense.

Hockey: World War I
by Buddy Trinkle

For the past month a form of cold war has been in progress in the game of hockey. During this period the Soviet National Team has been playing the all-star of the National Hockey League in what some observers have called "The World Series of Hockey." The Canadian players who were predicted by most hockey experts to trounce the Russians, have been somewhat baffled by the swift skating and precise passing of the Soviet team.

Hard work during practice has certainly paid its dividends to the Russians who have won three, lost two, and tied one game to date. On the other hand, the Canadians are basically a group of all-star individual hockey players who are trying desperately to blend their skills together for this series of international importance. What must be clearly understood is that hockey is a game in which each player must know all the moves of his fellow linemates if the team is to be successful. The Canadian

Colleges Begin Season

The Bryant College golf team defeated the Alumni team (former golfers who were varsity players for Bryant since 1964). Eighteen of the golfers were present from our previous golf teams. An eighteen-hole match with the resulting score of 63-69 in favor of Bryant was played on that day.

On Monday, September 25, Bryant's Fall record dropped to two wins and two losses when we were defeated by the New England Champs-Central CT 11-9, and Salem State, the runner-up 18-5. Our only win

Hockey:

World War I

The game of hockey is a game of skill and strategy. The players must be able to read the game and anticipate the moves of their opponents. The Bryant College team is one of the best in the country and has a good chance to take home the trophy this year.

Cross Country News

Alan Temkin

The Bryant College Cross Country Team opened its season on Saturday, September 30, 1972. The cross country meet was won by Southeastern Massachusetts University with a score of 19 points. Bryant was second with 51 points, and Clark University finished third at last place. The Southeastern Massachusetts team was led by Peter Kuchinski, 27:17, Robert Harris, 28:23, and William Mandula, 28:02.

The Bryant Cross Country Team was led by the ever-improving sophomore, Dave Stone, who finished fourth with a time of 28:09. The other members of the team and their times in the race were: 9th, Paul Buczak, 28:57, 10th, Richard Collard, 29:13, 13th, Bob Kashman, 29:33; 15th, Steve Olson, 29:15; 18th, John Dross, 31:16; and 21st, Jim Belling, 31:28. The cross country team is improving with each meet and the competitors for the home team are striving to better themselves against all types of opposition.

The Bryant College Jaycee Cross Country Team showed some fine efforts by John Johnston, Mike Riley, and George Haley for Coach Fred Reinhart's hopes for the future. The Jaycees won over Southeastern Massachusetts by a slim margin of five points-28-23.

Team Canada has won the deciding game of that hockey series 6-5.

TKE 10 DELTA SIG 0 9/24

Defense was the name of the game for the first 37 minutes of a 40 minute game. But the injury ruled Delta Sig could not hold out and Wes Farrell kicked a 15 yard field goal for the first score of the game. This was the result of a penalty on an interception by Bob McDermott which protected Gary Cohen well. Delta Sig's Dan Doris and Jon Marvel did an excellent job of putting up a defensive wall.

The Delta Sig offense could not get rolling due to the pressure of the TKE blocked passes and interceptions. TKE's touchdown came in the last seconds of a 25 yard pass from QB Gary Cohen to Greg McDonald. The extra point was added by Wes Farrell. Delta Sig due to injury unveled junior Bill Nieman at QB.

DELTA SIG 6 PHI EP 0 9/25

It seemed Delta Sig's day had not yet arrived. Delta Sig only score came on fourth down and 4 yards to go on a Bill Nieman 10 yard touchdown run. Other than a drive late in the second half capped by Bob Raheit Delta Sig's offense could not show.

Phi Ep showed a fine defensive stand by holding off for four plays on their own one yard line.

KAPPA TAU 13 TEO 0 9/24

KT kicked off the 1972 season with another win. With Joe O'Hara at the helm KT chalked up 13 points. Joe completed a 30 yard pass to Steve S. (Frog) and a 15 yarder to center like Heffelman. Carl Wicks added the extra point. The KT offense was sparked by two interceptions, one by Paul Farrell and the other by five year veteran Carl Chudak.

TE's offense was sparked in the first half under the leadership of QB Bob Bakerman.

PHI SIG 13 PHI EP 0 9/24

The game was dominated by a fine aerial attack led by veteran QB Mike Carrigan. If it had not been for 3 illegal procedure penalties Carrigan would have had a total of 5 TD passes for the day. Instead he had to settle for only 2. The first a 35 yard bomb to wide receiver Brann Lombardo and the second coming on a 10 yard swing pass in the closing seconds to blocking back Larry Jonas.

Other fine performances were put in by Phi Sig's Mark Gohlich and Phi Ep's captain Larry Niblo who staked a second half Phi Sig drive with an interception.

TKE 30 PHI SIG 0 9/25

It was a long afternoon for the brothers of Phi Sigma Nu. As they never even got a first down or crossed mid field. Yes it was all TKE from the opening kick-off. They just overpowered the much smaller Phi Sig team offensively and defensively. Much credit must go to the very aggressive front three of the TKE defense. Sam Abbo, Ken Furley, and Ed Shultz as they spent the greater part of the game with QB Mike Carrigan in their arms.

On offense it was much of the same thing. As TKE's QB Gary Cohen had his pick of receivers. Hitting Mountain Lyons more times than we could count. The only problem TKE seemed to have all afternoon was keeping Bob Feldman away from Cohen as he got to Cohen six times in the course of the game. But that was their only problem as they finally wrapped up this very one sided affair 30-0.

BETA 10 TEP 0 9/24

Beta showing an explosive offense in their season opener downed an alert TEP Sunday. The score came in the last 15 seconds of play on a long pass from QB-Bob Devana to Trigg Spinetto. Beta's line allowed QB Devana to take his time.
