Dean Kurtz Resigns Takes Position At Brown

It was learned yesterday that Anderson Kurtz, Dean of Student Life, is leaving Bryant College. He has accepted a position of Assistant Dean of Student Affairs at Brown University.

Dean Kurtz has been associated with Bryant College for two years. During his sojourn here he has developed a rapport with students and has given the student body a youthful identity with the Administration.

His one regret about Bryant was his inability to increase the number of blacks at Bryant including faculty, students, and administrators.

Bryant Resorts To The Mass Media

In an attempt to reach a wider group of students, the Bryant College Evening Division has begun an extensive newspaper and radio campaign. This was done, according to Mr. Cartwright, Head of the Evening Division, to attract new students from the Worcester area.

To accomplish this, two ads were taken out in The Worcester Telegraph Gazette, and fifty one-minute ads were purchased from WAAF Radio. The radio commercials, although approved by the school, were written by the staff at the station.

In his explanation, Mr. Cartwright stated the reasoning behind the use of radio. He said that the actual cost for radio was almost equal to that of the newspapers, plus he felt he could attract a larger audience and a more responsive group by using this medium, through the use of this medium.

The ads were run during the peak commuting times and lunch hours and once an hour for this entire week. Students can draw their own conclusions of the ads by monitoring WAAF this week.

Although no conclusive results have been received yet, the Evening Division feels that the program was effective and will be continued in the future.

Jon Frede Named New Editor-In-Chief

Jon Frede has been named as the new Editor-In-Chief of the ARCHWAY after Rob Rounds turned in his official resignation yesterday, September 7, 1972, to the Editorial Board of the newspaper.

Rob stated that after a careful and thorough weighing of his priorities, he feels he could no longer afford the amount of time necessary to carry out the burdensome duties of the Editor in the proper manner.

Dr. Fullerton New Vice President Of Student Affairs

Dr. Barry A. Fullerton, 37, a native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was elected Vice-President for Student Affairs by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees at Bryant College, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Harry Evarts, President.

Dr. Fullerton earned his undergraduate degree at Michigan State University, his master’s and doctor’s degrees at the Pennsylvania State University. He served three years with the United States Marine Corps, retiring with the rank of Captain. As a teacher and administrator, he also signed a professional contract with the Philadelphia Phillies baseball organization where he played for one year before returning to the field of education.

After serving as Assistant to the Dean of Men at Penn State University, he became Dean of Student Affairs in 1966 at Dean Junior College in Franklin, Mass., from which institution he comes to Bryant College.

Dr. Fullerton taught psychology and conducted seminars on adolescent behaviour modification, and drug abuse during his career at Dean. He also served as co-chairman of the Franklin, Mass. Bay United Fund Drive and on the Board of Governors of the Franklin Young Democrats. He was a Sunday School Teacher at the Franklin United Methodist Church.

Elected the first president of the New England Junior College Student Personnel Association, he was also selected as a member of the visiting evaluation team for the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Mr. Fullerton has conducted several Student Personnel Institutes for Junior College organizations and is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association and the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

The object of a three-month search, the Vice-Presidential Committee consisted of an administrator, two faculty members and two students. John P. Hannan, Director of Library Services, served as Chairman assisted by Professors Mary Jane Pelkey and Frederick W. Reinhardt, and students Kathleen A. Grimes of Pawtucket and Ronald F. Janey of Providence. Dr. Fullerton was one of more than 400 applicants screened for this position.

Dr. Fullerton is married to the former Helen Howard of Pittsburgh and lives with his wife and two children, Holly Leigh, 5 years and Kurt Alan, 3 years, in Franklin, Mass.
Coffee House To Open Friday

Country Comfort opens its season this weekend with live, entertainment both Friday and Saturday night. The Coffee House will feature "Colette," a folk jazz trio on Friday night at 8:30; Saturday night at 8:00. "Colette" will perform.

Everyone is welcome to drop in, kick off their shoes and mellow out to some of the best music the coffee house has ever presented. If you mellow out too much we guarantee you'll wake up by the following weekend when "Brilliant Corners" a rock-jazz group hits the stage and the place starts jumping. "Brilliant Corners" will perform September 15 and 16 at 8:30.

If the sight of concrete, glass and steel starts to wear on your mind, take a trip to the coffee house for a little country living.

This year at the coffee house should prove to be very entertaining, not to mention economical. The admission charge is only 25 cents for an evening of entertainment. For this small fee, you will see top dollar groups. How can we do it? It isn't easy! We even considered charging 25 cents to get in and $2.00 to get out, but we're not capitalists.

We conned the administration out of a good budget (thank you, Administration). Plan to drop in this weekend for some good music and refreshments; and if you like the atmosphere, and want to lend a hand, we need people to help out. The staff of the coffee house welcomes you to another year at Bryant and Country Comfort and wishes you the best of luck because you're going to need it.

Signing up for Army ROTC in college is no big deal. No major commitment. All we'd like you to do is give it a try. Take the Basic Course during your freshman and sophomore years. See what it's all about. You'll find that it's only a few hours a week.

That's not going to get in the way of classes, study, sports or other activities. At the end of your sophomore year you'll know for sure.

If you decide to go on with the ROTC Advanced Course you'll be paid $100 a month during your last two years of school.

You'll also be earning your degree and commission at the same time. It's even possible for you to go on to graduate school. Then serve as an officer later. Check out ROTC now.

What You've Always Wanted To Have—But Were Afraid Would Never Be Made

(AFS) The largely worthless "rhythm method" for natural contraception may soon receive a badly needed technological boost.

British inventors have just patented a device that can detect the exact time of ovulation in the female body. Identifying the ovulation date could potentially take the guessing out of the only means of contraception that doesn't actually alter bodily functions.

The new device consists of a meter which detects minute differences of electric potential between various parts of the human body. It works in the same way as a car battery tester, but much more sensitively. Under normal circumstances, voltage in the vagina is negative, and the difference in electric potential between the vagina and even other parts of the body, such as the leg, is about minus ten to minus twenty-five millivolts (thousandths of a volt). At the time of ovulation, however, the vagina's voltage falls to zero or becomes positive.

The device (British patent No. 1 268 183) contains electronic circuitry which illuminates one of two indicator lamps: if the voltage is negative (that is, normal), the lamp marked "GO" lights up, but if the voltage is zero or positive, the "DANGER" lamp blinks.

The proposed gadget would likely be easy to use, since it consists of only two electrodes and an on/off switch. One electrode is a narrow strip applied to the leg or lower abdomen, the other a probe to be inserted in the vagina. The device could be used once or twice a day, if the warning light flashed, users could abstain for two or three days to avoid conception. To be truly safe, though, the cycle might have to be checked against a calendar, and checked rather carefully so that, since sperm can live up to two days within the body.

The electrode contraction should be perfectly harmless, since no changes would be made in the body—it merely measures a natural characteristic. This could also be a selling point in the jumble of doctrinaire theology, since no physical intervention occurs in the process of conception.

NOEL FOR GOVERNOR

Rhode Island, will run for Governor.

WANTED: The Young Democrats of Rhode Island need volunteer secretaries. Anyone interested in assisting in the Rhode Island campaign can call Ann Crowley at 421-1972.
somebody is wantonly destroying a dorm or anything else, quite simply he's going to pay for it one way or the other, a person or persons involved in it. It's inappropriate, it's silly, it's stupid and you kind of have to deal with that kind of behavior in a fairly firm way, and that's what we intend to do.

RF - I am sure that by now you have had a chance to tour the dormitory village and see the wanton damage. In your opinion, what can be done and what will be done to deter students from damaging school property?

BF - Probably the best thing that we can do is make it an undesirable situation for anybody that presents us with that kind of a problem. In other words, if a person feels it in his pocketbook for the damage that he's done and if he is disciplined appropriately, then I think, and I'm not suggesting this hasn't been in the past, I really don't know if it's been done in the past or not, but my philosophy is one of having only absolutely necessary rules but enforcing as close to possible these necessary rules so if somebody is wantonly destroying a dorm.

If the residence hall staff, I think they should be very carefully screened. I think they should be the best people around. These are very sensitive jobs. Counseling, and I know that I'm going to be taken to task for this statement, but counseling is not the principle responsibility of these people. Counseling is for professional counselors, psychologists, psychiatrists, etc. I think that one of the things that as I look around Bryant right now that I'm concerned with is the development of an in-hall counseling center, and I would say that one of my objectives is to push for and hopefully get approval for the development of a counseling center where actual clinical counseling can be taken place, but as far as the residence halls are concerned, we are trying to view these people with a variety of degree of expertise because many of these things was in the area of residence hall staffs, performance, evaluation, and so forth, so I'm not saying that I'm an expert of residence hall staff and the kinds of things that they should be doing. I view the residence hall program, by the way, as probably one of the most important programs on the entire campus, I know that the counselors have been short-changed and I don't think we're going to short change them anymore. In fact, I am suggesting that each commuter encouraging him to become involved in the school and the person, I am bringing in to replace Dean Dehner will be developing considerable time to the commuting student program here at the Smithfield campus and probably one of the most important problems, as I say, of the students are not happy with their living situation if they have a problem with roommates or quality of residential life, we are losing an awful lot and I don't think that we're going to lose it so we are going to put in an awful lot of time and effort in the whole area of residence halls and try and make them something less than, I heard a guy give a speech once and he said, you should make residence halls as underprivileged homes in which people were thrown aside with no stimulation, no nothing and boy, I think we want to try and avoid at all costs. It will be to a good living experience for the student and it is the direction that we want to go, necessarily problems brought on by the administration. It was more or less problems brought on by the residence halls. Let me give you an example, if a student is in a group of other students let's say this one does not agree with the residence halls, in the past there was little way that the other student could contact someone to talk about it. He was not interested, felt as if he had been turned loose and he had acted just a little bit different from everyone else and many times they don't want to talk, they don't have problems they wouldn't want to come out and talk about them.

BF - Well, I think I agree. I think what I was eluding to is that we have to create an environment in which people will feel free to talk and to take some action. As John Lindsay said several years ago, just 'give a damn,' that's what it is all about. If everybody gives a damn then we are in good shape.

RF - In the past, motorized vehicles have been allowed up on the campus dorm village green in order that students will be able to drive their own cars near their dorm, but this has created quite a number of nuisances to the green. Will they be any change in the existing policy?

BF - Most definitely, we have been sitting here looking out over my shoulder at fairly expensive landscaping and outside maintenance projects going on right now and I think that the university is more keeping with the actual wants of the students and I think that the deans are more concerned to be engaged in filling up tire ruts and all this sort of stuff so the given substance of my answer is no, they will not be permitted made any more and those that choose to do it in violation of this policy will undoubtedly wish that they hadn't done this also. It's unnecessary, it's expensive and it creates some inconveniences but for example, I'm sitting here looking at the trash and not everybody can. To have to carry something all the way up to the garbage, the farthest one: 5, 6, 3 and 4, something like that, that's a long haul, but that doesn't give you any special privilege to drive over the grass and knock down the stone walls and tear up the seeding and so forth. No, it's unnecessary again and we hope that we can effectively put an end to it without offending anybody hoping to get the cooperation of everybody involved making them realize that the destruction they are causing is the expense that they are causing the school and you can't blacktop the whole area and go and live in an asphalt jungle so we are going to try everything as hard as we can to keep them off in a fair and hopefully a humane way.

RF - The policy of the use of drugs on this campus was set down by Doctor Evans. It called for strict regulation and punishment when deemed necessary. However, in the past, those who were turned in by resident assistants were merely given a slap on the wrist and were sent on their way. Will there be any change?

BF - It's very difficult to generalize how you would handle a particular incident, but I would say that any person who violates the laws or our college regulation be they drug regulations or other kinds of regulations when they are going to have to answer for these and I said before I am not a believer in having a three thousand page volume of rules and regulations most of which you can't enforce so if we have a rule on the books, it will be enforced, and that applies to every area drugs included.

RF- Let me set an example for you, a hypothetical case. Let's say a student is found with a nickel bag of marijuana in his room and the resident assistant

BRYANT WELCOMES NEW STUDENTS
My best friend is going to prison in five days. We don’t know exactly where he’ll go. There’s a Missouri or Michigan or Minnesota. But it will be a war-time prison, probably. We do know that he’ll be in six months—180 days. And nights. We don’t know what he’ll be doing; what he’ll be remembering or forgetting; if he will be permitted to read out in the night. We don’t know what he’ll be doing; what he’ll be remembering or forgetting; if he will be permitted to read our letters in their entirety, or censored, or at all. We do know that he’ll be separated from his wife and family, the few people he cares about, his job and his education. And why? Because he refused to stop for war. Or because he stepped forward.

After being denied conscientious objector deferment, he was drafted. On induction day, he refused to sign the registration form and said he would rather serve his country in another manner. No, he’s going to prison.

At his sentencing two days ago, he stood before the judge in a routine Monday morning courtroom appearance. There were bigger things to adjudicate than the problems of a routine resister, and his sentencing took only a few short minutes. But the judge—one of the más liberal men-made himself perfectly clear as he handed out the standard sentence: “You are hereby sentenced to six months in a federal institution and to 18 additional months on probation.”

I’ve thought a lot about that since Monday. I don’t know what “serving one’s country” means anymore.

I have seen quadriceps—paralyzed from their necks down—who wear the living scars forever to remember how they “served their country.” I have seen pictures of corpses of men who had “served their country.” And I have seen men making decisions concerning the sincerity of others—judges, probation officers, members of draft boards—who are serving these men’s country.

My friend doesn’t fit the stereotype of draft resister. He would never think of leaving the country, because he likes this country. He wants to serve this country—but in a way in which he can feel comfortable. Until he goes off to prison, he’ll continue delighted that they’ve given him a public service position helping blind people. So he has been serving his country, but in many ways he’s turned into a step so he can serve his country in prison.

It all seemed so illogical. My friend is mild and gentle and sincere. Old military men have written letters to draft boards attesting to this. His father—a military educator—has vouched for his son’s sincerity. He has good credentials. But he broke the law.

At the sentencing, he was given one week to “get things in order.” Perhaps the judge should have given this country some time to “get things in order.” Like priorities. I can’t help but question the legitimacy of a country that puts men on trial to test their pacifism, their sincerity, their degree of opposition to a war. They did this to my friend. And he lost. I can’t help wondering if there’s a difference between serving our country and service our country. Why must someone’s personal convictions lead to convictions?

I guess I’m thinking about this now because I just talked to him on the phone. He’s at work now, finishing up some final projects. He’s delighted that they’ve promised to give him his job back when he returns. But a strange thing has happened to him; he’s turned into a martyr. Not in his own eyes, but in the eyes of people he rarely talks to who’ve suddenly dropped over, invited him for dinner and turned his six-month sentence into cheap radical chic, with my friend in the role of foldover, invited him for dinner and turned his six-month sentence into cheap radical chic, with my friend in the role of folk hero. They are treating him with the same indignity and the same personality that the judge did.

I don’t know what any of this means. But I keep thinking of the letter my friend wrote to his parents, who live in Italy. “By the time you read this, I’ll be in prison.”

By the time you read this, my friend will be in prison. Where will we be?

Marijuana And Poppy Fields
To Be Detected By Satellite

(CPS) — Marijuana and opium poppy fields are soon to be detected by an earth resources satellite that is scheduled to be launched this spring, according to a recent Associated Press story.

The orbiting satellite, scheduled for launching in May or June, will be capable of detecting pot or poppy fields from 100 miles up, says AP.

Quoting Dr. Robert H. Miller, the Agriculture Department, which AP says is operating in the project, three large fields of marijuana will be grown for the test, simulating different soils and climates of the world. He said they would probably be located in Arizona, with a moderate climate; the Arizona desert, and warm, moist Florida.

The object of the one-year project, using $2 million AP says was allocated by the Justice Department’s Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, is to determine the “signature” of the marijuana plant.

The signature is the pattern by which a plant reflects heat and light during various phases of growth and under different soil and climate conditions.

“Even with an established signature we won’t be able to detect relatively small crops of marijuana,” Miller said in the AP interview. “But we should be able to spot large growths.” Miller also said the project may also involve signature determination of the opium poppy, the source of such drugs as morphine, cocaine, and heroin.

However, spokesmen for both the Department of Agriculture and the Justice Department’s Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs deny the story’s validity.

“We do not have any program to use satellites to spot marijuana, nor are we spending $2 million to detect marijuana,” said a spokesman for the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs’ Office of Scientific Support.

The Agriculture Department spokesman said pretty much the same thing: “The Department of Agriculture does not have a remote sensing program to search for marijuana in the United States.”

Dr. Robert H. Miller, who AP claimed to be directly involved in the program, according to his office, “is in Arizona and cannot be reached by telephone.”
