A team of four Bryant College senior accounting majors recently competed in the regional competition of the Arthur Andersen Tax Challenge held at New York University, one of nine locations around the country hosting the Challenge. The results are in and the Bryant Tax Challenge Team has been selected as one of ten finalists for this year's Tax Challenge National Competition to be held November 22-24 in St. Charles, Illinois.

The Northeast teams which competed in New York, Bryant's team is the only one to advance to the finals. Congratulations to team members Brian Moran, Andrew Pratt, Christopher Quinn, and Chad West.

Arthur Andersen will fly the Bryant Tax Team to Chicago, where Limousine Service, compliments of Arthur Andersen, will be waiting to take the team to St. Charles. Once in St. Charles, Bryant's team will compete for scholarship opportunities against teams from Brigham Young University, California State Polytechnic University, College of William and Mary, Saint Louis University, The University of Akron, Thomas Moore College of Minnesota, University of Wisconsin, University of North Carolina-Charlotte.

Tax Challenge is the leading intercollegiate competition for accounting students. At the competition, the national team of students will present solutions based on an analysis of the business and personal financial activities of a fictitious taxpayer.

The regional competition case required students to review a tax return for a prior year and comment on errors in the return; prepare a detailed federal income tax liability projection; discuss tax planning options for the fictitious taxpayer; and prepare three brief memos on tax implications and planning options on various issues and alternatives the fictitious taxpayer was facing or considering. Each team was allowed seven hours to complete the case. Participants were provided with the internal revenue code, the income tax regulations, pencils, erasers, and a bottle of aspirin.

Bryant's success in this event started with the strong foundation team members received in their introductory tax course. As additional preparation for this event, Bryant team members developed their own problems and solutions based on a list of potential tax challenge topics. Additionally, team members met several times to work tax cases. An important part of the preparation for this event was for the team members to learn to work effectively as a group. By working together as a cohesive group, the team was able to complete a 37 page solution at the regional competition.

Robert A. Provost, 60, of Indian Trail, an accounting professor here at Bryant for 30 years, died Friday, October 31, at the County Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Delores (Ogara) Provost. Born in Attleboro, Mass., the son of the late Arthur and Eunice (Larochelle) Provost, he lived in Narragansett since 1969, previously living in Warwick.

Mr. Provost was a CPA and a CFE (certified fraud examiner). He developed and was coordinator of the CPA review program at Bryant. He was previously a senior accountant at Price Waterhouse from 1961 to 1964, and a controller at Brownell & Field Co. from 1964 to 1967. Provost was a 1961 graduate of the University of Rhode Island. He was a member of the Rhode Island Society of CPAs and the American Institute of CPAs. He was an Air Force veteran of the Korean War.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son, Mark Provost of Coventry; three daughters, Nadine M. Provost and Nicole M. Provost, both of Narragansett, and Noelle M. Levine of Seekonk, Mass.; and a granddaughter. A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, November 4, at St. Dominican, Providence, with a Mass of Christian Burial at 10 a.m. at 6 St. Dominic Avenue. Burial will be in Gate of Heaven Cemetery, East Providence.

Sandra D. Langford, 52, of Farmington, was the postmaster at Bryant for 23 years, died Sunday, November 3, in Rhode Island Hospital. She was the widow of Alfred H. Langford Jr., and had been suffering from varying degrees of cancer for the past two years. Born in Providence, she was one of eight children of Marjorie E. (O'Donnell) Mounford of Smithfield and the late Donald W. Mounford. She was a lifelong resident of Smithfield and a communicant of St. Philip Church.

Sandy's devotion to her job and to Bryant was evident in her everyday performance. As stated by Madeline Housle, her co-worker of thirteen years, "Like the post office motto, through rain, sleet and snow, we were here." Sandy trained the students who were hired to work in the post office, a favor which many of them did not forget. Oftentimes students would call or visit years after they had graduated from Bryant. According to Irene Lanaway of the post office staff, "The students were very important to her." Madeline and Irene recalled a time when the three of them transported bag upon bag full of groceries to discharge student workers. Accompanied by David Simpson, Constance Houghton, Betty Saxton, the kids (in the post office) have worked hard but have been treated well."

Besides her mother, Ms. Langford leaves a son, Sean M. Gallagher of North Providence; a daughter, Kacy M. Pimentel of North Scituate; four brothers, Michael P. Mounford and Kevin W. Mounford, both of Smithfield, Donald W. Mounford Jr. of Barry, VT, and Chet L. Mounford of Providence; three sisters, Sheila D. Turner of Gloucester, Donna C. Comfort of Smithfield, and Jill A. Masso of Scituate, and two grandsons. She was the companion of Raymond Martini of Pawtucket.

REALITY CHECK

La la la...I just love to study. I live to study; books are my life. Exam here, exam there, and soon an exam everywhere. When not studying, it’s my chance to work. Money makes the world go round and pays the bills in a suitable manner. Money and studying together make my life complete. I could ask for nothing more. If the genie were to pop out of some old lamp right now, I would sacrifice my three wishes to some unfortunate soul who hasn’t yet discovered this wonderful meaning of life. Quite simply, life couldn’t be any better. And then something happens to make my whole philosophy on life go up in smoke; someone dies. It happens every day, but the effect of such a spontaneous occurrence can never really be determined until it happens to someone who means a lot to you. There’s no way to prepare yourself for death; the true grief is not realized until the bitter end has come.

Looking back on this calendar year, I’ve noticed a very peculiar trend; Bryant students, alumni, faculty, and support staff populations have all had a significant (more than one) number of deaths. What’s incredibly unfortunate is the young ages at which most of them had left us; the odds should have been in their favor.

Having never lost any relatives or friends throughout my youth, it came as a shock to me when I read about someone who had seen everyday life suddenly die. It sobered me up a lot to witness losses within the community, life was no longer about success or failure, but more about realizing people’s mortality. As I read the death notices in my mailbox, I couldn’t help but regret never really knowing who the people were. Perhaps I had missed out on something in not ever hearing him or her speak, laugh, or cry.

And so the trend continues, carrying on its pattern outside the limits of the Tupper Campus. Something about this year is making many a lives morbid and pale. As a preparation for what is to come, soon after tomorrow. Mauricio Beltran Restrepo, and countless others related to Bryant had died, the first death in my family (during my lifetime, anyway) occurred, leaving a horribly vacant hole somewhere deep inside of me. Remembering the last time we had spoken was a distant but familiar memory, and I suddenly wished to be back at that moment in time, in just to savor what I had already lost. But how was I to know them when I know now? How is anybody to ever realize that everybody and everybody is a treasure? Life itself makes you forget. To spend your whole life in retrograde, that would be a horrible thing; nothing would ever be accomplished. But to enjoy the time you spend as a living human being is a choice you have. Don’t left such an opportunity—your only opportunity—go to waste.

CORRECTIONS

Last week, an article entitled “10 questions: An interview with Jill Quatrale” incorrectly identified Jill as being from the Phi Sigma Sigma sorority. She is actually in Theta Phi Alpha. Sorry, Jill.

Caption puts a damper on success

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing after having read F.J. Talley’s “International Flavor” article in the 10/24/96 edition of The Archway.

The International Student Organization worked very diligently to pull off such a successful United Nation’s Festival.

I was initially pleased to see their efforts recognized by F.J. Talley’s “Corner,” only to be disappointed to see the incorrect caption beneath the photograph on the left. It states: “Many students gather around the Japan table at the United Nations Festival...” The students in the photograph, as well as the flag on the table, are from South Korea.

Whoever wrote this caption obviously did not visit the table or the table from Japan to learn more about South Korea and Japan. This is, unfortunately, another example of how racial stereotypes are frequently made without full knowledge of the people they allege to represent. If we are truly going to “internationalize” our campus and demonstrate respect for peoples from other parts of the world, we all must make a more sincere effort to learn about these cultures and be more careful with making generalizations.

I would think that a correction to the caption is in order and that an apology to the students featured should be made.

Very truly yours,

Julie Nora
Academic Coordinator

NOTE FROM THE EDITOR: I do apologize—seeing as it is and was my sole responsibility to ensure that the material printed each week is correct—to all those whom I have offended with an incorrect caption. Thank you, Ms. Nora, for alerting myself to this embarrassing error.

THANK YOU, PROFESSORS!

Two years ago, on November 15, 1994, Billie Jean Sanders questioned on Bryant why she or anyone else should pursue a liberal education. Either Bryant is super slow or else it took two professors two years to arrive to her question on e-mail. Last week, Professors Luther and Camp answered her question in The Archway. Astrologers assure us that many of the brightest stars that sparkle take years to reach the earth.

The above aside, their answer was mixed. Professor Luther, as always, provided clear thoughts which deeply influence our student life on the campus. His suggestion was highly relevant and precise.

The same cannot be said about Professor Camp. He took off on a tangent and explained how a friend of his who studied sociology like Professor Carter loved “hawk­ing with the Saudi King.” Unless he meant “bird watch­ing,” I must say that such cruel sports does not do justice to a liberal education. He described our Board of Trustees as a bunch of narrowly trained “business people” and expressed surprise that a Rhode Island CEO, whom he knows personally, is both “smart and intellectual.”

He claimed that he was a big help for Exxon at the US Department of Agriculture. Since when is gas an agricultural commodity? Since Ronald Reagan described ketchup as a vegetable?

Finaly, he teased Billie Jean, a business major: “What do you do if you are narrowly trained and when you graduate you find there aren’t any jobs in your field?” Starve? For perhaps she’ll go hawking with him.

Yours truly,

Jannie Second
VANDALISM

October 25, 1996 - While students were returning from off-campus, a light pole in the townhouse village was pulled down. This was spotted by a DPS officer walking from the C-41 to the townhouses. An electrician had to be called in to work on the exposed live wires. The amount of damage was over $600. An investigation is underway. A previous and similar incident has recently been solved with the guilty party having to appear in court for their crime. Monetary restitution will be the first step in the process.

VANDALISM

October 25, 1996 - In the Bryant Center second floor ladies' room, three soap dispensers were torn from the wall. No suspects have been found at this time.

VANDALISM (TAMPERING WITH FIRE SAFETY EQUIPMENT)

October 26, 1996 - A student was seen discharging a fire extinguisher outside their suite window. When questioned, he admitted doing it. The student was cooperative. The custodial crew from the Bryant Center was called, and they cleaned the dry chemical. Charges were filed.

DRUG VIOLATION/ALCOHOL VIOLATION

October 26, 1996 - Officers responded to a resident's report of the smell of marijuana. DPS noticed that the suspect had one bag of marijuana in plain-view. Several bottles of alcohol were also noted. The drugs and alcohol were confiscated and destroyed. Charges have been filed.

VANDALISM

October 27, 1996 - A student reported that the main suite door in one of the residence halls was vandalized. The fire door was left hanging off its back hinges. The student also reported that cigarettes were missing from the suite. DPS is investigating this crime.

FIRE ALARM-FALSE

October 30, 1996 - Students in a residence hall block a heat vent. The blockage redirected the heat to the heat sensors in their bedroom. It caused the heat sensor to go off. The blockage was removed. The students in that room were fined for causing the alarm to go off.

FIRE ALARM-TRUE

November 3, 1996 - DPS responded to an alarm in the dorm village. A check of the hall found that a fire extinguisher had been discharged in the laundry room. All rooms were checked and several students were still sleeping. The building was cleared. After the dry chemical dissipated, the alarm was reset and all units were cleared. The alarm was ruled as malicious.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

Public Safety would like to remind the Students not to cover the heat vents in any way, including curtains, towels, etc. Covering these vents could in itself create a fire hazard. If your room is too hot, please call Physics Plant at X6052 during the daytime hours or Public Safety at X6001 after hours to have your heat turned down. Thank you!

VANDALISM - While most students do not vandalize, those who do create a great deal of damage. Last year, the cost of vandalism on campus was well over $100,000. Vandalism is a crime. Do not allow others to vandalize your campus. Please report vandalism.

The Public Safety Office is sponsored in part by DPS and Students For A Safe Campus in order to comply with the Federal Students Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act. A fine of up to $500 is assessed for each incident. The director of Public Safety, Mr. George Coronado, is available every Wednesday from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m. in the Bryant Center Conference room, B1, to discuss any issues with students. Mr. Coronado is also available at other times. Call 322-6000.

Fire Safety Information:

To the Bryant Community:

Tampering with life safety equipment has become a problem on campus. There have been three incidents regarding discharged fire extinguishers in the Residence Halls in the last two weeks. The safety of each student is of paramount concern to the college, and we have formulated specific rules and regulations pertaining to fire and safety issues. Please be advised that tampering with any fire alarm or fire protection system will result in your being held financially responsible for any damages to Bryant property. Along with financial responsibility, you may be fined and disciplined. Should the circumstances warrant it at the time, you could be placed under arrest for tampering with life safety systems and equipment.

The following is the fine structure to discourage misuse of fire safety equipment. Within the Rhode Island fire law, the Interference with Fire Alarm Apparatus and Equipment states that "every person who unlawfully and without just cause wilfully or knowingly, tampers with or interferes with, or in any way impairs any public fire alarm apparatus, wires or associated equipment shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $5,000, imprisoned for not less than 1 nor more than 5 years, or both.

In order to discourage tampering with fire alarm equipment, the college will impose the following fine structures: Tampering with fire extinguishers = $75 fine; missing fire extinguishers = $150 fine; tampering with heat or smoke detectors = $500 fine. Individuals will be held responsible for any of this equipment that may be located in their living areas. The DPS Fire & Safety Coordinator will issue citations to individuals and/or areas that are in violation of the standard regarding Fire Safety. Students will be held accountable for their actions. There is also a $1,000 REWARD for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of any person causing a MALICIOUS FIRE ALARM.

Your cooperation in this matter will ensure the safety of all in the Bryant community. Together we can make this a non-issue on campus.

Application for Special Olympics Directors

Scott Taylor

Bryant College will be the host of the 1997 Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics for Special Olympians, North Eastern Rhode Island. This past summer’s Olympics in Atlanta touched the hearts of many athletes and spectators. Like the Summer Olympics, the Northern Rhode Island Special Olympics creates an overwhelming enthusiasm and strength in the athletes to compete among one another. People from all around the state and within Bryant volunteer their time and effort to make it a success each year. Gain the experience and opportunities of being a leader. Applications for Director and Assistant Directors will be available next week, November 11 – 18, in the Senate Office. They will be due back on in the Senate Office on Monday, November 18, and interviews will be on the evening of Wednesday, November 20.

If you have any questions, please contact myself, Scott Taylor, at x6000, or the Senate Office at x6721.

Black and Gold Night = $10,000

The $10,000 Shot Is Just One Of Many Contests Planned As Bryant “Tips-Off” the Basketball Season Tomorrow Night

What would you do with $10,000? You should plan your investments now because if you make the mystery shot, $10,000 will be yours. No strings attached!

Do not forget to turn in your stamped Bulldog Sports Card at Black and Gold Night to have an even better chance at winning prizes. If, for some reason, you never had your card stamped, do not worry. We have a FREE SKY GIVE, gift certificates, CD’s, tickets, Bulldog Gear, and much more. Everyone can win.

Register for the $10,000 shot from 6:45 p.m. up until the end of halftime of the game featuring the Bryant Women’s Basketball Team against the Nor’ester Storm (USA Basketball affiliate). Buy as many tickets in a single entry at only one dollar each for a chance at getting your name drawn for a shot to win.

Following the basketball game, the madness will begin. First, the disk jockey will introduce the dance performance of Rhythm and Pride. The word is that this talented group puts on a great show – do not miss them! Second, the disk jockey will talk us through the Three-Point Challenge in which everyone is eligible to participate. There will be two brackets consisting of students and faculty. The winner of the two brackets will then challenge President Maschietti for bragging rights. Third, Zeta Phi Beta will stun the crowd with another “don’t miss” dance performance. Next on the agenda in the Fresh Hoops match-up. Come watch the ’97 Fresh Hoops champions take on the ‘00 champions to see who should really hold the title. Also, Bryant’s own High Spirits will showcase their much-talked-about act. If you have not had a chance to see this band perform around campus, you do not want to miss this opportunity.

And, of course, a party would not be a party without DJ Niko performing his always masterful mix of music. If you have trouble finding the main gym, follow the bass.

Contests, prizes, and a costume contest will be displayed for entertainment. Can you feel the excitement already? The season only just beginning! Come to Black and Gold Night and walk away with prizes and a great evening.

Residence Life Community Service Teams: Reaching out to care and scare

Kevin Hearn

In an effort to meet and respond to the various and changing issues residents have, Residence Life runs a continuous training program for their resident assistants. Each week, speakers from on and off campus address topics from multi-cultural awareness to crisis intervention. Recently, a community service component has been added to this program which allows them to serve the interests of the Bryant community. Having contacted numerous resources, the staff chose two activities in which they could contact groups in the surrounding area. At St. Philip’s, they assisted the parish youth organization at their annual Halloween Haunted Woods. Working as guides, these volunteers helped to raise over three hundred dollars for the organization and its future activities for the parish youth. At both sites, the staff’s sense of commitment to provide for a community in need. Making friends, having fun, and serving their community, the Bryant Residence Life Community Service Team has been able to show their genuine concern and respect, which each Bryant student should have for their communities and neighbors.

10 Questions: An interview with Brian Willinsky

Kenneth Wakefield

Brian Willinsky is a Sophomore Senator and the Speaker of the Council for the Student Senate. He was an orientation leader last summer and is a peer educator.

Kenneth Wakefield: When did you first notice your leadership skills?

Brian Willinsky: I first noticed my leadership ability while I was in high school. I was the Class President for all four years. The event that really helped move forward in this area was the Hugh O’Brien seminar, which took during my sophomore year (in high school). It included student leaders from all over the state of Connecticut and had a very large influence on the way I thought about leadership.

Kenneth Wakefield: What is the most important event you have led in your life?

Brian Willinsky: I think WBC would have to be the Community Leadership Educational Workshop. We did it in high school two years in a row (my junior and senior years). It was put together by three other students and myself for the sophomores. It was the very first thing like this in Connecticut run entirely by students. It pushed for this idea because I think the label ‘Generation X’ is nothing to be afraid of. Not everybody in our age range has the ideals of the ‘Generation Xers,’ and it is clear that we all get along better by watching people of a different age and current generation. How do you feel being a student leader has affected your life?

Brian Willinsky: I am not sure if I have noticed any change in myself. I think I have been a bit more responsible (or as my friends would say, a bit more uptight) since I have been a leader. I feel that I have had a much better understanding of what it means to be an effective leader. It has helped me to lead others in a way that they would be more efficient in their work. I have also learned to be a better speaker. At the end of the day, I am more comfortable with speaking.

Kenneth Wakefield: What are some of the ways you improve your leadership skills?

Brian Willinsky: I take a lot of constructive criticism and use it to my benefit. I ask my friends to be honest about what I do and how I could do it better.

Brian Willinsky: I take a lot of constructive criticism and use it to my benefit. I ask my friends to be honest about what I do and how I could do it better.

Kenneth Wakefield: Who is your hero and why?

Brian Willinsky: Hugh O’Brien. He is a famous actor from the 60’s and 70’s known from westerns. He is a ‘good guy’ and is known from his Youth Foundation seminar that is all in 50 states. It is set up for sophomores in high schools because he feels that this is the critical time for young leaders.

Kenneth Wakefield: What message would you give to potential leaders?

Brian Willinsky: I would go for anything that comes your way, there is nothing more expensive than regret. Don’t be afraid of failure—only hold back.

Last Thursday, October 29, the Greek Community held a Scholarship Seminar in the Pan­

Greek dining hall, with the assistance of IFC Scholarship Chair, Ian Kennaway, and Panhellenic Scholarship Chair, Jill Lewis, who realized the importance of esthanizing scholarship goals for the community. Some of these goals are raising the overall GPA of the Greek Community above the all-student average, to establish a Faculty of the Year award, and to inform the students of the sources of the Learning Center more readily known and acces­ nible.

Attending the meeting were both the IFC and Panhellenic Executive Boards, along with the President, Scholarship Chair, and Membership Educators from each chapter. To assist in implementing concrete ways to reach these goals, were guest speakers Martha Lewis, President of the Panhellenic Council and Bill Phillips, the Director of Counseling Services. Martha and Bill presented a seminar with a "Scholarship Binder," which is readily available for all Greek members in the Greek Life Office. This binder contains all the available resources of the Learning Center. So, if you have questions; they've got answers. Bill Phillips presented ways in which to better manage our hectic lives and schedules. Both presenters gave the members ways in which to reach their ultimate goals. We'd like to thank them for their efforts and concern for our scholarship goals and objectives. All who were present found the information presented for our own lives and will be able to share this information with the other members of their chapters.

Jill: Was that uptempo?

Jill: No. I got over the bumerabout it and saw through that it was an uptempo song, but I couldn't figure out what that self-out mentality. I have a record on the market, you are in the market and you are in business. Even if you are on some tiny label, there is a bottom line. There are a lot of things that I think should be changed, like how some artists don't try to work really hard and only get a small percentage, and that's the only thing. Bari: As a DJ, I've noticed that several versions or mixes of a song is made for airplay, does Luscious Jackson try to control what is sent out?

Jill: Oh yeah, we mixed the latest radio one ourselves, and then we hired people for some of the others, and if we didn't like them, they didn't go anywhere.

This is not where our interview ended, however. Jill and I continued to talk about the band, their new video for "Naked Eye" (which will be out soon), her interest in reading and teaching about women's spirituality, touring, and a song she wrote about mother nature for the upcoming film. The show itself was wonderful, and I strongly recommend seeing them the next time they are in town. Tune into 88.7 WJMF to hear some cuts off of their album. You won't be disap­

cians, Bari Bendell is the Gen­

Ranger Challenge: Rebranding the "Varsity Sport"

Captain Christopher Granfield, Sergeant Bruce Stufflebean

Being a member of the Ranger Challenge team gives female and male Army ROTC cadets another way to win honors for their college. Ranger Challenge, Army ROTC's "varsity sport," is a series of physical and military skills competitions designed to test the mental and physical ability to work as a team.

Ranger Challenge is a tough, demanding, eight-event competition. Events in the 30-hour, non-stop challenge include a physical fitness test, marksmanship, quickness in building and crossing a rope bridge over a water obstacle, locating designated markers using a compass, disassembling and assembling designated weapons, a written test, hand grenade assault course, and a 10-kilometer road march.

This year's annual competition was held on the 19th and 20th of October at Fort Devens, Massachusetts. The temperature was cold, the wind was blowing hard, and a "Nor'easter" was fast approaching. But the challenge between 21 colleges went on. The tempo of the events was extremely high, teams went straight from one event to the next with "the capstone" event being the 10-kilometer road march.

This road march was supposed to be a marathon, but weather conditions required running in a group and an even pace, resulting in a drop-out run with teams finishing in the forty to fifty minute mark. Despite the decreased competition on Sunday, the Ranger Challenge Team from the University of New Hampshire took top honors. The team representing both Bryant and Providence College was coached by Captain of the Regiment, David Granfield; the team members were Eric Fortin, Steve Gerous, and Tom Starks.

An interesting happening this past year has been the large number of female cadets who have joined the team. What was once an all-male team has grown to include a female cadet. This increase in team size is due to a growing interest in the challenge, a desire to work as a team and the fun that can be found in this experience. It is not uncommon to see female cadets accompanying their male counterparts in the various events, and it is not uncommon to see female cadets competing in the events on their own.

An interesting factor in Ranger Challenge this year is the increased number of female cadets participating in the challenge. This is due to a growing interest in the challenge, a desire to work as a team, and the fun that can be found in this experience.

The Mad Sage takes a name

Myron Gorham

Arcahy Staff Writer

Newly elected Chairperson, he realized that he must have a name. He had abandoned his original name at rebirth. Now he had been rejuvenated, so he needed a name. But what should he call himself? Life could think of nothing, and any old name wouldn't do. He needed something unlike anything the world had seen before; something extraordinary. He wanted his name to be a symbol of the tips of all who would utter it. But his mind was blank.

Walking through the big city, he contemplated a name while absorbing the shock of city life. Rugged old men lined the streets in a daze; it was like they, too, were withered by the city. Cars sped by in a race without end, spewing their noxious fumes into the air, and he had just started breathing again. Crowded side-walks filled with bitterness and confusion. Beggars were being shoved away like annoying bees. The once blond, all beautiful, had been degraded to filth. Burned stores lining each side of the street. Abandoned of the street and blind, the air was filled with the deafening noise and blindness of the city. Hustlers of all sorts stood out in the worn advertisements. And now in this city, he realized, was my name?

He concluded that he needed a name, a new beginning. He knew that he must start with a name, a new name, a name that would express his power and authority.

Six encounters with a wise man

Under the threat of oblivion letters can be given to your demise.

"A rusty key can open the newest door, but only if you first reach it!"

"Though the coconut is hard to open, the fear inside is always more frustrating.

"The sweetest drink is often the most deadly."

"At the center of nothing is always an obscured something.

"In the mouth of madness, a sane voice cries ease."
At half mast

During the past two weeks, Bryant has lowered its flags to half mast because we have lost two members of our campus community—Bob Provost of the Accounting Department and Sandy Langford of the Post Office. The practice of lowering flags to half mast is a Bryant tradition and our way of acknowledging our respect for Bob and Sandy, and so begins the grieving process for the people at Bryant whose lives were touched by this topic today because many of our students have yet to face the death of a relative or other important person in their lives, and I wanted to talk a bit about recognizing the importance of our community members in our lives before we allow them to become distant.

Perhaps I should be clear that this will not be a eulogy for Bob or Sandy, but I think that people at Bryant more qualified to do that. But throughout their years at Bryant and beyond, they knew hundreds or thousands of our community members. Just think about it. How many students has Bob taught accounting principles? And how many committees did he serve on during that time? How many staff people had to ask Sandy (in some cases—like mine—again and again) how to use Federal Express, or how to distribute mass mailings? And how many of us had lunch or casual conversations with them over the years? The impact of their passing will not be felt solely by the Post Office or the Accounting Department, but by all of us, because they were our colleagues and our friends.

Have you ever stopped to think that you are also the colleagues and friends of many faculty members, staff members and other students? Years ago, I remember reading a short description about leadership and relationships. The description talked about taking a block of lead and a block of gold, and touching them together for only a second. When you take them apart, you may look the same, but they’re not. There are molecules of gold on the lead and molecules of lead on the gold. Both blocks are changed forever and will never be the same.

Can you imagine the impact any of us can have by going to school with other students not for a mere second, but for a semester, a year, or four years? Now imagine how the impact we faculty and staff colleagues have over fifteen or twenty years. This impact—the permanent change in our lives as a result of our relationships with others—is what community is all about.

Take the time now to remember how much we are in your life, and acknowledge that. And, all too soon, recognize that you are already important to someone else just as you are important to us. Perhaps the symbol of dropping our flags to half mast for a departed member of our community should be a reminder for us to appreciate the richness of our relationships every day, and not for a minute of any day when we are not cultivating our relationships today.

Experience Monkou

Christopher M. Brainard

Monkou Restaurant, serving Chinese and Polynesian cuisine, is hard to miss with neon signs and vibrant colors. Located at 676 Washington Street on Route 1 in South Attleboro, Monkou's bright and humorous atmosphere ensures customers that a festive and fun dining experience awaits.

Upon entering Monkou, you will be greeted with the bubbling sounds and relaxing sights of a waterfall. While sipping on Chinese tea, one can explore a variety of authentic Chinese and Polynesian dishes that include an array of exotic masks covering the walls. Also, scenic murals add to the ethnic flavor of the restaurant. Bamboo is featured throughout the restaurant, symbolizing strength, longevity and good fortune.

In addition, scenic murals add to the ethnic flavor of the restaurant. Bamboo is featured throughout the restaurant, symbolizing strength, longevity and good fortune. The Rotunda is filled with the fragrance of exotic flowers, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. The restaurant is decorated with traditional Chinese and Polynesian art, adding to the overall ambiance.

Monkou offers a variety of dishes that cater to different tastes and dietary needs. From spicy Szechuan dishes to mild Cantonese fare, there is something for everyone. The menu includes a range of appetizers, soups, entrees and desserts.

The appetizers are a great way to start your meal. Whether it's crispy taro chips, fried dumplings, or a flavorful bowl of wonton soup, there's a appetizer to please even the pickiest of palates. The soups are also a highlight of the menu, offering a variety of flavors and textures to choose from.

The entrees are a must-try at Monkou. From the crispy tofu with sweet and sour sauce to the spicy beef with black bean sauce, there's a dish for every taste. The desserts are equally impressive, with delicious options such as mango sticky rice and black sesame cake.

Monkou Restaurant is a great choice for anyone looking for a unique and authentic dining experience. The menu features a wide variety of dishes, and the restaurant's vibrant atmosphere and friendly staff make it a great spot for a fun night out.
Applications now available for UNCF-Merck Science Fellowships

Program targeted for African American Students pursuing careers in biomedical research

submitted by The College Fund/UNCF

Applications are now available for the UNCF-Merck Science Fellowships. These fellowships are part of a ten-year initiative—known as the UNCF-Merck Science Initiative—funded by Merck & Co., Inc. and administered by The College Fund/UNCF. The goal of the initiative is to expand America’s pool of world class African American biomedical research scientists.

The fellowships are targeted to African American students at both majority and minority college and universities. Students can obtain applications through the chairperson's office of their departments. The application must be postmarked for return to The College Fund/UNCF by January 15, 1997. Veggies & Co.

Each year for the next nine years, scholarship and fellowship awards will be made on a basis of need to 37 students at the undergraduate, graduate, and postdoctoral levels. These awards will be announced in April of 1997. They are:

-Tuition scholarship of up to $25,000
-Two Merck summer internship stipends totaling $10,000
-UNCF-Graduate School Research Dissertation Fellowships

Twelve graduate fellowships will be awarded in 1997. Each fellowship covers a minimum period of 12 months up to a maximum of 24 months of graduate study. Each fellowship includes:

-Fellowship stipend up to $25,000
-Department grant up to $15,000
-UNCF-Merck Postdoctoral Science Research Fellowship

Ten postdoctoral fellowships will be awarded in 1997. Each fellowship covers a minimum period of 12 months up to a maximum of 24 months. Each fellowship includes:

-Fellowship stipend up to $40,000
-Department grant up to $15,000
-UNCF-Merck

Merck & Co., Inc. is a leading research-driven pharmaceutical and services company. Merck discovers, develops, manufactures, and markets a broad range of innovative products to improve human and animal health. The Merck-Medco Managed Care Division manages pharmacy benefits for more than 350 million Americans, encouraging the appropriate use of medicines and providing disease management programs. Throughout these complementary capabilities, Merck works to improve quality of life and lower overall health-care costs.

To date, more than 40,000 African American students have graduated from UNCF colleges and universities across the country. The College Fund/UNCF is a consortium of 40 private, historically black colleges and universities. It is the oldest and most successful minority higher education assistance organization in the country. The College Fund currently administers more than 350 educational programs that give students access to higher education opportunities and strengthen its member colleges. It is ranked first among education and career opportunity.

Bryant Peer Educators meet Mickey Mouse

Beginning Wednesday, November 13, 19 students and Lori Harrison will be traveling to Orlando, Florida. This trip to Orlando is to attend the BACCHUS/GAMMA National Conference, which offers over 70 educational sessions. At this conference, students from 700 colleges and universities across the United States and Canada will gather to share, educate, and learn from one another information about health issues used to create programs on their own campus. Programs like “Alcohol Jeopardy,” “Sexy Jeopardy,” and “Drawing the Shades,” speakers like Bobby Petrillo, Katie Keenster, and Bertice Berry, and programs such as Safe Break Week and 3D Month are all a result of conference attendance. Of the 74 sessions offered, the facilitation of CHOICES (Choosing Healthy Options & Competitive Environments) will be presenting a program that they offered to the athletic teams at Bryant.

In addition to attending the programs, the Bryant students will be attending an awards banquet on Saturday evening in hopes of receiving awards:

-Chapter of the Year
-Peer Theater of the Year: “Drawing the Shades”
-Program of the Year: “Coffee Talk”

The students representing Bryant College are as follows:

Peer Educators - Sean Kenny, James Warner, Brian Willinsky, Christine Vazquez

CHOICES - Dotte Beattie, Alison Gerard, Allison Maloney, Stephanie Zangana

JAMM - John Adam, Heidi Giblin, Stacy Keesey, Charles Roth

BACCHUS - Lauren Dabkowski, Kyllyn Laramore, Brenda Petrone, Colleen Sullivan, Rebecca Thayer, Jennifer Wilson, Sharon Yubas

Join the Celebration!

On Tuesday November 12, the Student Alumni Association will hold a meeting for this year’s Festival of Lights. If you would like to get involved in the campus wide holiday event, join us at the Alumni House at 6pm. Hope to see you there!

Hello everyone! Just to inform you, the drug Ritalin, which is prescribed to treat Attention Deficit and Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), is causing serious problems. This drug is taken to improve concentration and control behaviors that interfere with learning and everyday activities. When abused, myriad failures and strokes can occur.

A few immediate effects are insomnia, hypertension, seizures, and confusion. Long term effects may be nervousness, hallucinations, delusions, and death.

There is a high addiction rate with this drug. In many states, including Rhode Island, this drug is a controlled substance.

If you know someone who is suffering from heart pounding, headaches, or extreme agitation after taking ritalin orally, call an EMT immediately. Do not leave that person alone. For additional help or information you may call: Health Services at x6220, Counseling Services at x6001, or the Poison Control Center at 1-800-222-1222. Please take this seriously. This drug could take control over your life or the life of someone you love.

Beta Theta Pi
David Koestner

Our annual put-a-thon will be coming up soon and this function will support the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The brothers of Beta Theta Pi raised money at the Patriot game this past Sunday by selling programs. A portion of the proceeds will be going to the MDA.

This week was full of surprises. Boyd bought the screw and the screw won. Spalding pulled a Craig Nelson in the bathroom and on his roommate. Mark had his belongings rearranged on Saturday. The brothers who went to Tig's Halloween party would like to thank them for a great time. Floyd went down hard on Flap and Bagno's table. She had the best time of his life on the way home from Foxboro.

Quote of the week: "Ralph Sarchie's book is not better than 'Nice'."

Delta Chi
James Dow

As always, I will start this week's edition of the column by bringing you up to date on Beta Theta Pi's fundraising efforts. This sports report is brought to you by all the athletes who play through injury. Our volleyball team finished in second place, behind the Veterans, (aka Peterson's Kids), last week. Strong performances were turned in by Ego and his protege. Our B-Team in football finished the season last week by losing in the playoffs to DOA, while our A-Team

Commuter Connection
Andrew Young

Greetings Commuters, from Andy, the Commuter! Well, this article has been long awaited, but it is finally here. Okay, here's the important stuff that is by now old news. Ellen Begun's has been elected our new vice president and Daryl Marsh is our new historian.

In case you missed our meeting last Wednesday, not only did you miss out on FREE pizza and soda, but you missed out on all that we discussed as well. The bus is full for the Boston trip, but any and all are welcome to meet with us on November 30 and follow in their cars.

The Smith house has been offered to the Commuter Connection for a second time and we are seriously considering moving the office to there from the Bryant Center. The Smith house is the old BRYCOL House and tours are being planned. We are not the only ones who can deliver their input on whether or not we move. The up side is that it offers a great deal more space, however, it is out past all the dorms and would make for quite a hike to our classes in the Unistructure.

The commuter volleyball team placed third in the playoffs! Thanks to everyone who played. Our next adventure will be playing a team in the Bryant college bowl. This is a Jeopardy like game in which we could win lots of prizes. That's all for now. So long Commuters!

Girls, we're free! The floor gave Phoenix a dose of her own medicine: "You aren't going anywhere." Thanks TKE for Friday night, it was a "fun hour." Philly, is it reality or a fairy tale? So many meanings for the poster. "She'll Rip-Roarin" Yvne-Murphy Hor Phal-O Mattie wants to thank Jaycee and Pepper for last week. Galileo and Vegas, I think that is everybody. Silva, West and Jaycee know how to have a good time with little resources available. McGee and Vegas want to welcome Phi Kay's new toy! Thanks to Delta Chi for a great time on Saturday night. Quote of the Week: "Wats sup now?"

Pil Sit! It's good to see that everyone survived Halloween and the weekend. Everybody remembers that belt tests are only a couple weeks away. Unfortunately, that is the only serious thing I have to say this week.

We would like to thank everybody who stopped by A3 this weekend. It appeared that everybody there had a good time (some more than others). Ryan found out what it feels like to be on the losing side of a five overtime series. Also, it seemed like Sifs and Phil enjoyed the long range shoot-out.

It looked like all of the upper and lower belts actually showed up for a change. Everyone was dying when it seemed like Keith was giving a free Foo Foom and Macearama clinic. However, we weren't laughing when his fellow employees stopped by to inform us of various infractions. We would like to take this time to thank all of the uniformed officers who came by Friday (Wasn't the Infamous Kappa Delta Phi?)

Stay tuned to this column for future events and information on food drives. Feel free to call me at x4136 or Brian at x300.

Tip of the Week: When you help the homeless, you help the country.

Good day to all. I would like to take some time out to congratulate our new president, Bill Clinton. Better luck next time, Ross. I hope everyone fulfilled their duties and voted in this election. Well, let's talk about the latest campus activities: Friday night, whether you were at Tri-Sig, Theta, or Phi Sig, you had a good time. Thank you all for being gracious hosts. Personally, I was at Tri-Sig, and ohh nghielly!!!

Friday afternoon, the Women's Rugby team got me up to their townhouse. I had a ton of fun there (which slowed me down for the night). We'll have to do it again. This last weekend saw the appearance of many Alumni. Chad, Tupa, Holy, and other others. Ryan found out what it feels like to be on the losing side of a five overtime series. Also, it seemed like Sifs and Phil enjoyed the long range shoot-out.

It looked like all of the upper and lower belts actually showed up for a change. Everyone was dying when it seemed like Keith was giving a free Foo Foom and Macearama clinic. However, we weren't laughing when his fellow employees stopped by to inform us of various infractions. We would like to take this time to thank all of the uniformed officers who came by Friday (Wasn't the Infamous Kappa Delta Phi?)

Stay tuned in class as we may have more planned for the coming weekend. From now on I will try to keep all plywood comments to myself since it seems some people are not very receptive to my ideas. Keith, remember that the more times you try to kick me out, the longer I'm actually going to stay. It looks like Matt may have won the battle, but not the war in his Clash of the Titans with Mike (He must have cheated!). Question: Who got in more trouble this weekend, Ken or Spicy? Quote of the week: "It's not a party here unless there's blood." Until next time, BKKA.

The Hunger Coalition
Shane Sadowsky

It was nice to see some new faces at the last meeting, and I would like to encourage everyone who could not make it to the November 5 meeting to come on down on the 19th of November. We have a lot of exciting events planned, and you could be a big part of them. Remember to get some canned goods for the upcoming canned food drive. You can make a big difference.

The goal of the Hunger Coalition at Bryant is to make America better by working locally. We help the churches and missions of RI provide necessary services to the homeless. Help us make a difference.

Hello everybody. I hope everyone has had a great week. First, we would like to wish Tricia and her twin, Mary, very happy 21st birthdays. Congratulations to Alese on her CJS exam. Chambers got two interviews; congrats to you, Liberty. She also got her beloved Ethel, thanks Dad. Lush, we are glad you are okay, please take care of yourself, we love you.

And now for the weekend. The sisters would like to thank Delta Chi, Delta, and Sig Ep for a great weekend. Hey Delta Chi, were you missing a pledge on Saturday night? Ohh, we know where you could find him. Lush, ding ding Sunshine’s ready for round four. -Screech.

Hello brothers! Sorry about the two week absence. After officially taking over this job, there will be no more missed articles. So, with that out of the way, let's recap this week's events.

Thanks to Theta for a great Halloween party. It was a blast. Too bad we missed the President, but I don't know where you are. -Mona.

"Dream Man" is still looking for his partner. Thanks to everyone who went to the hockey game Saturday; our Bryant boys didn't pull through in the clutch, but I guess that is why they're not in the NHL (An A for effort). But hey! Everyone had a great time after the game drowning their sorrows over a couple (2, 3, or 12) beers.

As a reminder, if you didn't sign up for the Patriots game, DO NOT or else. Ya, that's a threat, any problems, see me, tough guy! -Todo. Thanks, we finally pulled through; thanks a lot for saving our butts.

Quote of the week: "Pretending." -Jeff Hill. Thank You.

What's up, TKE?! Once again, I decided to exit Bryant on Friday. I was on my way to the Printing Press when I spotted TKE's from Bentley on our floor. Thank DZ for the power hour Friday. Hey Philosophy, what's #1 in that poster really of?

On behalf of Chimpy Z., I would like to apologize to everyone who went to the hockey game Saturday; our Bryant boys didn't pull through in the clutch, but I guess that is why they're not in the NHL (An A for effort). But hey! Everyone had a great time after the game drowning their sorrows over a couple (2, 3, or 12) beers.

As a reminder, if you didn't sign up for the Patriots game, DO NOT or else. Ya, that's a threat, any problems, see me, tough guy! -Todo. Thanks, we finally pulled through; thanks a lot for saving our butts.

Quote of the week: "Pretending." -Jeff Hill. Thank You.

Bulldog hockey suffers first setback

Bob Clark

Bryant’s hockey team took to the ice Saturday night for their first home game against league opponent Coast Guard. President MacIntyre was on hand to drop the ceremonial first puck in kicking off the new season. The game started with Coast Guard posting 3 quick goals within the first 4 minutes. From then on, the two teams battled it out in an equally played and exciting game. Coast Guard added a fourth goal with 6:20 left to play in the first period. Bryant responded with 3 goals before the end of the period to make the score 4-3. Jack Edwards got the Bulldogs on the board with an assist from Steve Delaney. The second goal came off the stick of Seth Anderson, assisted by Shawn Tyler and Paul Dube. Delaney then tipped in a Joe Pellutta shot with an assist from Kevin Gill to close out the first period.

The Bulldogs tied the game just two minutes into the second period on a goal by Tyler with assists from Anderson and Eric Romiza. Coast Guard answered back quickly with a goal, then and again halfway through the second period, making the score 6-4. Coast Guard added an insurance goal late in the third period to seal the victory. Pete Scornia turned away 30 shots for Bryant, but it was in a losing cause as the team fell 7-4.

Bryant’s next game is this Friday, November 8, in Burroughville, when they will host league opponent Salve Regina. The Bulldogs are looking for their first league win and a big victory over a team they have already beaten twice in previous seasons. The team will be looking to avenge their two earlier losses. The team would like to thank everyone who came to show their support on Saturday, especially President MacIntyre. The team hopes to see you on Friday! You can also catch Bryant hockey on the road as they travel to Mass Maritime on Saturday and Daniel Webster on Sunday.

Directions to Burroughville (Home Games): Take Rt. 7 north (left at Chris’s, heads to Rt. 102. Stay on Rt. 102, heading south into town, and take a right onto Rt. 63. Go 1/2 mile, and take a left into the parking lot. The Bulldogs will play indoors at the Burroughville High School.
