Salmanson Gets a Facelift

Submitted by
ARA Services

A brand new coffee shop comes to an end as the completely renovated Salmanson Dining Hall makes its debut September 10. Under the watchful eye of Peter Brissette, Campus Architect, demolition of the old facility began in mid-June, and eighty-five days later a beautiful new food court opens for students.

The old, dark, dreary serving lines and dish return areas are gone. The new servery is a model of current technology and design. New features include separate stations for hot food, grilled foods, deli sandwiches, ice cream, and other desserts. The most exciting change, however, is the introduction of the Allegro/Wokery station.

Allegro is ARA's concept name for freshly made and cooked pasta and sauces. Pasta is freshly made in a state-of-the-art pasta maker, then cooked as needed right before your eyes.

On alternating days, the pasta cooker will be wheeled out and the Wokery stir-fry menu program will be served beginning Monday through Friday. Brunch and Dinner are also served on Saturday and Sunday.

A fresh look for the Deli/Grill.

"Service" Theme for Convocation

Susanne Martone
Archway Staff Writer

The Convocation Committee is excited to welcome the new academic year at the 1994 Fall Convocation Wednesday, September 14, in the Multi-Purpose Activity Center (MAC). Dr. Allan Bailey, president of the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), will be the guest speaker. Dr. Bailey is also dean of the College of Business Administration at San Diego State University.

President William E. Trueheart commented, "The Convocation Committee's selection of the President of AACSB as our featured speaker, Dr. Bailey, is an outstanding recognition of his leader in professional education."

The 1994-1995 Convocation Committee chose "Service" as the theme for Convocation. Throughout the school year, programs will focus on the relationship between success in business and service to the community.

"Corporate social responsibility and community service are essential duties and commitments for society's leaders. In preparing our students to assume major leadership positions, we must underscore the importance of social responsibility and community service," said President Trueheart.

He added, "I am proud that Bryant students each year become involved in service in many ways - Greek fund-raising activities for charities, six hundred student volunteers annually plan and run the Northern RI Special Olympics and other community service projects." During this year's Convocation will be the premier of Bryant's new alma mater, written by internationally-acclaimed musician and adjunct professor of music Richard Cumming. The 1994 Distinguished Faculty Award recipient will also be announced and honored at this time.

Convocation will begin at 1:15 p.m. For the first time, a reception, including food and entertainment will be immediately following Convocation.

According to President Trueheart, "It is the perfect occasion to support faculty and student public service efforts and to encourage early participation of our new students." How did this increase affect financial aid?

J.D.: In terms of need, a $500 increase is considered large. In the past, the largest increase was for $700. Therefore, a $2,100 increase was astronomical.

What were some of the reasons for the increase in need?

J.D.: Primarily the economic recession within the New England area over the past couple of years. Many of the students reported unemployed family members on their income tax returns.

What did financial aid decide to do to accommodate these students?

J.D.: We had two choices: either give the students loans or give them jobs. Our plan for February was to have everyone receiving financial aid to have employment in their package. We simply spread this process over one. All continuing students will have a job in their package. From now on all newly hired students must be financial aid recipients.

What about students who previously held jobs on campus?

J.D.: Their financial aid will still be the same, however, they will not get another job.

Financial Aid Director Speaks Out

Julia Aroushch
Archway Staff Writer

Director of Financial Aid Jim Dorian addresses some of the questions and concerns which emerged this summer as a result of changes in financial aid.

What happened to student's need for financial aid?

Jim Dorian: At the end of March we sent out financial aid letters to the incoming freshman and were pleased to find their need dropped. However, for continuing students the average need increased by $2,100.

Expanded Use Of Point System

Bryant "One Card"

submitted by the purchasing department

All resident students, other than those residing in a townhouse, must participate in a meal plan. If you purchased a Meals Plan Plus, you will be entitled to a number of meals, plus there will be a balance of "points" on the card which may be used as discretionary spending money at the following locations:

The Bagel Express, Bookstore, Heritage Dining, The Scoop, Subway, Tappers, Images, The Info Desk. Within a few weeks, your One Card will also enable you to use the laundry services and coke machines located in residence halls and townhouses.

Students and staff desiring to purchase points for use with their Bryant ID - One Card may do so at the Bursars Office. There is a minimum purchase amount of $25.00. The value of points purchased will be available for the following days usage.

The College has also negotiated agreements with Automatic Laundry and Coca Cola for the use of points on their equipment. Over the next several weeks, equipment will be installed which will also allow students to activate washers, dryers and coke machines with the debit or vending stripe on the One Card. In the interim, the machines will operate as they did in the past, by depositing coins. Once the system is fully operational, students will be able to use either their Bryant One Card or coins.

To operate laundry or Coke machines using One Card, students will need to obtain a new ID card in Public Safety which will have two magnetic stripes. There will be no charge for your replacement card. However, you will be required to exchange your current ID card for the new one.

Public Safety will publish times when photos can be taken for the new ID cards.

For your convenience, there will be two Card Value Centers (CVC) installed on campus. One will be located outside Faculty Suite E (across from the ATM machine), the other will be located in the Bryant Center near the exit from the South Dining Room. These machines will allow users to transfer points from the 38" ABA stripe, to the 18" vending stripe. Users can increase the value on the vending stripe by accepting currency in the CVC units. The CVC will accept currency in the following denominations: 1, 5, 10 and 20 dollar bills.

Please Note: If you lose your One card, anyone finding it will be able to activate Coke machines or laundry privileges. Having dollars on the vending stripe is like having cash. For this reason, we are restricting the dollar value allowed on the vending stripe of your ID to one hundred dollars. You may add cash to the vending stripe at any time, by visiting either CVC unit. Since you may not want to carry that much worth of money, please be careful with it.

As in the past, if you should lose your Bryant ID, please report it to the ARA office immediately. ARA will continue to lock out cards for dining hall entry when the card is reported as lost, but we cannot prevent anyone from using the vending stripe.

As this is an entirely new procedure here at Bryant, we ask that you please work with us in gauging the maximum benefits allowed. Please direct any questions, concerns or thoughts on this new system to Pauline Bobinski, Manager of Support Services, at extension 6320.
Opportunity Knocks

Feeling a little lost on campus? If you are like most freshmen entering college for the first time, you are probably confused and a little bit scared. After all, this is a big transition in your life. But there are ways to make life at Bryant more comfortable. By getting involved with one of the approximately 60 organizations on campus you will not only be gaining valuable experience, but making life-long friendships. For most, these options may be better than playing ping-pong and Sega which have traditionally been favorite freshman pastimes.

Why get involved? When you enter the "real world," your short years, employers are looking for effective leaders and managers. The only way to gain this experience in college is to get involved with the organizations on campus.

In the campus scene section of this issue there is information on some of the organizations available. The best thing to do is to check out the signs hanging in the rotunda and Bryant Center and attend a few meetings. This way you can find your own special niche.

You may choose to be a part of the representative body of students through the Student Senate, or become active in planning campus activities and entertainment through the Student Programming Board (SPB). You may choose to become part of campus media through WJMF, the on campus radio station, The Ledger, the campus yearbook, or The Archway. There are also fraternities, sororities, athletic and intramural teams to join. The list goes on.

Many of today’s student leaders on campus joined their organization freshman year. Talk to them and they will tell you they wouldn’t be where they are today if they hadn’t attended the first meeting.

Even though you are here primarily for an education, there is so much more to learn outside of the classroom. Consider it part of your education to get involved. These are the best years of your life—make the most of them.

Servicemen Nominations Wanted

Dear Members of the Bryant Community:

On behalf of the Honorary Degree Committee of the Board of Trustees, we invite your nominations for the community and public service recognition of the Honorary Degree at the 1995 Commencement exercises. This September at Commencement, we wish to announce the formation of our Honorary Degree Program. "Community and Public Service.

The Honorary Degree Committee plans to solicit a slate of individuals and organizations (public, non-profit, and business) for consideration for special recognition at Commencement time. Selected candidates will be invited to participate in special campus events during the spring semester. We would appreciate your nominations for other members of the academic community to have direct contact with those very special people in advance of their recognition on the Commencement platform.

This theme celebrates the many contributions students, faculty, and the broad Bryant community make to the community they serve. Trustees recognize that community and public service is an important American business value. This Commencement we wish to publicly acknowledge Bryant University's commitment and encouragement of community and social responsibility in the personal lives of its students - our future business leaders.

Please send your nominations for these special Commencement recognitions.

Thanks for your help. We look forward to hearing from you as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

James S. Hock

Bryant Remembers Teacher of the Year Jack Rubens

Julia Arronchesh
Archeway Staff Writer

Bryant students will miss Finance Professor Jack Rubens this fall for several reasons, among them his relaxed attitude and affinity for sneakers and hats as well as his challenging classes and dedication to his students.

Rubens was 38 when he died of a heart attack on June 15 while on vacation hiking in Maine.

Rubens taught at Bryant for almost four years. He was a chairman on the College's department of finance and an associate professor of finance.

Students voted Rubens as Teacher of the Year last year along with Science Department Chair Doug Levin.

Rubens previously taught at Kent State University, Ohio and Cleveland State University. In addition, Rubens wrote numerous articles on banking, finance and real estate. His excellence was recognized by some of the positions he held: charter member on the board of directors of the American Real Estate Society, member of the editorial board of the Journal of Real Estate Portfolio Management, and co-editor of the Journal of Real Estate Literature.

"Jack had many talents, he was a fine teacher, a successful researcher and a strong academic leader. The common thread running through all these abilities was a very sharp incisive wit," said Vice President of Academic Affairs Michael Patitocco.

"I lost a close personal friend," added Patterson. A memorial service is tentatively set for Octo­ber 17 in Rooms 2A and 2B in the Bryant Center. A memorial scholarship will also be established in Rubens name.

Bryant Mourns Basketball Player

Omar Shareef, a 20-year-old Long Island native and a forward on the men's basketball team, died Sunday, August 14 as a result of injuries suffered in a car accident.

Shareef, more affectionately known as "O," was a passenger in the back seat of a Ford Bronco which struck a utility pole near his Long Island home. He was pulled from the truck and taken to an area hospital where he remained in a coma until his death.

News of his death hit the Bryant Community hard. Concerned students and followers of the basketball program phoned the school for information. Members of the men's and women's basketball team also attended the funeral services in Long Island last month.

Shareef, a 6-foot-5, 195 lb. forward for the Bulldogs, was a member of the class of 1996. The Elmont, NY, native played high school ball at Long Island Lutheran, where he was a member of the Atlantic Coast Tournament All-Tourney Team.

"Omar was a beautiful person with a radiant personality," commented head coach Ed Reily. "He was as thoughtful and caring an individual as anyone whom I've had the pleasure to work with. Omar was the type of quality person coaches dream of having on their team."

At Bryant, O was a spark off the bench, as well as a fan favorite. He

Tips that Won’t Tip the Scales

Julia Arscouah
Archway Staff Writer

College is supposed to be a growing experience, both mentally and socially. Unfortunately many freshmen find they have grown an extra size by the end of first semester. Yes, the "freshmen fifteen" is not a myth, but rather a common occurrence among incoming students.

Gaining weight is easy to do in college. Even those students who have been thin all their life will find they have put on extra pounds. The most obvious reason why students gain weight: they no longer have their mother putting food in front of them. You are now in control of what you eat.

Of course some students may lose weight in college, but usually as a result of not eating properly. Therefore, by eating a well balanced diet and avoiding certain trouble foods, you can maintain or reach an ideal weight.

Lucky there are ways you can avoid gaining weight. Here are some simple tips:

Eat sensibly. It may sound simple, but many fall in a trap of not eating properly. It is important to consume lots of fruits and vegetables and avoid eating a lot of junk food high in fat. If your body is used to eating cereal for breakfast, a sandwich for lunch and then dinner, don't start your day by eating French toast and a doughnut for breakfast.

Limit sweets. Admittedly this is not easy to do when there is chocolate cake staring you in the face as you enter the line. Don't compensate for a bad dinner by eating two bowls of ice cream and cookies. Not only are these foods high in fat, but they aren't nutritious either.

Avoid ordering pizza at 2 a.m. It can happen before you even realize what you are doing! First you are hungry and then you find other people on your floor feel the same way. Soon you are devouring endless calories and grams of fat.

Stay active. You will definitely gain weight if you eat everything bad for you and then sit all day long while you study. Join the fitness center, an intramural sports team, or take a walk. Not only will the exercise increase your metabolism, it will also reduce stress.

Be an educated eater. Read the nutritional information ARA provides and select those foods lower in fat.

If you do gain weight, don't panic. Almost everyone does their first year! Eventually, you will learn the right way to eat while you are in college -- just in time to cook your own food in the townhouses.

A World Of Firsts

Cindy Gale
Archway Editorial Consultant

I've sat here, staring at this computer screen all day trying to come up with a topic for a Welcome Back Article which would give you a comical and insightful look into college life.

I pondered talking about bringing too much stuff to college, living with a roommate, finding a job, even eating the food from ARA. But none of them seemed to work.

I finally sat back and thought a minute and realized what all these things had in common...at one point, they were all firsts.

You know firsts, the things you do for the very first time you will never forget, well, college is four years of firsts.

For most of us, it is the first time we are away from home, the first time we will share a room the size of a closet with someone else, and the first time we have to eat food not prepared by a caring Mom...and on and on.

Being away from home is difficult. Enough. Here we are, in a strange place with people you don't know, where you are to spend the next eight months of your life.

You have to adjust to a new way of living, and sharing your bathroom with several other people, but most of all, you have to get used to living on your own for the first time. Yeah, that's right. You don't have to answer to anyone anymore! No one will yell at you if you come home at 3am on a school night, if your room is a mess, or tell you to eat your vegetables. It's all up to you, which can be fun, but can also be very scary.

It's true you can do almost anything you want, but there are times you will miss home very much. Getting sick your first time away from home is not the greatest feeling in the world. You miss everything from your favorite show on television to your bed. But it's all part of growing up and being on your own, and after a while you get used to it.

Freshman year is a world full of firsts waiting to be discovered. You will have to share a room with a complete stranger, which could be a nightmare, especially if you are living with someone for the first time. / If you have roommates with a sibling most of your life, having a roommate will probably not be much different.

But living with a complete stranger in a strange place can be difficult. After all, you will have to tell Mom or Dad your roommate is being annoying and expect them to do something about it.

You also eat your first college meal, and we all know what a tasty treat it is: we'll never forget the first time we have to adjust to someone else's style of cooking. But you'll have to adjust to someone else's style of cooking. But there is the first college class, your first friend, your first exam... you get the picture. And then there are the really fun things you get to go through like a compulsory dormitory, pre-registration, and learning you can't wash a dark blue sweatshirt with your new white shirt.

Sophomore year contains a few less firsts, but there is one thing you will miss: being a freshman anymore. You move into the suites with five of your closest friends and actually have room move without stepping on each other.

By your senior year, you feel the most comfortable. But all year, you look forward to senior year in the townhouses. Here you learn how to load a dishwasher and attempt cooking for yourself.

Then, you have to worry about getting a job moving into your own place; more serious firsts than you have ever encountered before.

Although college is definitely filled with fun firsts, and the opportunities are abundant, you just have to be wise in choosing the right ones for you.

This is supposed to be the best time of your life, and we aren't supposed to have any worries. You never know what first you will be facing next, but college does prepare you for most of them.

It is in college you first grasp a sense of independence, let alone the real world.

And just think, if these things are only firsts, imagine what seconds would be like.

Bryant Terminology

Air Mail—when your mailbox is packed with only air molecules; not to be confused with FedEx or OverNight Delivery.
Bubbler—the RI term for a water fountain.
Campbell—the RI term for a milkshake.
Care Packages—goodies sent from home to help you survive final exams or just to get through the week.
Couch Duty—when you and your pillow sleep on the couch or on a friend’s floor because your roommate has an overnight guest.
Cramming—studying minutes before a test because you haven’t opened the book all semester or you spent all night out playing with friends.
Felf—the support Bryant College.
Grinder—the RI term for a “sub,” “hero,” “hoagie,” or “wedge” sandwich.
Independents—non-fraternity or sorority students.
Jimmys—the RI term for those little things sprinkled on top of ice cream.
Laundry—one of the most hated, yet necessary tasks that must be done by each resident.

Nick's Place—the TV lounge located on the second floor of the Bryant Center. The nickname comes from Bryant Alumnus Nick Colansato, “Coach” from Cheers.
M—the classroom number beginning with M is located upstairs in the back of the Unistructure (basically above the library).
OozaBall—a mud volleyball tournament played around the time of Spring Weekend.
Pickle Run—a quick trip over to the liquor store.
Phone Bill—After you have decided to reach out and touch someone, the phone company reaches out and “grabs” your wallet.
Pit—the bottom (basement) floor of dormitories.
Postal—while many students enjoy the serenity the pond transcends, others enjoy the excitement of watching students being thrown in at will, usually on their birthdays.
Pre-Registration—otherwise known as prefrustration. This is when students select their courses for the following semester. You will pre-register for spring courses in the fall.
Quarters—a.k.a. “The Campus Coin.” This coin is treasured by all Bryant students because of its versatility. Between laundry, pinball, candy and soda, you’ll go through quarters faster than you can acquire them.
Radio Station—WMF—the student-run campus radio station. They operate at 88.7 on your FM dial. The station is located on the top floor of the MAC.
Road Trips—an exciting way to escape the day-to-day pressures of college life.
Scoop—male/female interaction, usually on the weekends.
Spring Break—Bryant’s prevention from nervous breakdowns.

The Strip—the road and adjacent parking spaces that winds past Dorms 16, 14, 12 on the way to Country Comfort.
The Tree—the actual planted tree in the lower atrium (inside the ATM machine and Salmonson) that serves as a meeting place for meals.
Yellow Men—the maintenance crew members who wear yellow shirts while they keep the campus spotless.

The Hodgson Memorial Library offers students one of the most technologically advanced library collections in the Northeast. The library houses 12 database products, including UMI's Power Pages. Power Pages consists of five different indexes networked together to provide the user with comprehensive coverage of national and regional business news and research as well as general interest articles. The network also has the capability for full-text reproduction of many of the indexed journals, a feature that allows patrons to print out-a-quality copy within seconds at the network print station. Completing the collection are 125,000 circulating volumes, more than 5,000 reference books and government documents, and subscriptions to more than 1,200 journals.

did not receive financial aid?

JD: There were a large number of students who fell into this category. We contacted their supervisors to see if they wanted a particular student to return because they had special skills or were already trained.

What was the result?

JD: Six students were unable to be hired.

Why was there initial anger over these changes?

JD: I think the word got out that students couldn't work if they didn't have financial aid. Our office was getting a lot of calls regarding these issues and students became frustrated if they couldn't get through. We were able to work with department supervisors. Therefore, students with special skills were able to keep their jobs. It is important for students to remember if they did not get asked back to their jobs it was the department's choice not the choice of financial aid.

What are some of the concerns you have with this new policy?

JD: We are concerned there may be some more departments who will submit request for rehires. We are also concerned about meeting the need of all the students who want to work. However, we plan to branch out the job opportunities on campus.

There will be 32 jobs made available by ARA and physical plant will be looking for help as well.

What if a student really wants to work, but doesn't have financial aid assistance?

JD: There are plenty of jobs off campus and they are available to anyone. Traditionally students who did not have a car could not work off campus, but now the bus travels into Providence. Many state organizations such as the Northern Rhode Island Chamber of Commerce and some small businesses have contacted financial aid. If a student is interested in finding employment off campus the financial aid office is willing to help place them in work. We are an advocate for the students and we try to support them in any way we can.

Welcome back everyone. I hope you all had a great summer because there is a long semester ahead of us. To all the new freshmen the brothers encourage you to get out and get involved in campus life. Join a club, play a sport, but get involved. If you are interested in Greek life go and check out all the fraternities and sororities. Come up to the second floor of Residence Hall 3 or Townhouses B6 and E1 and visit the brothers of D-Chi.

We were founded as a law fraternity at Cornell University in 1890. Today there are more than 120 chapters around the world with such distinguished alumni as president Benjamin Harrison and actor Kevin Costner. Here at Bryant our brothers are involved in a wide variety of activities from intramural sports, to helping out charities, to other organizations on campus. So if you get a chance, come up and meet the brothers. Find out all we have to offer you.

We're out of here for this week. It's going to take a while to recover from the summer. Good luck to everyone first semester. See you on the fall side.

Finance Association

by Sandy Connors

Welcome back! I hope everyone enjoyed their summer break. For new Bryant students, I would like to explain what B.M.A. is all about. We are an organization with 100 members and growing. B.M.A. meets every other Monday starting September 19 at 7 p.m. in Rappo Dining Hall.

We host guest speakers from every possible avenue in marketing. We are a very active club in campus social events and were awarded Club of the Year this past spring. It is B.M.A.'s goal to continue as a strong and productive group. We look forward to new faces and encourage all students no matter what major to check B.M.A. out. We have a lot to offer, so take advantage.

The club's first meeting is Sept 19. You will see more details next week. The executive board looks forward to meeting you soon.

It's the first news article this year and let's make it a good one. I'd like to start by congratulating all the brothers for their recent installation. It was worth the wait.

Welcome back, I know you're all happy to be here, I know I am. We're looking forward to another great year in the history of Phi Kappa Tau.

We would like to welcome all freshman and incoming transfer students to Bryant. You are all welcome to come down. We are located in the pit of doom and it's going to be a great year, I can feel it. Phi Kappa Tau Top Dog!

SPB

by Sandy Connors

Hi everyone. Welcome back and I hope that you had a great summer. For all the new people on campus, SPB is an organization that is involved with the planning of many campus wide events, such as movies, concerts, and the four major weekends including Spring Weekend. Our first meeting will be at 4:30 p.m. Monday, September 19 in Rooms 2A and D in the Bryant Center. I hope to see many new faces with new ideas. Come to the meeting to see what we are all about.

Are You A Morning Person?

Do You Like To Drive?

Then we have the perfect job for you!

The Archway has an opening for a Distribution Coordinator. Duties include delivering finished paper Boards to Seekonk early each Thursday morning and distributing the paper around campus Thursday afternoon.

This Is A Paid Position.

Now I Can Die in Peace

Well, as National Hockey League (NHL) training camps, it is the perfect time to look back at the season.

For the first time in fifty four years, the New York Rangers are Stanley Cup Champions, giving their loyal fans (including myself) bragging rights for the next season. The season started off on the wrong foot, dropping their first game of the season to the Boston Bruins. In the next couple of weeks, they would lose a couple of more games, including an embarrassing loss to the Anaheim Mighty Ducks.

However, the Rangers acquired Steve Lamer, and the momentum started to shift. As soon as Lamer rejoined the team, the Rangers went on a winning streak, and moved into first place. They stayed in first place for the entire season, and would post the best record in the NHL for the season. Just before the playoffs, the team made a blockbuster trade to help lead them to a win. Gone were favorites Mike Gartner and Tony Amonte, in their place were veterans like Glenn Anderson and Craig MacTavish.

Their first opponent in the playoffs was Mike Gartner and Tony Amonte, in their place were veterans like Glenn Anderson and Craig MacTavish. Their first opponent in the playoffs was their rivals from across the river, the New York Islanders.

This was relatively easy series with the Rangers sweeping the three games. Next up for the Rangers, were the Washington Capitals, and once again they swept their opponents to advance to the Eastern Conference Finals. In the conference finals, the Rangers faced off against the New Jersey Devils who proved to be a worthy opponent. The Devils won one and looked to be in control of the series at the start. However, Ranger captain Mark Messier had a different outlook on things. Prior to game six, Messier guaranteed a win for the Rangers. As a result, Messier turned in one of the greatest performances in sports history. The Rangers were down 1-0 going into the third period, and that is when the captain took over. Messier scored three goals, including an empty netter, for the win, and to force a decisive game seven.

had his career best game against Bentley two years ago.

In an interview with The Providence Journal-Bulletin, Assistant Athletic Director said Shareef would frequently inspire other athletes looking for a boost.

"Omar went out of his way to brighten everyone's day. He was a genuinely nice kid," Fichera said. "When people needed something to smile about, they'd go to Omar." As the student-athlete on campus, Fichera believes the shock of Shareef's death will be difficult to cope with. "Everyone knew 'O', not just the athletes," she said. "It will be difficult for sure."
