New Computer Installed

By James O'Connell
Archway Staff Writer

Until recently Bryant College has been operating with a large 1960's IBM 1130 and the BTI 4000 computer. Most students after taking SM 102 are left disillusioned with the Systems Management major because of the numerous difficulties: computer breakdowns, slow terminal response and, in general, the common day nuisances of the computers. To alleviate these problems the College is updating the system to increase its capabilities. The new computer in a Data General-Eclipse M600 released in 1979, costing approximately $360,000 plus operating expenses. It is anticipated to be "on line" in the fall.

Right now the courses offered for systems in Basic, Fortran, Cobol, Systems Analysis, Management Information Systems, Management Science I and II, and Management Seminar. In the near future it is planned that Fortran 4 and 5, Basic for Secretarial Majors, RPG 2 and Assembler will be added. Also the typing room next to the computer will be converted into a room for computers with approximately 40 new terminals to four years. He also taught waiting to get on a terminal.

The new system's admission students will be able to get their programming assignments done without the usual difficulties. Thus programs will be easier for the less advanced students and there will be more opportunities for advanced computer study.

Jack Burns, Director of the Computer Center, states that the Eclipse's main memory size is about 96 times larger than the 1130 and about twenty times larger than the BTIE will carry a thousand programming packages and three administrative packages. Although the new computer is much more efficient than the old, its cycle time will be about the same.

Brian Richardson, an operations systems analyst, says that the computer's improved time will increase over the old. That there will be increased use of the computer in particular in Dorms one and two.

Bryant College President, William T. O'Hara, has announced the selection of Dr. Wallace A. Wood as the new Vice President for Academic Affairs. In this position, Dr. Wood is responsible for all academic programming and for all faculty in the College.

A member of the Bryant community since 1967, Dr. Wood joined the College as an Assistant Professor of Mathematics. He subsequently became an Associate Professor, served as Chairman of the Mathematics Department for three years, and was appointed Dean of Undergraduate Faculty in 1975.

In addition to his teaching in the undergraduate and graduate school, Dr. Wood has been active with the faculty administration, serving as Chairman of the Committee on College Organization (CCOC), a former member of the Rank and Appointment Committee, member of the Board of Directors, and Chairman of the Graduate.

Dr. Wood received his B.S. degree from Bridgewater State College, an M.A. degree in mathematics from Bowdoin College, and a Ph.D. in education research from Boston College. After graduation from high school in Dighton, Massachusetts, he served for two years, part-time, at Stonehill College and for three full-time years at Dighton-Rehoboth Regional High School.

His memberships include the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the American Educational Research Association, the American Federation of Teachers, and the Massachusetts Association of School Committees.

During the past six years, Dr. Wood has served the Dighton School Committee as a member of the negotiating team and has served as chairman and as financial secretary. He is also Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the White Dighton Christian Church. He resides in Dighton with his wife, the former Gail Easton, and their two children.

Internship Program

Suggested

By Richard Morris
Archway Staff Writer

John "Austin" Healy, the newly elected president of the Student Senate, has compiled as impressive array of data which shows the need and desire for an internship program at Bryant College. The data was sent to President O'Hara; Dr. Wallace Wood, Vice-President of Academic Affairs; and this paper on April 12. Dr. Wood and Dr. O'Hara are presumably reviewing the report to determine if such a proposal is feasible.

The feasibility of the proposal, it is speculated, will be judged by the need such a program, its benefits, and the cost of the program to the college. It is not known when Dr. Wood and Dr. O'Hara will reach a decision or when it will be made public.

An internship program would provide an added dimension to the enrolled students' education. It would give actual experience in a chosen field and would therefore increase the employment opportunities of Bryant Graduates.

Healy's collection of data proves that the majority of students favor an internship program. In a referendum in the recent Student Senate elections showed that 98% of the students answered the referendum were in favor of the proposal. Additionally, a sample of the ballots revealed the following comments: "Yes, I think practical experience will add to classroom education," and "Experience is one of the most important factors in getting a job. I feel that Bryant is so concerned about accreditation, they should do it."

The report, however, has some flaws. It just proves the desire not the need for an internship program. To correct this Austin is visiting the faculty in an effort to gain support. If the proposal is to pass, the need must be proved. The last substantial criticism is that the cost to operate the program had not yet been calculated and it may be high. The question is the program worth the expense?

False Alarms Increase

By Richard Morris
Archway Staff Writer

There has been an increase in the number of false fire alarms, particularly in Dorms one and two. The increase is due to Mr. Ramos, Director of Resident Life, was most evident just before the Easter Vacation.

The fine for anyone caught reporting a false alarm is $100 and expel from the dorms. The problem appears to be finding a reliable way to detect those persons responsible.

The motivation for someone to pull an alarm is not known. Presumably, it is the vehicle of a disgruntled Dorm two which had two alarms pulled within one night last week.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK...

As I sit here writing this, I am a bit of a rare commodity. I am a commuter, and also the head of a major student organization. I am living proof that a commuter can amount to something!

Getting involved is extremely important for everyone, commuter or resident. But commuters benefit even more from involvement. Addressing myself to the uninvolved commuter, I can say with pride—it can be done! When I think of how getting involved has made my stay at Bryant so much more enjoyable so far, I wonder why more commuters don't try it.

One who has never commuted from home can never really understand the pressures that the commuting student faces. Residents are fairly free of family pressures, whereas commuters face them every day, in addition to schoolwork. Also present is the task (and it is a task) of driving miles and miles day after day. Getting involved is a great thing to do. It's a fantastic release, where home problems can be left at home, and job pressures can be left at work. Helping the College helps everyone as well as yourself. To the Commuters: Stay on after that last class a couple of times a week—you won't be sorry. Tired—maybe, but sorry, no.

"Arcywah" Thoughts

To the Editor,

I have been hospitalized for the past week, and my brother Jan was able to bring me some things from school; among the books that he brought, was the April Fool's Day issue of The Archway (or "Arcywah," if you prefer).

The quality of the humor in this issue was a delightful surprise. Not only was it abundant and varied; it displayed a degree of irony that may even provoke the administration to see itself from the students' point of view.

"Squid" is to be congratulated; his humor and wit may have induced those of us who are not paying our own fees, to have an understanding for those who must.

"Arlo," in his piece about a "New Scholarship Program," made the succinct point that the average undergraduate student should realize, we do not fully understand exactly why the Administration behaves the way it does, but Bryant has not survived, nor prospered, for lack of an efficient (if sometimes confusing) Administration.

The underlying shade of irony, throughout the issue, were enjoyed for me during my hospitalization. Now, I see Bryant as having much creativity within it, instead of as a place in which people are instructed in the various facets of business. Your issue lightened some dreary days, and made me feel good to know that I go to Bryant.

Sincerely and with thanks,

Guy Durot

An Appeal

Dear Editor, or better, Bryant College:

As the year winds down, senioritis has set in not only in seniors but everyone, as always. The problems that stem from this is varied, but a major one has come up at The Archway. Many people that have religious beliefs at The Archway are fading out of the scene or are resigning. At the moment, every editor position having one or two has changed hands over the course of the year. With many of the staff leaving The Archway, all this leads to one large problem and that is, "Who in God's name will be hire to write, layout, and take photos for the rest of the year and next year?"

Frankly Speaking

Women In Public Administration

For the woman who works, the Government is a good place to start or to resume a career. Under the Federal Equal Opportunity Program, government agencies are responsible for finding out what can be done to advance the status of women in all minor categories, in all particular agencies, for making specific plans for improvement, and for seeing that those plans are put into effect. Each Federal agency has a Federal Women's Program head, that head being, of course, a "chairwoman." Surveys indicate a continuation of the trend in increased representation in minority employment, particularly among minority women. Surveys also show gain for minorities and women at higher grade levels. The problem for women in Federal employment has resulted from the historic discrimination against women, especially in the higher positions; for example, a task force has found that 76 percent of minorities and women in the Federal work force despite declines in total full-time Federal civilian employment.

WJMF Stereo

The General Manager for WJMF Radio, Paul Rochelle, announced yesterday that, barring any unforeseen difficulties, the station will be transmitting in stereo. The reinstatement of this transmitting policy, it is expected, will increase the listening audience. However, some small sacrifices will have to be made. The station, to accommodate the installation procedures will be "off the air" somewhere between noon and 6:00 p.m. The amount of time that the station is silent is dependent on the problems. If any, which will be incurred.

IN EUROPE, MORE PEOPLE DRINK STELLA ARTOIS THAN ANY OF THESE GREAT BEERS.

Stella Artois (A'ntwa) is part of a brewing tradition that began more than 600 years ago in the year 1360. The robust, hearty light lager taste comes from old world brewing that patiently insists that every crop is matured a full 63 days. Today in more than 50,000 bars and restaurants all across the Continent, Europe's discriminating beer drinkers ask for the great taste of Stella Artois. Now you can, too.

Mountaineering #2.

SELECTING THE PROPER GEAR

The first thing to consider is the mountain top. For this task, faithful mountaineers use a church key. Secular mountaineers use a bottle opener. Don't be confused by these antics with semantics. Just remember, the opener is your primary tool. Be true to it and it will be true to you.

Second, choose a glass. Here the options become immense. German steins, hand-blown pilseners, old jelly jars, that cute little church key used by faithful mountaineers.

You are the mountaineer. And this is an ad. The subject of which is selecting the proper gear for mountaineering. (It all fits together so nicely, doesn't it?)

Comfort is crucial. If you mountaineer in public, pick a padded bar stool, preferably one that spins (to facilitate admiring the scenery). At home, a comfortable chair or sofa will do. Rule of thumb: if it feels good, and the police don't seem to mind, do it. Then turn on the tube or spin a tune or crack a good book. The choice is strictly between you and the dominant hemisphere of your brain. Of course, some mountaineers say the smooth, refreshing taste of Busch is entertainment enough.

And thank goodness they do, because it's an excellent conclusion.

You have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

Food is next. Proper mountaineering, not to mention proper nutrition, requires a smorgasbord selection of snacks. Some mountaineers have suffered from a potato chip deficiency, a pretzel imbalance or other serious dietary defects. Plan ahead.

Be adventurous. Experiment. Most mountaineers have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

If you are a beer lover, then you must have Busch.

Don't just reach for a beer. Head for the mountains.

BUSCH®

Head for the mountains.

in one minute flat, with our own Sam Blackmore, a senior, finishing fourth in 63.7.

Senior Mike, the 4 x 100 Meter, and the 4x400 Meter relay races.

A team consisted of Steve Provost, Brian Miner, Mike Cassaro, and Joe Cahill. While the latter was comprised of Cassaro, Cahill, Mike Kearney, and Bill Varney. Bill will be out for the rest of the season with a foot injury.

As for the field events, the breakdown was like this:

High Jump: Mark Friel, a senior, won by clearing 6’2”. Steve Cosolito, a sophomore, also cleared 6’2”, but was placed second because he needed more attempts to clear the height than Friel did.

Pole Vault: The winning height was 11’7”. Bruce Nichols, a junior, tied for second place with an Assumptionite, by clearing 10’.

Long Jump: A competitor from ECSC won with a jump of 23’7” to Bryant Competitor placed in the top 4.

Triple Jump: Jim Ryan, a freshman, took fourth place with a distance of 37’7”.

Javelin: Bob Colantino, a promising freshman, demoralized the other competitors by winning with a toss of 126’9”.

Shot Put: Dave Buhlmeurer, in 121’2”, and Warren Alper (also in his last season) was one inch behind the third place thrower, with 115’5” (check that tape again). Jim Ryan, a senior, took second with a throw of 138’2”, 195’8” was the winning distance.

Bryant won this first meet, with ECSC finishing second, Assumption taking third, and Stonehill returning home in last place with only six points for the whole meet.

Basketcases Number 1

The Basketcases won a thrilling, action-packed game for the women's intramural basketball finals against a powerful Jaguars team. The game was 7-6, the Basketcases favor at the end of the first half. As the second half progressed the Basketcases surged to a 13-6 lead. The Jaguars then called a time out to regroup. As the Sun and the Jaguars began to make a comeback. Their effort proved to be fruitless as time expired and the Basketcases won, 15-14.

The Basketcases ended their season with a 14-0 record while the Jaguars had an impressive 2-2 season. The overpowerful Basketcases were led by Pam Johnson, Nancy Dowhan, Carol-Ans Gustamachio, Diane Evans, Kathy Sheehan and strong performance from the bench. Congratulations to both the Jaguars and the Basketcases on a fine season.

Baseball

On Wednesday, April 18, the Bryant College varsity baseball team won its first game of the 1979 season by defeating Barrington College 5-2.

The game was a 2-2 thriller for 8 innings until Bobby Mulligan scored the go-ahead run in the 9th inning on a wild pitch. Once again Bill Templeton threw well, going the distance for the win. This week the Indians travel to Connecticut for double headers with Bridgeport University and Sacred Heart University.

This week's stars: Dave Pellerin, Bill Templeton.

Why do cs Charlie run?

By Stephen Futard

Jan 3, 1979 might not be a historic day in the minds of most Americans, but in the mind of Charlie Smith, it was the day he was named manager of Bryant College, it was a historic day. It was on that day that Charlie began his run. He won his day that day was 274 pounds which did not well in his 5’6” frame. Charlie decided something had to be done, so he began to run.

Now, just over three months later, Charlie is down to 150 pounds! Also, he has trimmed inches off his waistline. “Anyone can do it if they really try,” Charlie said.

At 12 noon every weekday, rain or shine, Charlie and a small group run for 30 minutes. “We are doing this because the weather is good,” Charlie and Peter Barlow run together out on Route 7 to the North Smithfield High School and back, a total of six miles. “Everyone in the valley runs with our group,” says Mandeville. “Most of our group can’t run a full six miles, but a mile or two is a great start.”

Charlie is now gaining some publicity for the college by his running. He has recently finished 42nd out of 116 in a mile road race from Oxford, Conn. On April 8, he will run a 10 km (6.2 mile) race in Burrillville, RI and on the 29th he will enter an AAI 10K road race in Woonsocket.

What does Charlie run? “It’s really great,” he says. “The first few times you may feel rotten, but once you develop your mind, and tone your muscles it becomes really enjoyable.”

When asked what his goals are, he mentioned, “I hope to run in the Ocean State Marathon on November 4th in Newport. I don’t care about winning, or finishing among the leaders. All I want to do is finish the 26-mile race.”

Charlie joined Bryant on an athletic basis as athlete trainer in 1976. Previously he was a trainer for the Rhode Island Eagles of the now defunct Easterns Hockey League. He also trained for the Sun Coast Sons Hockey Club in the Southern Hockey League, and more recently the Cape Codders of the New American Hockey League. Back in 1968 Charlie was an All-Star hockey player at Mount Saint Charles Academy in Woonsocket. He weighed only 147 pounds then. “I want to train back down to my high school weight,” he said.

Charlie invites everyone in the Bryant Community to join his jog group everyday at noon in the Gym. “It is really easy to run if you stick with it, many have only tried to run once or twice, and they gave up,” said Mandeville. “Once the weather gets warmer I hope we see a lot more people running down the pathways of the campus.”

Light Wallets and Wild Women

by PhL

I always wanted to be a gambler. Even as a kid I used loaded sidelines. This is the reason I was headed for the casino up in Atlantic City. I had a horse on the sand of the sun and bun like the rest of you barhounds. So packing up my finer clothes, I was off to make my way and my mager savings. (Contrary to popular belief, The Away pays fortunes' way. The only things they do offer is free drinks and sex. The catch being you have to wear a police uniform, but that's another story . . .) we took off in my little VW in search of Atlantic City and possibly New Jersey too.

After seven hours of driving on the Garden State Parkway, (hour of which was spent dodging deer on the stupid road) we finally arrived in Atlantic City. Now I wouldn't want to say I was in Atlantic City by choice, but the major industry there in the winter is sleight. The people here are so hard to cheat also. You would have to be clever in some and they would be stuck for an answer. I was not at the hotel at the hotel a man came up to me and said "Hi, can I help you?" I said "No, I am just passing through." He said "Hi, can I help you?" I said "Yes, I was there for a convention." he continued "Those are some questions." That was the one with the most questions. She continued "You have the other girl with the snake tattooed on her arm." I said "Yes but don't worry. The snake has a rose in its mouth."

With that I left the hotel and walked into the casino. I had my name introduction myself. "Hi! My name is Paul. How do you like me so far?" I continued "I know this is a lot to take and I then went through the usual package of the raffle and we gradually came to like one another. She told me in a slight Italian accent that she was down in a convention. I told her I was here to lose money. We both laughed and then promised each other that we wouldn't ask any personal questions about each other. We then joined the Lucky Ludo and I hung out on the dance floor. Since it turned out that the girls were staying at the same hotel as Jim and I, it was a very, very, convenient relationship.

The next morning I was back for more. Since Jim and I decided to take a dip in the hotel's indoor pool, I wanted to impress this girl so I got up on the diving board and did a one and one-half back flip into the water. As I got out of the pool she said to me, "That was a wonderful dive. I know we haven't had any, but I would like to ask personal questions, but are you a champion diver?"

"Yes, I said lying through my teeth. "In fact I was once state champion." She smiled and then said, "I think I'll get wet now." And with that she went over the edge of the pool and made a great flying flip. I looked at the eighth lap of the pool faster than I had ever seen anyone swim, and then they hopped back out and she introduced herself. "Hi! My name is Paul. How do you like me so far?" I continued "I know this is a lot to take and..."

"That was incredible!" I said to her. "I've never seen anyone swim with such speed. I know we're not supposed to ask personal questions, but are you a champion swimmer?"

Stuke arm smiled as she spoke. "Well, no," she started. "You see, I used to be a call girl in Venice and I worked both sides of the street!"

I hit four doors on the way home.

Love

This clear time of seeing embers-
A gold-brilliant sun's lost in first dust.

What frenzied sense, desolate music
Are consent of remembering,

Nights' pearl-censored requiem...?
"In for us!

What joys run, then—
Bright in your eyes—

What flower-splashed amores
Pull at our hearts—

What flower-splashed amores

Fill our desires.
