The Two Faces Of Bryant

By Peter J. Paulousky

Last year the Archway did an article on Bryant and its future remodeling projects. The purpose of this remaining article will follow up on what is new to the college, particularly the Unistructure. During the summer carpenters, painters, and masons were busy throughout the college. To the freshmen the final outcome is not all that startling because many are seeing it for the first time; however, for many upperclassmen it is a definite change from the way things used to be. First of all, you notice the hallways on the stairwells in the Unistructure. Next, the hallways have all been painted with multi-colored bands and matching doors. Also included in the classroom area is a changing of classroom carpets which will take place over a period of years. As you walk around the building, you see that the alcoves have now been carpeted and in some modular seating has been arranged. Though not fully furnished, the remaining alcoves should receive their chairs in the near future. Other completed changes include new carpet in the rotunda on the walls as well as on the floor, "LIBRARY" and "AUDITORIUM" graphics on the walls and a sunburst on the ceiling by the bookstore. All in all, these colors add a more pleasant perspective and appearance to the whole building.

In the Student Center the long awaited sound system has also been installed. Underneath all these obvious changes, lie others less visible. By this I mean all the things not seen. For instance, the scuff marks on the walls, the holes in the walls, the torn door stoppers, the burn hole-correction, the less numerous burn holes in the rotunda carpet. These changes are perhaps even more obvious because for once you don't see them. The question is how long this will last. It's amazing the way Physical Plant plans its projects; in a way it's like planning a campaign. The carpent on the rotunda walls is not there to keep the walls warm, but rather to keep the scuff marks from showing. This is necessitated by the people who lean against the wall with their feet. The new carpet on the Rotunda floor is made of tiles. In this way the burned ones can be replaced.

Notice the new carpet on some of the classroom floors! The bright color seems able to compete with the old foliage, but instead it hides the burn marks better. Finally, the new paint on the hallway walls is made out of a tough vinyl that can be scrubbed if someone writes on it. In closing, the ARCHWAY is pleased to call your attention to these new changes. Enjoy them while you can, because like the Dodo bird and the carrier pigeon, they are liable to become extinct.

Attention all triples: relief is on the way! If you are still willing to live on campus two years hence, you could be one of the first occupants of Bryant's proposed new dormitory complex. Initial approval has already been given to the Business Affairs Office to proceed to the final design stage on a dormitory complex of four floors to be located across from dorms 12 and 13. It would house 312 students; finding occupants should be no problem as the College feels it could use the additional volume of housing right now.

The new housing is necessary if the College is to maintain its present enrollment in scholastic standards in the face of declining birth rates. The administration hopes to be able to accept more resident students. As the pool from which residents are drawn is virtually unlimited in size, it contains a greater number of qualified people than that from which commuters are drawn. Thus, if the College is unable to...
No Questions Asked

Dear Editor,

Does anybody still care about morals? The Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity, located atop of Dorm 4, have been the victims of a most unfortunate experience last Saturday night. The fraternity suite was burglarized of its fraternity banner and a pledge paddle.

The sentimental value of this banner is priceless to the many brothers who have pledged and taken the oath of everything it symbolizes. The pledge paddle is also of priceless value to the fraternities as a test of class for which this paddle represents. This mindless, and immoral theft not only shaves the low class, and shameless actions of (a) particular student(s) of this campus, but also a senseless, preposterous, and incongruous escapade because the items stolen are of no value to anybody but a TEP brother.

Being deeply concerned about the theft, the brothers immediately informed Security. When this incident was explained to Security they took the episode as being rather amusing. Needless to say, the theft was never investigated nor a report ever written. We feel that the cooperation of this staff is in great jeopardy. Their lack of professionalism led us to conclude that there is only one person left to help us, and that is you, the student.

Tau Epsilon Phi has always had the highest regard for the student body here at Bryant College. That is why the brothers of TEP are asking for your cooperation in an effort to retain our possessions.

If anyone can give us any information leading to the return of our banner and pledge paddle, please call 232-0205. If anyone can locate the banner, please drop it off at the post office. No questions will be asked.

All we want is what is ours.

Thank you,

The Brothers of TEP

Independent Queen?

Dear Editor,

Up to now, we've been indifferent towards the Greeks on campus, but now our feelings have changed. The general meeting of the Delta Omega Professional Society, it was voted upon to enter an Independent contingent in the upcoming Freshman Queen Weekend. The group is in great jeopardy.

The group also began making arrangements for a full page ad in the booster book. Much time and effort went into these preparations on Monday we were informed that the G.L.C. voted down their entry for the Freshman Queen Weekend saying it was strictly for cooperation. If the G.L.C. feels this way about the Independents, maybe we should boycott all THEIR functions. Better yet, we'll work with the G.L.C. on these events off campus.

We would like to thank those Greeks who gave us their support. Maybe sometime in the future the G.L.C.'s opinion of Independents will change so that returning students might not have been completed this week.

Signed

Meet Lorraine Cournoyer

The athletic department of Bryant College welcomed a new member to its staff this year, Miss Lorraine Cournoyer. Miss Cournoyer is the Women’s Athletic Director in charge of all women’s varsity sports and clubs. She arrives at Bryant after teaching for six years and working in the athletic administration at Syracuse University.

Miss Cournoyer’s experiences include being a Resident Director at Syracuse University and Assistant Dean of Residential Life at Rider College in Lawrenceville, N.J. While at Rider, Miss Cournoyer was Advisor for all fraternities and sororities. She has been a Student Director, the Judicial Council, and the Resident, and the Council on Residential Affairs.

The majority of the duties for which Miss Cournoyer will be responsible are in her capacity as Peter Barlow’s direct assistant in the administrative aspects of housing. These functions include preparing the physical aspect of housing: room selection and assignment of students, damage and incident reports. Jerry will also be a supervisor for all the girls living in the dorms.

Miss Cournoyer’s supervision includes overseeing the girls’ recreational activities, such as outdoor sports, social events, and athletic competitions. She is enthusiastic about women staying involved in all aspects of the University, not only in varsity sports but also in other organizations.

General problems of the students such as personal, health, and financial, and personal concerns will also be dealt with by Miss Cournoyer and her staff.

According to Miss Cournoyer, the process through which the Resident Assistants are selected was a competitive process to ensure that the staff is selected in a manner which best facilitates the objectives of Student Affairs. She feels that this process guarantees that Student Affairs can best implement their programs and objectives. It is therefore felt that a staff should be selected not only for their backgrounds and competence, but also because of their ability to work with the students.

Miss Cournoyer feels that Bryant’s women’s program needs to be more than just a female counterpart of the men’s program. She feels that the women’s program should be more independent and should have its own identity.

The biggest challenge for Miss Cournoyer is to develop an interest in all areas of women’s sports and activities. She believes that if more girls are encouraged to join these programs, then the interest in women’s athletics will increase.

Miss Cournoyer is a graduate of Providence College and holds a master’s degree in public relations.

Are you looking for opportunities to express your feelings and grievances through group interactions and develop leadership abilities and allow students to learn from one another? Miss Cournoyer would like Student Affairs to provide the vehicles for the interests of these students, which would allow students to express their feelings and grievances through group interactions and develop leadership abilities and allow students to learn from one another.

Meet Lorraine Cournoyer, the new Women’s Athletic Director at Bryant College.
Brycol to Sponsor Mixology Course

Have you ever wished that you knew how to mix drinks? Do you know how to plan a party at home and have the right amount of liquor for any event? Are you interested in learning how to set up a lounge, restaurant, or bar? Do you want to become knowledgeable about wine, its history, and serving it? Would you like to know about wines, wine serving, and wine tasting? Do you know how to tend bar? How to have become knowledgeable about beer besides how much you can tell your friends that you know how much to drink to get drunk?

Well, the opportunity is coming your way. Brycol Student Services Foundation, Inc. is going to sponsor a two-night Modern Mixology Course at Bryant. You will now have a chance to see how much you really know about all those intoxicating beverages that are second nature to most of you.

The course will be offered on two consecutive nights. The first night will be concerned with preparing a bar at a lounge or restaurant, preparing for a private function or party, learning to serve alcohol at $20 per student. On the second night, you will learn how to set up a lounge, restaurant, preparing for a private function or party, learning to serve alcohol at $20 per student.

On the second night, after you have become knowledgeable from the first night, you step up to such areas as pouring technique, mixing drinks, customer service tips, some professional bartending secrets, and an examination which will include demonstration of your ability to mix drinks. The remainder of the second night is an OPEN BAR.

The course is recommended for anyone who might be interested in bartending, being a waitress or waiter, or just increasing your knowledge of alcoholic beverages and their preparation. Just think, then, you can tell your friends that you are a connoisseur instead of a drunk!

The course will be given on Tuesday and Wednesday night, October 4 and 5 from approximately 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. The fee for the course is $15 (same as last year) in advance or $20 at the course. All students completing the course will receive a 20-page mixology manual and a certificate of completion; both which could be very valuable when applying for a job. The key to success: Register for the course in the Rotunda, September 26 through 30, Monday-Friday from 10:00 to 2:00.

Julian Bond to Speak at Providence College

Providence (Sept. 19, 1977) - Julian Bond, one of America's most prominent Black leaders, will deliver a lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday (Sept. 27) in Providence College's Slavin Center.

Bond who was elected to the Georgia Senate in 1974, is now active in mounting a grassroots campaign to encourage minority participation in the political process. He was selected by Time magazine as one of the country's 200 most important leaders.

“We are the future of Southern politics,” declared Georgia State Senator. “We have the color of Southern politics,” declared Georgia State Senator. “The way to do this is by getting the big jobs but to concentrate on the little ones closer to the people. If the South is to be freed politically, it will have to be remade from the school board up.”

A founder of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, Bond is currently president of the Southern Poverty Law Center, and is a director of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Fund, the Martin Luther King Center for Nonviolent Social Change, and the New Democratic Coalition.

The lecture is open to the public. General admission is $2. Because of limited seating, advanced ticket reservations are advised. Information about the event can be obtained by calling 865-2444.

Who Am Us

“Where are you going kid?”
“Well officer, I was just trying to park my car.”
“Well boy, we going have to take you in.” Slowly they dragged away the screaming lad into the bowels of the dark Unistructure. Down into the epitolene of torture chambers. (No, not SAGA, but Security, the evil forces of the night.)
“We can do this two ways boy. Our way or our way. What’s it gonna be?”
“I’ll talk, I’ll talk…”
“Who was the bridesmaid at Mama Neeki’s wedding?”
“Gee, I don’t know.”
“Okay then, name your student
“Okay, name your student senator?”
“Now I’m all confused…” Suddenly a young lady resembling Mae West strolls into the room. The lad on the stand felt the hot rush of blood surging through his body to his head. Beads of cold perspiration broke out all over his body. His breath, violently to his head. Beads of love, he was in heat. each wing containing two group even study in relative quiet. The lounges will be called for, and others can rest or allow those who want to relax to his body to his pits. He wasn’t in love, he was in heat.
“I want you,” he panted through clenched teeth. “Sorry, but we’re booked,” replied the staff in unison. Such is life here at Bryant.

The Executive

by Jay Metzger

The pictures on the desk were only vague reminders of a family he never saw.
His job had been to that. After twenty years, he had seen every nook and cranny of the world.
That is, all but one, his supposed home that contained his supposed family.
All the time away had made him unsure that he still had either one.
His home had become the passenger section of an airplane, and his family, frozen faces in the frame of time.
Now he had a new home, where he no longer travelled for months at a time.
His home was the top of a lifeless tower of glass and steel.
Rising above a cold, lifeless city where family was a concept never fully understood by the inhabitants.
And out in another world, another dimension of time, lives an incomplete family, lovingly waiting for the final piece that will make them one.
Hopelessness, though, creeps into their minds as time runs by in fleeting moments of joy and hope.
Back in his home, the man hears a question from someone inside his mind.

The stranger asks him, “When will you quit and go back with your family where you belong?”
Out loud he answers, “I don’t know, I’m just too busy.”
He starts to cry.

VISIT THE NEW
Fellow students, my name is Bill Regen and I am from Cheshire High School, where I was active in many projects and activities. There are several reasons why I would like to hold a position in the Student Senate: I would like to be involved and have a part in what goes on here at school. 2) I would like to meet other people and get others involved. Hopefully I will be able to help you with your problems and ideas to the Senate, where something can be done about them. I hope you will put your confidence in me and vote BILL REGEN for Freshman Student Senate.

Barbara Buchanan
First I feel I should introduce myself since we are all new on Bryant Campus. My name is BARBARA BUCHANAN and I’m running for a seat in the Student Senate. I’m from Bridgeport, CT and I attended Notre Dame High School where I was also on the Student Senate. I would like to serve you here at Bryant. I know that what is most important is to keep people informed about what’s happening in and out of school and that’s primarily what I feel my task will be.

Barbara Tattersall
Fellow Classmates—
Why should you vote for me? I will represent you fairly! Can anyone trust in you before placing your vote in the coming election? You must elect someone who will listen to your complaints and act upon them. You must elect someone who has had previous experience and you must trust your fellow classmates.

Vote for me, JOANNE TATTERSALL, because I have had two years of experience on Student Council. Vote for me because I care about our class of 1981 is represented. Vote for me, JOANNE TATTERSALL, because I want to represent you!

I would appreciate your vote in the coming election.

Suzanne Pacewicz
Freshman Class:
I am running for a position in the Student Senate, because it would not only enhance my personal growth, but also the growth of the student at large.

In high school I was class treasurer, president of the Sophomore Association, which involved not only the planning, but also the seeing through of activities, I have leadership experience, and I also served as chairman on our advisory board. I’m certain I would appreciate your vote.

Thank you,
Suzanne Pacewicz

Cindi Pagnotto
To the Freshman Class:
I am running for the Student Senate because I want to get involved. I would like to know what is happening from the inside and through my contributions, hopefully, make it better.

In high school, I was a student representative of my class. This involved raising money, planning dances, events, and activities for the students to participate in.

Please consider me as a future senator when you vote on Friday, September 30.

Sincerely,
Cindi Pagnotto

Kevin Bonnette
My name is Kevin Bonnette and I would like to represent you as your freshman Student Senator.

If elected, I will try to meet the needs of the students at Bryant College. I want to get involved! I am interested in clubs and activities, in helping our class, and Bryant College to achieve positive goals. In order to function effectively for you, I would encourage your participation and welcome your suggestions. I hope that you will vote for me because of my willingness and personal interest in the welfare of Bryant College.

Candidate for Student Senate

Suzanne Pacewicz
Thank you, fellow freshman.

An Open Letter to the Freshman Class:
Hi! My name is Candy LaBombard. I’m running for Fremson Student Senator. I guess the first thing that I should do is give you a little background information on myself. I’m from Rouses Point, New York. I know you’re all asking yourselves, “Where’s Rouses Point?” The best answer that I can give you is that it’s way up north on the shores of Vermont and Canada. My major is Institutional Management. My hobbies include tennis, swimming and getting involved. The last one is very important to me.

I was on Student Government in high school and found it very interesting and educational. I learned a lot about many offices, from representative to Speaker of the House, to partying with friends every night of the week (although I certainly am not trying to discourage either of these “activities!”)

What I do mean is involvement in clubs or organizations - whether they be sports, professional clubs or recreational groups. This is the main reason why I would like to become a member of the Student Senate - to become involved in the world around me here at Bryant.

Why have I chosen the Senate to become involved in? First of all, the Senate is not the only thing I am getting involved with. I’ve joined a few other activities. Secondly, and more to the point, I was involved with Student Government in high school and found it very interesting and educational. I learned a lot about many offices, from representative to Speaker of the House, to partying with friends every night of the week (although I certainly am not trying to discourage either of these “activities!”)

To my fellow Students:

Allow me to introduce myself.

I am Lynne Miller. I am one of many students running for a seat in the Student Senate.

I come from Providence, Rhode Island, and I attended Classical High School. In high school, I held the position of vice-president for my senior class. From this I gained valuable experience.

I am running for this seat because I feel that I can put my best interests into the job and come up with fair and equal judgements. I only want what is best for my classmates and for the classes that are to follow.

People ask me, “Why do you want to run for Senate, Lynne?”

The best and only answer to me is that I want to understand what goes on in life at Bryant College. In order to do this to my full potential, I feel it is inevitable to become actively involved in student government and student affairs.

I strongly feel that I am qualified to pass judgement for the benefit of those concerned. I want this position for the fact that I will help my fellow classmates lead better and more fulfilling lives. I hope you vote for me.

Sincerely,

Lynne Miller

Colin McCormack

I am running for Student Senate because I am interested in what goes on here at Bryant and want to work to improve it. A person’s experience can always help an organization, and I feel my four years experience as a student government member in high school would be a vital asset to the Student Senate for this year. I am interested, experienced, and willing to work; this is why I deserve your vote for a seat in the Student Senate.

Sincerely,

Colin McCormack

Frank Jarvis

To All Freshmen:

- My name is Frank Jarvis, a graduate of Bishop Hendricken High School, in Warwick, Rhode Island. During my high school years, I had the chance to broaden my academic, social, and religious insights, and I hope with your help I will be able to convey them to you, my fellow classmates. My main objective is to keep you and I, the freshman class of 1981 in good spirits. Whatever can be done to enhance the individuality of any freshman, I will try. What I would like to do is bring our class closer together, with events and goals, that would bring a mixture of all students.

We have the resources to make things better, all I need from you is your concern. My understanding of you and your feelings, will be taken full in hand, when a decision has to be made. What I am trying to convey is that I need your support before and after the election. Questions cannot be answered unless there is a reason to question.

I know I am one of the six best qualified freshman students who can bring fresh ideas and concepts to the student senate. The progression of Bryant College depends on solid dependable people, who will roll up their sleeves and get their hands dirty, the decision that you, the voters have to make is a tough one, one that will enable Bryant College to grow and prosper through the under-standing and leadership that is needed.

The student government is something that everyone should be involved in, the student government is a resource for changes. Before a person buys a car, he looks under the hood, before I make a decision, I will look into the facts. The fact is I am the best candidate for this position. Remember Frank Jarvis.

Chris Blasko

My name is Chris Blasko and I'm running for Freshman Student Senator. I am very interested in the student government and would like very much to be a representative of our class. I am known to be a hard working, responsible person, and I know this quality will show through if elected for this position.

Candidates running for office usually make many promises. I feel I don't have to make any promises. Being the hard worker that I am, I will contribute to my fullest, my efforts toward the improvement of the student life at Bryant. I'm very easy to get along with and I have the time to listen. It's all up to you now. On September 28th and 29th vote for the one that is going to work and achieve these goals.

Remember-Vote Decisively

Thank-you.

Economic Corner

By Richard N. Spivack

Public utility rates have-as everybody knows-risen tremendously in the last few years, to the detriment of consumers and, quite directly, to the detriment of the environment.

Rate increases have been justified largely on any of all of three grounds:

- increased costs of fuels,
- general inflation and the increased need of utilities for funds to maintain their credit standing, and
- "need" for more capital to expand generating capacity.

Whatever the rationale, excessive rate increases for expansion of capacity threaten the environment. (Nuclear).

Much of the problem lies in the "rate structure," i.e. how rates relate to each other. Typically the biggest users pay the lowest rates, and smaller and smaller users pay higher and higher rates. In addition households pay more for any given amount of electricity than does industry.

Reform of the rate structure would reduce the growing burden of rates on ordinary consumers, reduce the pressures for unnecessary expansion, reduce pollution, reduce inequities, reduce waste of fuel, reduce dissipation of all kinds of resources throughout the economy. It is my purpose to introduce such a reformed rate structure whose main features are:

- eliminate the present discounts that make electricity cheaper for big customers than for small ones;
- eliminate the discrimination against consumers and in favor of industrial users;
- introduce peak-load pricing.

Typically, when an electric utility tries to raise its rates, it proposes a roughly uniform increase in all rates with no significant adjustment of the rate structure. Whatever the basis for the rate increase request-be it fuel costs, inflation, need for expansion-citizen groups can make a strong case that before any increase is authorized rates should be fundamentally restructured. Organized and informed citizen groups can play a major role in reshaping utility rates. Before any public utility is granted a rate increase it must present its case to the public utility commission which holds open hearings in which citizens are able to testify and voice their dissent or approval. More and more, these groups are growing in numbers and clout. It will be one of my objectives, over the next several weeks, to inform you, the citizen, of how your public utilities operate and of the measures that are open to you to cause reform if you so desire. I will elaborate on several avenues of reform.

Will You Help A Fatherless Boy?

The Big Brothers of Bryant College have a tremendous need at this time for volunteer Big Brothers. At present, there are several hundred fatherless little brothers between 7 and 14 who are waiting for Big Brothers. It takes little time, just one hour a week, more if you desire. The aim of the Big Brothers is to give a young boy the opportunity to further his growth and development through a relationship with a male adult; a relationship he does not have because of the absence of a father in his home.

A Big Brother is a man anywhere from 19 years of age and up: a man who is stable, mature, and one who has a positive desire to help a less fortunate boy. He forms a unique one-to-one relationship with a boy to whom he offers friendship, companionship and guidance.

For more information, leave your name, address, and phone number in the Student Senate Office and a Big Brother will contact you for an appointment.

Most of us know who he is because his presence has been widely felt on the campus. For those who don't know him, this article will let you in on a true artist, capable of displaying unlimited talent, and a person of deep sincerity as well.

Ed's career started in 1971 when he first sang in a New Hampshire High School. Last year he was featured several times at the Country Comfort and pleased many audiences. The campus and its spirit kept him overtime writing some of his best songs.

Ed is a Senior at Babson College studying Management. He chose a degree in business rather than music because he feels that "most musicians are poor businessmen." He plans to use his shrewdest talents to deal with the business field, and is sure to be one of the shrewdest talents to cope with Ed's audience.

When he first sang in a New Hampshire High School, the audience never figured it out. "He's too good-looking to be a musical talent," said, "Very good friend," this poor businessman." He plans to go professional in the music business. They came upon a self-taught guitarist and vocalist who really backed me," said, "Very good friend," this rather than music because he felt that "this music wouldn't unfold before the last 15 minutes of the film; and more than half the audience never figured it out."

Innervisions

By Donna M. Lampen

When I am with you again it is as if no time passed between us. For those who are in love, time stands still and the distance grows wider. But for those who are secure in love, time is a fleeting medium between the two points.

Reaching out to others is the basis of life. Sharing, communicating makes for understanding and appreciation of one's feelings and ideas. My association with you has expanded my personality. It has made me more aware of myself and my surroundings.

I am thankful for each new day, and happy because I am spending it with you. Loving you has made me a better person. I want everyone to experience for themselves the joy I have found with you and to be as happy as you have made me.

Poetry to Recruit By

This crazy ARCHWAY staff-
They really make me laugh.
Their dedication is so hard to express.
They always kid around,
Have no feet on the ground,
Yet amazingly work well under stress.
If you hear this loony crew
Beckoning to you,
You might give them a look-see.
They'll show you around a bit
And illustrate their wit-
So much, though, that you may cry for mercy.
Once you meet this bunch of folks
And learn to take their jokes,
You'll see that they really aren't so bad.
Just because they spend their time
Playing with green SLIME,
Does not mean they are completely mad!

MOVIE REVIEW

Suspiria

by George E. Dooley, Jr.

I thing every person in the world has their favorite movie, movies that you wouldn't mind seeing many times again. Suspiria is not such a movie. It is poor. It is VERY poor. In fact, I was insulted that the United States of America allowed this movie to be released in this country. The movie was filmed in Italy, which leaves the audience asking themselves, "What did we ever do to them?" or "Is Mussolini REALLY dead?"

I can't comment on the acting, for I saw none. I told myself to watch the credits at the end of this farce and blackmail any movie involving anyone associated with this flick. When the "credits" were finally flashed, my head was on the seat in front of me and I was asking myself, "Did I really pay $3.50 to join this masochism seminar?"

It probably didn't matter though as anyone who would lend him or herself to such a disaster would definitely use an assumed name.

I would now like to describe to you the plot of the movie. As I said, I would LIKE to, but I really have nothing against you people. The plot really doesn't unfold before the last 15 minutes of the film, and more than half the audience never figured it out.

Contrary to popular belief the America’s Cup is not a beer mug promotion in the pub. It is the most prestigious of all yachting events. It is only fitting that it is held at one of the nation’s oldest and most beautiful seaports.

Since Newport was the playground of the rich, its shoreline is graced with some of the most fascinating homes found anywhere. I was always bewildered as to how someone could spend 11 million dollars on a two-month-of-the-year summer home. Since you can’t take it with you, they left most of it here. Getting back to some history of the Cup races, one finds that since its conception America has never lost the cup to any other nation. It has been successfully defended 23 times.

The America’s Cup as it is called today received its name in an interesting way. It was back in 1851 when the yacht America was asked to sail to England to compete in a race around the Isle of Wright. The prize was a 100 guineas cup. Sponsoring the race was the Royal Yacht Squadron. The race was won by the yacht America.

In 1857 the racing syndicate that built America offered the 100 guineas cup to the New York Yacht Club as a perpetual challenge to be raced for by yachts of other nations. In 1870 the first race was held for the cup. The yacht Magic (U.S.) successfully defended the cup against Cambria (U.K.).

The original deed given with the America’s Cup was very restrictive as to who could compete. One of the rules was that any competing vessel would have to sail under its own power to the race. Finally on December 18, 1956 that rule was abolished by the New York Supreme Court. Also at this time a change was made in the waterline requirements so that a 12-meter yacht could enter competition.

Unfortunately, not everything has been smooth sailing for the America’s Cup; for example, the defending club’s refusal to allow the challenger to race only one other competition has been a point of contention. Another problem was with the yacht “Valkyrie III.” The skipper contemplated that it was foiled by the “Defender” (U.S.) and was put into a danger position when trying to return on course because the spectator fleet was crowding. Another case was when a protest was filed after the race was finished. The NYYC said that the troubled ship “T.O.M.” should have raised a protest flag at the time of the incident.

In the year’s race the yacht “Courageous” (U.S.) defended for the second time against Australian entry “Australia.” This was very easily won race for the NYYC. The “Courageous” piloted by Ted Turner proved to be unbeatable. Turner, a Brown University graduate, now hopes to start his own racing syndicate and buy “Courageous” if it is for sale.

Last Saturday, in a field of 150 on a tough Franklin Park course in Boston, the Frosh of X-Coasty showed the excellent potential they possess. Led by Phil Goss and Bill Varney (both freshman) the squad put on a good showing despite poor weather conditions and bad course conditions. Goss finished in 27:45 (4th) with Varney (4th) only 5 seconds behind. Twenty-six seconds later John O’Connor, another Frosh, crossed the line taking 52nd place and Bill McKitchen followed shortly after in 55th position. Barry Proctor (57th), Mike Kearney (67th) and Craig Anderson (76th) round out the top 7 spots for Bryant. For this early in the season the times were very good, and if they keep up, we will be in very fine shape.

An indication that the times will continue to improve was seen Wednesday when the young harriers ran against a very tough and seasoned SMU team at SMU. Because of scholastic responsibilities, Bryant was forced to leave their number 2,4 and 5 runners home, not to mention most of the team. (Only 6 runners participated.) Under the circumstances Coach Reinhardt told the runners to concentrate on their running and not to worry about SMU and concentrate they did. Phil Goss once again led the rest with a time of 27:10 over the 5-mile course. Fresh John O’Connor and Mike Kearney followed Goss across in 27:46. Jerry Gaynor finished in 28:23 and Craig Anderson in 28:53. All of the times run on Wednesday showed considerable improvement over last Saturday, even though that course was 4.8 miles. So far, things are looking up, and hopefully they will stay that way. Our next meet is tomorrow, Sept. 24 at Nicholls College and the following Wednesday, Bryant travels to Stonehill.

The Agricultural Society...
Patriots Pile Into Bryant

On Monday, July 18, Bryant College welcomed the New England Patriots to the official start of their summer training session. Over 100 rookies, free agents, coaches, staff and returning veterans moved into Dorms 5 and 6.

The training session began each morning at approximately 9 a.m. During the early part of the season a second practice was held in the afternoon around 3 p.m. These double sessions were eventually phased out as the summer progressed.

During the course of their six weeks at Bryant, the Patriots had complete access to the gymnasium and pool, as well as the outdoor facilities. The use of the various fields was done in a rotating manner allowing the college to properly care for the ones not in use. According to the Athletic Department, the fields were left in perfect condition, much better than the present condition of the intermural football fields.

Dinner was served at 6 p.m. after which plays and strategies of the team were discussed until 9-9:30. The players were then free until their 11:00 bed-check. Liquor and tobacco were forbidden, but after acquainting themselves with interrogation students, they are invited to parties in the townhouses.

Saga provide all the meals to the Patriots during their stay. Breakfast and lunch menus were much the same as those the students are but in larger portions. As could be expected however, the dinner entrees were quite different. Some of the dinners included: Prime Rib, London Brot, Rib Eye Steak, Baked Chicken, and T-Bone Steak. One unusual request of the team was to have tabasco sauce at every meal.

During the summer the Patriots had a total damage bill of approximately $500. Some of the damages included a broken couch (a player simply sat on it), numerous broken screens from players breaking in after curfew, a door was demolished (rather than simply broken). Greg Boyde, otherwise known as "Too-Strong" threw a desk across his room during an apparent nightmare.

The Patriots will be returning next year and are being welcomed back by the college.

Bryant Defeats Worcester State 2-1

by Joseph Welch

The Bryant Soccer team upped its record to 2-0-Saturday by beating the visiting Warriors of Worcester State. Ronnie Pinto struck first for Bryant, providing his lone first half score. Bryant had many opportunities to score, but it wasn't until Pinto's goal that enabled them to take the lead and really start controlling the game. In the second half, the Indians continued to control the action and never let down till the contest was over. Motty Baginski added an insurance goal in the middle of the second half.

In action Monday, Bryant visited Bahoon and won in its first defeat, five to nothing.

Bryant Women's Tennis Team Crushes Worcester Poly Tech

The Bryant College Women's Tennis team displayed their talent as they defeated Worcester Poly Tech 7-1 on Friday, September 15. There were many excellent matches worth noting. In singles Ellen Turton, last season's number one player was a little slow getting started. As a result of a defeat in the first set she pounded back taking the last two sets easily with scores of 6-1 both times. In doubles Sandra Keller and Barbara Schnell looked good as they downed their opponent 7-5 and 6-0 in two sets.

It is interesting to note that Worcester Poly Tech only had four tennis courts. To play first, Miss Cournoyer put on Pat Turton, last season's number two which resulted in Bryant winning the game. Miss Cournoyer managed to play the rest of the girls, though, and she really gave the Bryant gals an equal opportunity to use the tennis courts. Permits recently cancelled due to a lack of interest among the students. This will be issued Monday through the turnstiles. The new ruling for Women's field hockey was utilized by the basketball team.
