NEW SENATE STRUCTURE PROPOSED

The Graduate School — One Year Old

By David Daniel

The proposed school program, a major concern of most senators, was discussed with Dr. Lebovitz, Dean of Bryant's new Graduate School. This new M.B.A. evaluation program came into existence in September, 1969, with twenty candidates. By the Spring semester, enrollment had risen to ninety, and presently the number has grown to one hundred seventy thereby doubling its enrollment in less than one year.

Dr. Lebovitz cited certain admission requirements for applicants to the graduate program. One criterion is a bachelor's degree from an accredited college, with a cumulative B average. All candidates are required to take the Graduate Record Test for Graduate Study in Business (GRE). Once the candidate's evaluation has been completed, the Graduate Office will schedule a personal interview. The Graduate Office does, under exceptional circumstances, grant conditional admission. After completion of six hours of graduate credits at Bryant with a minimum B average, these students may apply for regular admission. Graduates and students who have completed the program are given a transcript for their completion of the graduate school.

The graduate program of study is divided into graduate foundation courses and graduate advanced courses. The number of required credits ranges from thirty to forty-eight, depending upon how many, if any, graduate foundation courses are waived by the student. The student governing body will operate under the provisions of the old constitution.

The idea of restructuring the Senate was first publicly mentioned by the past President of the Senate. It is felt by some that the present Senate is very undemocratic because only the campus organizations have representation. If you do not belong to an organization, you do not have representation. Also, many organizations never discuss Senate matters and though a student may be representing them, he may never have any part of the successful running of his organization votes.

Contributing causes to the need for reorganization are the facts that absenteeism is high. With an active student body at large, faculty, activities committee, and administration, it is important to note that until the time when a new constitution is approved, the student governing body will operate under the provisions of the old constitution.

Senate Re-Structuring Details

The Student Senate has passed a proposal to "accept the concept of a five- and twenty-four-man, elected, legislative council." The twenty-four-man legislative body would consist of six senators elected from each class, and any student is qualified to run from the twenty-four-man legislative council. A speaker of the council will be elected to sit on the executive council. The speaker of the council plus the four elected officers of the student senate will constitute the executive council.

The Senate is now in agreement as to the structure of the proposed changes, it is now the responsibility of the restructure committee to rewrite the Senate constitution. Currently the constitution has been rewritten but must be ratified by the Student Senate, student body at large, faculty, activities committee, and administration. It is important to note that until the time when a new constitution is approved, the student governing body will operate under the provisions of the old constitution.

J. E. Hoover Warns of Radical Enticements

WASHINGTON (CP) - FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in an "open letter to college students" issued at the opening of the fall school year, has "pinpointed eight plays used by radical extremists in their efforts to steer justifiable campus protest into violent and destructive channels."

"The vast majority of you," says Hoover, "I am convinced, sincerely love America and want to make it a better country." But, Hoover warns, radicals from SDS (including Weatherman, Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), the Communist Party's Young Workers Liberation Group (YWLL), Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC), or "many (who) are not associated with any national group" are trying to lure unsuspecting campus angels into their ranks by capitalizing on student discontent. Hoover, apparently not concerned with "lies" to black students, failed to mention the Black Panther Party or any other black group, even though the Panthers are the FBI's number-one target.

Hoover listed eight ways that "extremists will try to lure you into their activity."

"They encourage you to lose respect for your parents and the older generation. This will be one of their first attacks, trying to cut you off from home. You'll hear much about the "failures" and "hypocrisy" of your parents and their neighbors. The idea is to make mistakes but your parents and millions of other adults worked hard, built, sacrificed, and suffered to make America what it is today. It is their country too. You may disagree with them, but don't discredit their contributions.

"They'll try to convert you to the idea that your college is "irrelevant" and a "tool of the Establishment." The attack against the college administration often is bitter, arrogant, and unreasonable. SDS'ers, for example, have sought to disrupt the colleges by demanding the right to select professors, determine the curriculum, and set grading standards." (horizontal line)

"They'll ask you to abandon your basic common sense. Campus extremism thrives on specious generalizations, wild accusations, and unfounded allegations. Complex issues of state are wrapped in rhetoric and cliches. Dogmatic statements are issued as if they were the final truth. You should carefully examine the facts. Don't blindly follow courses of action suggested by extremists. Don't get involved in a cause just because it seems "fashionable" or the "thing to do." Rational discussion and rational analysis are needed more than ever before.

"They'll try to envelop you in a mood of apathy, pessimism, and alienation toward yourself, your country, and your Nation. This is one of the most insidious of New Left ploys. SDS and its allies judge America exclusively from its flaws. They see nothing good, positive, and constructive. This leads to a philosophy of bitterness, defeatism, and rancor. I would like you to know your country more intimately. I would want you to look for the deeper unifying forces in America, the moods of national character, determination, and sacrifice which are working to correct these flaws. The real strength of our Nation is the power of morality, decency, and conscience which rights the wrong, corrects errors, and works for equal opportunity under the law.

"They'll encourage you to disrespect the law and hate the law enforcement officer. Most college students have good friends who are police officers. You know that when extremists call the police "pigs" they are wrong. The officer respects your rights, lives, and property. He is your friend and he needs your support.

"They'll tell you that any action is honorable and right if it is "sincere" or "idealistic" in motivation. Here is one of the most seductive of New Left appeals—that if an anarchist or anarchist's heirs in the right place, if he feels he is doing something for humanity or a "higher cause," then his act, even if illegal, is justifiable. Remember that acts have consequences. The alleged sincerity of the perpetrator does not absolve him from responsibility. His acts may affect the rights, lives, and property of others. Just being a student or being on campus does not (Continued on Page 6)

What Commies Said 51 Years Ago

If you think most of the problems that beset the world and our nation today just happened that way, you are mistaken. It is a natural trend born of the modern age; if you think that it will suddenly end, you are as naive and unreasoning. SDSers, decency, and conscience are wrapped in slogans and cliches. Dogmatic and they need your support.

Bryant Instructor Irate Over Martha Mitchell’s Statements

Martha Speaks

It seems that Attorney General Mitchell’s wife, Martha, is lit it again. She recently sent her brother, a re­porter in reference to an article that appeared in a national magazine expressing her irritation over the article.

On the course of the conversation she made the following remarks: "The academic society is responsible for all of our troubles in this country. Those are people that are destroying our country." When asked which particular segment of the academic community she was referring to she stated, “The whole academic society is to blame... the professors in every institution of learning.

"It makes me sick at my stomach. They’re a bunch of sidewalk diplomats that don’t know what’s going on. They haven't any right to talk.

"Why, some of ‘em can’t talk at all, and some of ‘em I can’t talk very well. There are more repercussions in our society today because of them, they said. “They are total responsibi­lities for the sins of our children.

The academicians have not been responsible for our children. They are at fault for a whole generation of chil­dren.”

Several weeks ago aboard Air Force One, Attorney General Mitchell joined the press section aboard as his wife Martha was elabor­ating on her views on the Vietnam war. When asked if he’d like to hear what she had to say, he replied, “No, I might want to jump out the window.

Instructor Replies

After reading the above statement in a news article which appeared in a local newspaper, Mrs. Joan Mar­sella, Instructor of Social Sciences, wrote the follow­ing:

“Martha Mitchell is a salient example of what the American Woman of reason and intelligence does not want to be. She is the direct opposite of the image for which enlightened women are striving.

This middle-aged har­ridian, with her disastrous Alice-In-Wonderland com­edies exterior and her Xan­tiipe interior, has sabotaged the combined gains of women’s organizations in America. Females seek­ing recognition for the exer­cise of their brains do not murder their husbands’ public images.

Her undisguised emo­tional capacity is a threat not only to all women in America but to society it­self. Hers is not even a "tea­cup society;" it is the contents of her cup when she made her ill-advised call to the newspapers, one can only speculate!

“Professor does not have right to err,” she added, "Who determines rights? Martha and her friends?" Women of Gastapo agents proudly displayed their lamp shades made of his man skins whose original owners had been sacrificed to another fascist group. Martha seems to like lamp­shades with ivy league insignia.

"Talk is the tool of human thought; language is the index of the develop­ment of society. Without language there is no thought and obviously that is what La Mitchell wants— just blind obedience to a police state. When’s your next book-burning, Martha?" "College professors are not insturted with the care of "children," but are ac­cused of the bad behavior whose minds are not yet stultified.

What bothers those chose the bend­lock cut rather than more Zantippe verbiage; did you say you wanted to jump out the window, John?"

WTIC-HARTFORD
April 16, 1970

Hartford was treated this week to the spectacle of 2,000 demonstrators screaming obscenities and painting four-letter words on themselves...all in the name of humanity.

The rally of the alleged peace lovers in Bushnell Park was a rally of young and not-so-young who are against the war...but not against violence. It was a rally of those who oppose bombing Vietnam villages...but favor the bombing of American cities. It was a rally of those who cry out against pollution...except when the sources of the pollution are their own mouths. It was a rally that did absolutely nothing for the cause of peace, a rally of those who would welcome violence in our own streets.

But above all, they are our children, and they cause us sadness and shame.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Letters:

Thanks For Parietals

It was with much pleasure this week that I announced to the dormitory council that the new parietal system is now in effect. As you can all clearly see the responsibility to make sure that these pariets work is with each individual. This with in this mind I urge every resident to continue to use her or his own discretion in the use of the dorms pariets. If any problems arise, consult your dorms governing board so that those problems can be solved before they become acute.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the dorm presidents, especially Danny Kahn, Stu Cohen, and Susan Caudy without whose help these parietal hours would never have come about.

Remember, the responsibility is yours.

Sincerely,
Edward Metalsky
President, Dormitory Council

No More Check Cashing

The volume of check cashing has increased to a point at which the Business Office can no longer continue this service effectively.

The two basic factors which lead to this decision were the security problem engendered by the constant need for ever increasing amounts of cash and the student traffic situation which has made it most difficult to conduct business as usual during check cashing periods.

There are now two banks within convenient walking distance of the College and arrangements have been made to honor student checks up to $35.00 upon presentation of a student identification card. Further, students may open an account at no cost and thus avail themselves of the services which the bank provides. Citizens Savings Bank is located at Brook and Waterman Streets and R. L. Hospital Trust National Bank at Thayer and Angel.

The College's discontinuance of the check cashing service is intended to be temporary since a bank facility has been planned for the new campus in Smithfield.

Servitium Club Organized

Gentlemen:

A new club has been organized at Bryant College. The name of this organization is the Servitium Club. It has been organized by students interested in Institutional Management.

The main purpose of this association is to provide students for a career in one of the many facets of the institutional management field. By bringing together people with similar interests, the club will offer students what opportunities for students and direct them toward successful business careers.

The Servitium Club requests that the Student Senate of Bryant College recognize this organization.

Very truly yours,
Robert A. Stinson
Vice-president

The Right Comment

By William S. Holden

Open House

At the last Student Senate meeting it was decided that another Senate Open House will be held in the near future. The feeling that another open house is necessary is due to the poor results of the open house which was held last week. There were approximately eight or nine organizations that participated in the event by making a display. No more than 25 students, other than the students working at the displays, came to see the displays. Clearly, the evening was anything but successful.

Reuben Abraham, President of the Student Senate, has accepted full responsibility for the failure of that evening. There can be no question to the fact that the office of the President of the Senate is the ultimate focal point of responsibility for all Senate activities. Notwithstanding, a question may be raised as to how much responsibility may be focused on any individual.

In the near future, there have been two Senate meetings. At both meetings it was stated that there was a need for Senators to volunteer for committees. The response at both meetings was negligible. The justification of the Senators, excluding a few unique individuals who have been non-existent in all Senate activities, practically all of the work accomplished by the Senate this year has been done by the four officers of the Senate. Bearing these facts in mind, it seems less than objective to blame any person for the failure of the Senate Open House. Any blame should rest on the entire Senate.

The present structure of the Senate places too much responsibility on the officers of the Senate and not enough responsibility on the individual Senators. For this reason, the Senate must be re-structured. The newly proposed structure consists of the Senators elected from each class, without the automatic appointment of a Senator from the various organizations of campus, is the best proposal submitted thus far in keeping with the goal of a more responsible Senate. While there is no guarantee that this plan is the best possible structure, no better plans have been submitted and something must be done.

If anyone feels that he has a better plan for restructuring the Senate, he should come forth with his proposal now. Otherwise, he should support the proposal as it now stands.

Insights by Alan Kluger

September 28, 1970, will be looked upon, in the future, as the beginning of a functional student government at Bryant College. In the chambers of the Student Activities Building, the Legislative Council, with much opposition from some Greeks, passed a motion to restructure the Student Senate, and re-write a more workable constitution.

In the past the Student Senate had been composed of representatives from clubs, fraternities and dorms. Frequently, one person represented as many as five different organizations and voted accordingly. This presented the problem of a vested interest, in that, many times a representative would be concerned with conflicting views. He was responsible for his own personal view, those of his fraternity brothers, fellow club members, dorm-mates, and even his pinmate who threatened to tighten up sales...

The new proposed structure calls for 24 representatives (6 from each class) to be elected by and from the student body as a whole. These 24 Senators would be responsible for serving as the bona fide messengers of their fellow classmates to serve the interests of Bryant College as a whole. By having direct representation and a smaller group of people to work with, it would be inevitable that the machine of student government could begin to work effectively for the first time at Bryant College.

There is one stumbling block in the path of progress. That, unfortunately, is the refusal of many fraternities and some clubs to forget their own selfish needs in the hope of bettering Bryant. Some feel that they are losing the firm hold they once held at this college while others feel this is a subservient plot to undermine Greek popularity. However, the prevailing fact is that if the Greeks really are sincere in their desire to continue to be active, they are certainly encouraged to run for these open seats. For many years the Greeks have been the mainstay of student government and community service. They have raised much money, initiated much needed reform, and have been the social nucleus of college life. Why then, can’t they continue to serve Bryant as in the past by supporting and encouraging this latest attempt at progress.

I sincerely hope that all the fraternities will re-evaluate their present positions and join in to help push Bryant College head first into the ’70s. Without the support of the Greeks the new Senate will not function; with Greek support, the Student Body of Bryant College can begin to formulate an effective voice that will play a responsible role in school and community affairs for years to come.

Abortion's available

The Women’s Pavilion is a service that may be of interest to you. It aids patients in obtaining complete and superior abortion care in some of New York’s finest hospitals. Women’s Pavilion began with the passage of the bill to legalize abortion in New York. Many hospitals and doctors feared that administrative problems involving both local and out-of-state patients would provide an unbearable strain on their limited facilities. Women’s Pavilion was established to provide a doctor or be assigned to patients with the minimum of cost and inconvenience. Where hardships exist, “service cases” are provided for organizations that regularly refer cases.

A caller to W.P. will be asked the length of pregnancy, her age, and the course desired for the operation. She may select a doctor or be assigned one. These physicians are all board qualified or certified specialists in gynecology and obstetrics. She will be told which type of operation (D & C or Saline) would be suitable for her and the procedure for payment of services. A date, time, and hospital will then be scheduled. Women’s Pavilion has provided medical instructions to aid patients in pre-post-operative care.

Any additional information may be obtained from Women’s Pavilion, 515 Madison Ave, Suite 1010, New York, New York. (212) 371-6570.

Anti-Ky Demonstrations Planned For October 3

WASHINGTON—(CPS)—Washington area activists have announced demonstrations for October 3 to be held in and around the nation's capital. The demonstrations will include anti-war rallies, student protests, and other activities aimed at opposition to the policies of the South Vietnamese government.

The announcement stated that the demonstrations are part of a nationwide effort to express opposition to the war in Vietnam. The organizers claimed that the demonstrations are designed to unite people of all ages and backgrounds in a common cause against the war.

The demonstrations will take place in various locations throughout the city, including the White House, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, and other notable sites. The organizers emphasized that the demonstrations are peaceful and are intended to be a nonviolent expression of opposition to the war.

In addition to the protests, the organizers called on all Americans to support the anti-war movement by participating in local demonstrations and by engaging in nonviolent political action.

The organizers also expressed their support for the Vietnamese people and their struggle for freedom. They called on all people to join together in the fight against the war and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

The demonstrations are expected to attract a large crowd of participants, including students, activists, and ordinary citizens who are concerned about the war in Vietnam.

The organizers encouraged people to participate in the demonstrations and to support the anti-war movement in any way they can. They emphasized that all people have a responsibility to stand against the war and to work towards a more just and peaceful world.
Ever Heard of Qui Tam!

No, you can’t get it at a Chinese restaurant. And it’s not a village in South Vietnam.

Qui Tam is a venerable and legal principle which allows you, the individual citizen, to file suit in the name of the government against people who break certain laws. It permits you to collect half of the fine for a conviction.

The idea has been getting a lot of attention lately coupled with another crusty old law called the Reuse Act of 1899, which forbids anyone or any group from throwing pollutants into any navigable waters in the United States without a permit.

"Navigable waters" are defined as rivers, lakes, streams, or their tributaries sufficient to float a boat or log at high water.

Permits are issued by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, but since the Corps has traditionally concerned itself chiefly with dredging, filling, and construction, relatively few permits have ever been issued. And those who have them (mostly industries) often violate permit provisions by dumping untreated discharges into the water.

What all this means is that now you can proceed directly to your local neighborhood industrial polluter, gather some information and samples, and then file a suit which could bring a fine of not more than $2,500 or less than $500 for each day of violation, of which you get half. It could also get the polluter thrown in jail for not less than 30 days or more than 1 year, which is unlikely but nice to think about.

Use of the 1899 Reuse Act and the Qui Tam concept have been strongly advocated recently by the House Subcommittee on Conservation and Natural Resources, led by its chairman, Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wisc.). Reuss himself has filed Qui Tam actions against four polluting companies in Milwaukee.

The Subcommittee has just completed a report, "Qui Tam Actions and the 1899 Reuse Act; Citizen Suits Against Polluters of the Nation’s Waterways,” which will be released within two weeks and will be available from the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402 for 15 cents. It tells you exactly how to go about collecting evidence, filing suit, and cites impressive legal precedent to help you win your case.

Here’s where it all began. In 1973, two other Qui Tam actions have been filed recently, one by a Seattle attorney and the other by an organization of bass fishermen in Alabama. Many environmentalists are hoping a lot more suits will be filed this fall.

"This is a beautiful project for college students and ecology groups,” asserts Clem Dinsmore, legal assistant to the weather Underground Nominal Contributions Subcommittee, who helped research and prepare the report. "It’s a great way to go after polluters."

Dinsmore recommends that student groups combine the talents of law schools and biology departments to keep legal fees at a minimum and quality of evidence at a maximum.

Rationally, once you find a polluter to attack, you should prepare a detailed statement, sworn to before a notary public, setting forth:
  • the nature of the reuse material discharged;
  • the source and method of discharge;
  • the location, name and address of the person or persons causing or contributing to the discharge;
  • each date on which the discharge occurred;
  • the names and addresses of all persons known to you, including yourself, who saw or knows about the discharge and could testify about it is necessary;
  • a statement that the discharge is not authorized by Corps permit, or, if a permit was granted, state facts showing that the alleged violator is not complying with any condition of the permit;
  • if the waterway into which the discharge occurred is not commonly known as navigable, or as a tributary to a navigable waterway, state facts to show such status;
  • where possible, photographs should be taken, and labels of the pollutant or foreign substance collected in a clean jar, which is then sealed. These should be labeled with information showing who took the photographs or sample, where, when and how; and who retained custody of the film jar.

This will be your basic ammunition in the suit, and should be filed in a U.S. district court, which apparently have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and decide such suits. The Supreme Court has upheld Qui Tam suits in the past on the basis that the citizen-information has a financial interest in the fine and therefore can sue to collect it.

Actually, the 1899 Reuse Act contains a provision that suits against violators should be filed by the government. Some lawyers say that “vigorously prosecute all offenders.” The U. S. Attorneys are also (Continued on Page 8)

Roy Lupidiu Sets Two Course Records

The Bryant Cross Country team, its ranks diminished by knee ailments to Charlie and Frank Palmers, opened its 1970 season last Saturday in a dual meet with Lowell Tech. Overpowered by LTL's depth, the Bryant five succumbed to a 22-37 defeat. The highlight of the meet, however, was the record smashing run by the Indian's Roy Lupidiu. Unchallenged after the one mile mark, Roy burned through the two mile in 9:54 on his way to a 22:57 clocking for the 4.5 mile course. Averaging 5:06 miles, Roy took 38 records off the field record, held by Bill Conlin, and finished seventh in this race. Completing the scoring for Bryant were Bob Armstrong, fifth; Bill Taylor, eighth; Don Macaulay, eleventh; and Irving Sevall twelfth.

Tuesday, the team traveled to Bridgewater State College where ESC once again demonstrated its unshakeable ability by fielding a one man team. Overwhelmed by the sheer force of number, the Bridgewater runner could not withstand the onslaught of the Bryant "powerhouse" and yielded the first five places to the Indians. Again Roy Lupidiu finished first with a course record of 20:06 for the new 4.7 mile course, followed by Armstrong, Taylor, Macaulay and Segal.

This Saturday, October 3, at 3 p.m. the Bryant team will host Clark, New Haven, and possibly SMU for a dual course at the Tupper Campus. Come out to Tupper Saturday, see how the construction of the new course is progressing and lend your vocal support to your varsity Cross Country team.

Intramural Outlook

By Steve Diamond

This year must be the season of shutdowns as you will soon see. Tau Kappa Epsilon knocked off Tau Epsilon Phi 15-4 as Quarter­back Daughton connected to Jim Burns for a TD. Steve Burmack was responsible for two points as he tagged a TEP man in his own end zone for a safety. Delta Sigma Phi picked their first victory by de­feating Beta Sigma Chi 18-6. Delta Sig then chalked up victory number two by winning over Phi Epsilon Pi 28-0. Quarterback George Kane sparked the offense while Craig Hill was pick­ing off four Phi Ep passes and turning them into touchdowns. Phi Kappa Tau joined the trend by shutting out Veteran 14-0. The Phi Kappa boys, since 1969, have been receiving the award of PSN only one complete pass. Tau Epsilon slipped by TEP in style 3-0 on interval goal by Gary Hopkins.

I would appreciate it if one member of every intramus­trial team would report to me so I can have an idea of each game they play. I can be located in Room 202 in Gardner Hall.

Backer's Corner

A bowling season is underway with the com­petition as tough as usual. The first week of bowling was not handicapped in or­der to establish team averages. The highest team average last year was owned by Western Union. Not necessarily meaning that the higher the aver­age the better chance of winning. Western Union won the championship last year and continued its win­ning ways this year by sweeping the first 4 points. A game consisting of the same fearless foursome as last year. Phil (Wimpy) Jump is back again this year. Western Union came in second with a little below his average at 163. Bob (Cowboy) Balserman is rolling a consistent 170. Steve (Gem) Diamond finally found his line, making the Varsity bowling team far more dangerous than before. Steve had a 180 average, and the ever consistent Steve (Flash) Monaco is rolling along at 186. Also sweeping 4 points this week was the team known as the Fresh­man. This team however was not handicapped in or­der to establish their team average. The members of this team are Jason and Wino for an average of 194.

Yard varsity bowlers may be a ring­dancing band, or a high-styled, high-brow band, or a high-styled, high-brow band, but the one thing they all have in common is that they all are bowlers.

A chess club will be formed Monday, October 5 in South Hall, Room 2A under the di­rection of Mr. Piperciopolus. All are welcome.

In all cases of Faculty-Student disagreements, students should contact the Student Repre­sentative Council.
